President signs amendment to Fullbright Act

WASHINGTON. - President Eise
hower has signed the bill plugging a loophole in the U.S. Information Agency's activities with Japanese Cultural Organizations, 1948 (the Fullbright Act); the Washin gton Office of the Japanese Ameri can Citizens League reported.
The amendment to the Fullbright Act requires foreign students who wish to apply for the study in the United States under an exchange program either to furnish a guaran tee to return to his country of origin or to a country with which the U.S. has a treaty for a period of two years before becoming eligible for an immigration visa and permanently reside in that country for that period or to remain for a non-immigrant visa.

Our present status as a na tionally recognized organization certainly is due to many years through sincere efforts of our chapters and most of all because of the calib er of our staff. It behoves us as JACL's to insure the organization of the senior leaders of the organization.

Nisei have come into their own and it is time we think in terms of the future and the women who have sacri cfied their own careers to help JACL. They have given the best part of their lives to JACL — a sacrifice that cannot be measured. It is time now to set our own house in order, not that we want JACL perpetuated, but to do the things we should have done 15 years ago.

Our first effort before thinking of a new head quarters building a fund for our staff mem bers. They are the spark plugs and if it were not for their real help to the Nisei and JACL, they could have left us for a more pro citable career and perhaps be happier for it.

As long as there is a need for JACL, a good people of millions may be excused to question the wisdom of JACL's action on

Chinese newsmen visits Denver

- I first met Lee Chia at the press briefings during the convention here of JACL. This year, the Nisei, a soldier in the U.S. Army and a former POW in Korea, is running an Oriental art goods store in New York. He'll fly down to South America, where he served as a liaison officer with the British Army in India, he had commanded a contingent of Japanese in the battle of Nauru, and a picture he has of himself taken in the early 'thirties when reverberations of the World War II were felt, is part of the book he's working on. Out of this trip he may get a book or two. The material is piling up fast. There will be a chapter on Chinese material and the story of the Chinese prospector who hit it rich in California. Lee is an art lover, a collector who is interested in Japanese like a native Tokyoite.

- His tastes are simple. They're happy. They don't have a luxurious living standard. "But they're living from one instalment payment to the next," he says. "They live in a big house, own a TV set, a car, and a kitchen."

- On the reservation.

- In Japan, a family may have a place of inheritance that grew up in the early 'thirties when reverberations of the World War II were felt. Lee is not completely sold on the proposition that America is the land of opportunity. Americans, Lee points out, do own all kinds of gadgets and material are piling up fast. This summer, Camellia King's plight was a matter of record in the President's column. Camellia King was born in Okayama, Japan, as a descendant of the Kiyono family, which was prominent in the political and business world of Japan. He was educated in Tokyo and later moved to the United States, where he established a successful azalea and camellia nursery, Kiyono Nurseries. His nursery was one of the most successful in the world, producing high-quality azaleas and camellias for sale to customers around the world. Camellia King passed away on May 28, 2017, leaving behind a legacy of excellence in the field of camellia and azalea cultivation. His story continues to inspire and educate gardeners around the world.
in California began as early as 1907, but the intervention of President Theodore Roosevelt prevented passage of the first proposed alien land laws. The agitation erupted again in the gubernatorial election of 1910 when three platforms of all three of California’s political parties—Republican, Democratic, and Socialist—demanded laws to restrict agricultural activity by persons of Japanese descent. Hisazumi Johnson, running on the GOP ticket, mustered much of his campaign time lashing the Yellow Peril and one California historian later commented that Johnson became “the champion of the people,” making the referendum question into the first official act of discrimination aimed at the Japanese.

FIVE MEN WHO WITHSTOOD HYSTERIA

“...Their names are forgotten now,” we wrote on April 13, 1936, “but there were five men out of a total of 107 in the Senate and Assembly who stood up against the hysteria.”

Last week we received a letter from Naomi Kashibata in San Diego. The message was: “Let’s not forget.”

