At JACL LEADERS IN THE HIGH COUNTRY

Denver. Farming activities are now at a standstill in the frigid mid-winter season of the high mountain valleys and bleak plains of the Mountain-Plains JACL district, but social and recreational activities of the AJAs in this region are going at full speed.

The San Luis Valley JACL, in southern Colorado, reports that Jimmy Kuniugi, a lawyer in Monte Vista, was elected 1961 president of its chapter, and impressive inaugural ceremonies were held during January.

Neighboring Ft. Lupton JACL, boasting of the richest history of the JACL chapter continuously in existence, inaugurated Byron Kawata and his cabinet last week.

The Mile-Hi JACL of the Denver area re-organized its chapter system, and inaugurated a 21-man Board of Governors, with Tak Terakawa, again serving as President of the chapter. Terakawa was previously 1951 chapter president, and has served as District Chairman and National Vice-President of the JACL.

The Omaha JACL, in Nebraska has two-year terms for its officers, so young and energetic Mike Watanabe, and his cabinet, are commencing the second year of their terms.

We have not yet heard from the Arkansas Valley JACL, southeastern Colorado, but we hear reports that bowling enthusiasts are going to the Nat'l JACL Bowling Tournament in San Jose, so no doubt their chapter will be getting underway strongly soon. (Bob Mayeda of La Junta was elected president.)

Somewhat wistfully, we recall that during the post-war period, through the persuasive efforts of Ray Takano, then regional representative of the JACL, there were chapters in Wyoming, in Montana, at Albuquerque, New Mexico, and in the Rio Grande Valley of Texas.

Perhaps, some day, with the growing awareness that our problems, as an AJA minority, no matter where we live, are indivisible, those JACL chapters can be reactivated, or even new chapters formed where needed.

We hope that such need never arise in the future, but present portents are disturbing.

ANTI-ALIENISM BARES IT TEETH

Despite America's general realization that the problems of people everywhere will directly affect our lives, a basic anti-alien sentiment protrudes through the paper-thin veneer of liberalism in our various communities.

Reports from Washington state last November, telling of the defeat of the repeal of the anti-alien land law, rudely awakened us to the brutal fact that an anti-alien feeling still exists, and that feeling is still directed against us in spite of the apparent acceptance of AJAs in the community.

Here, in Colorado, we regretfully find the same to be true. In the Colorado statutes, enacted in 1935, there is a provision that an alien cannot be employed and may not assist, in any capacity, as a waitress or a dishwasher or even as a janitor, in any establishment licensed to sell liquor.

In the long-gone years of 1935, we were still recovering from the devastating effects of depression, and an anti-alien prejudice against "foreigners" in times of high unemployment is understandable. But, this is 1961, we thought. These are the days of the "new frontier", when we are concerned with people everywhere as people. So, after discussing the matter with the liquor board, with prominent state legislators, and with kindred organizations interested in the matter, we concluded that a quiet approach to eliminate this discriminatory clause would be the best.

Consequently, an innocuous appearing amendment, referring to the offending statute merely by number was introduced. To our vast amazement and chagrin, we found that down-state legislators from rural districts vehemently opposed liberalization of employment opportunities for aliens, distorting the purpose of the amendment and crying out that aliens could become bartenders in bars, and hence it would make it easier for the enemy to plant subversives and spies in vulnerable places!

Very frankly, the request for amendment of the Colorado law arose out of a proposal to open a sukiyaki house in Denver, with the thought that Japanese war brides, and perhaps a super-expert chef from Japan might be employed at such a Japanese restaurant, which would incidentally dispense sake as a part of the exotic Oriental atmosphere. But, in the crucial vote in the State Senate, the amendment was defeated. Our naive assumption that legislators in Colorado who enacted the first Fair Housing Law in America, and who have passed Fair Employment Practices Acts, would be well disposed towards our minuscule alien population in Colorado was shattered.

OTHER HANG-OVERS OF PREJUDICE

Mike Watanabe, as president of the Omaha JACL, reports that Nebraska has a miscegenation statute that prohibits marriages between whites and persons having "one-eighth or more" Negro, Japanese or Chinese blood.

Tosh Suyematsu, a Nisei lawyer in Cheyenne, Wyoming, has been fighting for more than a year to clarify the employment policies of the Union Pacific Railroad in not hiring Japanese on section gangs.

