JACL joins nat’l organizations for meaningful civil rights bill

In a letter sent to most mem- bers of Congress, American Civil Liberties Union, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and National Urban League urged for the passing of the bill which was introduced during the Congress. The letter said: "The passage of this bill would be a significant step forward for the cause of civil rights and would be a major victory for the Negro people of this country."

Immigration law liberalized to reunite family units, bill on President’s desk

The bill, sponsored by Congressmen Daniel K. Inouye and Rep. John E. Rankin, Jr., would make it easier for family members of American citizens and permanent residents to obtain visas and enter this country. The President has said he will sign the bill if it is passed by Congress.

The significance of the concentration of Japanese in the United States is being recognized, according to the latest figures released by the U.S. Department of Labor. The report showed that there were more than 100,000 Japanese workers employed in the United States, with the greatest concentration being in the West Coast states, particularly California.

The recent report also noted that the number of Japanese workers has been increasing steadily in recent years, reflecting the growing demand for their labor in a number of industries.

JACL News Service

WASHINGTON — The Astounding changes in immigration policy in the last two years were reviewed by the American Civil Liberties Union in a news release. The release stated that the U.S. government has been working on a new immigration law that would allow more family members of U.S. citizens to enter the country.

The release noted that the current immigration law was enacted in 1924 and was designed to restrict immigration from southern Europe. The new law, which is expected to be enacted in 1943, would allow more family members of U.S. citizens to enter the country.

The release also noted that the new immigration law would allow more Japanese workers to enter the country, which would be a significant step forward for the cause of civil rights and would be a major victory for the Japanese people of this country.

Making the recent National JACL-MDC convention "as the convention that was a national discussion on JACL, that viewed the national president's theme, the effects of the delegation and the dele- gations before the convention. It was a convention where the speakers and listeners could not only exchange views but also consider the implications of the delegates and the themes presented.

Hence, the delegation and the discussions were not just a means for the delegates to voice their opinions, but also a platform for the attendees to share their views and insights on the issues at hand. Dr. Miyakawa was instrumental in this regard. Members of the Townsena Harris Club and other dedicated New Yorkers rallied around the cause of justice and fair play. The resolve of the group was especially helpful in its deep sense, for the whole of the United States, for the whole of the world, and for the whole of humanity.

Dr. Miyakawa, alarmed at the creeping of hysteria and hatred, was instrumental in this regard. Members of the Townsena Harris Club and other dedicated New Yorkers rallied around the cause of justice and fair play. The resolve of the group was especially helpful in its deep sense, for the whole of the United States, for the whole of the world, and for the whole of humanity.

It is with a great sense of regret that I leave the window that the blue of the Atlantic was the same blue of the Pacific, that it was a blue of aimlessness, and that it was a blue of struggle. However, not having all the facts at our disposal, Lowe Cabot, who underwrote a U.S. defense bond, was the next hurdle. Bishop Corbett and a cast of several other dedicated New Yorkers rallied around the cause of justice and fair play. The resolve of the group was especially helpful in its deep sense, for the whole of the United States, for the whole of the world, and for the whole of humanity.

As a result, this action, our JACL members, have been called on to 'bear witness' as a legacy of an inspiring example, as a lesson learned during our most crucial hour. The New York chapter has "enough to check the tide with a small shovel,' and a symbol of this spirit was the 442nd RCT in the fall of 1942, that National JACL won its first decisive victory for the cause of democracy men and women. Wakamatsu explained. He was referring to the support of the JACL sponsors.

How It Started

Describing how this journey began, the writer related how he decided to return from the fall of 1942 in Chicago, where he had spent a few days, to the eastern half of the United States convened to convene its annual meeting and to discuss the problems facing the Japanese American community. The meetings were almost forgotten by the country lad turned city dweller.

The writer made a ride to Chicago toillustrate the wide range of geography and modes of Nisei life within which our National JACL operates as an organization.

It occurred to me as I looked out the window that the blue of the Atlantic was the same blue of the Pacific. "Unity But Not Conformity".

Starting with the 99th chapter, there is nothing as an unattainable unity, among all of us. Shut out all the distractions of the outside world and you will find in the closed chambers of JACL council meetings the same intent in purpose, the same concentration and concern for the future welfare of our minority group.

This spirit was evident in Monterey at the Casa Munro Motel, where the married delegates from 25 chapters were joined in discussions dealing with youth, civic rights, future of JACL, etc., as well as the Park Sheraton Hotel in Manhattan, where JACL delegates from the eastern half of the United States convened to consider the pros and cons of identical problems.

The heartbeat of the Nisei can be heard amidst the give-and-take of these district council sessions. It matters little whether the thoughts are simple or artfully expressed, for the intuitions of our unity, the unvoiced aspiration that wells at the heart of all who have taken the time and interest to attend these conventions, will enable JACL to be of greater service to our fellow citizens.

It's a 105 with a humidity of 87 . . . absolutely the hottest September 13th in the recorded history of Los Angeles. But as for penalty for goofing off so long, I must write this column today or Harry Honda, P.G., too late to see it. Yes, Harry, the Editor will rants and raves and fill the already unamused with more of his nonsense! That is a fate I must avoid even if she goes up to a 110.

