Introductory issues for membership push

To assist chapters solicit 1961 JACL memberships, the National Board authorized the issuance of four free copies of the Pacific Citizen for the first week of October, November, December and January. A handful of chapters have taken advantage of this special offer.

Those particular issues will carry items of interest to the prospective aswell as renewing member. We hope that chapters distributing these introductory issues would be assisted in their signing up members early.

Early, because each JA-CL household will have the PC each week on basis of membership. Early, because there is a March 31, 1962, "cut-off" date on all PC subscriptions provided on the basis of 1961 regular JACL memberships. Early, because we feel members would prefer to take advantage of this privilege as soon as possible.

JACL memberships remitted to Headquarters by mid-December should result in members having their PC from the first week in January, when PC comes out in a new format-the 8-col. standard.

Chapters wanting the introductory issues for their membership campaign need only submit to the PC Business Office the number of copies desired and how the bundle should be addressed. Request deadlines are noted in the "Dates" corner. It is not necessary to turn in a membership list of names and addresses for this offer does not allow individual mailings. The PC will merely ship the requested number of copies in bulk. And, if at anytime, more (or less) copies are needed-let us know. The PC is only going to print enough to handle the requests on hand.

tess Michiko of Japan, who will teign one day as the Emperor and Empress of Japan, are guests of President Eisenhower on a two-week tour of the United States, having left for their first stop in Honolulu yesterday (Sept. 22). The Japanese American Citizens League joins with public officials of the city and county of Los Angeles and the state of California in extending Their Imperial Highnesses the warmest welcome

Frank Chuman, national JACL president, said: "We hope your visit to Los Angeles will be a pleasant one and we hope that you will return to Japan with the thought that we Americans earnest ly desire to continue the friendly and warm relations in all areas of mutual concern and that the nation of Japan may continue to remain a free nation and as an example of democracy in the Far East.

The royal couple have been in the United States before-the Crown Prince in 1953 when he was 19 years old and the Princess 1959 when she was Michiko Shoda, a young girl traveling home to Japan from New York. They are spending 36 hours in Hawaii, staying overnight at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel in Honolulu. They were to visit the National Memorial Cemetery of the mid-Pacific and Pearl Harbor.

Departing tonight from Hickam Air Force Base, the royal pair will emplane for San Francisco on President Eisenhower's plane, Columbine III, arriving tomorrow morning.

Itinerary in U.S.

They are to spend about 24 hours in San Francisco before continuing their journey, which will take them to six other American cities: Los Angeles, Sept. 25-26; Washington, Sept. 27-30; New York, Sept. 30-Oct. 3; Chicago, Oct. 3-4; Seattle,

EDUCATIONAL RE-REFORM IN JAPAN

Prime Minister Ikeda of Japan faced his first Zongakuren student demonstration while addressing a political party audience in Nagoya last week and wwed to introduce sweeping reforms in the Japanese education system. The United Press International correspondent Pete Craigmoe said "it could do away with Japan's nearly unique social system and pave the way for the end of the emperor system"-and this week in California, we have the presence of Crown Prince Akihito who will be the next Emperor of Japan.

How Ikeda proposes to change the Japanese system, The news report does not say, but Ikeda is reported to have said: "Economic conditions have improved in Japan but the social order is disturbed." He blamed the Japanese education system for it "divided everyone into either friend or foe" and for "not helping to bring up children and young people who can live harmoniously with others . . . It is necessary to give young people a sense of morality. Moral education as well as technical and academic education is necessary."

One of the vital problems in the present educational system in Japan is the existence of the Japan Teachers Union (Nikkyoso), the leadership of which fell into leftist factions. In its struggle to protect their interests (a minimum wage system, better working conditions, right to strike), it has leaned politically to the left. Un-Ber the banner of a united democratic labor front, the union associated itself with the General Council of Trade Unions of Japan (Sohyo) in May, 1950. It adopted the so-called "four peace principles" of the Social Democratic party: "all-inclusive peace treaty, neutrality, no rearmament and no military bases for foreign troops after a treaty" in 1951-a year before the San Francisco Peace Conference. Ever since, the union has engaged in activities with objectives and strategy as a political faction, closely allied with the left-wing Social Democrats.

One of the largest-if not the largest-labor unions in Japan, with over 580,000 members, it has infringed upon the spirit of education-as our PC contributor Tamotsu Murayama in Japan has often reported. Teachers forsake the classes to join labor demonstrations, indoctrinate primary school pupils with anti-American, anti-liberal, pro-Soviet leanings and taking more interest in politics than teaching.

THE FREE CONTRACTOR OF CONTRACTO

HONORING ISSEI PIONEERS

Editor: Last Saturday night, September 10, I had the privilege of attending Issel Night, a tribute to those pioneers who had reached their seventy-fifth birthdays. The Cleveland Chapter is to be com-mended for the spirit and imagina-tion that went into this affair of recognition and affection.

