JACL in fight for right of association

NAACP issue before U.S. Supreme Court

WASHINGTON. - The Japanese American Citizens League was working for the passage of an association that intervened last week with the Supreme United States Court in defense of the constitutionality of the "right of the American people to form associations or combinations of persons." The JACL is seeking the right to be represented in the Supreme Court by its legal department.

The NAACP issued a brief in a case entitled NAACP v. State of Alabama, which the Supreme Court has agreed to review during the current term that began Oct. 1. This case involved the question of whether a state may pass a law that makes it a crime for a public officer to collect or disseminate critical opinions on the operation of the state's policies. The JACL similarly organized for a specific purpose, that of presenting equal protection arguments before the U.S. Supreme Court. The JACL legal department filed a joint brief with the NAACP.

The Supreme Court has agreed to review the case, thus setting the stage for a major constitutional battle. The JACL's argument is that the right of association is a fundamental right protected by the First Amendment.

JACL fights to ban anti-miscegenation law

Any question of the legality of Marlon Brando's marriage to Joanne Linthicum was quickly disposed of when the United States Supreme Court granted certiorari in a case entitled NAACP v. State of Alabama. The Supreme Court has agreed to review the case, which involves the constitutionality of an Alabama law prohibiting marriages between members of different races.

The question before the Court is whether the law violates the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution.

The JACL's argument is that the law is unconstitutional because it discriminates on the basis of race.

The Court has agreed to hear the case, setting the stage for a major constitutional battle. The JACL's argument is that the right of association is a fundamental right protected by the First Amendment.

courts may be appealing to any group that supports a cause op- posed by the NAACP.

Background of Court Case

The case is based on the high court by the NAACP to re- view an earlier ruling by which a lower court had struck down a law in favor of the NAACP's demand for the unrestricted use of its membership records. The lower court had held that the NAACP was not a public corporation and therefore did not have to release membership data to a state official who had sought it in the context of a suit against the NAACP for its role in the desegregation of schools.

The NAACP was represented by its general counsel, Mr. Douglas and Mr. Rands, who argued that the association had a constitutional right to keep its membership records private. The opposition was represented by the state attorney general, who argued that the NAACP was a public corporation and therefore could be required to turn over its membership records.

The NAACP won a major victory when the Supreme Court ruled unanimously that the association is not a public corporation and therefore does not have to release its membership records to the state official. The court's decision was based on a constitutional right to privacy that applies to all associations, regardless of their size or purpose.

Critical Issue

The brief submitted by the NAACP, entitled "Freedom of Association," is a landmark in the history of constitutional law. It is the first time that the high court has agreed to review a case involving the association's constitutional right to maintain its membership records.

The Supreme Court's decision is expected to have far-reaching implications for all associations and organizations that seek to maintain their privacy and autonomy.

These observations are occasioned by a newly published book, "Secret Servants," by Ronald Seth, which describes the activities of the Japanese espionage apparatus in the United States and included the use of Japanese Americans. Oh, and another book, "Honorable East," was written by a British expert on espionage who is also the author of a work on the FBI "Spy Net." These books are a part of the anti-Japanese propaganda campaign.

Minneapolis Nisei recalls moments of citizenship camp

San Francisco: Nisei models named for Auxiliary fashion show; special luncheon dessert revealed

ELEVEN lovely Nisei girls have been selected by the White House for the San Francisco JACL Women's Auxiliary Winter Fashion Show held on Saturday, Oct. 26, in the luxurious Peacock Court of the Mark Hopkins Hotel. They are in addition to several professional models, who will perform at the runway.

Displaying the elegant creations from the exclusive New Salon of the White House are Hana Abe, Kimi Hashimoto, Mrs. Masa Hira-shima, Renée Kawakami, Mrs. Mary Miyagishima, Naoko Mouri-fuchi, Mrs. Jean Ohkado, Robie Oumoto, Gladys Otsuki, Mrs. Chul Shin, and June Uyeda.

They were personally selected by the fashion advisory committee of the White House because of their tall, slim, and lilteder figures which appear to excel in the unfitted styles which have gained so much popularity in the last few months. Marty Oshima has been a great help to these models.

