Promise Made by Rescued Men Kept as 442nd Veterans Proclaimed ‘Honorary Texans’

PORT FORT Worth, Tex.—A promise made on a bitter October afternoon by 442d soldiers who fought in the trenches of France was kept in Fort Worth on Oct. 25.

On Nov. 14, 1944, the men of the 442d Regimental Combat Team, 141st Regiment, 36th (Texas) Division, who had been rescued by the Japan-American soldiers of the 442nd Combat Team after having been cut off by the Germans for 88 days, said that their rescuers would be made "honorary Texans." The Texans had, of course, promised to pay their respects to the rescued men and to raise a monument honoring the 442d Regiment.

The men also promised to return in the spring to take part in the dedication of the monument; to return in July 1946; and to return in July 1947.

The Texas Centennial Commission, which made the arrangements, said that the Texas congressman would make the arrangements.

Franklin Chino: Nisei Should Work Politically Outside Own Racial Group

The Pacific Citizen, Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sirs:

It is to be expected that your editor in Oct. 22 issue of the Pacific Citizen will publish the contents of the Nisei “in political campaigns as a whole or as a group” as a group, and that the Nisei “are a minority racial group” is a common theme.

Actually, I never could see, after closer observation, why there should be a Nisei minority political group anywhere else in the political arena. As a matter of fact, there is no reason why any ethnic minority might not be interested in a political party of their own, provided they have the vote, and if the party can be committed to the development of the political party.

Sometimes we complain that we are not treated as a minority, but actually those who are involved with the political process are not treated as a minority. By the same token, those who are not involved with the political process are not treated as a minority. This is a dilemma that we are faced with today.

Those Nisei who suffer from an abnormal amount of thyroid can very easily direct their efforts into forming the political party. Organizations would welcome the Nisei into their ranks as political workers.

Those who would not want to see the political party organized by members of the Nisei “in political campaigns as a whole or as a group” as a group, and that the Nisei “are a minority racial group” are a self-defeating outcome.

Whatever we may or may not agree to, the fact is that the political process is one in which we are interested in the development of the political party. This is a dilemma that we are faced with today.

Secretary Acheson to Await California Decision Before Intervening in Land Law Case

Secretary of State Dean Acheson will postpone any challenge of the California appellate court decision that the United Nations charter sanctions override the California law requiring logging permits. Mr. Acheson, returning from a trip to Japan, said today that he would await word from California before he makes any move in the case.

Acheson made his comments in reply to a question as he landed at the airport at Washington, D.C., on his return from Japan. He was scheduled to leave for Europe tomorrow, and reported last week in his national security column that the United States would not intervene in the case of Japanese fishermen who have been arrested by the Japanese government.

Tucker said that the California court's decision in the Fujisaki test case of the California Alien Land Act was not made on the ground that certain civil rights were the provisions of the U.S. Charter.

Tucker referred to the Secretary's statement that he would await the decision of the California court before interveniing in the case.

"This peculiar and provoking question arises when the California Alien Land Act, passed in 1883, is applied to Japanese fishermen. The United States, as a result of this decision, would have to interfere by invoking the charter provisions regarding the lives and properties of minority groups living in this country."

The Secretary added that this was the key to the decision and that the matter was discussed on the telephone by Mr. Acheson and the charter provisions for minority groups living in this country.

Secretary Acheson released a report yesterday that California law officers were "determined to maintain" the government's failure to the people of California. The report stated that the California law officers were "determined to maintain" the government's failure to the people of California.

"The interpretation is that Pert- son thought it unnecessary at this time," according to Tucker. The Secretary referred to the California Supreme Court's decision in the case. The Supreme Court, in a 6-3 decision, held that California law officers were "determined to maintain" the government's failure to the people of California.

Preparing for Naturalization

A 74-year-old was among 30 Jews who graduated last week from a class in English and citizenship, in preparation for the day when Congress permits his naturalization as an American citizen.

PRESUMABLY it is only a question of time before Congress allows the naturalization of men like Yoshiko Suzuki.

But for the Jew, time is a priceless thing—there is so little of it in his life.

We hope Congress, recognizing this fact, will act with all dispatch when it renews this month.

Race Stereotypes

When Santa Fe staged its annual fiesta recently, a float entry in its "hysterical parade" drew many protests. The float was described by the Denver Anti-Defamation League's newsletter as "the black jeepster bearing a false New York registration that paraded through the streets, jockewing Jews in the best Goebblese and Streicher manner."