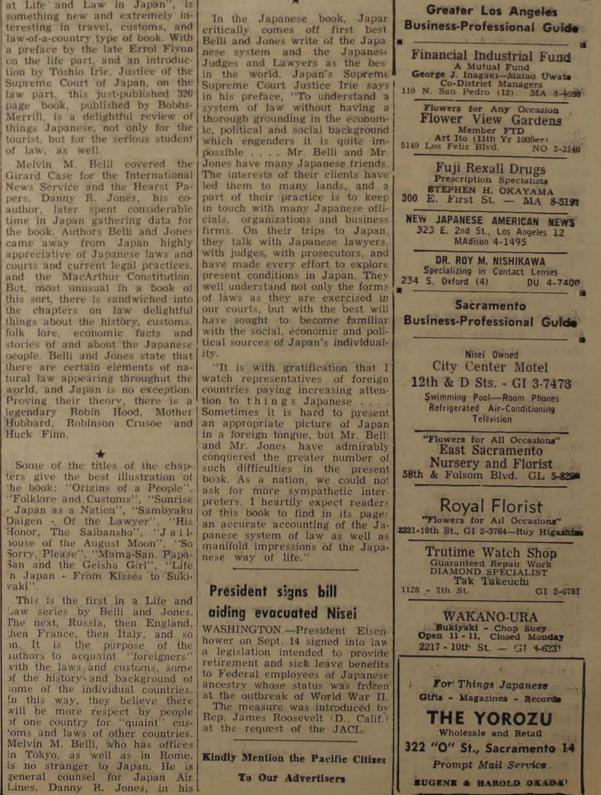

Through a skit that portrayed an incident that so many men experienced long years ago, laughter echoed through the hall, and a few tears were visible even in the eyes of some of us who had never known those early days.

A young man looking at a pic-ture of a girl he hoped would join him in a new land and a new life, then trying to make a suit fit him which was much, much too large. At dock side with his friend who was supposed to give him moral support but who was really not af much help. As the was really not of much help. As the was really not of much help. As the young women stepped off the boat our friend comparing the faces coming toward him with the one in his picture. The final meeting; with his one and only who doesn't at all resemble the prize in the picture but is a dead ringer for Joe Kadowaki. And then ten years later as the happy course work Joe Radowaki. And then ten years later as the happy couple work in the row crops they greet their large brood of children trooping home from school. All in all a very happy moment and one that even the non-Japa-nese speaking Nisei, Sansei and I could understand. The large audience enjoyed of

The large audience enjoyed a splendid evening of entertainment and an unlimited quantity of deli-cious food.

Once again, congratulations to the Cleveland Chapter and to the many people who contributed their time and affectionate thought toward this fine program.

HAROLD S. FISTERE Cleveland.

During the postwar occupation period, like many aspects of Japan's life, her educational system passed through revolutionary stages in its philosophy of education, system, quality, method and administration under the direction of the Supreme Commander for the Allied Powers (SCAP). It "cleaned up" the schools by banning spread of militarist thought, dismissing teachers with ultranationalism, revising textbooks and suspending the teaching of "Shushin" (Japanese ethics), history and geography-in the name of democratization.

The 1890 Imperial Rescript on Education, which did much to unify Japan and develop that country nationally, was based on semifeudalistic ties between master and servant, centering about the Emperor. When the militarists took over after the Manchurian Incident in 1931, the_{*}system became chauvinistic.

So the contrast is evident-the present system lacks national consciousness, teaching of ethics and social order that was peculiarly Japanese in tradition. It may be that Prime Minister Ikeda seeks to introduce a system philosophically between these two extremes.

This is the first in a Life and Law series by Belli and Jones. The next, Russia, then England, hen France, then Italy, and so m. OYSTER HUCKSTER-When you eat an oyster west of the Mississippi, chances are you're eating a Pacific oyster marketed by Haines, which is the cooperative organization through which most independent growers sell their product. That's the word this week from George (Mako) Yanagimachi, now engaged in setting up a distribution system throughout the western half of the country for the Co-op.

Japanese Americans were among the pioneers in the Pacific Northwest's oyster industry. Today they produce a little less than 20 per cent of the oysters marketed by Haines. Yet the Co-op saw fit to hire Yangimachi, who's been in the oyster business for going on a quarter century, to carry out the sensitive and important work of pushing the sale of the product.

The Haines Oyster Company will sell somewhere around a half million gallons (or was it quarts?) of oysters in a year's time. Either way, that would make quite a stew, quite a stew.

TREND-MAKER?-On a quick business trip to San Francisco last week, I had occasion to drop into a North Eeach night spot called the Red Garter. It served nothing more potent than beer. The entertainment was provided by two banjo players, a pianist and a bass who alternated between the bull fiddle and horn.

I can find no Nisei angle to this item, other than that a few happened to be there. I bring up the subject only because we may have seen the beginning of a trend. The banjo duo provided great entertainment ---oldtime songs whanged out with enormous gusto and toe-tapping rhythm. But that was only part of it. The best part was singing the familiar old old tunes the orchestra played, clapping hands and stomping feet when one was so moved. Which was often.