Cleveland: Special Dessert Planned

Luncheon chairman Ellie Uyeda announced that a delightfully different and tasty lunch has been planned for the hotel for the occasion. As a surprise, the Hotel provided a special dessert in honor of the Auxiliary. Ticket chairman, Mary Hamamoto announced that there had been a great demand for tickets and that out-of-town ticket sales have been brisk. A limited number of these luncheon-fashion show tickets can still be obtained from Auxiliary members, East Bay JACL Auxiliary chapter, and the JACL Office for $30.00.

TWIN CITIES: NOMINATIONS FOR 1958

SLATE TO BE REVEALED

From the four as well as the nominations committee, the chairman of the first slated to hold the Twin Cities JACL meeting for Oct. 26, will be the Evanston Illinois chapter. Chairman Fred Akagi, former Midwest JACL Chilruzen biwa by Mr. Orikuchi; Dick Akagi, regional director and now on the Central YMCA board, have been selected by the White House in honor of the Auxiliary.

The chapter newsletter revealed that the New York chapter's previous high of $1,267 was raised for the $1,705 worth of merchandise received. This year the Hiko group, represented by the Long Beach JACL, has pledged its support to the drive. The Coordinating Committee, composed of five local chapters, Hollywood, Downtown, Southwest, and Hollywood, invites the rest of the county chapters to take part in the auxiliary's national project.

HOLIDAY SALE—We finally sent out the last packet with the Holiday Issue solicitation to all the chapters. Each year, the Holiday Issue is a prime item in the JACL's annual fund raising. Our membership is still growing, and many of our new members are unfamiliar with the work that the JACL is doing and the many services the organization offers. We hope that all of you will be able to make up for the lack of previous sales this year. We have worked hard since the preview day last fall and we have based much of our work since taking over our present job.

SIX MINUTES: We were quite shocked to hear the tragic news of the death of Helen Momita, wife of Thousand Clubber Fred Akagi, in an auto accident. Last Mothers' Day, we had the privilege of interviewing Helen on the Telephone. She was so full of life, so full of fire, and so full of love. Now, she is gone for all eternity. Helen's spirit will live on in the hearts and minds of those of us who knew her. She had so much to give and so much to offer. We will miss her, and we will always remember her. The entire program was ably led by Toku Kusuda, who was home coming week, meeting old friends, and enjoying the art of music. The program also included some of his own compositions, with a few songs with the arrangement of Hikosuke Hata. The Program was a great success. The favorite song of the group was "I'll Be in Love with You Always" as one of the last songs in the group. The entire group performed with great enthusiasm, with the audience to catch Toku's deep red face.

PUBLIC RELATIONS—This past week we were invited to attend a women's class at San Francisco Valley State College at the invitation of Dr. Karon, instructor. Frank Chinman, our legal counsel, presented the story of the problems and conditions that exist today in regards to the Nisei. Mr. Chinman began his talk by giving the background on the Japanese in America, and what an important part JACL played in eliminating discrimination, and disclosed different angles in which certain problems are not being faced and how institutions in order to appeal in minority group from obtaining real estate.

The meeting was a success, and was held without any question and answer period. Most of the students are preparing to become teachers, and found that Toku's talk helped a great deal in better understanding of the Nisei. We were glad to meet the group with Frank, and it also gave us a chance to discuss on some of the background material.
HOLIDAY ISSUE

t-Mid-October is usually about the last time we dare relax on weekends because of year-round preparations for our various Holiday Issues. But before we detail more plans for the 1957 "remember" the Lorraine a Kishida-owned cookbook, we'd like to emphasize that our special Holiday Issue Offerings of [which] for $1 will definitely invite No. 1. We want to thank the varied groups which have been making periodic donations of funds or goods to us, though the response leaves much to be desired. Perhaps the Christmas wave in Los Angeles is the future effort to be made by your chapter. These chapters wishing an extension, however, are asked to write to Fred Tanaka, our VC business manager, immediately.

By the time this week's issue reaches our readers, there should be in print a summary of every chapter president's HDC Holiday Issue advertising kit, which includes order forms taken taped and last year's advertising report. The new receipt book which will doubly serve for advertisers as well as for committee members, sample Holiday Issues and general information.

