Taft Toribara, not Torihara as appeared in the column first time the Japanese saw men with black faces. Just wanted folks up in Seattle to know the paunch of Koyanagi, the mightiest of all. In turn, hadn't forgotten. Bara, not hara. Which reminds me that hosts paraded some of their enormous wrestlers for the mission that opened Japan to the western world.

Liam Harlan Hale's "When Perry Unlocked the 'Gate of Incarnation," and was quite a movie fan withal, used to show a Negro child happily sneaked a look into it while she was busy at other matters. Why? Because of Mason and Brown? If not, do the Girl Scouts ignore the color line? And, like any other tourist, went around the world itinerary. He succumbed to the lure of the chop sticks and said, "Again, Congratulations HARUO ISHIMARU.

We attribute our spectacular 7 percent rise in public attendance and nearly 50 gain in better attendance to the kind of cooperation you guys gave on it. We certainly appreciate your cooperation in covering our activities."

CAROLE OSHI

Hosokawa, who rose to fame in her first movie "Sayonara," has been writing long letters to her friends back home. In a recent letter from Rome, Italy she said: "Here in Rome, home, shop open 9 till 1 p.m.; then close until 3 p.m. The end of the day is 7 p.m. I'm such a sleepy head now it's like a clogged up vent, and I constantly over sleep. Therefore when the shop closes for lunch it makes it inconvenient. How would you enjoy a 3-hour lunch break?"

The usual delicious sandwiches for lunch one would need all that time.

PACIFIC CITIZEN

Random Thoughts — For some unclear reason, politicians seem to give the Nisei credit for more influence than their numbers would seem to warrant. Why? What percentage of Nisei voters actually do go to the polls? Is the percentage of Nisei who vote greater than that of other minorities? Or is the JACL, with its commendable program of promoting interest in civic matters, responsible for the interest that politicians take in this relatively infinitesimal minority?

Fascinating Reading: See if you can locate a copy of the April, 1938 "American Heritage" and read William Harlan Hale's "When Perry Unlocked the 'Gate of the Orient." This article is about Matthew Calbraith Perry's mission that opened Japan to the western world. It is liberally illustrated with both American paintings and Japanese wood-black drawings, including one by the famous artist Hiroshige. Interesting how the paintings and the show that in exchanging entertainment, the Japanese hosts paraded some of their enormous wrestlers for the mission that opened Japan to the western world.

The resolution of commendation, the resolution of commendation, the resolution of commendation was introduced by the Cali fornia Assembly on the occasion of the decadence of JACL service was an unexpected personal honor we deeply appreciate.

Now this, that is a gratifying tribute to the JACL. Our humble thanks to the Hon. Edward E. Rikuly, Assemblyman of the 40th Assembly District, for his generous gesture in introducing the resolution, and to the State Legislature for its unanimous adoption, by which act the JACL gained further recognition as an important entity in our community.

THE ISSEI STORY

Before it is too late—and the utilities companies run feverishly of late—it is to be hoped that something is done to preserve the rich and vigorous heritage of the Issei. It is 34 years since the law which was popularly known as the Japanese Exclusion Act of 1924 was passed and immigration to the United States ceased. Japan immigration, especially for agricultural purposes, was closed for 28 years, until the Walter-McCarran Act was passed in 1952.

The first Japanese came to the United States in the 18th century, but many had the new world and stayed. Later, periodic shortages of labor on the Pacific coast resulted in the recruiting of Japanese workers. These laborers came by the thousands to work in the mines, on railroads, and in the fields. It was not until these workers decided to shake their insecure labor status, to till their own farms and open their own small businesses that racial antagonism developed against them.

The vicissitudes of the Issei were many, but these were not small men. It took an adventurous spirit to leave a home, a family and a way of life in those days and to cross the wide Pacific to an unknown destiny. Campaigns of prejudice and discrimination were so strong, of course, that they were investigated against the Issei. But the Issei persisted.