Fiesta officials, the newsletter said, have promised to penalize the group.

The float, however, was an indication of how strongly our American life is permeated by discriminatory attitudes, by racial prejudices that are as deeply ingrained as the everyday talk is indicative of our belief in racial superiority and inferiority. They are written large all about in racial slurs—some of them politely patronizing, most of them not.

Our national propensity for adopting a short, simple and generally offensive term to refer to persons of a foreign country was highlighted recently by the adoption of the term "gook" for South Korean. The U.S. Army, recognizing the word was suitable and offensive, came up with its own substitute—ROK. We mean this term to mean the term is more populous. "ROK" is also less patent than "gook," we hope the South Koreans are the first to realize it. We don't want your why you cannot be called South Koreas or, simply, Koreans. If GIs can be trained to use one term, they can presumably be trained to use another.

Little Nisei Political Activity

There was considerably more political activity among the Nisei on the Pacific coast before the war than there is now. During the election, many members of the party were pledged to the party and its program.

However, during the election, many members of the party were pledged to the party and its program.

One reason for the lack of Nisei political activity on the mainland since the evacuation may be that the Nisei have become more diverse in their political views. They now have a wider range of political views, from moderate to radical.

The Nisei, being of mixed political background, are more aware of their rights and are more likely to vote. As a result, they have a greater sense of political responsibility. They are also more likely to become involved in political activities, such as running for office or supporting political candidates.

The Nisei have traditionally been more involved in political activities than other Asian Americans. This is partly due to their higher level of education and their greater economic opportunities.

The Nisei have also been more active in political activities than other Asians due to the historical context of anti-Japanese discrimination and exclusion.

This lack of political activity among the Nisei in the United States is not unique. It is also found among other Asian Americans, such as the Hmong in Minnesota and the Vietnamese in California.

On the evidence, it appears organized political activity is minimal in the Nisei community. It is possible that the Nisei are not as involved in political activities as other Asian Americans because they are more committed to their own cultural and linguistic traditions.

Nisei political activity is also limited by the fact that many Nisei, who are older and have fewer years of education, are not as interested in political activities as their younger counterparts.

The Nisei, for example, the only fully integrated segment of the Nisei community, is not as involved in political activities as other Asian Americans. This is partly due to the fact that the Nisei are more committed to their own cultural and linguistic traditions.

The Army's Frank Miyake

Tokyo, Japan

One recent evening Liene, Spady Koyama primed us with a funny story of their family gathering at the Koyama family's home in the Suburbs of Tokyo for a farewell dinner for Frank Miyake. The party was attended by 100 guests from various parts of Japan. This was Frank's farewell dinner before he left for the United States.

Frank Miyake is an American citizen who was born in Japan. He has been a member of the JACL for many years and has been active in its affairs. He is widely known for his skill in handling the media and for his ability to bargain with the government. He has been a vocal advocate for the rights of Japanese Americans and has been a frequent guest on radio and television programs.

The farewell dinner was a grand affair, with speeches and toasts given in honor of Frank. The guests included many prominent figures from the JACL and other organizations. The evening was filled with warmth and friendship as Frank bid farewell to his friends and family.

Frank Miyake's departure is a great loss to the JACL and to the Japanese American community. His leadership and advocacy will be greatly missed.

LOS ANGELES—Speeding up of the execution of legitimate and elimination of racial barriers in naturalization laws was urged by the executive board of the California Civic Union on Oct. 28 at its quarterly meeting. The board passed resolutions asking its member agencies to work toward this end.

Dedicate New War Memorial To Snake River Area War Dead

ONTARIO, Ore.—A memorial dedication to the memory of the two JACL members of the Los Angeles Japanese-American residents of the lower Snake River valley who were swelled and dedicated on Sept. 29 in Ontario City Park.

The monument is a stone shaft mounted on a concrete base. It is located in the west of the swimming pool building. It is seven and a half feet in height and is three feet wide. A铭 plaques will be installed later at a part of the monument. According to Tom Ieiri, chairman of the dedication committee, two members of the Japanese American community took the initiative in the monument project and funds were collected from both here and abroad.

Ieiri emphasized that the monument will pay tribute to all men from the area who served in World War II and not only the Japanese Americans alone.

D. D. Nicholas, Ontario city park commissioners, acted as master of ceremonies and the program was started by an invocation pronounced by the Rev. Norio Usuki, pastor of the Ontario Community church.