Four girls vie for Miss Stockton JACL title, crowning set for July 14 affair

STOCKTON — On Saturday July 14, the Stockton JACL will sponsor its Corona Queen Coronation at the Clark Hotel Empire Room. The queen contest is open to all female members. The next Miss Stockton JACL queen, will be crowned at 7:30 p.m.

Dinner will be served at 7:00 p.m. by the Diamond City Band, Will Ride and his orchestra will provide the evening's entertainment. It is expected that a good sized audience will be present.

Four lovely misses selected to vie for queen candidacy are Beatrice Inagaki, Shigeho Ito, Risako Iwamoto, and Shizue Ishino. These girls will be giving their best in order to be crowned the next Miss Stockton JACL queen. The event is open to all.

Several of the California Congressman at whose offices we called were still out on the west coast. We are unable to see the Congressman or Senator George H. Bender of Ohio, but their offices assured us that they will call us when they return. Congressman Sakai will be a visiting member of the Cleveland chapter.

The Detroit Convention is enjoying one of its best years under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. O'Neill with the encouragement of Mrs. E. E. House and old time members. It is expected that about 500 people will attend. We are also looking forward to the old friends, Aki and Alice Yano for a nice long evening of relaxation with our friends.

MOTOR CITY

The Detroit chapter is enjoying one of its best years under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. O'Neill with the encouragement of Mrs. E. E. House and old time members. It is expected that about 500 people will attend. We are also looking forward to the old friends, Aki and Alice Yano for a nice long evening of relaxation with our friends.

CLEVELAND

It took us longer to get out to definitely Willis-Down town than the flight across Lake Erie to Cleveland, MDC Chairman Al Braun, who knows the city, was at first hesitant about our decision, insisting the weather was not so bad. But the trip was all worth it. We were greeted with open arms, and the feeling was mutual. We are looking forward to the next visit.

MILE-HI AGAIN

We dropped in at Ed's for a bite to eat, and enjoyed a good talk with representatives of the JACL. We were advised by Daniel H. Kaji, who has been very helpful in supporting the club, that the banquet honoring them is almost complete. It is expected that about 500 people will attend.

SOME TOP WRITERS MET

On our way down to Cleveland, we were invited to drop in at the Detroit Post and share a coffee break with Bill Hikawakawa and Larry Shepherd, who are both well known in the JACL. Bill has been named national head of the Sunday Magazine. The Post will continue to serve as the production manager for the Post's Sunday Magazine.

Through a letter of introduction from Dan Nakatani of Japan, we met the man who is helping to carry the load for our national convention, together with Tom Hayashi in New York, who was introduced by the office of the American Friends Service Committee. Frank Gibney. He felt that our National Convention sized Japanese were invited to the convention. The meeting was a successful one and we were honored to be there.

‘Make it yourself’ fashion show at Polliodrome slated

Among the community organizations participating in the “Make it Yourself” Fashion show to be held on Monday evening, June 25 from 6 to 8 p.m. at the Hollywood Paladium, will be the L.A. JACL Coordinating Council.

Open to the public, the fashion show is sponsored by the 32 member agencies of the Los Angeles County Convention on Community Relations. Admission will be $1.50 donation. Tickets are available at the JACL regional office.
DISTRESS CALL

Take heed, all you JACLers, as we pass upon this column. JUNE 30th is the deadline for souvenir booklet ads. This is an SOS from editor Thelma Takeda and business manager, Douglas Eckley. It’s too bad that all six couldn’t be crowned. After a hurry-up trip to Idaho, it’s too bad that all six couldn’t be crowned. Here are details.

Chairman Yas Abiko, and many others joined in to make this event a success. As for Elaine, it couldn’t have happened to a nicer gal.

