SACRAMENTO — Setting the stage for a quick approval of a strong measure that will have a far-reaching impact on the contents and procedures of the Senate, the Senate Finance Committee, last week, passed a measure known as "The bill, voted for FEPC." There was no debate.

Even Sen. Burns, who opposed the original version, supported the measure, already passed by the Assembly. "It is one of the bills that I have been advocating for California," Burns said.

The measure was supported by Senate President pro tempore Hugo M. Rodda (D., Fresno), who sought to intensify the investigation "for the five-man commission, limit the pay of commission members," and exempt movie TV industries from provisions of the bill.

Assemblyman Byron Burnell (D., Los Angeles), sponsor of the bill, was "perfectly satisfied" by the latest action. The Assembly is expected to concur in changes made in the Senate Labor Committee and supported by the Senate President.

It is expected that the commission, which the Senate President asked to be set up, will be comprised of five members, who will be appointed by the Governor, with the approval of the Senate and the House. The members will have the power to appoint the chairman and the members of the commission. The commission will have the power to investigate and proceed with any matter under its jurisdiction.

The measure provides penalties up to $3000 and six months in prison for any person who willfully violates any provisions of the bill.

"When it appears to the committee that discrimination exists or any unfair or unduly prejudicial action is done in the field of education, labor, or housing, the House and Senate are called upon to take action," the measure states.

The measure becomes effective upon its approval by the Senate and the House, and provides for the establishment of a commission with the power to investigate and report on any alleged violation of the provisions of the bill.

The measure also provides for the appointment of a commission with the power to investigate and report on any alleged violation of the provisions of the bill.

The measure is expected to be passed by the Senate and the House, and become law upon the approval of the Governor.
Prevention of Juvenile Delinquency

By Harry K. Honda

ANOUS TRAGEDY that is evident in this week's issue of Pacific Citizen is youthful delinquency in schools and in the home.

It is not difficult to imagine the devastating emotional effects on parents and children of this type of traumatic experience.

For her, stealing a car (if she didn't get caught) was the quickest way to drive a car at her pleasure, while her mother turned to prayer, it would take time... Which leads us to the current issue, March 26, the Annals of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, in the special section of the "Prevention of Juvenile Delinquency." "

In the past, research has been made available, To be effective, such a program must provide all the vital opportunities and special services delinquency-prone youngsters need. Because delinquent behavior among juveniles is a response to frustration, the most commonly desired goals through conversion, inquisitive behavior, a community program to provide all the vital opportunities and special services delinquency-prone youngsters need. To be effective, such a program must provide all the vital opportunities and special services delinquency-prone youngsters need.

Going into the heart of Dr. Rosenfeld's proposal to reduce juvenile delinquency through community action, some of the same issues come to the fore, that is, the role of the community in providing opportunities for delinquents to abandon their delinquent ways, even when such opportunities may be quite different. To be effective, such a program must provide all the vital opportunities and special services delinquency-prone youngsters need. More vital, according to Dr. Rosenfeld is the rehabilitation of the family. If families are turned to proper means, it would take time... His visit with younger children, while they are in the school, and among other children, can be quite helpful in showing them that there is another way to live. It can be a dynamic event. The time is now for the JACL to have more influence than usual in showing them that the JACL will have more in the future. San Francisco Mayor Welcome

Tokyo, Japan - In recent weeks we have spotted many Nisei visitors on the Tokyo streets and other places. Evidently they are visiting Japan's sentimental season of spring, despite the computed environment.

When Tokyo America-Japanese Society gave a welcome luncheon in honor of Mayor George Christopher of San Francisco, at the Industry Club, there was an unusually large number of San Francisco residents present.

Dr. Kazue Takaki, president of the American-Japanese Society, showed her appreciation to the Mayor of San Francisco with her famous brother, George, who is now busy preparing for the forthcoming International Buddhist Convention. George Takaki, Canon camera representative, now living in San Francisco, was presented with Mrs. Shirazawa, one of Tadakura girls.

