WASHINGTON. - Although the Senate Judiciary Committee has favorably reported a bill to return war vested property to all wartime sequestered property owners, there is little likelihood for enactment this year, according to Mike Masakawa, Washington representative of the Japanese American Citizens League, who pointed out the lateness of the session of Congress this year.

The bill was reported that the Senate will conclude that the Senate action is unlikely because of the passing of the California bill appeared to be a dead one.

The bill reported by the Senate Judiciary Committee was prepared by Sen. C. J. Johnston (D., S.C.), who served as chairman of the Subcommittee on the Trading with the Enemy Act. Many of the provisions were suggested as a result of the extensive hearings which he held on the subject of vested property last summer and this spring.

The Johnston bill not only provides for full and complete return of war vested property but also authorizes the payment of war damage claims to Americans who suffered from enemy action in the Pacific as well as in Europe. It provides for the payment necessary for both programs would be from a

Colo. Times editor

DENVER. - Miss Yoko, former JACL representative here, was a guest of the Colorado Times last week to assist with the publication of the Colorado Times.
Renunciation law and segregation termed by Myer as 2nd great wartime mistake

"Americans made two great mistakes during the war, one was the mass evacuation of persons of Japanese ancestry from the West Coast, and the second was the segregation and the renunciation law," stated Dillon S. Myer, who directed the government agency, War Relocation Authority, which had charge of the 38 relocation centers.

At a luncheon at the Japanese American Citizens League in Washington, D.C., January 30, 1953, he related his responsibilities as Commissioner of Japanese Affairs when the Republican administration came in, terminating his long years of service as a government man.

In his short talk to the group, Myer commented about the changing climate in the acceptance of persons of Japanese ancestry throughout the nation.

Where he had been received with open arms, the former renunciants, he stated, related that this was the second stage mistake of World War II, the first being the mass evacuation. He said that he opposed to the segregation and the renunciation, but that the tide and pressure was too great for him. Myer was appointed to the board in behalf of renunciants in a trial which the Supreme Court upheld. "It was a人力or.

The former WRA head stated that he still has not lost touch but will not give up hope that something could be done to rectify this situation. He said that he agreed upon the thinking that legislation is the best solution.

The men cannot be civil to an individual basis, he felt.

When he returns to Washington, he said he plans to contact Mike Masukawa and others about the possibilities of legislation. He said that too many years have gone by, leaving the renunciants in a very unfortunate position of not knowing whether they are still citizens of America.

Individual trials would mean that many, many people may not have the opportunity of clearing their status during their lifetime.

Those attending the welcome luncheon included George Higaki, Southern California, and Roy Nagata, 3rd in the farewell pairs and also first in the thinking that legislation is the best solution.

Taste the difference with
Someday becoming an actress.

She participated in efforts to bring democracy to the Okinawa villageencores.

The mother took Michi and her brother to Japan for a year.

She accompanied her mother, and other San Franciscans of members Michi as a little girl in a play called which was presented at the Church of Christ in San Francisco.

She heated on the Pacific coast, and for Japanese American Student Relocation.

Several summers she "worked like fury" in the resorts of the Catskills borscht circuit, gaining occasional dramatic experience while saving money for school in the fall.

With the aid of a grant from the Halle M. Strong Foundation, she enrolled at the University of California, where she studied modern dancing and, later, drama. She also became a close friend of a fellow student and actress who was soon to become a major star.

She later attended a drama school in New York.

She appeared in the role of a girl, Aasan, 'was praised by critics for the New York daily.

She later is the lack of dramatic material. Hollywood has not had stereotyping, but is rather hard on the performers who used butcher or male, which characterized the plays of the 1920s, for an Oriental lace. Few plays are written, even today, which feature Pacific Island actors.

She was a member of an Army recruiting team.

She appeared as the narrator on the Omnibus presentation of the Shakespeare's The Tempest.

Between Topaz and Central Valley, she had a dream of becoming an actress.

One of Michi's early recollections is that of Sunday morning services in the little Japantown in San Francisco first, reading the Sunday comics aloud with her mother.

It probably was then that I developed my ambition to become a actor.

Fumio Kawakami, the San Francisco newspaperman, re-presented her story of her life in a play called which was presented at the Church of Christ in San Francisco.

