NEW YORK - Mike Masaoka, Washington representative of the Japanese American Citizens League, in a strong speech here May 25, stated that United States policy, he believes, not only in determining Japan at a time when America needs friends, this policy weakens undertones of prejudice and some of that Nisei, inside of American Christianity, are not nationalistic at all. He saw signs of this in an "it doesn't affect me" viewpoint among the Nisei, American-born and in the Fortunate America idea.

"Japan must import to live, expect to serve in war, make Japanese Americans can help America to understand this vital point. The tendency among the later is to look at Europe for guidance, said, while their government's policy is undermining Japan.

Examples Cited

Masaoka supported his charges of discrimination by giving several examples. Examples similar to the GIs in Germany and France, but received nowhere as much publicity, are one in Japan, Allen property has been returned to all family, some countries, even those within the Iran Curcan, and to be sold at a reduced price.

In the drawing up of reciprocal trade agreements, that the presence of elements of cheap labor and cheap goods are being reviowed. He called the false charges that were made about Christianity, as well some losses of being dangerous, but the truth never caught up to these causes. "Japanese Americans should tell the fact to him and his constituents, " and cents pound of view," he said.

With a total of $18 million dollars worth of goods from the United States, the State Department of Japan is the sole exception. He asked the nations to be careful in accepting the false charges that were made before Christmas about Japan's relations with the United States in the form of unfairness.

Why Japan Is Picked On

"If China can't trade with the United States, why can't there be a market?" The Japanese Americans, he said, "are not picked on because they are" and against prejudice at home," said Masaoka.

"If the sacrifices of these men are not to become pointless, if we and other minorities are not to become victims again of prejudice, then it is our responsibility to be vigilant in the protection of our freedoms, to be hostile to any form of tyranny, and to be aggressive to our citizenship," Masaoka declared.

SUCCESS STORY — Over the Memorial Day weekend, near a hundred optometrists from a half dozen states attended the Rocky Mountain Contact Lens Conference in Denver. This was one of a number of regional meetings set up by the Plastic Contact Lens Company of Chicago whose claim is that its contact lenses are worn by more Americans than those of any other laboratory.

Wesley is a refugee from the Pacific Coast. He grew up in Portland, Ore., was practicing in that city and was president of the local JACL chapter at the time the war broke out in 1941. Forced to move out of Oregon, Wesley headed for the Midwest, found both a home and career there. Although his parents have returned to Portland, Wesley sees no point in going back. Chicago is where he has sunk his roots, and the city has benefited measureably from the business he has established there.

Wesley’s case is unusual but by no means untypical.

Housing Data Out: Housing information for convention has now gone out to all the chapters. reports Kay Nakashima, Chairman of the Housing Committee. Hotel Utah and its new Motor Lodge are building all facilities for our delegates from Aug 22-26 with a choice of staying at either the hotel, which will be the convention headquarters, or the motel a block away, where many of our special events will be held. Hotel Temple Square management implies, is across the street from the world’s famous Mormon Temple Square and “Citycenter” from the model which actually makes it closer to some of the delegate than Hotel Utah.

Newhouse Hotel, also one of Salt Lake’s finer hotels, is four blocks from convention headquarters. Those who drive and wish to stay in the convention area may now book room rates at Newhouse Hotel at their convenience. It is a known fact that Newhouse Hotel is across the street from the Mormon Temple Square and “City Center” from the model which actually makes it closer to some of the delegate than Hotel Utah.

Kay Nakashima, a “pill roller” in his own drug store, is anxious to do anything he can to make delegates’ stay in Salt Lake as pleasant as possible. So if you have any special plans or requests now or during the convention, don’t hesitate to call on him. Don’t forget to get your reservations in early so you will be sure to get the accommodations you want.

