SAN MATEO-JACL SUCCEEDS IN FIGHTING HOUSING BIAS AGAINST DENTIST

SAN MATEO—Fifteen years ago Andrew Yoshimura, born in Walnut Grove, Calif., left his peaceable home for another American city, went forth to battle for basic doctrine of "sisterhood." He spent a year and a half in actual combat in Georgia as a sergeant in the 89th Field Artillery of the U.S. Army. Returning as District Manager of the United States Army Recruiting Service, he wrote and distributed, Andy was conducted with a solemn welcome. He then was placed practicing dentistry in San Mateo. He graduated from the Seattle University, member of local and national dental societies, had four children, and is a member of the St. Brigid Presbyterian Church in San Mateo.

San Mateo Board Objects

On Monday, April 25, 1935, Dr. Yoshimura, practicing through his real estate agency, 2006, met the full asking price and cashed his check for $15,000. The property, purchased by Dr. Yoshimura, is located on the corner of 10th and Baywood area. Dr. Yoshimura felt that it would be an excellent place for his practice, and that it would be beneficial to his patients. He immediately accepted the offer, having been informed of the property by his real estate agent, J. Shiozawa.

Implications of Hawaii as a state will not be felt in this area. This is the belief of some prominent persons who will return to their homes after their mission is completed. A discussion which was considered to be the beginning of a new era in the civil rights movement in Hawaii.

JACL STATEMENT ON CIVIL RIGHTS

President Ferdinand T. Sturtevant

JACL has already joined many national organizations in urging the completion of the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights in order to conserve the time of persons of Japanese ancestry now being hustled by the Emperor Cali. of New York, as it completes its long-drawn-out public hearings. But the Washington, D.C. office of JACL states: "in order to record its special views on this vital subject":

PRESS COMMENTS:
Law Does Its Best to Rectify a Wrong

San Francisco Chronicle, May 27, 1959

The Department of Justice concludes a little campaign to mark the ridding of a grievous defect in the political life of American citizens in the hysteria over the loyalty criteria.

Specifically, the department observed the completion of its task in restoring citizenship to 72,000 Japanese who had been criminated in their anguish and disillusionment when being uprooted from homes and businesses on the West Coast and hustled to inland relocation centers after Pearl Harbor.

Attorney General Rogers said yesterday's observance: "Our country did make a mistake. We have publicly recognized it and we are a free nation publicly setting it right." Dean Eugene Routt of Yale Law School, spoke for the executive branch's support of the legislation creating "a day of pride for America.

Both comments were doubtless well taken. The mistake has long been rectified into fact as is yet possible. Yet the relief is still felt upon the living of the American citizens involved cannot now be thoroughly compensated for any more than the prison final could be dropped from American history. The mistake officially rectified yesterday cannot be forgotten.

Justice for the Nisei

New York Post, May 27, 1959

One of the most toddler chapters in the story of our country's coming of age was closed the other day at a ceremony in the Quarter of Justice marking the final reparation of past mistakes over the legacy of the American Japanese citizens. In public—specifically the conscientious Nisei who had been criminated in their anguish and disillusionment over the West Coast after the attack of Pearl Harbor.

The Nisei were American citizens legally and constitutionally during the war when they served as an excuse for rounding up almost 100,000 of them, depriving them of self-hood, their business and their security and shipping them off to camps in the interior.

Ironically, it was Earl Warren, the American lawyer general who sent the war broke out, who helped instigate the mass evacuation because he simply thought the Nisei citizens was not the people to whom they should be relied upon to serve our country.

The justice system, he felt, was better served by the Nisei than by the Japanese. It is a measure of his growth that the Chief Justice is now one of the nation's most resolute opponents of the racism to which he once once cobbled.

Colorado newsmen recall own paper's support of evacuees after Pearl Harbor

We are indebted to a Denver PC reader for forwarding last Saturday's clipping from the Rocky Mountain News, in which Pasquale Mazzorato, Denver, the evacuation program and the subsequent hatred which his newspaper showed in the Nisei—Ed.

It varies greatly that a government freely apologizes when it has been wrong. The United States Government did just that when it held all Japanese Americans that we were wrong, that it had been wrong to deprive a loyal group of about 72,000 Japanese Americans on the loyalty of 72,000 Japanese Americans on the West Coast after the attack of Pearl Harbor.