Locally, in Denver, to our unbelieveing astonishment, we find some schools teaching innocent first graders to read by recognizing easily-forgotten words, such as "cap", "Jap", "nap", etc.

Such occurrences not only wound our self-esteem, but painfully puncture our smug assumption that everything is going along pretty well for AJAs.

No... the self-imposed task of the JACL to eliminate all forms of discrimination and prejudice against persons of Japanese ancestry, based upon racial antecedents, is not yet complete—in the Rocky Mountain region, or unfortunately elsewhere in the United States.

Because of these manifestations of prejudice, we are grateful to Jim Kuniugi of San Luis Valley, to Byron Kawata of Ft. Lupton, to Tak Terakawa of Denver, to Mike Watanabe of Omaha, and to all other loyal JACLers who are quietly and conscientiously carrying on the work of the JACL in the Mountain-Plains JACL district.

Our prayer and fervent hope is that like-minded JACLers throughout the country will continue their most frequently unnoted and unangst efforts to help America a better place for all of us.

COLORADO ALIENS BARRED FROM WORK AT BARS

Or in any place licensed to sell liquor, says Yasui

(See This Week's "By the Board")

DENVER.—A provision in the Colorado statutes that an alien cannot be employed or assist in any capacity, even as a waitress, dishwasher or janitor, in any establishment licensed to sell liquor was brought to light when a proposal to open a sukiyaki house in Denver was made recently.

Request for an amendment of the Colorado law was made with the thought that perhaps a super-expert chef from Japan and Japanese soldier-brides might be employed at such a restaurant, which would incidentally dispense sake as part of the Oriental atmosphere. And this amendment was defeated.

As Min Yasui, Mountain-Plains District Council chairman, writes in this week's Pacific Citizen, the legislators from the rural districts down-state "vehemently opposed" liberalization of employment opportunities for aliens, charging that the amendment would allow aliens to become bartenders and hence making it easier for the enemy to plant subversives and spies in vulnerable places.

Yasui, who is also editor-publisher of the Mountain-Plains AJA News, a monthly publication, reported Sus Matsumoto and Harry Okuno have announced plans to open the sukiyaki house during March at the Sherman Plaza at East Ninth and Lincoln St.

DILLON MYER OF WRA FAME HEADS CUBAN RELIEF

40,000 refugees of Castro government reported in Miami

MIAMI, Fla.—The appointment of Dillon S. Myer as director of the Emergency Cuban Relief Program in this area was announced Feb. 1 by Abraham A. Ribicoff, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

Myer directed the War Relocation Authority during World War II when some 110,000 persons of Japanese ancestry were evacuated from the West Coast into interior "desert camps."

Secretary Ribicoff said Myer had agreed to assume the post for a temporary period. A former Commissioner in the Bureau of Indian Affairs, a post he served after the WRA was closed in 1946, Myer was president of the now defunct Institute of Inter-American Affairs, forerunner of the Point Four program for technical aid overseas, and directed a health insurance group in Washington, D.C.

Ribicoff said provisions to continue operation of the Cuban Refugee Center here have been made.

Myer said he would be on the spot study of the problems raised by the influx of an estimated 40,000 Cubans fleeing their homeland to avoid living under the Fidel Castro regime.

Ribicoff said provisions to continue operation of the Cuban Refugee Center here have been made.

WHITE RIVER VALLEY JACL MAY BE REVIVED

White River Valley was an active JACL chapter in the pre-war years, having been organized in September, 1930, after the first biennial national JACL convention held in Seattle.

House Rules Battle Aftermath

Washington. LAST WEEK (January 31), in the first congressional showdown of his new Administration, President Kennedy and his legislative lieutenants were barely able to muster a narrow 217 to 212 margin victory in their efforts to enlarge membership of the influential House Rules Committee from 12 to 15.

This three-member increase in membership is calculated to assure that the Administration's New Frontier legislative program will be considered by the full House, and not tied up by the historic Southern Democrat-Conservative Republican coalition to prevent floor action.

Without doubt, the narrow but notable victory was among the most important of Speaker Sam Rayburn's long public career. At the same time, however, political analysts are wondering whether the pressures exerted by the leadership to gain the narrow margin will not, in the long run, turn out to be a Pyrrhic victory for the Kennedy Administration.

Sixty-four Democrats, mostly from the South and including six from his own home State of Texas, voted against the Speaker, while 22 Republicans voted against their Policy Committee's recommendations to support Chairman Howard Smith of the Rules Committee.