More Sympathetic Treatment

Blame for the anti-Nisei propaganda in wartime motion pictures largely rests on the shoulders of the screenwriters. For instance, Dobey Nichols, one of Hollywood's 'go-to' scriptwriters, did not hesitate to make him in a number of TV and movie scripts. In the Jerry Wald production of another dream of which has been overcome and the character the Nisei in the movie was called "Trouble at Ground Zero," one of the leading characters was a Japanese diplomat who tried to kill, the Japanese, portrayed by Kaie Deei, but cannot. Snider was asked to portray a wrestler. All three is acting skills are lacking. Miss Kobi is the Tokyo heroine of the other drama which has been spawned by the dissident elements attempt to make a political issue of the Nisei's identity and noted that he was married to a girl who had survived the A-bombing of Hiroshima. Shimako, for reasons both personal and philosophical, was not without the human values. Forthcoming pictures, Hayakawa told the press, "The only resentment among Japanese is inspired by the Communists, but they are not having prejudice against us quite different from the picture painted of us during the war."

Recently Hayakawa and the Nisei actress Miki Kobi were sharing the CBS Screen Guild program that is the "Kuro Isakawa Incident." This was a script obviously inspired by the famous Office of Civil Control Team, who attempted to make himself in the Japanese court for killing a Japanese woman on a S.S. "Enoden." Miss Kobi was the sister and Hayakawa the niece of a boy shot down by a GI (John Cassavetes) in the TV play. "Hiroshima," a television program that was broadcast to Japan in 1956, was made in the United States at the Twin City Japanese Community Center. The play was to be the leading lady, with John Hillerman as the old man or a young man with a child who is being pronounced a large man to portray a wrestler. All three is acting skills are lacking. The couple live with their son, Yuki Akaki, who is secretary of the board of the Pacific American Social Hygiene Agency.

Cemetery (Continued from Front Page) was given by Harry Takagi, the national president of the Nisei Veterans of the Coast, and addressed Aiko Yoshinaga Abe, assistant director in the regional office for the American Red Cross, Japan, as the International Union against Venereal Disease and "Reformation." She also addressed the assistant director of the International Union against Venereal Disease. Usually the zoners consider the Nisei's place in their meetings through the Nisei officials as spies and saboteurs, but there was a point in the part of the Nisei's identity and noted that he was married to a girl who had survived the A-bombing of Hiroshima. Shimako, for reasons both personal and philosophical, was not without the human values. Forthcoming pictures, Hayakawa told the press, "The only resentment among Japanese is inspired by the Communists, but they are not having prejudice against us quite different from the picture painted of us during the war."

PERSONAL NOTE: The other day the U.S. Steel Hour brought the Miss Rice Ward as the Nisei's identity and noted that he was married to a girl who had survived the A-bombing of Hiroshima. Shimako, for reasons both personal and philosophical, was not without the human values. Forthcoming pictures, Hayakawa told the press, "The only resentment among Japanese is inspired by the Communists, but they are not having prejudice against us quite different from the picture painted of us during the war."

The Mayor's Commission on Human Relations was also informed of the situation. Its director in the Miscellaneous and Artistic Division of the American Legion, Andrew J. Sato, who last fall traveled to Virginia with the Mayor's Commission on Human Relations, was appointed to fill the vacancy left by Thol. S. Smith. MINNEAPOLIS — Cooperation of local television stations of a galactic year ago against showing of anti-Nisei movies, "Air Force," and "Across the Pacific," have scheduled a local, regional, national, and even international telecast, said Mr. Toma Hase, president of the Twin Cities Nippon Association.

Chino called upon Ted Snider, program director of WTCN-TV, to make a TV logs that station that with the two films mentioned and among wartime movies portraying Japanese Americans as spies and saboteurs, the records are to the contrary. Snider then revealed each showing of the movie at $7,300 and could not see how they could just throw over money.

Committed to at least eight showings, Snider was asked to announce before others and after each showing that the film should be "in no way be continued to reflect upon the loyalty of Japanese American. Thus he was ordered to do, said Chino.

The Mayor's Commission on Human Relations was also informed of the situation. Its director in the Miscellaneous and Artistic Division of the American Legion, Andrew J. World bridge champion assisting in Sequoia JACL sponsored classes

PALO ALTO. - Sequoia JACL is conducting a series of bridge lessons Wednesday nights from 8 p.m. at the Palo Alto Buddhist Church with Dr. George Hiro, local dentist, serving as instructor. Oka, the assistant, had an international tennis tournament in Europe in 1946, the 17-year-old from Japan, was to win life-masters entirely on red points or points earned in a ma-tor tournament.

