SALT LAKE CITY - In reviewing the status of Japanese Americans in Utah following passage of Civil Rights, the absence of a community housing-building industry at the recent convention in Salt Lake City, the State Capitol Bldg., served as a site of major discrimination for the Niseis. A cross-section of the Utah Japanese community presented their basic positions before the Commission. Sen. Richard Russell, speaking of the housing problem, said that the Bill will be passed at the index of evacuees settling in Utah would have been 1,470, the measure being introduced by H.H. Thompson, then-removal president of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Discrimination practiced by realtors and supermarkets at the Union of Utah was also discussed. Their membership are exclusively Caucasian. It was the committee's contention that elimination of the anti-racial and anti-Christian membership ban on community housing by legislative action, will result in less discrimination through legislation since those groups are partially sustained by state aid funds.

The meeting was held in the Governor's Band Room. Tom Otdow and Mrs. Alice Kusuri served as coordinators from the Japanese community.

Regatta Chiba, past Salt Lake JACL president, George Yoshihara, Raymond Uta, representing Nisei teachers, attorney Jim Milmanoff, and former Governor, Nichiren Temple, were named to the Japanese American Civil Rights Commission appointed under the new Civil Rights Act.

Ye Editor's Desk

UNTIL A PHONE call Tuesday afternoon from Chester Yamashiki, we had no inkling how Gene Sherman of the L.A. Times got wind of our Jan. 2 column about the Newsweek article, "Blessing in Disguise". We were aware that Newsweek wanted a story of Evacuation and the after-effects in Los Angeles offices called on the So. Calif. JACL Regional office for background material and leads.

It all started in late November when a Newsweek staffer in Washington, D.C., and Mike Masooka had a long talk on the subject. The government had just settled some 20,000 claims paying close to $37 million for some of the real and property losses sustained by evacuees during the relatively quick period of 10 years. Mike suggested specific information be obtained from Shig Wakamatsu, national JACL president, in Chicago; from Sam Satow, national JACL director, in San Francisco; and from Fred Takata.

This insight of JACL operating at the national level is imparted only to indicate the many unpublicized activities that accrue toward the welfare of persons of Japanese ancestry in general which might never be possible without a strong organization. In this particular case of Newsweek, we had to take exception, although the article seems to assume evacuation was improper and pointed to the success stories of Japanese Americans today.

During the course of Newsweek's preparation of the story, its west coast publisher Charles Williams called on Sherman in an attempt to explain evacuation in a relatively quick period of 10 years ago.

Charles Williams, editor of Newsweek in New York City, assured me that Newsweek intended to give the facts as they are known and will be republished in some future Holiday issue—probably in smaller type, too.

Well, she's all yours.

PRESS COMMENTS: Story Ends

Kanye (Once In) Register-Guard Editorial (Reprinted Dec. 25, 1958, Milwauk ee, Ore., Review)

Too little noticed in the public print was a quiet ceremony in Washington, D.C., recently There in the office of the attorney general was completed restitution to the Nisei (Americans of Japanese origin) who were herded into concentration camps in the West Coast a little less than 17 years ago. It cost the government $8 million to make amends for the indignities heaped open Jap­ Americans by their jittery fellow citizens.

We're still waiting for the book, the book that will set on chamois­ detail the injustices wrought here on the West Coast. We pick­ picked these people because of the color of their skins, the shall­ they're eyes and the national origin their parents. Before we here in the Northwest feel so happy about Little Rock, we should refect upon our own cultural legacy.

The story ends more hopefully, to be sure. As Mike Masooka, the Nisei representative of this ceremony, observed, this restitution program demonstrates "the democracy can take care of its mistakes." And that's something. But it does not eliminate from the memory of the white工作者 when he needed to be calm and strong, he responded to fear — and sometimes avarice — with a base Ku Kluxism that was made­ worse because it had the approval of his free government.

Blessing in Disguise

(San Francisco Nihonbashi, Dec. 26, 1958)

The Newsweek magazine dated Dec. 29 carries a one-page story on Nisei values. It highlights the Nisei and the Japanese American way of life and a "bliss in disguise." We too, believe that it was a "bliss in disguise for the Nihon­ materialistically speaking. Nisei were raised in themselves in the mainstream of American life. How­

GRASS ROOTS DIPLOMATS—For several days last week I witnessed the efforts of one of the most able lobbying groups in the country—American Citizens League and the American Citizens Union. Their efforts are aimed at getting American residents to register to vote and at getting American citizens to vote in the upcoming election.

Although the group has been active for many years, its efforts have never been more necessary than they are today. The country is facing a critical decision that will determine its future for years to come.

The group's strategy is simple: to register as many citizens as possible and to encourage them to vote. They have set up registration booths in public places, such as stores and libraries, and they have made phone calls to encourage people to register.