The jam-packed audience wasn't in the place to watch a show. They were taking part in it. In effect, they were making their own entertainment. And it was more fun than being entertained. It's a welcome change after so many years of sitting back and watching, just simply watching, someone trying to be amusing.

THINGS I DON'T UNDERSTAND-After considerable shopping around in Tokyo last June, I found an attractive vase in one of the larger department stores. The price was somewhere around 2000 yen, a little more than six dollars. I bought it.

The same item was on display last week in a San Francisco store, priced at four dollars. Clever, these Japanese.

THINGS I DON'T UNDERSTAND, CHAPTER II-Couple of years ago I bought a camera in Japan for something like $70. The same camera would have cost about $120 in the United States.

WHY NOT DENVER-Newest sukiyaki restaurant in San Francisco is a place called the Nikko, redolent with Japanese atmosphere. It is one of possibly three sukiyaki showplaces, all of them doing right well at the cash register, thank you. Frank Dobashi, who manages the Nikko, told us most of the capital was raised by Nisei. To this unpracticed eye, it looked as if $150,-000 to $200,000 had gone into the project.

Which brings up the point: Why doesn't someone built a first class sukiyaki house in Denver? Here we are drooling for a good sukiyaki-tempura restaurant, and no one has gotten around to building one. There would be no shortage of patrons, with this sukiyakieater leading the way to the greased skillet.

4-PACIFIC CITIZEN

For a Fair Campaign - 1960

The Pacific Citizen joins with the National Conference of Christians and Jews in promoting a climate of opinion in America to enable unity, amity and understanding to prevail by the publication of this week's editorial: "For a Fatr Campaign—1960"... Our Washington JACL Repre-sentative Mike Masaoka this week comments on religious biggary in the presidential campaign as it pertains to persome of Japanese ancestry.)

In 1960 the citizens of 50 states will elect a President, Vice-President, Senators, Congressmen, Governors, Jurists and a host of other state and local officials.

Unfortunately, in some of these political campaigns, religious, racial or ethnic prejudice will be invoked. The threat of such bigotry compels the serious concern of all Americans. For any activity, individual or group, that pits race against race-sets religion against religion-exploits nationality groups or stimulates a divisive class-consciousness, renders a disservice to the entire community. Such behavior challenges the responsible citizen to work unceasingly for fair play.

Respect for the dignity of the individual and community cooperation are values upon which our democracy depends. To destroy them for the sake of political advantage is a desperate and costly maneuver. It chips away at the foundations of the American way of life. It is a denial of the spirit of brotherhood. It destroys the image of democracy that we must hold high before countries overseas.

The National Conference of Christians and Jews, therefore, calls upon civic and religious leaders to act firmly and in the spirit of unity and good neighborliness to prevent the ugly tragedy of suspicion and disharmony from erupting in our local communities.

Organized in 1928 in the midst of a bitterly divisive political campaign, the NCCJ has dedicated itself since to the work of creating a climate of opinion in America that will enable unity, amity and understanding to prevail. In that spirit we express our conviction that responsible leaders can, if they will, be their forthright declaration in this forthcoming year, strengthen the bonds of confidence we all treasure.

The Problem That Confronts Us

In a hard-fought political campaign it is not always easy to maintain such a spirit of good will. The national Fair Campaign Practices Committee has said, "If the world watches to see how we pick our leaders we are apt to be in for some embarrassment. For it is virtually certain that some of them will win elections in campaigns marked by vicious attack and smear. The forecast can be made on the basis of two successive biennial state-by-state studies of smear."

Episodes of smear in major (Congressional and state-wide) campaigns in 1958 exactly doubled those reported in the '56 campaigns. Appeals to racial and religious prejudice were up proportionately and accounted for one-quarter of the total.

Roman Catholics have moved into number-one spot as the target of political smear operators; exactly half the reported appeals to bigotry were directed at them. Negroes come second and Jews third as targets.

There were 64 episodes of unfair electioneering reported in 1958 involving 35 candidates for Congressional or state-wide office in 21 states. States where complaints originated were divided evenly between the major parties, Republican and Democratic. Each filed complaints in eight states and in five others both parties slaimed that dirty campaigning was directed at some of the candidates.

Detroit chapter seeking to form board of advisers of social, business leaders

BY FRANK WATANABE From the Detroit Newsletter)

The overall role of our chapter vas discussed in the first newsletter and the planning role of the cabinet and the management of the chapter was discussed in the second. Specific programs and expected results are described at this time.

It is well to reiterate that our chapter's goal is to have the Japanese American considered as a desirable component in American life; not merely tolerated or accepted. It is well, too, to rei-terate the JACL's purpose which is to foster good citizenship, pro-tect the welfare of persons of Japanese ancestry, and to make ourselves better known to the general public.

Working toward these goals is the service that the chapter per-forms for its members. This pro-gram is divided into the three major areas of activity which are continually evaluated against good public relations. These main areas are social, educational and extra chapter participation. Social Program

Our social program is well established for now and the membership expresses satisfaction with he program and events scheduled. cabinet, however, remains continually alert to the interest areas of the membership. For instance, in response to the desire expressed for more ballroom dance instruction, dance classes will again be offered in the Fall.