While none of the Democratic Representatives from the western states voted against the Speaker, only one Republican (John F. Baldwin of Contra Costa and Solano Counties) broke away from his Party's policy position to vote for the Speaker.

The vote illustrates the difficulties that face the Kennedy legislative program, for though the membership of the coalition is not static and constant and shifts with the various issues involved, its hard core strength this session has unquestionably been increased because of last November's elections which replaced

JACL to protest resolution still sought for Dr. Lechner

SACRAMENTO.—A hearing by the Assembly Rules Committee has been called by its chairman Augustus Hawkins (D., Los Angeles) for next Tuesday, Feb. 14, to reconsider the resolution honoring Dr. John R. Lechner for his "Americanism."

Frank F. Chuman, national president of the Japanese American Citizens League, is expected to be present for the hearings to protest the pending resolution. It was introduced Jan. 18 by Assemblyman Lou Francis (R., San Mateo).

The Pacific Citizen had hoped to print extracts of the resolution, but it did not arrive by press time. The Assembly's weekly history summarizes House Resolution 41 commending Lechner "for his long career fighting the Communist conspiracy."

The resolution was referred to the Rules Committee and released the following day for adoption. When the resolution appeared for adoption by the House on Jan. 24, it was referred a second time to the Rules Committee by a 53-19 vote after JACL lodged its protest.

The assistant to Assemblyman Jerome R. Waldie (D., Antioch), majority caucus leader, having recalled Dr. Lechner's racist attitude, particularly against persons of Japanese ancestry, asked JACL for his wartime background. And the information was promptly forwarded.

Chuman, Tamura, Kanemoto urged for judgeships as Nisei Democrats meet Brown

SACRAMENTO.—Gov. Edmund G. Brown may appoint another Nisei as a judge in the foreseeable future, it was reported here this past week.

A group of 28 Nisei Democratic leaders from all parts of the state met with the governor at a breakfast conference here Jan. 30 as they held a two-day series of meetings with top state officials.

According to Arthur Takei of Los Angeles who presided at the sessions, Mas Yonemura of Oakland presented a report to Gov. Brown that included the names of three Nisei attorneys who have been recommended for judgeship by various groups.

The three are: Frank Chuman of Los Angeles, member of the Democratic state central committee and National JACL president; Stephen Tamura of Santa Ana, county counsel for Orange County, and Wayne Kanemoto of San Jose, member of the Human Relations Commission.

Governor Impressed

Takei said the governor indicated he was highly impressed with the qualifications of the three candidates and stated that he will give serious consideration to these three when a vacancy is created in their respective districts.

Judge John F. Aiso was named municipal judge in Los Angeles by then Gov. Earl Warren and elevated to the superior court bench by Gov. Goodwin J. Knight in 1958. All three are Republicans.

Labor-management disputes involving California farmers was discussed also with the governor who said his administration is attempting to bring about an equitable solution that would bring stability to the multi-million dollar industry.

SIMPLICITY MARKS FINAL MILITARY RITES FOR COL. TSUKAMOTO

(JACL News Service) SAN FRANCISCO.—Here on a peaceful hillside overlooking the Golden Gate, among many others who have served their country well as members of the armed forces, Colonel Walter T. Tsukamoto was laid to final rest with full military honors in the cemetery of the historic Presidio of San Francisco at noon, Monday, Feb. 6.

A gentle rain gave way to sunshine as his last remains draped by an American flag were brought into the Presidio Protestant Chapel. Lt. Col. Frank Sadowaki from the Pentagon accompanied the body from Washington, D.C., as special guard of honor. Members of his bereaved family, old friends, and Army colleagues assembled in final tribute.

Capt. Paul M. Peace, Presidio Post Chaplain, conducted the simple services in which he recounted Col. Tsukamoto's civilian life of service to his people and his distinguished military service to his country.

Honorary Pallbearers

Following the chapel service, a special honor guard platoon and the Sixth Army Presidio band escorted the body to graveside.

The solemn stillness after the band's subdued rendition of "Nearer My God To Thee" and comforting verses of Scripture recited by Chaplain Peace, was suddenly shattered by three sharp volleys in military salute by a firing squad. Members of the military honor guard stood at respectful "present arms" as several of their number reverently folded the American flag which they had been holding taut over the coffin. Chaplain Peace presented the flag to Mrs. Tomoye Tsukamoto, and "Taps" echoing back into the hills sounded the final obituary.

