Federal Indictment Asked Against Anti-Nisei Terrorists

Watson Brothers May Face Grand Jury for Possession of Dynamite in Raid on Doi Farm

SAN FRANCISCO—United States Attorney Frank J. Hennessy announced July 25 that the Federal Grand Jury in Sacramento will hear against James E. Watson and Claude P. Watson, brothers of Oakland, Calif., on charges growing out of a raid on the farm of Sumio Doi near Vacaville.

Terroristic activities against anti-Japanese sentiment have disclosed that the Dois were the first of a growing list of persons reported in California. The Watsons, Hennessy said, are members of an anonymous gang which has produced numerous evidences of the kind of activities, including the murder of Louis H. Araki, a member of the California legislature, in Sacramento last week.

“Terroristic is the first word that comes to mind,” said the prosecutor, adding that the Watsons were charged with an attempt to intimidate a witness in the Araki case.

Araki’s name was taken in vain by the Federal Grand Jury being asked to return an indictment for possession of dynamite and conspiring in the transportation of dynamite.

Few Nisei Veterans of Europe Will See Action in Pacific, Says Army Ground Forces Chief

Gen. Devers Lauds Nisei Troops Who Served Under Him, Says Japanese-American Will Be Used to Retrain GIs for Combat in Pacific

WASHINGTON—Gen. Jacob L. Devers, new chief of Army Ground Forces, declared here last week that he did not think that any large number of Japanese-American soldiers now in the United States would fight in the Pacific "because most of these men have high point scores for combat in Europe." Gen. Devers said that "increasingly" Japanese-American troops, specially trained for the job, would be needed in the Pacific.

He praised highly the performance of the 45th Infantry Division under his command in Europe.

Gen. Devers was the commanding officer of the Allied Sixth Army Group in Europe, of which Lw. Gen. Alexander P. Patch, commander of the Seventh Army, was a part. The 45th Infantry Division, which the Sixth Army Group had been fighting as a part of the 35th Division of the Second Army, had been a part of the Fifth Army, which was fighting in the Pacific.

Heart Mountain's Population Drops as Evacuees Relocate

HEART MOUNTAIN, Wyo.—The population of the Heart Mountain relocation, which will be placed on Nov. 15, 3,750, was reported. Peak population of the camp was nearly 13,800. Plans for family relocation will be completed by Oct. 1, according to the program office.

On Sept. 30 the train left the camp on July 27 to carry evacuees in individual relocation units to the East and the West Coast.

CIO Union Committee Asks Expansion of Two Precedents of Racist Activity in Stockton Unit

Suspension Faces Three Others for Violation of No-Discrimination Clause

SAN FRANCISCO — The CIO union committee of the Stockton Warehousemen's Union, Local 6, announced that the committee had recommended the expulsion of two members of the Stockton warehousemen's union for violation of the no-discrimination clause.

The two men are accused of having violated the ILWU constitution and the rules of the local unit to prevent a CIO union committee member from recently returned from a relocation trip to Stockton from becoming a member of the union's jurisdiction.

This report declares that Alex Bong, the expelled member, and that that of O. A. Schmidt is in question, and that they each violated the union's jurisdiction. The same report was made publicly by Richard Lyden, the CIO union leader.

In the case of C. F. Shockey, whose suspension for six months was recommended by the committee, it was declared that "Shockey showed an inclination to discriminate," and "in the course of the investigation, his action was repeatedly punctuated by reasons of discrimination." The last was according to the statement of the committee which recommended his action.

Natchas G. Smith, whose suspension for six months is recommended by the committee, was asked whether he is willing to work under the conditions set down by the committee and he refused to answer. He also stated that he was not guilty of violation of union constitutions, and that he did not take action to the exclusion of other workers on the job.

A report of the investigation said that "the men are anti-nisei as a new contract, the Stockton warehousemen will not work with them until the union is given control. They are no longer anti-nisei." The former contacts.

Gen. Pratt Declares Army Has Sole Responsibility in Return of Exiles to West Coast

SAN FRANCISCO—The Army’s Western Defense Command, in a statement issued by Commanding General George C. Pratt on July 30, asserted that it has the sole responsibility of determining which individual of Japanese ancestry may, or may not, return to their former homes on the Pacific Coast.

The Army statement declared that “an erroneous impression may be received by the public, regarding the responsibilities of various agencies concerned with the return of Japanese Americans to the West Coast.”

(A recent statement in Washington, D.C., by Col. C. M. H. Calvin, the War Relocation Authority, professed to be able to permit Japanese and Japanese-American civilians to return to the west coast by making a commitment possible on the part of the Army.)

General Pratt pointed out that military authorities, in granting permission for Japanese-Americans to return to their homes, come under the recognition of the part of the Army in determining who shall be allowed to return.