The educational program of the chapter is the subtle process of leading the membership to a more active participation in their role as American citizens, Realizing that citizenship is a combination of great many intangible things which one aspect is the social confidence that results from the feeling of belonging to the greater community, effort is being made to enlarge upon the areas of acceptance by the combination of many activities.

One such activity is selling Japanese goods to the general public. Another is the participation in activities which are viewed by the general public. And finally, the excursions into domain which was previously considered to exclude Japanese persons. The membership now is not reluctant to enter into anything accessible to the public. The next step is to achieve status and distinction but here we require outside guidance for the

It is too easy to be an ''Ugly American'' by n ot comprehending the conse-quences of the collective action of the membership. Outside Guidance No one within our organization is thought to possess the broad appreciation of the forces that in-fluence peoples and groups; and so, we must seek guidance outside of the regular chapter member-ship. In order to avail ouselves of the superior perception, depth and breadth, a board of advisors com-prised of top social and economic leaders is being assembled. The board serves both the purpose of adding to our social status and the need for astute guidance in the area of while categuidance in the area of upthole status and the need for astute guidance in the area of upthole status and the status an the need for astute guidance in the area of public relations. This is the step necessary to develop social maturity in a group that is prone to anonymity.

The National JACL and the MDC functions to perform many of the services that we require by providing the leadership necessary in return for our support. Maintain-ing and aiding the programs of the National and Regional bodies is a necessary part of our activities for a concerted effort yields results in terms of total benefit which are far greater than the sum of the individual benefits derived singly.

Detroit Convention

The bid for the National Convention of 1964 was won by the De-troit Chapter. The preparations for this convention will bring us into contact with a great many businessmen in Detroit. The incidental and deliberate publicity and the benefits secured will be far reaching and long lasting. Thus, the program and its bene-fits are described. West L.A. Auxiliary dance benefit for ! UCLA student center

West Los Angeles JACL Auxiliary's benefit dance Oct. 1 at Santa Monica's Miramar Hotel is being held for the Westwood International Center, a foreign stu-dent agency at UCLA.

The Auxiliary president, Mrs. Mitsu Sonoda, hopes that by helping foreign students, particularly those from Japan, Korea, China, India and other Asian nations, better understanding of America might be fostered.

The dance, starting at 9 p.m., will feature the music of Aaron Gonzales.

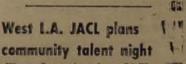

Westwood International Center, an independent off-campus community agency, has been operating for close to 10 years. A non-profit corporation whose purpose is to promote deeper understanding and better communication among foreign and American students and the community, its headquarters near Westwood Village at 520

Levering Ave. It was founded by the American Friends Service Committee at the request of the late Dr. Clarence Dykstra, UCLA provost.

Foremost in the center's future is its plan for a new headquarters to be built at the cost of up to $300,000 at Hilgard Ave. and Lindbrock Dr., close by the campus. Like all center activities, the new building must be financed by con-tributions from the community, noted Center director Richard Ce Mills.

Among the types of bigotry and smear reported were the following:

racial or religious bigotry, undue religious influence, publication of long-disproved charges against a candidate, publication of statements, voting records and excerpts from correspondence out of context to seemingly support unfounded charges of veniality or un-Americanism.

Significantly, the use of such smear and bigotry frequently backfired. The American people, shocked and distressed by this display of bad taste and un-Americanism, demonstrated by their votes their commitment to democratic values. This affirmation was frequently inspired by the constructive role of the civic leaders who articulated the decent and honest standards for the political campaign and spoke the mind of the citizenry in this regard. The task, however, has not yet been consummated. Our diligent leadership is commanded. 121 (Imi 131 200 m 10

The National Director's Report

By Masao Satow

PACIFIC NORTHWEST-The PNWDC had a good meeting last weekend in Seattle under the direction of Chairman George Azumano. Delegates heard a complete report on the 16th Biennial National Convention, a progress report by Tak Kubota on the Washington Anti-Alien Land Law Repeal campaign, and a report on preliminary planning for the 1962 National Convention by Jim Matsuoka. The chapters worked out their individual national budget allocations with the minimum of wrangling, and accepted in principle a revision of the chapter 1000 Club goals to achieve the national budget even though this means an increase for each of them. Most encouraging was a report from Ed Yamamoto of Moses Lake who invited the PNWDC to hold its December meeting there.

National 1000 Club Chairman Frank Hattori is most enthusiastic about realizing the minimum 1000 Clubbers for the national program with the assistance of the local chapter and District Council 1000 Club Chairmen. A national 1000 Club brochure is in the offing.

Tak Kubota and his Washington Committee for the Repeal of the Anti-Alien Land Law are doing a tremendous job in public education and securing endorsements from significant organizations and influential citizens. They are especially appreciative of the support from the chapters which has enabled the Committee to go ahead with its full program.