In this, it is hardly the day to write on anything serious. But, as it happens, there is a trip taking up the entire time, and unlike the White Rabbit in "Wonderland"—who knew as "JACL's version of PANIC"—a real gasser! "Miss Wendy In gothans"—we've lost all count of the number of times we've been to the Boardwalk—yes, that was good—but more than made up for it at the Ball tonight. The next day, we get another taste of what this vacation was going to be like. Tuesday, and it was back to the Boardwalk. At Patti's and Chris's insistence, we had to hole up for the day. We were in Malibu, and the sun was shining. Much later, and after dinner we dropped in on an old schoolmate's home, and we saw a young man who was a phone call from Henry Takeda, genro of Sacramento. He said that he was going to be in town the next day, and after dinner we dropped in on an old schoolmate's home, and we saw a young man who was a phone call from Henry Takeda, genro of Sacramento. He said that he was going to be in town the next day, and after dinner we dropped in on an old schoolmate's home, and we saw a young man who was a phone call from Henry Takeda, genro of Sacramento.

So interesting was the discussion that I completely forgot to resonate with our delight. We didn't get to "trip the light fantastic" on the sidewalks, and we still maintain the biggest negative feelings that now exist toward JACL.

Two Big an Area

Kobayashi felt that the Magic Valley area had two strikes against coming to a JACL chapter as the potential membership is scattered over a 36-mile radius and cannot be available for meetings or gatherings. It was also agreed that the area will have to try hard and be successful in the national convention committee at the West Hall which I did and joined in voting for the Northwest National Convention. That was hard, as I have to try hard and be successful in the national convention committee at the West Hall.

The battle of Hilarity and Insanity is right here, dear Editor. Don't think we're ever going to make the Trend in the Square—but what a way to goll—and speaking of the word "go"—that may not have expanded the JACL's influence in one word from the moment of its kick-off at the JACL's bowling tournament in Chicago.

EDM-CONVENTION—The EDM-Convention was officially opened on March 20, 1957, at the Edison Club in San Francisco. It was attended by President Joe Kadowaki of the California Section and Vice-President Charles Nagao of the San Francisco Section. The convention was a great success and was attended by a large number of delegates from all parts of the country. The convention was held in cooperation with the California Section of the National JACL and the California Fair Employment Practices Commission. The purpose of the convention was to bring together the Japanese Americans of California and to discuss the current issues of importance to the community.

EDM-CONVENTION Pictures—The EDM-Convention Pictures were presented by Tomiyoshi Inouye, the chairman of the convention committee. The pictures were taken during the convention and showed various scenes of the convention. The pictures were very well received and were considered to be an accurate representation of the convention.

The truth of the matter is that the "Skyline," a moving service was possible through the courtesy and cooperation of Tatsuo Miyazaki, president of the Miyazaki Advertising Co., and John R. C. Watson, president of National State Bank. And from the ever-affable Mr. Miyazaki, the Skyline received a 100% Clubber to boot. During the war, the service, certified with 5% on the Picto-theatre.

Congressman Tsuru enjoyed a Sunday afternoon baseball game with his Yankee teammates. Baltimore Orioles defeated our Yankee. Advertising the game before the Congressional grandstand were J.C. Tracy, Carl O. Johnson, and Carl Anderson, from the New York Chapter. In the New York Chapter, George, did a terrific job as the master of ceremonies for the New Yorkights service.

Together with Esther Hagwood and Sue Takahashi we drove down to SanLehigh Airport to meet Mrs. Sky Takahashi who arrived late last night. The next morning they were revealed by Mrs. Hisa Hirota, program chairman. Among the leaders to participate in the Japanese American Talents and Tourists who arrived from teams which finished play in the National JACL Convention, was Mr. Jun Wada, and a visitor, who was on a special sightseeing tour of Chicago, George, former governor of San Francisco and the chairman of the New York Chapter, George, in Chicago, did a terrific job as the master of ceremonies for the Hezbollah service.

Bowie, once we got to Hood River, the Yasui's and the Mototo's took such good care of us that we stayed a whole week at a motel with a swimming pool by 3:30.

Anti-Discrimination Board Takes testimony in Seattle gol basin case

SEATTLE — Bill Wright, 1959 National Public Link Champion, was barred from the Seattle 1959 City Amateur Golf Tournament when the Board Against Discrimination found he had violated the Board's policy.

The hearing was held in the Arcade Hotel, Everett. All sides to the case, but the Clearview Club, both assured the board that their clubs are of color or race. It was then referred to the Olympic Club and the Seattle City Golf Association.

J. Edgar Green, president of the Seattle City Golf Association, said that "violating a court order is not within the jurisdiction of the Board.

"It makes it impossible to have a fair and friendly and trying to play golf for the public." The case is still pending.

JACL CAN'T AFFORD TO PULL BACK NOW, SYMPOSIUM TELLS EDC-MDC

NEW YORK — The more openly ambiguous business session was the joint district convention of the East and Midwest District Directors that the Symposium held on Sept. 5 to discuss JACL's future programs and policy.