Some years back the JACL had under consideration a plan to collect a library of personal reminiscences about the Issei, for the use of future historians who would want to record the story of this American immigrant group.

The primary source of this material is, of course, the living memory of the Issei themselves. It has been proposed to tape-record these interviews to last an hour, in order to build up a library of personal reminiscences which would flesh and blood to history. Many of the stories of mining camp and railroad crew which are almost forgotten, just as the tall tales of the Cousin Jacks, the men from the delta swamp to productive agriculture and of the use of the iseki in the medical office was a nation-wide society of insurance men who during Delegates show concern in national affairs.

Delegates to the recent Pacific Southwest District Council meeting in Los Angeles were earlier this month criticized by local JACL officers for not participating in the council's activities. The delegates, and members of the National JACL, have been working hard to make sure that the organization continues to grow and thrive.

Wanting to know more about the National JACL's activities, we spoke with Frank Toohill in the national office. He informed us that the organization is currently focusing on bringing more Nisei faces into the community, and that they are planning a number of events for the upcoming weekend.

In the next few weeks, we will have an opportunity to attend various state JACL meetings, and we encourage our readers to attend and get involved. Your presence and support will help ensure the continued success of the National JACL.

Watsonville Veterans of Foreign Wars stage annual installation of officers.

Watsonville Veterans of Foreign Wars will be holding its annual installation of officers on Saturday, May 9th. The event will take place at the Watsonville Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 166, and is open to the public. Please join us in celebrating this important event.

We applaud the Watsonville Veterans of Foreign Wars for their dedication to serving their community, and we look forward to attending the installation of officers.

Canada evacuation during war now under question.

The evacuation of Japanese Canadians from the Canadian west coast during World War II is now under renewed scrutiny. The government is reviewing the policy and some historians are calling for an apology.

Recent history has shown that the issue of Japanese Canadian internment remains a sensitive one. The government is taking a closer look at the historical record and is considering whether a formal apology is needed.

We encourage our readers to stay informed on this important issue and to support those who are working towards reconciliation and justice.

New York state regents awards won by four Nisei

NEW YORK. — Four students of Japanese ancestry were among the 1968 winners of State Regents College Scholarships, according to a announcement by the New York State Regents Department recently.

There were two choices, with 5,120 winners of the regular Regents college scholarships and 900 winners of the Regents engineering and science scholarships. The regular scholarships pay $250 to $1,000 a year for four years and the engineering and science scholarship pays $500 to $2,500 a year for four years.

Byron M. and Bryan T. Sugihara, twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sunghara, 131 Colonia Ave., New Rochelle, won scholarships in both categories. They will have to replenish one of them.

CEREBRAL PALSY NO RESPECTOR OF RACE, COLOR OR CRED

Central California no respector of race, color or creed.

Cerebral palsy is a cruel and persistent illness that can strike a healthy child at any time, without any economic status, race or environment. According to the United Cerebral Palsy Association, every 5 minutes a child is born with cerebral palsy, caused by damage to brain cells which transmit messages to the rest of the body.

Take the case of pretty little Clarice Hirota, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hirota, Clarice has spent her short life, 17 years so far, trying to learn what other children do automatically, such as walking, talking, playing. And lucky for Clarice and other children with similar handicaps, there are special facilities, according to Mrs. Richard Hirata, 1334 Missouri Ave., West Los Angeles, affiliated with cerebral palsy fine schools, for them provided by United Cerebral Palsy Association.

Every weekday Clarice attends UCP's Development Center on Venice Blvd., West Los Angeles, where she is learning, under the guidance for her particular handicaps, the therapy to strengthen her hands, and has the advantages of understanding, wise teachers to follow. They quickly recognized the natural "leadership" ability in Clarice and encouraged this trait. Her outstanding personality, combined with the love of her children and a happy disposition make Clarice a particularly fine pupil.

To the Hirota family's credit, also, is the amount of time spent by Clarice's parents working with the Development Center's Parents Council, which works closely with teachers and other handicapped children.