Min Tsubota and Jim Matsuoka have already followed up on Seattle's bid for the 17th Biennial to be held during Seattle's World Fair year of 1962. The dates of July 26-30 will be immediately preceding Seattle's famed annual Seafair Festival. We had a chance to look over the facilities of the Olympic Helel which will be Convention Headquarters. Three-hundred and fifty rooms have already been blocked out for delegates.

ISSEI STORY-A number of chapters have already responded to Akiji Yoshimura's request for local chairmen for the Issei Story project: Contra Costa-Sam Kitabayashi, Florin-Alfred Tsukamoto, Ft. Lupton-Floyd Koshio, Puyallup Valley-Richard Hayashi and Yosh Tanabe, San Benito-Kay Yamaoka, Sonoma County-Roy Yamamoto, Washington, D.C.-Frank Baba. George Kitahara of Parlier will chair the Central California District Committee, and Henry Kato of Gresham, the Pacific Northwest. Meantime, this weekend in Washington, D.C. National Chairman for the Issei Story, Shig Wakamatsu, is meeting with consultants Dr. Scott Miyakawa and Mike Masaoka.

APPRENTICESHIP PROGRAM-JACL has been invited to participate in a special committee to study apprenticeship opportunities for minority groups under the joint auspices of the California Conference on Apprenticeship and the California Apprenticeship Council of the Department of Industrial Relations of the State of California. It is reported that a number of Nisei have alaready taken advantage of this program and are 'doing well.

NATIONAL BUDGET-We have been checking the figures of the national budget again since in the rush of the Convention some errors in computation crept in, Generally, the budget figures will remain the same for the District Councils

VENICE-CULVER CHAPTER TO SOLICIT '61 JACL MEMBERSHIPS EARLY

The Venice-Culver JACL is conforming to the mandates of the last National JACL Convention to have its 1961 membership drive concluded early.

At the September board meeting, it was decided to have nominations of new officers in October, election in November and installation in December.

The initial solicitation of '61 memberships will be conducted by mail and the campaign is expected to be concluded by the end of November so that every JACL member-housekold would be on the Pacific Citizen mailing list by the first of January.

The chapter also voted to send $25 to the Washington Anti-Alien Land Law Repeal Committee, 318-6th Ave., Seattle.

As the United States and Japan begin the second century of diplo-matic relations, Congressman Shelley noted "there are forces in the world today which would de-stroy the goodwill that exists be-tween the American and Japanese peoples

In paying tribute to the con-structive character of baseball's contribution to U.S.-Japan friendship and understanding, the San Francisco congressman hoped the forthcoming tour of the Giants would "be as successful in promot-ing goodwill as those in the past, on the field of friendly comfor petition, with friendly spectators, are sown the seeds of international comity and cooperation that are so essential to the peace and prosperity of the Pacific." Extension of Remarks follows:

Baseball in Japan 86 years Old

Japan is said to be the oldest nation outside of the United States to be playing baseball. Only 30 years after Abner Doubleday is supposed to have originated the game at bitchic Conversions game at historic Cooperstown, baseball was introduced to Japan. This was in 1874, so Japanese baseball is 86 years old this year. Count Nobuaki Makino, one of Japan's most illustrious statesmen and father-in-law of former Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida, who, probably more than any single in-dividual, gave new Japan its pro-United States orientation, is gen-erally remembered as Japan's first baseball player. (Premier Yo-bida was the last Person Minister shida was the last Prime Minister during the period of the occupa-tion and the first Prime Minister when Japan regained her sovereighty in 1952.)

Count Makino learned to play baseball when he visited Phila-delphia in 1871 as a member of the Prince Iwakura mission. On his return he introduced baseball, with its special terminology, to a Japan just emerging from its feudalism.

Within 20 years it had become a popular and well-accepted game, largely because of the promotional writings of Shiki Masaoka, who, though known as the foremost "haiku" poet of the Meiji era, is better remembered as the father of Japanese baseball. In 1878, Ki Hiraoka, who was bitten by the baseball bug while studying in New York City, or-ganized the first team, represent-ing the Shimbasi Athletic Club, built the first baseball diamond in what is now the famous Ginza district in Tokyo, introduced the built the first baseball diamond in what is now the famous Ginza district in Tokyo, introduced the wearing of team uniforms, and threw the first curve ball seen outside this country. outside this country.

In its early developmental eriod, baseball teams represented various athletic clubs or industrial various athletic clubs or industrial plants. In 'a few years, however, the schools and universities took up the game and made it the spectacular spectator sport that it is today, when crowds of 80,000 are not unusual for a college championship. In 1905, Waseda University came to this country to play a number of our colleges and universities. This was the first oversea trip ever taken by any Japanese sports team and was the forerunner of the many exchange goodwill tours by various athletic stars and teams in the past half century, San Francisco Baseballers Two San Franciscans, Herb Hunter and Lefty O'Doul are the legendary baseball idols of Japan. The former helped develop college baseball, while the latter helped to organize professional baseball there. The first all-star team to visit Japan was in November 1931, which included such baseball immortals as Lefty O'Doul, Lefty Grove, Larry French, Mickey Cochrane, Muddy Ruel, Lou Geh-rig, George Kelly, Frank Frisch, Al Simmons, and others. In 1934 Babe Ruth led one o in 1934 pabe Roll led one of he greatest aggregations ever as tembled, every member of which has been enshrined in baseball's Hall of Fame in Cooperstown N.Y., to Japan, where they played to crowds of over 100,000. Comity Mack, incidentally, was the man ager of that dream team, and his assistant was Lefty O'Doul.