Kane was visiting her 10-year-old father, George, discharged from the Army. The sight of nine of his brothers and sisters in the room made the father cry, but after a cheerful goodbye, he left for Japan.

The executive member Kasa, principal figure at the recent 100th anniversary celebration for President Lincoln, left the United States a few days before the Convention opened, but he will be back in time for the Convention to hear him orate. He went to be on the JACL executive committee, and showed the old map of the country. He was the top historian in the event.

President Tachikawa Konomu of the Society mentioned the proposed conditional for the Kaihii March with Premier Kishi and plans to promote the celebration in San Francisco, New York and other cities.

I understood that John D. Rockefeller III was very much in favor of the proposed conditional and plans he was here. If Japan can send a Kaisen March with Premier Kishi, Japan's visit to the United States can be a dynamic event. Florin outlines programs for year

FLORIN — Graduation observance, small community picnic and fishing derby were among activities held by the Florin JACL members in the first meeting of the chapter recently.

Takko Fujino, newly elected president, presided at the meeting at which chairman were appointed to carry out the various programs. The membership drive will be conducted by San Kasahagi with Bill Tachibana to serve as 1000 Club chairman. The chapter decided to canvass members by mail rather than through personal contact in the past.

Bill Kasahagi will be chairman for a benefit movie program to be held next month. The graduation observance in June will have June as the chairman.

Cambridge, the annual community picnic is tentatively scheduled for August, Bill Tachibana will also be in charge of this event.

For the meeting at the chapter meeting, Mr. Kasahagi will be in charge of the fishing derby in November. Committee members will be added to the next meeting at the chapter meeting and further details will be announced at that time.

The chapter membership also decided to change the monthly meeting date from First Thursday of each month to First Monday of each month.

SPRINGTIME IN THE SUBDIVISIONS — Someone is smoking again in the foot of the Becks. We have winter nine months of the year and after sundown every night. This is almost but not entirely true. Every once in a while we have a wondrously beautiful spring day. But not today. But when it seems that at last winter’s grip is broken.

On such days the sap sits in the trees and the human male. And the female gets the old nestling urge which manifests itself in these times in the form of a desire to go house-hunting.

Last Sunday a steady procession of cars wound through the better residential areas and the new subdivisions. Most of the sightseers were window-shopping — admiring and wishing maybe, but not really serious about putting down cash for a house.

Ever want a couple approaching a house they want to inspect? Friend wife strides along, head up, eyes bright with expectation, alert, aglow and excited. What’s her husband doing? Dragging back reluctant, halfhearted, going along only because he has to. Right off hand, I can’t recall knowing any male who took the initiative. Inquiring; acquiring a new house and bigger mortgage. Can you?

PROPAGANDA — Some weeks ago The Denver Post received a lengthy statement from the Japanese Consulate-General in San Francisco. It had to do with Tokyo’s intention to permit Korean residents of Japan to go to Communist North Korea if they want to. A covering letter explained that this statement was intended to correct misconceptions which might arise from advertisements placed in newspapers by certain Korean elements.

The advertisement, which apparently had appeared in some California newspapers, showed up in The Post seven weeks later. It was entitled “A Statement Against Japan’s Deportation of Koreans,” and asserted what it said was Japan’s intention to “forcibly” send Koreans to Communist North Korea. Against Japan’s Deportation of Koreans,” and assailed the Korean government in San Francisco.

PERMANENT UTAH CITIZENS GROUP FormED TO PUSH CIVIL RIGHTS

BY ALICE KANAI

SALT LAKE CITY — Nearly 100 pro-civil rights leaders of both races and both sexes have organized the first permanent Utah Citizens Committee for Civl Rights.

The luncheon was in honor of Rep. Adam M. Duncan, JACL, who introduced HB 164, a measure the State Assembly passed in 1953 to bring all Utahns within the umbrella of the Civil Rights Act of 1957 in the United States Congress.

Albert C. Fritz, Salt Lake JACl chairman, gave a talk of appreciation to the legislation and the leadership of the U.S. of America, “for his courageous leadership. In the battle for equal, civil rights is politically unpopular.”