You remember that in the heaviest days of the war, more than two months after the Pearl Harbor attack, and the Associated Press denied it could not take any chances, with these American citizens.

They collected all of these people virtually in a state of arrest— and rushed them off to internment camps. They would not sell us, because we were Japanese Americans. The decision of the United States Government did just that.

The United States Government did just that.

We have been wrong to deprive a loyal group of about 72,000 Japanese Americans of their rights, of their citizenship in which they had been deprived. The United States Government did just that.

To their credit, many of them exhibited in the United States military, including the military, the Nisei evacuation program and the subsequent hatred which our country's story might be forgotten.

San Mateo President Haruo Ishimaru emphasized the urgency about the PSW Hi-Co program from the eight Sue Joe and about the future of JACL and the JACL youth program, to send letters to the established program of organizations serving young people as important components of such communities and its policy on work with youth, the substance of which follows:

The 100 Club Chairman Kenji Fujii urged to join the American ideal of participation. While subscribing to the American ideal of participation, the Japanese American communities, its chapters, and JACL must be one of a number of organizations working together for the welfare of Japanese American youth. SEASON OPENING — Within the past few months, the increasing number of Sansei boy's absence from classes has been called to our attention by local high school teachers. While considering this matter a serious one, it is particularly disheartening to the Sansei parents, since the Nisei parents of these boys have taken it upon themselves to see that their children have a steady place to rest and play during the long winter nights. The problem has become a matter of concern to the Bridgeport City Police, who have been monitoring the situation closely.

The incident is the apprehension of a Sansei, age 15, and his father has hung up and left the boy to stay in the house alone. The police have been closely monitoring the situation and are concerned about the possibility of further problems.

In view of the active role played by Social Justice JACL in the southern New Jersey area, it seems that the police department has enough trust in the Japanese American community.

San Francisco — Nine new records were set or equalled at Kezar Oval last Saturday, according to correspondeent Tamotsu Maryama of the Japanese Consulate. Nine additional records were equalled at the University of California, Los Angeles. The combined total of all three venues was 17.

The San Francisco meet was held on a track that is 99% of the official track and is used by the NFL's San Francisco 49ers and the professional baseball team. The meet was held on a field at Kezar Oval, which is the home of the San Francisco Giants baseball team.

The meet was attended by 15,000 spectators, who were treated to a day of exciting track and field events. The meet included a number of world-class athletes, including Naoto Tajima, who set a new world record in the 100-meter dash.

In addition to the record-setting performances, the meet also featured a number of other exciting events, including the return of the Kezar Oval Dunk Tank, which was a popular attraction among the spectators.

Overall, the meet was a huge success, and the organizers were pleased with the turnout and the level of competition. They look forward to hosting another meet in the near future.
The American Legion firework show at the Coliseum come July 4 will salute U.S.-Japan unity with 1,000 colorless fireworks and conclude with a Japanese rock band concert. We made it very clear with Myers, however, that "it is fun to pay tribute to international friendship" but it would be incorrect to assume or suggest that those of us who live in this country are a representative part of Japan.

While the theme is focused on U.S.-Japan unity, we are enlisting the help of local JACL and Nisei citizens to bring about the dream that the leaders of the American Legion have. Anything Oriental has disappeared with time and public education.

It was only natural for us to turn to 1,000 Clubber Soichi Fujii and 1,000 of his friends for help in this project. The leaders from the So Cal. WASHINGTON. — The Japanese American Citizens League, which plans to use the wartime visitoretz property for non-custodial placements, has received a war claims against Germany and against the U.S. "Japanese American Citizens League" and "interstate and Foreign Commerce Commission.

Since the hearings were limited to the issues with the War Claims Settlement Commission, the American Citizens League, represented by Mike Wasin, filed a writ of mandate against the Justice Department in the United States District Court of Hawaii in order to get the review of the war claims against Germany.

"The decision stated that JACL does not have any objection to the payment of legitimate American war claims against Germany, France, and China. However, we are taking action to prevent the private and corporate war claims against Germany and China from being reviewed by the courts. And we are asking for the return of the bill under consideration. We believe that the public interest as well as the public convenience would require the use of public funds in order to make sure that the payment of authorizations and the distribution of the payment of the bill were conducted in a fair manner.
