BROAD PRINCIPLES, ONLY

Now that practically all chapters of the Japanese-American Citizens League have come to the realization that they must take notice of recent events, and fo call attention again to the tragic situation in Europe, the League consists in three parts: Comments appearing in print lead to the belief that some oppression of Japanese-Americans under American law is the climax of the League's main purpose of the League is to assist in building character of the young, in order that they may fully perform their duty as citizens. Such a purpose made real, then the League will have rendered a notable service and honor to the country.

The League is in no sense, according to its principles, a political party, nor is it an association of citizens of Japanese origin. If the League the young are assisted to fit themselves as well informed and patriotic citizens, then they may follow their political principles, seeking to make good citizens of themselves, and let them follow their own conscience.

On the other hand, the League in a broad way is a political organization, as viewed from the standpoint of welfare and justice. It will not participate in local or official politics. But when problems arise that are based on justice and general welfare, the League will follow the course it has pursued somewhat successfully, in the past.

Another outstanding accomplishment of the League was the success in the performance of the Chinese network, which provided for citizenship for Oriental aliens who had served in the armed forces. The League before this was generally understood while hostilities were in progress that service with the Chinese was not of the nature of service, but after the war, when the shunting had died down, the continued pressure seemed to have been forgotten. Throwing all its force behind this issue, the League is certainly the only legitimate and one safe course for the League, as a national body, is to confine itself to broad principles, seeking to make good citizens of themselves, and let them follow their own conscience.

ASSIST THE HISTORIAN

History is not only one of the most fascinating, but one of the most important fields of history. It has gone forward since the days of the ancients, and is still an important field of study.

It was, therefore, fitting that the Japanese-American Citizen League could work to compile a record of the organization, while there are yet so many living that have first-hand information. All this, however, is not so easy as it may appear; for the importance of the subject and the interest in the story of the largest one. Out of small chapters sometimes comes some of the finest literature. The study of the facts, both of the fertile ideas.

All this is to call attention to the importance of the issue of The Pacific Citizen by Teiko Inahida, the national historian, for cooperation on the part of the chapters. It is re-quested that each chapter appoint a historian to compile the story of the chapter. It is requested that the chapter officials forward the name of the person so appointed to the address given in the present issue of the Journal. This is, of course, the proper procedure. The historian will proceed along a general program, and it is necessary that the information be made available in a more systematic way. The burden of supplying the information is placed squarely upon the shoulders of the historian, but in his judicious and appeal of the historian is a record that will epitomize every chapter in the future from criticism of the press.

Every chapter should be interested in having its story in the National History League well told and fully told. Cooperation with the historians will make the unity and the only way by which this happy result may be realized.

DEMOCRACY WILL TRIUMPH

Speaking of democracy, the one of the American-Japanese Citizens League, on the Dues of American Citizenship, Dr. Monroe E. Deutch, provided of this country. It is a matter of concern to many addresses that has come to notice lately. The purpose here is to aid the members of the Japanese-American Citizens League. In 1913 the JACL, and every second generation to read it. For this purpose we have a record of the fact addresses published an issue.

Equality for all is stressed by the speaker, and he urged every American to consider the fact that the American standard will measure itself by the American standard. Solution of all social problems and all problems of the day must be solved in the United States. Deutch. There are two sides to our national shield, it is said. On one side is the principle of the rule of the majority, which is well known, and widely appreciated. However, the other side is not so well known, and this is "the protection of the minority."