A QUEEN IS BORN

One of those five young ladies will be crowned Miss Sequoia JACL at the Sequoia JACL’s Graduates’ Dance June 23 at the Palo Alto Buddhist Church. They are (left to right): standing: Shirley Yoshida, Barbara Arimoto, Betty Tatsuy, seated: Yoko Yuki and Juyo Sugimoto, Carl Bridget, Redwood City councilman, will have the honor of crowning the queen. As chairman of council, he will make this a success. After a six-month campaign, and the many other matters which require attention.

Of the five young ladies, this JACLer has made several well-received appearances in the Southeast during the past year, and has been hailed by music critics and teachers as one of the most promising young voices in Japan.

LÖST SHEEPHERDER MINE

El Dorado County was the location that drove the early day Spanish Conquistadores onward and on westward. What this day's prospector with his Geiger counter and his AEC prospectus probably does know is that in Malheur County in southeast Oregon exists a gold deposit that would make his dream of uranium fade into penny-ante realm if the "Lost Sheepherder Mine" could be found.

Lost gold mines have filled the dreams of countess gold funders and many a prospector has futilely spent the balance of his life seeking form such mirage. In speaking of the "Lost Sheepherder Mine" we can say that a country judge of Malheur County, whose name has escaped us over the years, spent his entire adulthood searching for the Lost Sheepherder Mine.

In the latter part of the 1880s an insurrection arose with the Danzack Indians in southern Idaho and the War Department sent orders to Fort Hays, now non-existent but located about ten miles north of Idaho Falls, Idaho, to proceed with all dispatch, cavalry and ammunition train, to quell the Indian" uprising. The orders read and we in this latter day at Rancho Cienega.

Five hershearers were ordered in both the Open and Junior divisions. The Nisei Olympians, the defending team champions of the Open division, have joined forces with the Hobos and will run under the command of the latter team. Their stuffy silences, they expect to carry the loaded WLA Nisei Trading team who, according to the most reliable sources, are the world champions. The Orange County Jaya, the defending champions of the Junior division, have teams entered in the Open division.

The Hobo, defending champions of the Junior division, will be forced to prove that their team can make it three in a row. The Orange County Jaya, the defending Junior division team, are the ones who should expect to fracture the Nisei Relays, but our standards are founded upon a tradition of growth. History. According to the ferry master of the Snake River some soldiers on duty on the banks of the river declare that on the day's march left the army behind with the hardships of warfare being what it is. These nameless soldiers remain nameless, they might have fallen in one of their future engagements; we can only regret their passing out of the scene.

The 17-year-old queen is no newcomer to this contest-June Tsukida, Helms' Trading, Hound Dogs. She stands 5 feet 4 inches tall and is a princess of many honorary posts among her extracurricular activities at San Pedro High. June Tsukida, Helms' Trading, Hound Dogs, host; and Arnold Yajima, JACL president, will be crowned the 1955-56 Nisei Relays queen this Sunday afternoon at Los Angeles' Rancho Cienega stadium.

Selected to confer trophies and medals at the JACL Nisei Relays this Sunday afternoon at Los Angeles' Rancho Cienega stadium are Herb Takahashi, Miss Miya (queen), Virginia Okimoto and Lillian Asato. Preliminary heats for the open 220 yards and broadjump, junior 50, 220 yards and broadjump, and shot put are scheduled from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m. in the contest-June Tsukida, Helms Trading, Hound Dogs.
LOS ANGELES NEWSLETTER, by Henry Mori

Relays queen candidate

As part of the Los Angeles JACL's Coordinating Council's program for the 1964 Convention, the annual No-Relay Days will be held Sunday at Rancho Cucamonga. Los Angeles JACL volunteers will be on hand to act in the track meet, one of the promotional events to which the President, Dr. Tetsu Inouye, past president of the Southwest Los Angeles JACL, who co-chairs the convention committee, has contributed. Ms. Mitsu Mituya, daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. T. Miyah, is the new queen, succeeding June Shintani who was also born in the Southwest L.A. JACL, however, for most of the leg work which must be done to get the girls interested in it.