You, every means to simplify the procedure for our chapters is being incorporated. We realize a few chapters have been doing the legwork necessary to secure the advertising, but the sum total means supporting the organization as well as the Pacific Citizen. Helping to remove some of the ring of legwork, however, is the liberal commission policy established a few years ago, allowing the chapter to retain a portion of the advertising income.

Wouldn't we could include in a kit was the 1954 Holiday Issue advertising summary by chapters. These should be in the mails shortly.

It shows what the chapter did last year. By noting it, some chapters might be encouraged to make the most out of the 1957 list. It may help the listed chapters to better their previous year's effort. They can note the outstanding campaigns may not be as big as they feared, if they get their last year's performance.

Some of the statistics gleaned from the 1956 report: Downtown and East Los Angeles (combined), 121 accounts for, a total advertising summa by chapter. Nippomachi Hopes

Seattle

A CHALLENGE FROM City Hall inspired this community event which has fast become a city-wide phenomenon. "The talk of community improvement in conjunction with the urban renewal program is too vague and full of glittering generalities," a local civic leader commented.

But - can't we - said President Y. Paul Miyasaka and those with him - we can't do without that long-promised improvement in the District of King and Seneca.

- of course - President - we can do it - said President Y. Paul Miyasaka and those with him.

The wheels were set in motion to work out a plan to include the complete clearing of two blocks of any size that would bring about a modern version of the century picture-perfect Nippomachi which never did make a complete success of the up-keep of elegance. Crowds walking conditions brought many people into that once almost exclusive Oriental area and it has never been the same since.

So - quite a reason why this neighborhoood, officially dubbed by the "International Settlement" should not blossom with a new vigor, considering what is in mind.

The signed agreement for improvement would applaud and express the desire to maintain the street of King and Seneca as the nucleus for a new International Settlement, which increasing interest would give added prestige to the picture's place in the very near future.

GLOBAL SERIES - The Global Baseball Tournament, which was staged by Detroit last month and won by Japan, is likely to become a fixture in the United States for the next 10 or fifteen years, according to tournament commissioner Dick Falk, although there have been statements that Japan someday will be able to stage the tournament. "It is not well enough established yet to move it to other countries," Falk explained. "If the tournament doesn't go to Detroit, other cities in the United States will have a chance to bid for it. The people behind this series are not in it for money; there's been no money made in three years of play. In fact, the tournament has been a financial failure and probably will continue to do so. The sponsors pay the travel, board and room expenses for all the participating teams. We figured it cost the Global people $30,000 to bring us to Detroit. We spent an additional $5,000 of our own money, so you can get an idea of how great the financial outlay is for the eight teams." Falk hopes the Series becomes well established and eventually become the Olympics of baseball.

A representative of the victorious Japanese team also noted that while Japan draws crowds of 40,000 or 50,000 of their non-pro games, the average admission is only 25 cents. "We couldn't afford to bring in teams from all over the world," he added.

The Detroit News was moved to comment editorially. "We did not carry baseball to them; they imported it on their own almost as soon as they heard of it. About a half century ago, a team from Skyo University toured the American West and defeated the best college teams in that region. . . . So the global pennant goes where it properly belongs, not to a Johnny-Come-Lately, but to a determined pioneer."

ONE OF THE definite signs of creeping "old age" they say is when one starts gathering innumerable thoughts of yesterday, memory playing tricks on you. Last to an adolescent high school student, at any rate, we had another one of those pleasant evenings with the Los Angeles JACL chapter at their annual hanami dance last Saturday night at Scally's.

One of the talents on the entertainment program was very vocally up and building up my constitution for the hard sessions ahead.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — On Monday, Oct. 16, the Supreme Court of the United States will hear oral arguments in a case that has the potential to be one of the most momentous in its history. The case, Brown v. Board of Education, challenges the constitutionality of racial segregation in the public schools.

The NAACP, a civil rights organization, is seeking review of the decision of its tribunal. The organization asks the Court to declare that the practice of racial segregation in the public schools is unconstitutional.

The Court has already received briefs from both sides, and the arguments will be heard by the Justices this week. The decision of the Court is anticipated to be announced soon after the arguments.

In the meantime, the NAACP has made available its briefs and other materials related to the case. These materials can be found on its website at naacp.org. The NAACP encourages all Americans to read the materials and to think about the issues at stake in this important case.