Herb Hunter of San Francisco is known as America's basebal ambassador because he remained to coach the game at Waseda and Keio universities after visiting Ja pan as a member of a group o Pacific coast players in 1920. Wher he returned to the United States he persuaded then Baseball Commissioner Landis to authorize ma-jor leaguers to visit Japan to conduct clinics to instruct the Japanese in the finer points of the game. Casey Stengel, current by the revered manager of the New York Yankees, was a mem-ber of the first contingent, which also included Waite Hoyt, Herb Pennock, Guy Bush, and George

Lefty O'Doul, a native San Franciscan, is synonymous with the spirit of American baseball in Japan. While visiting Japan in 1934 with the all-star team, he advised Matsutaro Shoriki, president of the Yomiuri Shimbun, one of the "Big Three" national newspapers of the country with a cir-culation over 3 millions, in or-ganizing what has come to be culation over 3 millions, in or-ganizing what has come to be known as the Yomiuri Giants, named in honor of the then New York National League entry who are the San Francisco Giants of today. The Yomiuri Giants are known as the Yankees of Japan, bowever, for their perennial cham-pionships. The Yomiuri Giants ware tha pionships. The Yomiuri Giants were the first professional baseball club there, but others quickly followed and their version of a major league was established. Today, there are two major leagues, with the champions of each playing off for the Japanese title every au-tumn, much as is done in the United States.

As beloved as Lefty O'Doul is in his native city, where he managed the San Francisco Seals en-try in the old Pacific Coast League for many years, he is probably better known in Japan, where his humanitarianism in helping orphan children is almost as legendary as his baseball contributions. The two-time batting champion of the National League enjoyed his greatest years in our national game the star outfielder for the Brooklyn Dodgers and the New York Giants of the late twenties and early thirties.

During World War II, the mili-During World War H, the mili-tarists tied to "wipe out" baseball because of its American origin and its popularity among all seg-ments of the population. Since that time, several all-star aggregations and several major league teams, such as the New York Giants, the Brooklyn Dod-gers, the New York Yankees, and the St. Louis Cardinals, have played in Japan.

Appropriate Year and Team

In this Centennial Year of Japanese-American relations, it is ap-propriate that the San Francisco Giants, heirs of the immortal New York Giants' heritage, are visiting

York Giants heritage, are visiting Japan. The American baseball team will be led by Baseball Commis-sloner Ford Frick, who long ago appreciated the significant role that baseball could play in inter-national goodwill. It was he, by the way who in a statesmontlike will accompany his team, which is among the most colorful and representative in sports. His Willie Mays is considered by many to be the best player in cur national pastime today.

And, of course, Lefty O'Doul will again be with the team, for the Japanese identify baseball with this distinguished native son of California.

Appropriately enough too, the in-vitation to visit Japan was ex-tended by the Yomiuri Giants, whose president is still Matsutaro Shoriki, recently described by his U.S. biographers Edward Uhlan, Dana L. Thomas, and Bob Consi-dine as the "Miracle Man of Ja-pan." Among his accomplishments are that he is a ranking member of the Japanese Parliament, for-mer cabinet minister, Japan's first atomic energy commissioner, and the individual responsible for making television available to the rank

1.24 THE TO MALT INTRADUM " Los Angeles NEWSLETTER By Henry Mori

JACL's Helping Hand

A oze-day conference on the problems of the aging Isseiespecially the single male residents-is going to be held tomorrow under the sponsorship of the Pacific Southwest JACL District Council,

Many civic leaders and organizations are to join hands in bringing out the cases, statistics and the problems facing the community in the caring of the elders.

It is indeed gratifying to note that the group is taking such an action. The study will be compiled and Frank F. Chuman, national JACL president, will present it in person when he attends a state parley on the aged in Sacramento, Oct. 3 and 4.

So far the community's oldsters who are not provided for their younger relatives are helped in the same manner as other non-Japanese indigents through county relief. The Issel-dominated churches aid with their needs through hosteltype of housing operated at minimum cost to the aged.

The plight of the lonely Issei bachelors can well be understood from the list of Christmas Cheer welfare recipients which Jim Higashi, past East Los Angeles JACL president, again will compile this December in the annual charity program.

While the number of less fortunate persons of Japanese ancestry remains about the same-approximately 350-every Christmas there are more and more single male oldsters added to the list.

Many of them who have no relatives left in Japan will want to stay here and live out their remaining years. The program for the Issel aged need not be as expansive as the one for the youth.

We hope from the gathering tomorrow that some efforts can be directed towards the aiding the older generation. The JACL has yet to touch on this phase of the project, although as a chapter some have made token representation in their behalf.

regional office has always given active support by its sponsorship is a good indication of what can be done. It should be a year-around program, as many volunteers have suggested in the past.