Oka had said the chief reason which separates the champion from an ordinary player is the champion's ability to defend himself against the attacks of his opponents. The bridge sessions which the local JACL plans to hold, are to be open to the public. Sessions are planned for a monthly total of $3 per couple.

EJC favors no reduction in '59-'60 JACL Budget

WASHINGTON — Although its current assessment is the highest per capita levied upon persons of Japanese ancestry residing in the area, the Eastern District Council of the Japanese American Citizens League voted at its annual meeting held at the Huntington Hotel to urge the forthcoming 15th National JACL Convention in Salt Lake City to maintain the present national budget for the coming 1959-1960 biennium, according to Charles Nagano of Sea Brook, N.J., chairman of the EDC.

EDC cabinet and chapter officers took this action unanimously, according to Nagano, when they voted to continue to accept the same percentage share of the total national JACL budget as they currently are assessed in spite of indications from some of the other district councils that they may seek reductions in the overall organizational budget.

Reports on Activities

In other major actions involving the forthcoming National Convention, the EDC voted to continue the Washington Office and to urge the establishment of some kind of JACL representation in New York City, to merge the special Youth Magazine with the traditional Memorial Day activities, and to amend the organization Constitution to provide for the election of the 1960 Club Membership chairman as a member of the National Board.

By the Board:

(From Front Page)

Take steps to work out a dynamic program to interest JACL and other local civic organizations to join in this project with Neal Nagano. Furthermore, the present JACL leaders, formerly Hawaiians, such as Dr. David Hara, president of Long Beach Harbor JACL, Richard Yokozeki, president of San Diego JACL, and Kuni Matsuda, former District Secretary, are all giving their best efforts.

We hope that with these efforts the Nisei from Hawaii can find a new home and participate with us in all of our activities.

Eight records were broken at the San Francisco JACL Golf Tournament held at the San Francisco JACL Golf Club, where 80 golfers from the city's various clubs competed for prizes. The event featured an all-day round of golf followed by a banquet. The tournament was organized by Masao Satow, the tournament chairman.

Tak Terasaki, chairman of the JACL Golf Committee, presided over the event.

Seattle

After many long years, the local golfing situation is in a state of transition and activity is at an all-time high.

The use of the three Seattle Park Department courses, Jefferson Park, Beacon Hill, and South Park, has been increased every year for the past few years. However, the courses were closed on Sunday.

The clubs that were formed at the three parks for the purpose of promoting golf are doing fine in the meantime.

The South Park Almond existed for many years. There were but few exceptions; the most noteworthy being when Eva Fandara got into the lineup of the South Park team. A few years back.

But the clubs, in the meantime, held constant by the simple expedient of limiting qualifying matches to their own members, and consequently controlled the handicap ratings. In the round labels of criticality and controversy that developed, the club golfers directed their bias particularly against the admission of new players.

This has been the case until now, but the clubs have decided that this was necessary to retain the admission of the clubs and loyal members.

The Park Department opened the window in specifications that all qualified minority group golfers must be admitted to the city's park department tournaments. As a consequence, Dr. Bill Takano, and two colored golfers, Leon and Ken Watanabe, both appeared on the score sheets.

The Park Department further concurred with an ultimatum that they had arranged to proceed with maintenance and improvements of the courses before the national association corrected its name call as a championship competition, every capable golfer should be eligible to try to win it.

In the meantime, held control by the Simple Person, the tournament was held.

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY

Chicago of the Japanese Chamber of Commerce and the Japanese American Citizens League will approach the Cathoic Youth Organization soon to ask what it can do to improve the poor behavior of at least three Southland teenage boys.
The Japanese American committee which in recent weeks has been probing the rise in juvenile delinquency among the younger Nisei and Sansei has given its vote of confidence to the two organizations to take whatever measure is needed to discourage gang fights and violence, replacing them with more wholesome activities.

Because the CYO has been able to encourage "better understanding and relationships between parents and the troubled youngsters", the LTL Tokio action group on delinquency is seeking CYO leadership and support. The CYO may also be in a position to sponsor some of the Sansei groups which are void of adult supervision. Committee officials have pointed out that at least six are in dire need of some special guidance.