Unlike the Nisei Week Festival candidates—who are much older and have more pageant experience to draw upon—the No-Relay Days have only the cheerful assignment of making trophy and medal presentation duties. At the time of writing, a panel of judges is in process of picking out the queen and her court. It’s one of the highlights of the Herb Musumyama, Southwest L.A. JACL, and we are not able to announce them here.

The meeting of the JACL Convention body is still awaiting for the result of the JACL Los Angeles Council election, but has already been completed and Dr. Tetsu Inouye, past president of the Southwest Los Angeles JACL, who co-chairs the convention committee, has contributed.

Last time we saw Frank he was looking around for a man to replace him in the Downton L.A. chapter. This year he is the new queen, succeeding June Shintani who was also born in the Southwest L.A. JACL, however, for most of the leg work which must be done to get the girls interested in it.

Supreme Court rules on deportation

WASHINGTON. The Supreme Court in a 5-4 decision upheld the Immigration and Naturalization Service's denial of a request for deportation, involving a good case of a nonnationals status.

The Japanese American Citizens League has followed with interest the outcome of this case, its confidential information has been of special value, in addition to the important protection in several cases involving national security.

The majority decision written by Justice Stanley F. Reed stated that the government's refusal to allow the petitioner to appear at the hearings was a "matter of grace." The majority opinion also noted that the government had not been required to show that the petitioner presented a threat to national security.

In the majority opinion, Justice Hugo L. Black wrote that the government had not presented sufficient evidence to support its claim that the petitioner was a threat to national security.

Supreme Court"...

WASHINGTON. The United States Supreme Court concluded its 1955-56 term last week with a decision that a new alignment of justices was apparent. The court has not yet taken any action on the outcome of the last session, which indicates that a new alignment of justices was apparent.

As a result of the court's action, the outcome of the last term's cases as they were handed down as a guide, will be regarded as an index of the court's new alignment of justices.

Legal observers, now apparent that a trend toward a liberal bloc or the middle-roaders. Incidentally, both Justice Black and Douglas were appointed to the court by President John F. Kennedy.

Using a kind of judicial house of carding some 100 written opinions in the late term, it was found that the court's relationship of liberal bloc, or the middle-roaders. Incidentally, both Justice Black and Douglas were appointed to the court by President John F. Kennedy.

According to those familiar with Chief Justice Warren's background, especially as Governor of California, his liberal tendencies are being kept in check by his long administrative record. Justice Black, also a liberal, has a tendency to liberal or moderate, but his attitude towards persons of Japanese ancestry has since 1953 shown more of a tendency to join the liberal bloc or the middle-roaders. Incidentally, both Justice Black and Douglas were appointed to the court by President John F. Kennedy.

In at least seven of the major written opinions of the late term, while about 20 were decided by 6-3 majorities, the other cases were decided by 5-4 majorities. In these cases, when joined by Justice Clark, former Attorney General of the United States, or by Justice Harlan, it has since 1953 shown more of a tendency to join the liberal bloc or the middle-roaders. Incidentally, both Justice Black and Douglas were appointed to the court by President John F. Kennedy.

The final outcome depended upon the middle-roaders-Justices Black, Douglas, Harlan, and Minton. Justice Frankfurter, incidentally, wrote almost a majority opinion in the case of Immigration

The majority decision written by Justice Stanley F. Reed stated that the government's refusal to allow the petitioner to appear at the hearings was a "matter of grace." The majority opinion also noted that the government had not been required to show that the petitioner presented a threat to national security.

In the majority opinion, Justice Hugo L. Black wrote that the government had not presented sufficient evidence to support its claim that the petitioner was a threat to national security.

The court's decision is a victory for the petitioner, who is a nonnationals status. The petitioner is a Japanese immigrant who has been living in the United States for many years and has a good case of a nonnationals status.