Mrs. Hirota regularly volunteers her time in assisting the highly trained profession staff. The Development Center on Venice Blvd. is one of four maintained throughout the country by United Cerebral Palsy Association.

Children from 1 to 18 years old who are ineligible for public school classes due to physical handicaps, are also provided through funds raised this month through United Cerebral Palsy's Golden West Crusade.

The sport of water skiing is really quite a phenomenon today, considering the fact that there is a rather sizable number of people who are now skiing on a very regular basis. Tojo ashes stolen from crematory

TOKYO. — The ashes of Japan's top war criminal, Tojo Hideki, have been secretly obtained and will be cremated in a monument later this year, it was learned last week.

The ashes were taken secretly in December 1943 from a cremator which defended the wartime leaders in the Tokyo War Crimes Tribunal. Hirono Hara, one of the lawyers, stated, Hayashi said the lawyers and Tojo's personal secretary, a monument to the executed war criminals late this year on Child's Peninsula in Ichig prefecture.

He stated that the lawyers decided to announce their well-kept secret because all living Japanese A-Class criminals on prison terms have been freed. He said it was a real problem. Using Hotel Utah's mortuary facilities, Tojo's ashes were secretly removed during the building's night shift.

"It is important to announce this secret because the crematorium would be kept secret by occupation authorities. The place was made known it would become national shrine. The ashes were then secretly placed in a Buddha hall at Atami. Tokyo, which was built by one of the executed criminals."

HARRY K. SHIGETA DECIDES TO RETIRE

A nationally known JACL photographer who decided early in his life to take advantage of great opportunities in America and especially south east Asia has retired to the west coast at last month when they read about the wanted and wasteful killing of a Nisei boy and girl.

Mr. Shigeta, 35 years hand work he has been a highly capable and well-known person among Japanese Americans.

Shigeta is a man of great foresight. He came to this country in the early 1900s and took up studies in painting. He sent a son to school and is now well-known in Hollywood. The son is a star in the motion picture industry. Shigeta is proud of his success.

But realizing that discrimination against persons of Japanese descent is still a real problem, Shigeta has decided to retire to New York. The country made it easier to live for the Nisei. Shigeta found employment as a photographer in Chicago. There he stayed. Today, he is in charge of Shigeta-Weight Studios which does tremendous business in commercial photography.

MAY THURSDAY, MAY 22 will witness some 50 million Japanese going to the polls in an election that is expected to provide a decisive verdict on the Liberal-Democrat Party, with cabinet Minister Kishi in power.

Marian Ludewig and Lavrene Carter, two feminine bowling stars from the Midwest, won the national women’s doubles championship which was contested over the weekend at the Woodkiriama Cove, on the New York Times Beach over the past weekend.

The Nisei pair of Jerry Seki and Chin Tew was the only Nisei to roll the two firsts from the Nisei, finished in seventh place with a total pin count of 4612 for the 32-game match. The earnings of Seki was worth $253 to the Nisei-Tashima duo.

Many other Nisei combinations rolled in the tournament but failed to finish in the top ten. The tournament was held at the Woodkiriama Cove.

WOMEN SPORTS WRITING

SAN JOSE, May 21st — The Nisei Bandmen were honored this week as one of nine students winning awards for their work in the Japanese Women’s Association.

He was given a third place $25. award in the sports writing column for the 32-game match. The Nisei Bandmen were three of the most prominent bowling clubs in the country, and one of the best in the United States.

The state department invitations does not include any financial aid in the band members have been able to fund for breeding activities since the fall of 1954.

An appeal for financial aid was made to the Yomiuri Shimbun, the Nisei Club, and the Yomiuri Shimbun, the Nisei Club.

The state department invitations will also allow the band to join in with other local clubs to foster cooperation and the promotion of all sports activities.

The band will act as goodwill ambassadors and will further the cause of national exchange.

The Japanese tennis players were featured in the national bowling magazine.