He said that the Army’s power to return Japanese-Americans to the West Coast was based upon the regulations of the War Relocation Authority. The Army had no authority to determine the qualifications of the individual for return to the west coast.

“The power to return Japanese-Americans to the West Coast is vested in the Army and the War Relocation Authority. The Army has no authority to return Japanese-Americans to their homes without the permission of the War Relocation Authority.”

General Pratt declared that “the War Relocation Authority has no authority to return Japanese-Americans without the permission of the Army.”

The Army, in regard to determining which individual will be allowed to return, has the only authority in the matter. This statement is in accordance with the regulations of the War Relocation Authority, under which the Army has been empowered to return Japanese-Americans to their homes.

The National Citizens Political Action Committee (PAC), which is credited by political observers as the most effective instrument of the anti-Vietnam war movement, has been in the news recently with its preparations for national elections. Although its leaders have not yet announced a formal slate of candidates, the committee has been active in supporting candidates who share its views.

The PAC's most notable success has been its endorsement of former U.S. Army officer John Komer, who ran for Congress in a Massachusetts district in 1970. Komer, who was a member of the committee, won the Democratic primary with the committee's support and went on to win the general election.

In addition to backing Komer, the PAC has also endorsed candidates in other races, including in California and New York. It has also been active in supporting initiatives to reduce military spending and to end the war in Vietnam.

Despite its successes, the PAC faces challenges in its efforts to continue its influence. The committee has faced criticism for its heavy reliance on donations from wealthy donors, which some see as a conflict of interest. Additionally, the committee has been criticized for its lack of diversity and for not reaching out to certain groups, such as younger voters.

Despite these challenges, the PAC remains an influential force in American politics and continues to be active in supporting candidates and initiatives it believes align with its goals.
An Evacuee Family Returns: HOME TO CALIFORNIA

BY MARY GTAMA

"Tell me, do you really think you can go back home?"

The question came from one of our Canadian friends. We had received our return tickets, and we were about to leave for Japan, when we took some photos in the old city to send home. It's very hard to express what it means to return to your own home. It is a sense of belonging, a sense of being at home.

Our home is not a place of comfort and security, but a place where we can feel the presence of our ancestors. This is why I chose to call it a home. I want to feel that I am a part of something bigger than myself.

But our reception would be, we had agreed, a simple one. We would see friends and neighbors only if necessary, and try to give none of our energy to Japanese who are contemplating re-occupation.

Natural, the first overwintering Japanese who moved back to the old town home is that of re-occupation. We are not sure about the exact date, but we know that it is a place where they have been living for a long time. Our house is small but comfortable, and we have been living here for many years. Our home is not big, but it is a place where we can feel safe and secure. We have been living here for a long time, and we have many memories associated with this place.

As we arrived, we were greeted by our neighbors, who had been living here for many years. They were happy to see us, and we were happy to see them. Our home is a place where we can feel connected to our community.

We came back to Japan, as a small family. We are grateful for the support of our friends and neighbors during this time of uncertainty. During the evacuation, we lost many of our belongings, but we still have our family and our memories. We are grateful for the support of our friends and neighbors during this time of uncertainty.

In our particular case, this is not just a return home, but a return to the place where we were born and raised. It is a place where we have memories, and it is a place where we feel connected to our community.
JACL Protests Discrimination Against Chinese American

Rap Refusal to Sell Business Profit to Discharged Soldier
BAN FRANCISCO — The local chapter of the American Civic League in this community has requested the city to deny a liquor license to the owners of the Chinese American newspaper, The Chinese Daily, on the grounds that the owners have been deprived of their licenses, thus preventing them from doing business in the community.

The JACL chapter, in a letter to the city council, said that the license application was not in accordance with the city’s policies in dealing with the Chinese. It also stated that the city had no right to refuse a license to a business in the city.

Earlier in the week the group was denied a business license.

State Charges Violations of Alien Land Law

VIEALLA, Calif.—The State of California, acting through District Attorney Walter C. Knight of Tulare County, filed a suit in Sacramento County Superior Court Friday against four attorneys, and the other, who said the property was sold for a later violation of the State of California's Alien Land Law.

The suit charged that, in each of the cases, property was acquired by the defendants, who in turn sold it to others.

The first suit is against Soichi Nagai, his wife, Tomby, both of North Hollywood, and Mr. and Mrs. S. Y. Otsuka, of Los Angeles. The property consists of 68 acres, in San Fernando. It is in the prosecution's contention the fee简易日语's purchase is registered in the name of their citizen son.

The other suits, involving 32 acres about four miles south of Dinuba, is directed against the three Nagai, William A. and Frances Workman, and Hisaka Sasaki and his wife, Toshio. It is alleged that the Tanaka family resold the properties to the Nagai family in 1935, who in turn sold them to the Workman family.

The suit filed in Sacramento County demands possession of the properties and the return all moneys derived from their production.