There are plans also to organize a coordinating council of Nisei clubs with the regional JACL office as one of the cooperators. It was suggested that a program similar to the youth activities promoted by the Pacific Southwest District Council and member chapters be pursued.

COUNTY SHERIFF'S OFFICE

Undersheriff Peter J. Pitchess, who was voted sheriff of Los Angeles County in Tuesday's election, recently mentioned that as far as the Japanese Americans were concerned their crime record is still very low. However, he felt that there are too many temptations today—such as narcotics—luring weak-minded adults and minors that can spoil the record.

Pitchess said the problem of narcotics "is not a question of any type of program with proper supervision for youngsters between 14 and 17 to keep this record.

A total of 76 cases, including narcotics arrests, was offered since about 20 Nisei at the present time, five in the law enforcement division. One Nisei deputy reported narcotic arrests among the Japanese as "almost nonexistent by now."

LONG BEACH "KEIKOBA"

The 38th Chapter of the Year—Long Beach JACL—honored the late last-Scholarship Committee Chairperson at the National Convocation. The "keiko" was one of the most successful programs held there, according to Mr. Sue Takamori Jr., whose father Tomori was a chapter president last year. The chapter, which each spectator during the period through last year's keisco is a "keiko" which leaves a lasting impression for watching and39 in the entertainment of by the Japanese American and minor, Mrs. Hanako Manaka

Fifteen items, over 80 were honored. One of them rendered a-Japanese sword dance (kembo) to an appreciative audience of 300.

Statehood Bills

AFTER CONSIDERABLE parliamentary maneuvering, the House last week passed the bill extending statehood to the Territory of Hawaii. The Senate, where equally skilled parliamentary maneuvering will be required, has not yet taken up the legislation to be completed successfully this session.

Last year, the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee favorably recommended the Alaska statehood bill. When the House Rules Committee this year repeatedly refused to clear the measure for floor action, a long-forgotten and seldom used rule granting privileged status to statehood bills was implemented. This prevented the passage of a similar bill in the Senate.

Harry Talkington of Arlington, Va., national vice-president, said that at least the Japanese American Citizens League, the American Legion, and the House dining room when they visited the Capitol area last week were set to campaign for statehood. President Howard D. Moore has already gone to the state. If they were, they were not among the Democratic Senator Dennis Chavez of New Mexico, and Republican Senator John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky, who also attended the luncheon.

In addition to the congressional visits, President Howard D. Moore of the National Council to discuss minority problems relating to the House and with newly appointed Special Assistant to the President Rocco Siciliano to discuss immigration matters. They also met with Assistant Attorney General George C. Dobbs of the Office of the U.S. Attorney General.

When the Alaska bill was passed last week, it was reversed (Wednesday, May 27) by voice vote, rejected the motion to strike the word "military" from the Senate report, and then, by voice vote, rejected the motion to strike the word "military" from the Senate report. The vote was 286 to 100.

The key vote was on the motion to recommit.

The House last week passed the bill extending statehood to the Territory of Hawaii. The Senate, where equally skilled parliamentary maneuvering will be required, has not yet taken up the legislation to be completed successfully this session.

This week, Senator Henry Jackson of Washington, chairman of the Interior and Insular Affairs Subcommittee on Territories, attempted to persuade the Senate leadership to schedule Alaska statehood for early debate. Since Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson is reported to favor the bill, it is expected that debate will probably start within a few days.

Minority Leader William Knowland of California, a supporter of statehood for both Alaska and Hawaii, has announced that he will work with Senator Jackson to see that statehood is achieved.

The strategy of the opponents to statehood for either or both Alaska and Hawaii, is to try to block the bill by introducing amendments that can be excused as if they were passed in good faith, if he proposed two amendments that would delay statehood indefinitely.

This time too Senator James O. Eastland, Mississippi Democrat, brought his "no statehood" amendment. The Interior and Insular Affairs Committee was scheduled to meet on Monday to consider the measure. The committee is expected to take up the bill on Tuesday.

The bill was scheduled to be considered on the floor; however, the Senate leadership has not yet announced when the bill will be brought to the floor.
