The original schedule called for 16 more men this month and another 500 during November and December. Manjiro:

You might say he was the first fish.

This man John Moody, a New England whaling ship captain, was shipwrecked in 1827 at Nankinma village in the Japanese province of Shikoku. His vessel was shipwrecked, cast upon Taiwana Is- land in the vicinity of the farming village of fishermen, and rescued by an American whaling ship captained by W. H. Whit- field of Fairhaven, Mass.

In those days Japan was a little island, as it had been since 638. No ships entered the Japanese harbors. The law forbade access to those harbors. The Japanese befriended by a New England whaling captain was Manjiro, a young Issei boy who would have remained a simple fisherman to the end of his days. Instead, he stepped from the island of Torijima into a strange and exciting new world and behold many wonders, both objects and customs, which he later brought to his homeland.

Unfortunately, very little printed information has been available on the life and times of Manjiro, though the last few decades have seen renewed interest in the Manjiro story, and only this year two books about this young adventurer have appeared, Manjiro: His Story of Fairhaven, Mass., written by Hisakazu Kaneko, pub­ lished by the Pacific Citizen Publishing Co., and Manjiro: The Story of a Young Japanese Fisherman, written by John Weller, published by the KMono Publishing Co.

The discovery in more recent times of Manjiro’s original manuscript and other early materials on the young Issei fisherman’s life have renewed interest in the Manjiro story, and only this year two books about this young adventurer have appeared, Manjiro: His Story of Fairhaven, Mass., written by Hisakazu Kaneko, and published by the Pacific Citizen Publishing Co., and Manjiro: The Story of a Young Japanese Fisherman, written by John Weller, published by the KMono Publishing Co.

Home improvement loans through S.F. JACL credit union being considered

SAN FRANCISCO — San Francisco JACL credit union currently has a mortgage backed by capital asset close to $300,000, which was reported in the September issue of the JACL Journal. Secretary-treasurer of the Credit Union, organized in February of 1948, is Hiroshi Sugamori. Sugamori is chairman of the board of Directors. The AMI National Committee is under the State Division of Corporations, which audits the JACL credit union annually.

Officers of the CU are composed of seven Board of Directors, three Credit Committee members, and three Supervisory Committee members.

To date the CU has made several personal loans, household and appliance loans, and some for real estate loans. The committee is now considering a loan on the basis of making home improvement loans, the details of which will be announced later.

The CU helps its members help save millions of dollars in interest, which is lost in $1,000,000. Also, since it is a cooperative, it has an estate plan which is life insurance.

The bulk of the membership is participating in this plan. Under this plan, members receive $1,000 in shares. These shares are placed as collateral for his note. Usually, the note calls for 10 monthly payments, and the loan will retire in about 10 years.

Rate of interest is 1% of per cent per month, and it is calculated on the balance due at any time.

If a member dies before the age of 70, the unpaid balance is paid up by insurance and the amount of shares is increased to $1,000.

Prank-mad 1000ers cut up on links, Domolos' 75 wins

Chicago — Members of the Chicago 1000 Club and their friends had occasion to golf on an ideal day, Sept. 29, at the Mokena Golf Club, though rain was predicted for the afternoon, the sun refused to stay out for most of the day.

In a variety of games, the 1000ers took their time with only some of the pranks played on some percent. For one thing, they were permitted to use only "the finished woman," that is, she had to use a miniature size cut of a woman's breast, and all of those balls were given as prizes during the day. As a result, some good golf was recorded.

In the Mokena Club, Domolos' 61st win of the season. His gross score was 75, and he was 5 over par. Among the top winners and their scores were:

Ray Yamada 72

Shinji Takahashi (9), Ken Segawa 70

In the other tournament, Ray Yamada was the winner of the second division, with a gross score of 77. Yamada was second in the "fish-eaters" division.

Trip to Japan

Washington

By the time this is printed, I shall be back from two weeks in Japan. As I write this Newsletter, while still in Japan, the Cabinet has been meeting to consider a wide range of issues, including the possibility of further military and economic cooperation with the US, the future of peace talks, and the role of the US in Southeast Asia.

President Johnson has already made a clear stand on the issue of US involvement in Vietnam, saying that the US will continue to support South Vietnam and that the US will not be drawn into a broader conflict.

The Japanese government has also been considering the possibility of increased US military bases in Japan, as well as the issue of the US military's role in the Pacific region.

In addition to these issues, the Cabinet has also been discussing the future of the economy, including the possibility of increased government spending to stimulate growth.

The Cabinet has also been discussing the issue of US-Japan relations, with some members advocating for increased cooperation and others calling for a more independent stance.

The Cabinet is expected to make a decision on these issues in the coming weeks, and the outcome will likely have a significant impact on US-Japan relations.

TOKYO. - Plans for a 50-room hotel near the US Embassy in Japan have been halted after a 62-room hotel was approved by the Tokyo Metropolitan Government.