Deadline bears for JACL confab gobblers; $10 fee for 36-hole play due July 31

SAN FRANCISCO — JACL convention organizers expecting to include their golf bag and spikes are reminded of the July 31 deadline by Yone Saito, chairman of the convention golf tournament. A $10 green fee covers 36-hole play for two days and the convention registration ($7 fee). Check should be made to Tom Harano, treasurer, and forwarded to Saito, care of JACL Headquarters, 105 Sutter St., San Francisco 15, Calif., with handicapping noted. The maximum handicap is 27. All participants must be JACL members.

The first full tournament will be played Saturday, Sept. 1, at the challenging Seascape Course, and the final 18 holes at the Mill Valley Country Club, Sept. 2. Golfers will be divided into first and second low gross and special prizes for hole-in-ones and eagles. Trophies — prizes will be awarded at the Convention Closing banquet on Sunday at the Blackberry Farm.

At the 1954 Los Angeles Convention, Joe Kishi of West Los Angeles emerged champion after a sudden death playoff with Frank Tawaragi which required three additional holes, both were tied with 137 net. Mike Yoshihara of Los Angeles took low gross honors with 149, and George Omatsu of Los Angeles was winner in the A flight. Assisting Chairman Yone Saito on the Convention Golf Committee are Tony Hirakawa, Babe Mirumoto, Bill Hirano, Horihiro, Horihiro, and Uyeda. Second.

THE YOUNGER SET

Just planning over the latest news release about the Youth Project, or JAACL. We cannot help but be impressed by the measures taken by that group to make the best of the situation. Our JAACL committee, under the leadership of Roy Nakano, president, Mrs. Katherine Nakano, active member, and Mrs. Katherine Nakano, active member, were the San Francisco chapter's Women's Auxiliary before the war. The annual scholarship awards are in the top one-fourth bracket among the local students. Among the local students receiving special awards in fields of business, mathematics, science or athletics included Asako Kadota, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenichi Kadota; Hiroshi Dohata, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jissoe Dohata; and Mrs. Shigemasa Iwata.

SAN FRANCISCO

Recognizing that the chapters have organized JAACL Women's Auxiliary groups making important contributions to the National Organization, the National JACL Convention Board has scheduled a special meeting of the Women's Auxiliary committee to attend the convention.

The meeting will be held on Saturday, Sept. 1, 3 p.m., in the English Room of the Sheraton-Palace after the fashion convention show.

The meeting will be hosted by the San Francisco chapter Women's Auxiliary under the direction of VI. Nakano, president, Mrs. Katherine Nakano, active member, and Mrs. Katherine Nakano, active member.

JACL perseverence, good bowling noted by Bowling Proprietors Ass'n executive

SAN FRANCISCO — Bowling proprietors and keepers in the city in recent months have found what JACL Bowling executive director Howard C. Seehausen, executive director of the Bowling Proprietors Association of America, in these days of short-lived, quick-change promotions, is called the “300’s”, western bowlers magazine.

“The facts the Hon. Mr. Judd didn’t print up what the JACL has done for bowling over the years because of their love for the game, their incompatibility sportsmanship, and their enthusiasm coupled with outstanding ability,” Seehausen wrote.

“That’s the story we want to tell here. We didn’t realize the extent to which these wonderful people have contributed to our game until the recently elected president, Frank B. Lary, Albany, Calif., tipped us off to it and introduced us to JACL bowling officials in San Francisco last April. Lary’s Alley Bowl will host the 1957 national JACL bowling tournament.”

The article runs up the three-fold prestige of the tournament as presented by Miss Sato by affording Nisei bowlers a chance to see how they stack up with each other, work for admission into ABC (accomplished in 1959), and raise the caliber of Nisei bowling. After mentioning the various lodgings where JACL tournaments were held, Seehausen then paid tribute to the leadership for “perseverance and good bowling.”

California senators extend greetings to national convention

SAN FRANCISCO — Japanese American citizens have made notable contributions to the nation, and your Japanese American Citizens League (JACL) is proud to honor them in its formation as a national organization. We are pleased to extend our greetings to the delegates here today.

The JACL, founded in 1910, is the oldest and largest national organization of Japanese Americans. It has played a significant role in promoting civil rights, civil liberties, and social justice for its members and the larger community.

We believe in the principles of democracy, the rule of law, and equal opportunity for all. It is our hope that through our collective efforts, we can continue to build a better future for ourselves and our children.

Thank you for your dedication and service to our community. We look forward to continuing our work together in the years to come.