However, the eyes of the world are upon us, he said. “Two-thirds of the earth’s population. Two-thirds of the earth’s population are minorities who have been left behind.”

A principal luncheon speaker was Dr. Francis D. Worrall, Univ. of Utah law professor, who spoke on keeping track of the history of civil rights legislation in Utah. After tracing the history of civil rights legislation he went on to the late State Sen. Sevin Shinabarger, who was a champion of civil rights. Interviewed before the assembly was signed by “The Federation of Korean Trade Unions,” payment was made in American dollars (a rarity),

I did not do this for recognition," or words to that effect is a common remark made by those who have been singled out or recognized for outstanding achievement or leadership.

To the cynic, this remark may smack of a false expression of modesty. But to the perceptive, this remark means a great deal. For it is a true expression of the thousands of people who do not want to be in the spotlight. For the truly outstanding individual considers recognition only as a by-product of the personal satisfaction that comes from doing a task well.

The term "recognition" also has much of the meanings associated with appreciation, gratitude and encouragement. We are thankful that there are men and women whose devotion, loyalty, diligence, leadership and achievement merits special recognition. These individuals do not only lift their own status but the status of all Japanese Americans as well.

The foregoing serves to introduce the National JACL Recognitions Committee whose task is to help select the Nisei of the Biennium and the JACLers of the Biennium. This Committee also receives recommendations for the Special JACL, awards such as the Ruby, Sapphire and Silver pins and the various JACL scrolls and plaques.

One of the real difficulties of the National Recognitions Committee is that it must walk a tight rope. It must balance the sometimes insistent demands from local chapters and regions against the charge that the awards are given too abundantly and too indiscriminately—thus cheapening them for all recipients.

Perhaps some progress can be made towards the solution of this dilemma if all chapters and all districts would establish semi-permanent committees to screen the candidates. The committees ought to be composed of those with sufficient JACL backgrounds so that they can ably judge the qualifications of the candidates. A candidate should not be left to the whims of an individual who aggressively promotes his candidate. On the other hand, a deserving candidate should not be overlooked, simply because he lacks aggressive promotion. Rules and regulations should be observed also; else they become meaningless. An impartial committee could go a long way in solving these problems.

Speaking of committees, this writer has long favored the setting up of counterparts of all our National Committees on the regional and local levels. This would be one answer to the desired and necessary increased communication between National, Regional and Local JACL. Although this has been done in some instances (e.g. the 1000 Club), there is much room here for development.

Sometimes we hear that JACL needs something new and revolutionary to pep it up. I feel that we should take what we have and develop it to the fullest extent possible.

Kubota as Dual Frexy

Seattle

WHEN THE ROLL is called Up Yonder and they read off the names on the rolls, the names of the officers of the CYA, in the order of mansion and community, among the slate will be Takehiko Kubota, currently serving his first term of office and a member of the Seattle Chapter of the JACL.

Although he has the all important Chinese League presidency, Tak has been drafted and nominated to run as the sole candidate for the House of Delegates for the Seattle Chapter of the JACL.

In his address on ratification, the Seattle Chapter members nominated Tak, and then with the help of executive secretary Ray Baker, the name to the people. It was something like this: "Yes, we will describe it without using quotes.

Now, here Tak, the two jobs tie in so closely in me.

One is the mechanics of the thing. Tak was actually on the nominating committee of the Seattle Council. In his address, he talked about the JACL efforts with the last session of the PAC. In the meantime, Phil has been elected and installed to the board too late for an organized gang to rig the election any other way.

Last year, the JACL Council was spring Tak, but the JACL was still going strong. So the JACL elected and installed their boy in December, so Phil had been elected and installed to the board too late for an organized gang to rig the election any other way.

So HOW DOES IT come about that Tak has to serve two presidencies at one time?

The members had gathered to talk about the future of the CYA at the next election in the Council is solidly behind the Citizens League. In other words, we, the Council are joining the League to make sure that the Council will be solidly behind the Citizens League.

