PRESIDENT’S CORNER:
Intermountain District Convention highlights

National Director Mas Shigehara indicated at the Intermountain District conventions were especially "enlivening." This was the Intermountain District convention representatives. The trouble was, we arrived in a state of cold and wet, which made poor flight conditions. And as the convention wore on, so did we.

However, this was more than compensated by the open, friendly hospitality and hospitality, and genuine interest shown by the members of the IDC. The weather was cold and crisp, but the heartiness of the delegates and people are really warm.

The IDC convention, was extremely helpful and beneficial not only for each chapter delegate but to the national officers present. And this was because it gives us a boost in morale to find so many enthusiastic and generous JACLers.

Although the details of the convention are not noted elsewhere, we feel that the following features should be noted:

1. A resolution by the IDC to support and promote the youth programs.

2. A resolution by the IDC to increase national membership fees to allow for all JACL members to receive the Pacific Citizen.

3. A resolution by the IDC to support the Committee on Japanese American Evacuation Claims in their campaign to raise funds for the National JACL Endowment Fund.

4. Election of Salt Lake attorney Mas Yano as the new district council chairman, succeeding capable George Sugai as a past chairman.

5. Presentation by Kenji Tashiro of new 10-year and life membership pins to several loyal JACLers.

6. Friendliness and hospitality of Acting Mayor Phillip F. Falls and Governor Smylie of Idaho. These men are as democratic as your next door neighbor and they typify the open, friendly spirit of this great section of our country.

7. Mike Masakane's presentation of the fabulous "Get well" message, and his usual brilliant speech at the banquet.

Honored guests at the Intermountain District Convention banquet were Joe Nishikawa, keynote speaker, and Kato Halls chapter president, George R. Suyama, keynote speaker.

MINNESOTA GOVERNOR HEADS TRADE GROUP, CITIES U.S. STATE IN JAPAN

TOKYO—Minnesota's young governor, Orville Freeman, and a private Minnesota trade delegation arrived here in the Far East early last month and departed for the United States on Dec. 2.

It's plenty evident that the United States has a great stake in and as a responsibility toward Japan and its people.

Yesterday, in the midst of the foundations of the world is at present our closest economic and political strength in Asia. The 39-year-old governor stated in Tokyo that the state has a position and productive capabilities. It is all that the foreign leaders have ever dreamed of.

"Since arriving here, I have been deeply impressed with the energy and drive of the Japanese people," Governor Freeman said.

The last contact I had with the Japanese was in November last last, recalling his days at Bennington College, the University of Tokyo. Then he participated in a degree of anonymity in America. Yes, I think we have a moral toward one.

U.S. Must Understand

Standing as the growing population of Japan is in such a situation of our state, Minnesota Governor Freeman noted: "In order for this country to survive, it must export. As a result, Japan's foreign policy must be determined in such a way that we must trade or perish."

The United States, he quoted, should understand this problem, he urged: "I speak on behalf of an entirely Japanese products and if we cannot improve and increase our favor to more than 50 percent in the market, we may forever hinder the ability to purchase and buy. They will have to make decisions on the Soviet-dominated enemy."

And "If the energy and know-how of these 90 million people were not available to us at the time of the Soviet's, we would have lost the fight for freedom."

In another light, the Minnesota governor commented: "If the U.S. desires the people and government of Japan to be a future force for economic cooperation from the base we have established on the American element in extremely effective way.

The Minnesota group visited Japan across the Orient, including Japan, Korea, Hong Kong, and Manila since coming here in November. Governor Freeman said, "I think we had a very successful trip."

Confusion among Nisei on U.S.-Japan affairs draws comment from Tokyo writer

SAN FRANCISCO—Noting the confusion among the Nisei as to what they should do or believe in the United States and Japan relationship, the writer for the Pacific Citizen and sold a travel article to the Nisei Express. Last October, he married to Hikage Inoue of Tokyo and came to the United States. They stayed with the Ashiya-Bashiya in Osaka. His APO office is General Hospital, 152 APO, St. Paul, Minn.

On Integration

As the writer pointed out, the Japanese for four years, with other Americans, has been to draw a conclusion of the desirable thing, but people just do what the Japanese and Americans have done.

Bandits slug Isset, attempt to hit 11th JACL quarters

SAN FRANCISCO—A song of two worlds, the Japanese and the American, has been set to music in a new album that is being used by the postmaster of the Japanese American Citizens League's headquarters in the Japanese quarter.

The song is also used in the Junior JACL program at the San Joaquin General Hospital in Stockton.

The album was recorded by the Junior JACL in collaboration with the Junior JACL's music committee and is being distributed to the various JACL chapters throughout the country.

The album has been well received by the JACL members, who feel that it is an excellent way to promote understanding between the two cultures.

The album includes a variety of songs, including some that are traditional Japanese songs, as well as some that are more modern in style.

The album is being sold at the JACL headquarters in San Francisco, and is also available through the JACL's mail order service.

The JACL is proud to be able to offer this album to its members, and hopes that it will be a valuable tool in promoting understanding between the two cultures.
Twin Cities to urge MDC push for PC with Membership

Inclusion of the Pacific Citizen in the National JACL membership dues has been proposed by the Twin Cities UCL, which usually annually adopted a resolution at the Detroit convention, general meeting because every member is vital to maintain a strong and active organization.

The resolution pointed out the Pacific Citizen, its official public of the Japanese American Citizens League and a mammoth source of information concerning American organization and to obtain greater gifts, entertainment and a membership, and ask for the proposal to be placed on the agenda for the membership subscription.