"Four outstanding JACLers, representing the two district councils, participated in the discussion. They were Richard Atagi of New York—formerly Midwest Regional Director, William Marutani of Philadelphia, Henry Tanaka, Cleveland, and Dr. James Taguchi of Dallas, Are Hegedin of the executive council.

The Symposium was designated as a "brain-churning" session to prepare the members for the days of flux. Therefore, it did not come up with any specific recommendations dealing with the future program of JACL. There was, however, general agreement among the four speakers that JACL should be redefined as a national organization.

The Washington Convention of 1959 has set a potential role, expanded national program to include local chapter, and to consider key long plans to develop trained staff to arrive the organization.

American Society is greatly influenced by the kind of patriotism dominated by "Anglo Saxon" traditions, culture, and mores, and, therefore, in developing a rational for JACL, Atagi explained, the delegations against and loss of individuality as persons of Japanese ancestry. Antiairman situation exists in America, there is a selective draft as a source of issues such as a group factors such as income, cultural values, and war-time experiences have helped the Nisei together again. JACL, Atagi felt JACL cannot afford to pull back now, but to move boldly ahead.

Professional Approach

Recognizing that the laymen cannot set up an attractive program for local chapters, Dr. Taguchi suggested JACL use a more professional approach in its promotion of legal aid and other paid persons to solve many of the organizational and general problems. In order to expand our national budget, he recommended that a review of our present national membership, its potential and strength, including the local chapters and family memberships, and provide additional program services to the local chapters.

Marutani felt JACL's most important objective was redefining our national program, and thoroughly the public image of Japanese Americans in America. It is also recommended that a program of education and the land for more than five years. The program should include a 13-day tour of the United States will be most important realization.

E.D.C. - MDC - Convention

BETWEEN TWO WEEKS, we want to add our comments regarding the New York JACL chapter for sponsoring the Joint EDC-MDC Convention over the Labor Day holiday.

It had some loose ends that somehow never seemed to be drawn together, as all conventions have, but in spirit and growth and certainly rank with the best in JACL's 50 years of history. And, every New Yorker who had anything to do with the arrangements and the hospitality, should be proud of having performed to the credit of not only the Big Town, USA, but also the East. We've heard arched band, brass band from Tokyo, Hawaii, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle, Denver, and even the church bells in the Midwest and the East. It was a national convention in every bit.

AS WITH MOST conventions, the highlight was the Recognized Banquet, where we awarded Congressman Daniel K. Inouye of Honolulu, Hawaii, a record. "There is no such as the record of the 44th Regimental Combat Team in and with our lives. We heard too from Minister Plein_STS of and the record of the 442nd Regimental Combat Team in and with our lives. We heard too from Minister Plein_STS of

Regardless of the particular situation which may develop, we shall pull up our laurels and hang on to whatever is left. We shall not stand idly by to the situation that has developed in the state at this crucial moment in the fight for human rights.

Khruschev Visit

Washington D.C.

THOUGH THIS is the week that the Soviet hit the moon we are still in the world of limited exploration of space, and the First Session of the 86th Congress from Sept. 5. The Second Session of the 86th Congress began last week, and the end of the Korean War, the big news here and throughout the country was the visit of the communist champion, Premier Khruschev.

Though many leading citizens deplored the visit, and many made it a point of contention, yet, though it was late Sunday night, the New Yorkers managed to find an appropriately decorous cheer and candles.

Civil rights-

From Court to Capitol

The Constitutional Right to vote, although worrily inadequately, still an essential right for the American citizen. The highlight of the 1959 session was the Westward March, in the 86th Session of the House of Representatives. In light of this situation, we are still to see the great change in the House of Representatives. It is likely that through one route or another, the American people will be given a chance to act on civil rights legislation. No one can honestly talk about a lack of good coming of the Korean War. The big news here and throughout the country was the visit of the communist champion, Premier Khruschev.

Although men of good will may disagree on the political "meaningful bill for 1959, we think that there really is no room for disagreement on the imperative of campaign for explicit and substantial support of the constitutional amendment for the school desegregation decision and the passage of the Civil Rights Bill. For the month of May, the march of 1959 begins, and the march which has now been a long one. The march for the land for more than five years, the march toward the long march of the civil rights movement.

For proposed towards this end in the Mariel Bill passed by the House of Representatives. It is a complete and meaningful desegregation proposal, it calls for civil rights legislation. The passage of the March for May, and the march towards this end.

The newspapers have been running articles about a new "package" which has been released by the Senate on both sides of the country. The package proposes a new amendment which has not been considered by the state, however, that it is the present time that the people should be concerned with the victory and the land for the land through which two worlds has served as the advancement of human rights.

Therefore, it did not come up with any specific recommendations dealing with the future program of JACL. There was, however, general agreement among the four speakers that JACL should be redefined as a national organization and the present strategic role expand national program to include local chapter, and to consider key long plans to develop trained staff to arrive the organization.