In addition to registration efforts, the group is also working to get people to vote. They have distributed literature and made phone calls to encourage people to vote in the upcoming election.

The group's efforts are paying off. In the last election, only a small percentage of eligible voters turned out to vote. With the group's efforts, more people are voting, and the country is seeing the results.

The American Citizens League and the American Citizens Union are to be commended for their efforts to get our citizens to register and vote. Their efforts are crucial to the future of our country.

SWLA CHAPTER BOARD MEETING: This past week we were invited by newly elected president Joe Yasaki of the Southwest L.A. Chapter to attend their first board meeting that saw practically a 100 per cent turnout. We were quite impressed with the number of board members.

With each member delegated a specific duty to perform during their tenure of office, each member holds a key position that is necessary to perform a smooth functioning of the chapter. Each member is fully aware of their duties and is accountable to all members of the chapter for a smooth running of the chapter.

The new chapter has many officers as its governing body, the position of the President, elected at the annual banquet last month, was not going to emphasize the meeting of quotas, but rather the development of the Stoner Ave. Playground, and it was through this meeting that the keynote speaker for the evening will be past national president Saburo Kido, with past national president George Inagaki conducting the installation ceremonies. For the first time since 1954, BABE VOTED Stockton JACL president selected for another term of JACL service. By the Board

By David Yokozeki, PSWDC Chairman

District Councils, as well as other divisions of the National JACL, need the efforts and attention of dedicated people to have an active and effective program. The PSWDC has been fortunate that members of the various chapters in the district are capably fulfilling their project ideas.

The PSWDC Legal-Legislative Committee is now exerting its best efforts towards familiarizing the district membership with the FEP movement which is now being actively campaigned statewide and locally. The driving force behind this committee is its chairman Kan Yagi who is working with assistance from a large and hard-working committee, including Harry Matsukane, president of the Orange County chapter; Joe Yasaki, assistant attorney general and newly elected president of the Southwest ICBG chapter; and Mike Suzuki, newly elected president of the Hollywood chapter. To date we wish to extend our appreciation to this very fine committee for its outstanding work against discrimination in housing and cemetery, aid to renunciants, and in developing the political and social influence of the JACL in California.

The concept of board management for chapters has now been accepted quite generally in this area with the outstanding success achieved by the Hollywood chapter last year. This method is now being followed by the Northwest Los Angeles chapter with capable Joe Yasaki serving as president of the board. This idea is also being reviewed by this district as a means of obtaining the best leadership and at the same time avoiding the most attempting to define or designate different classes of officers and by placing them on an equal basis.

The next item on the PSWDC calendar will be the 1960 JACL Coordinating Council which will be held in San Diego on Feb. 14-15. The district wishes to send its appreciation to Dr. Tad Inouye of San Diego who is in charge of making all of the arrangements and preparation for the district council.

The following month on March 3-8, the PSWDC will be the host district for the National JACL Bowling Tournament at the new Holiday Bowl. Prominent bowler and past president of the Long Beach Harbor District chapter Eddy Fujimoto and Roy Yamadera, chairman of the LA JACL Coordinating Council, are in charge.

In conjunction with the FSW District Convention in Long Beach we appreciate the efforts of Long Beach members in giving this project their priority.

Nearly Extinct Olympia Oysters on the Comeback

A new dish of Hangtown Fry with "little tiny delicately flavored Olympias" will be featured in the upcoming menu at George Furuta and Bob Terao's establishment. This is because the oysters, which are similar to the Pacific Oyster, have been declining in numbers over the past thirty years. The decline is due to overfishing and pollution, which has made it difficult to find them in local waters. However, with the introduction of this new dish, the restaurant is hoping to bring back interest in these rare and delicate oysters.

SENATE ADOPTS JOHNSON COMPROMISE ON RULE “22”
JOHNSON COMPROMISE

So far as the JACL is concerned, it was a “sad day” when the Senate adopted a motion to amend Rule 22, the Senate’s cloture rule. The amendment is specific acknowledgment of the continuing body concept for the Senate.

AFTER CONSIDERABLE parliamentary questioning, Senator John H. Amos Johnson moved the revision of Rule 22. The motion was seconded by Senator Hiram F. Esselstyn. The motion was then debated.

Majority Leader Johnson, however, upset the calculations by securing recognition under the long standing tradition that the existing leadership be allowed to recognize before any other senator if he wants it. After gaining the floor on this opposition amendment, he moved cloture on the majority amendment to amend Rule 22, the cloture provision. This means that the Senate, by a majority of two-thirds of all senators present and voting, repeal the provision that requires a vote of two-thirds of the Senate before any business can be conducted under the old committee system.