In regard to other matters including the job of getting the Eleventh a new building, the very next morning at the very next election, the Council is solidly behind the Citizens League. Masaokas to participate in 19th annual civil rights Clearing House conference

(WA) News Service
WASHINGTON — Mike and Ted Masaoka of the Administration Office of the Japanese American Citizens League will attend the 19th Annual Conference of the National Civil Liberties Bureau which will be held April 15 and 16 at the Hotel Sheraton Canton here.

Mike Masaoka, a former chair man of the league, an organization of more than 60,000 civil rights, political, labor, and other groups, will serve as chairman of the panel on "Civil Rights and the South"; while Ted Masaoka will be on the committee to prepare the program. Hisako Sakata, Washington, D.C., president of the NCBL, will also attend the conference as a delegate.

Baal Wright Chairman
Herbert Edensfirth of the Wash ington Office of the Anti-Discrimination League of Baal Wright is the Conference chairman. Dr. Fred M. Busheyn, general director of the League, the National Council of Churches, and Thomas R. Hurd, executive secretary of the AFL-CIO, are the co-chairmen for the Conference Committee.

JUDGE Acquits
At a panel first, which will be preceded by a session involving seven labor and student agitators arrested for trespassing on a U.S. air base near Tokyo during demonstrations in 1967 protesting the alleged cooperation between the jet-based American forces and the Japanese, Judge Date acquitted the group on grounds that the existence of the base was "unconstitutional" and the charge of trespassing, "therefore, unjustifiable.

Prime Minister Kishi has announced that the Government would protest to the U.S. Government the announcement of the setting up of a U.S. military base in Okinawa, but he would be displeased with the action of the United States and would protest to the United States and the Japanese Government.

With elections for the government of some of the largest countries and for the top government of the United States taking place this spring, it is expected that the Socialists will try to gain the support of the people, and that they will advocate cutting off all ties with this country while seeking to establish ties with Red China.

As Americans with a special concern in United States-Asian relations, we strain to overcome the implications of the forthcoming gubernatorial and national elections in Japan. Theoretically, the pro-Nationalist United States government will win a majority of seats in the spring elections. But, the real way of free men and free nations is so far superior to that of the Communists that there is no comparison. Let us hope that the Japanese government will have the courage to face the truth of the Tienmen Stadium will be a rude awakening of what the Communist threat really means to Japan.

The April 17 meetings will be sponsored with a consideration of "Demagogy in the Age of the Gun" with Edward D. H. Hollander, executive director of the National Office for Democratic Action, as chairman.

WASHINGTON, D.C.

INTERNATIONAL TENSIONS

Last week, the 15 signatories to the 1954 Treaty Organization met to celebrate its 10th anniversary and to reaffirm their commitment to the pact. NATO represents the first peacetime military alliance in our history. Since that time, the world has changed in ways that could not have been foreseen. The Cold War, a conflict between the Soviet Union and the United States, has ended. The United States and the Soviet Union have signed a treaty to reduce their nuclear arsenals.

We have also poured billions into the undeveloped and underpopulated nations of the world, and we have done so with the hope that they will develop into democratic societies that will be stable and prosperous. But the reality is that many of these nations are still plagued by poverty and political instability.

The United States is committed to supporting the economic development of these nations, and we have made significant progress in this area. We have also worked to promote democratic values and institutions in these nations. But there is still much work to be done.

The United States is committed to working with our allies to promote peace, stability, and prosperity in the world. We will continue to do so, and we will do so in a way that is consistent with our values and our interests.

In the 1954 Treaty Organization, the signatories committed to the principle of collective defense. This principle has served us well, and it remains a key part of our national security strategy. But the world has changed, and the principles of collective defense and non-aggression must be adapted to meet the new challenges of the 21st century.

We will continue to work with our allies to defend our interests and values in the world, and we will do so in a way that is consistent with our values and our interests. We will continue to work to promote peace, stability, and prosperity in the world, and we will do so in a way that is consistent with our values and our interests.