The JACL has fought a good battle to grant alien Japanese in this country their citizenship. The League's plan to write the "Issei Story" should reveal much more than the cold figures of how many immigrants we've had from Japan, the number of years they've established here and the families they have raised.

By no means should youth work be neglected by the chapters. But we believe it would be a comforting thought to the aging parents and those without relatives to know that we have not forgotten our moral obligation to our elders.

The JACL stands to gain in stature when it decides to see that no person of Japanese ancestry incapable of making a living because of old age is left without some humane consideration.

SAN FRANCISCO. —The colorful group of 150 Nisel ondoists, in vari-colored kimono and carrying red, pink and blue parasols, was picked as the best civilian marching unit in the third annual Paci-fic Festival parade Sept. 10. Because the parade was behind schedule, the dancers were not permitted to exhibit any of the five ondo numbers. Ondoists, how-ever, did perform at the Union Square Festival Show the following Monday. The Japanese community float, celebrating U.S.-Japan friendship centennial, was awarded a thirdplace prize.

A large 20-inch red ribbon was also delivered by the San Fran-cisco Pacific Festival committee to the No. Calif. Japanese Chamber of Commerce.

The presentation was a second prize award for the Nihonmachi participation in the Festival parade. The prize was for the entire Japanese American division.

Berkeley artist wins state fair prizes

SACRAMENTO. — George Miya-saki, Nisei painter in Berkeley, was one of the main prize winners in the California State Fair art competition this year.

Out of over 500 artists who submitted exactly 1,027 entries in all classes, he was the only double winner of major prizes.

A total of 10 purchase prizes were offered in four categories and Miyasaki won one of the threa $600 awards in oil painting, threa 1 $100 prizes in the print division.

These purchase awards become part of the State Fair's permanent collection available for loan exhibi-

The Big-ot Issue

Washington, D.C. AS THE NATIONAL campaign enters into its last six weeks, the consensus of all active participants-the presidential candidates, the party chairmen, the political pundits-is that the single overriding issue is that of American survival against the Sino-Soviet military-economic threat.

For of what import are all other issues if we are destroved or enslaved?

Implicit in this issue of survival are our defense posture and the conduct of our foreign relations.

BUT, IN THESE early weeks of the campaign, another issue threatens to become decisive-that of religion. In its proper context, this is a legitimate question-for the concept of the separation of church and state is fundamental to our system of government.

In spite of the protestations of both major candidates and their national committee chairmen, however, the ugly cancer of blind religious bigotry threatens to force other issues into the background. The anti-Catholic movement has been taken over by the smearers, the haters, the scurrilous; and suspicions of loyalty to country and constitution are being sown by these un-American, self-styled patriots who in the guise of super-Americanism are organizing and disseminating raw prejudice and blatant jingoism.

This is not to say that all who raise the question of Roman Catholicism are responsible for the present sorry state of affairs, for many are honorable and dispassionate people. On the other hand, there are many more who unwittingly aid and abet the hate mongers,

AS ONE WHO recalls that in his high school days 'way back in '28, New York Governor Alfred E. Smith was defeated mostly because of this same Catholic issue. What is happening today has melancholy resemblances.

And yet, with the presumed great strides our nation has taken in international leadership, education, and even civil rights in the past 32 years, one would think that religious bigotry would have passed on-or at least subsided considerably.

What is happening discloses that we have not progressed very far along the road to human decency in the past three decades: that isolationism, nationalism, and prejudice are still rampant in the land.

ALL THIS SHOULD cause every American to pause, for it exposes a fatal weakness in our moral and national character. In a world three-fourths of which is not "white" and in which Christian Protestantism is a minor religion, if we are to be the spiritual leaders of freedom and democracy, we cannot afford the luxury of discriminatio

The religious blgot will deny it, but, almost without exception, he who is prejudiced against a man because of what be believes is also prejudiced against a man because of his race, his color, his national origin. He may be less aggressive. less vocal, less active in his other hates, which may even be temporarily latent, but a bigot is a bigot no matter how he defines himself.

Today, the victim is a presidential candidate. Tomorrow, it may be all Catholics-or Jews-or Buddhists-or Negroesor Africans-or Asians-or Whites,

TO THOSE OF Japanese ancestry, the signs of the times should be a reminder that all may not be as pleasant as they may seem.

It was less than 20 years ago that other super-patriots raised questions of loyalty and allegiance in another period when greater issues were demanding attention.

ON AGING ISSEI MEETS TOMORROW

Problems of the senior citizens in the Japanese community in Southern California are to be considered by a one-day conference of individuals and organizational representatives tomorrow at the Sun Bldg., 125 Weller St., in Room

Under sponsorship of the Pacific Southwest JACL District Council, the steering committee has invited local church, welfare, civic, busi-ness, m e d i c a l and employment groups for the meeting, which will start at 9 a.m. and conclude by 4 p.m.