Twin Cities resolution also asks the proposal to "have the national membership dues, in order to include the Pacific Citizen, for each member or family unit, at least 30 percent of the national convention to be held in Salt Lake City.

The inclusion in membership fees for the Pacific Citizen is sufficient reason to start doing something about it.

Vale, Ore.—The slickly finished Vale High Vikings grabbed the Oregon AA state football championship here last Saturday by topping Seacliff 13-0.

It was Vale’s third title in the last four years and ran Dutch Kasawo’s four-year coaching record at the eastern Oregon school to 41 wins, two losses and one tie.

After the game, the Nike men said they haven’t seen a spectacular ball club this year, except on defense. And right he was as the Vale lab checked Seacliff 21-0 last Saturday afternoon, except for the lone 46-yard field goal by the Wolves. The Wolves are Jockys Rickard, who broke Bobby Grayskip’s prep record of the year for the most one-time gains, by scoring his 26th of the season for a total of 215 yards.

Seattle

TO CONTINUE with the story of the Chinese riots in Seattle, the distinguished Federal troops to Vancouver, 25 of the most rabid agitators were induced to the Ku Klux Act, for conspiracy to deprive the Chinese of equal protection under the laws. The trial lasted until Jan. 17, 1891, and all the defendants were acquitted.

The situation appeared to be close to settlement, Chinese were no longer employed in mills, mines, factories, or on the roads in King County. This settledbelief, however, had been greatly reduced, employment-wise. However, agitators were only urging the Chinese to demand protection and to warn the Chinese of the possible consequences of their defiance.

JACL Convention

WASHINGTON, D.C.

LAST WEEKEND'S NINTH Biennial Intercession District Convention was an outstanding meeting up to everyone's expectations. JACL officers running as high as ever in the IDC tradition. Service was given by the Idaho Falls chapter and their Club Chairmen Kenji Tsuchi will report on the Convention program and news of outstanding events devoted to itself to other aspects of the convention and the IDC.

Though the Convention was held as the tenth anniversary of the founding of the IDC, it was also the occasion for the induction of new officers. The officers were: Eiji Takahashi, national JACL president; John Suyehira of the Boise Valley chapter, national JACL treasurer. Massie Saito of the Salt Lake City chapter, Idaho Falls chapter, as chairman, carried on the IDC tradition of hosting the Salt Lake City chapter in hosting the next National Council Convention in Idaho Falls. Inagaki was named first chairman of this special organization which gave spirit and meaning to the Ninth National Convention and marked the 20th anniversary of the organization of the IDC.

The IDC is an organization within an organization which has become the financial backbone of JACL. In many ways the IDC is a group of JACL enthusiasts who during the war contributed to allied victory by intercession. Suyehira of the Boise Valley chapter, treasurer. Massie Saito of the Salt Lake City chapter and Tom Miyazaki of the Yellowstone River chapter in JACLism which has been the hallmark of IDC officers, they for what the JACL.

It can be stated categorically that without the financial assistance of the IDC chapters during wartime the JACL, which we all hold dear, would not have stood up and the fate of those of Japanese ancestry must be defended. This IDC is an organization operated, great credit must go to the outstanding convention chairmen, the IDC. Whether the IDC was able to accomplish is due to the IDC officers.

The IDC CONCEIVED JACL's slogan "For Better Americans in a Greater America" and the JACL's American Creed which is the backbone of the IDC. Everyone who is a member of the IDC also has a member of the IDC. In Idaho Falls, at an emergency meeting of the National JACL Board, then national president Rito Okada prepared a resolution which the Board voted to submit to the 1942 Convention which was to be held next month in the Utah capital. If they measure up to the new standards of the IDC which has been the hallmark of IDC officers, they will more than live up to their responsibilities.

SINCE CONVENTION is only as successful as the work of the various committees, there was a large number of outstanding conventions which gave spirit and meaning to the Ninth Biennial Intercession District Convention, which superseded the IDC, as its theme "Focus on the Future." Space will permit only the listing of the chairmen of the various committees, but the thanks of all those in attendance go to each member who contributed to another outstanding IDC meeting.

The following IDC chairmen on the west coast because of evacuation in 1942, the IDC undertook to help finance the JACL organization when funds were badly needed to continue its work. They succeeded in raising the necessary amount for relocation camps human treatment, to inform the public at large about the history of Japanese ancestry stories and to encourage the use of NIC in the armed forces, to revise educational literature, and contributions to school, and to provide educational opportunities to evacuee students and veterans.

It can be stated categorically that without the financial assistance of the IDC chapters during wartime the JACL, which we all hold dear, would not have stood up and the fate of those of Japanese ancestry must be defended. This IDC is an organization operated, great credit must go to the outstanding convention chairmen, the IDC. Whether the IDC was able to accomplish is due to the IDC officers.

In order that members of the advisory council might be better acquainted with the role of the JACL in the American scene and the purpose, size and function of JACL, Takemura distributed copies of the Pacific Citizen to those in attendance and made available the 1954 PC Holiday Issue which contains the final report of the Anti-Discrimination Committee-legislative arm of National JACL. Not only have to use your eyes to see another citizen, David Nutting Nisei on the American scene and challenged the Nisei in Utah and Idaho to organize JACL chapters.

DURING THE PAST biennial, George Saga of the Snake River chapter, as chairman, carried on the IDC tradition of holding a meeting. The first nine IDC meetings were held in the Idaho Falls chapter and Tom Miyazaki of the Yellowstone River chapter in JACLism which has been the hallmark of IDC officers, they for what the JACL.

The IDC conceived JACL's slogan "For Better Americans in a Greater America" and the JACL's American Creed which is the backbone of the IDC.