On the steering committee are Frank F. Chuman, national JACL Hopkin's Lochinvar Room will propresident, who will present the findings and recommendations of this one-day conference at the special Governor's Conference on Aging, which is meeting in Sacramento on Oct. 3-4; Kay Nakagiri, PSWDC chairman: George Nakamura, So-cial Security Administration; Tsucial Security Administration; Isu-ya Hori, International Institute; Mrs. Tomi Oka, social welfare worker, Japanese Chamber 'of Commerce: Mike Suzuki, Shonien; Kango Kunitsugu, South Central Welfare Committee; and Fred Ta-te DEW sectional director kata, PSW regional director.

Some of the problems expected to be covered include health, financial assistance, housing, nursing care and assistance by public agencies, the steering committee pointed out.

Nisei farm claims rejected by county

HOLLISTER. - The San Benito county board of supervisors re-jected a crop damage claim for $121,930 filed by Tony Shimonishi and his associates, fruit and vege table producers in the Bolsa Rd. area.

Claimants alleged negligent operations in spraying a weed-killing chemical used on rangelands had drifted onto their lands, destroy-ing or damaging over 500 acres of tomatoes, garlic, lettuce, sugar beets, onions, squash and apricots. The total loss amounted to $567,-771, according to the claimants.

County officials said the spray-ing was done to kill yellow star thistle for cattle ranchers, who had paid the county for the pro-ject. The county then contracted a private concern which did the a private concern, which did the spraying with a ground rig be-tween May 18-30.

The supervisors rejected the claims on the advice of District Attorney John H. O'Brien on Attorney John H. O'Brien on grounds that the county had no liability in the case as an indu-vidual contractor did the job.

Nisei Democrats in California in rally

Japanese American Democrats will push a statewide campaign to raise funds for the Kennedy-Johnson ticket, reported Art Ta-kei, president of the West Jeffer-son Democratic Club.

Takei and Frank F. Chuman. who is a board member of the West Jefferson group, were at the Fresno meeting of the state's leading Nisei Democrats last Sunday to map plans for the campaign.

"We hope to sign up as many as 500 active and influential Nisei and naturalized Japanese Democrats in support of John Kennedy for President," Takei said.

Funds will be used to buy political space in the seven Japanese A m e r i c a n vernaculars, up and down the coast, Takei related. Fertilizer from the chickens. down the coast, Takei related. Funds will also be reserved for various rallies.

Others who were at the meeting held at the Hacienda Motel included Yori Wada, Kaye Uyeda, San Francisco; Mas Yonemura, George Yasukochi, Berkeley; Ken Fujii, Hayward; Pete Nakahara, San Jose; and Selchi Mikami, Mikio Uchiyama, Fresno.

"The program could be spread to Latin America and India, and even to industry as well as agri-culture."

Grows Mandarin Oranges

Matsuo grows Mandarin oranges on three acres in six separate parcels on a small island near Honshu. Most of his crop goes to Tokyo and Osaka through marketing association.

He has been impressed with the fact orange trees grow so much larger and faster here. He has as many trees on his three acres as Sharpless has on seven.

Sharpless devotes 12 acres to avocados, never seen before by Matsuo-the Nippon climate is too cold for them. He hopes to do more irrigating when he returns. There is no water shortage in Japan.

He hopes, too, to employ methods used by Sharpless to reduce his spraying for scale and mites, now necessary once a month.

Comment on Riots

any Americans were silent then 100,000 hus man beings had their constitutional rights abridged and, like cattle, were driven into concentration camps. U.S. style.

And thousands of volunteers for military service, from both Hawaii and the continental mainland, who happened to be of the Buddhist faith had to respond to their Army questionnaire as to religious affiliation by hiding behind the words "Protestant" or "None". And no Buddhist chaplain was appointed to minister to the spiritual needs of most of the Nisei fighting men who fought so gallantly on all the battle fields of World War II-and no Buddhist "wheel of righteousness" are engraved on the tombstones that mark the graves of those who died that others might be free,

WE DO NOT pretend to know the answers as to how the religious issue can be reduced to its proper perspective in the current campaign.

But we do know that when it is raised, we ought to be aware of its implications and to speak out forcefully and as eloquently as we can against it-whether the issue is raised to embarrass and defeat a candidate or to keep alive the assue in the hope that it may boomerang in a voters' revolt against another candidate.

If all men cannot be safe from arbitrary and malicious attack in their religion, no man can be secure in his creed, And, if no man can be secure in his faith, which is the most personal of all human aspirations, nothing mortal can be sacred and inviolate including civil rights and individual dignity.

Mills College grants Sansei $1,500 scholarship

SAN FRANCISCO .- Susan Carol Oyama, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George "Clem" Oya-Oyama of San Francisco and Tokyo, is attending Mills College on a $1,500 annual scholarship.

A graduate of the American School in Japan, Tokyo, she had been visiting with relatives in Los Angeles, the Fred Mittwer family and Haruko Fujii and family. Born in Heart Mountain, Wyo., she attended Presidio Jr. High School here and then moved Japan with her parents in 1958. She was among the top 10 per cent of American students tested in the College Board examination and in the top one per cent in the National Merit Award examinations.