"We have affirmed our undivided loyalty to the United States. To this principle there can be no compromise and regardless of the sacrifices which might be entailed we must not forget that we are Americans first, last, and always," he said. Col. Walter Tsukamoto lived his stirring credo to his very last.

From the Frying Pan

Denver, Colo.

RECOGNITION—At a meeting of the Rotary Club in Greeley, Colo., a few days ago, a man I'd never met before came up and said: "Do you know Dr. Edwin Hagihara? He's an orthodontist who opened a practice here in Greeley recently. Dr. Hagihara is doing a great job. I wanted him as my guest at the meeting today, but he couldn't make it."

I didn't meet Dr. Hagihara but I'd like to some day. A few weeks earlier, at the Lions Club in Fort Morgan where George Kato is program chairman, another stranger came up and asked if I knew Dr. Roy Sugihara, dentist. He is another Nisei professional man who has found a niche in one of America's smaller communities.

Time was when the handful of Nisei who had entered the professions practiced largely in the urban centers of the west, depending almost entirely on Issei and Nisei clientele. Today they are branching out into the smaller cities, many in areas where there are few if any Japanese-American families, building up a good practice, taking active roles in community activities. This is the true integration.

The man in Greeley and the man in Fort Morgan were both proud of their friendship with the Nisei dentists. That's why they wanted me to meet them, that plus the fact that they both knew the dentists and I were of the same racial background. One of these days, I suppose, the fact of racial identity will not enter men's minds. And that will be another step forward.

SCUTTLEBUTT—Hot rumor out of frigid Korea is that Dillon S. Myer, former director of the War Relocation Authority, may visit that country in early spring to help with a national work program to relieve unemployment. Haven't had a chance to check this out yet. Dillon Myer was a top echelon official in the Department of Agriculture when he was tapped by the Roosevelt administration to take over the WRA post.

He was commissioner of Indian affairs after WRA folded. When the Eisenhower administration took office, Myer was asked to step down to make way for a Republican commissioner. Perhaps one reason the bureau of Indian affairs is in such a mess is that it has been headed by a series of political appointees with the result that policy changes with each succeeding administration. Dillon Myer's abilities, courage and idealism are proven, widely known and widely respected.

PERSONAL NOTE—One of the last purchases we made before boarding a bus for an assembly center in the spring of 1942 was a card table. It served us well, not for playing cards, but as an item of furniture. We took it to the fairgrounds at Puyallup, Wash., which someone with an ironic sense of humor named Camp Harmony. We took it on to Heart Mountain, Wyo., and then on to Des Moines, Ia., when the time came to relocate. It was still sturdy enough to haul along to Denver nearly 15 years ago. For many years it served as a typewriter table. I wonder how many million words were hammered out on it.

Last week that table, battered and rickety now, reached the age of retirement. Lighter, sturdier, more handsome models are available now, and so the old table has been relegated to the dump. Another link with the past has been severed.

RECOMMENDED READING—If you've found histories of Japan too formidable for casual reading, but would like to learn about its past, try Oliver Statler's "Japanese Inn" (Random House, $6.50). Statler, who spent 11 postwar years in Japan, tells his story around the venerable Minaguchiya, an inn at the seaside town of Okitsu. The ancient highway between Kyoto and Tokyo runs through Okitsu. Statler had skillfully recreated history that passed over the road, recounting the stories of the great, petty, lusty, cruel, haughty and patriotic men who stopped at Minaguchiya. The result is a fascinating insight into 400 years of Japan.

Close working relationship of Issei-Nisei in Downtown L.A. JACL commended

BY HARRY HONDA

A congenial group of 50 Downtown Los Angeles JACLers, half of them being naturalized Issei members, and guests crowded their legs underneath foot-high tables for a Japanese dinner at the Kawafuku last Saturday to witness the installation of its 1961 officers.

Solchi Fukui, long active community leader among veteran and Republican party circles, was installed as 1961 chapter president by Kay Nakagiri, PSWDC chairman.

The election of Fukui marks the first WW2 veteran leader to the chapter presidency and recalled the early days of the Los Angeles JACL when World War I veteran leaders held the reins.

After asking for a moment of silent prayer in memory of the late Col. Walter Tsukamoto, pre-war National JACL president, who died last month in Germany, principal speaker Frank Chuman, national JACL president, molded his brief remarks to the mood of the evening.

Issei-Nisei Link

Noting that the Downtown chapter had elected two Issei leaders as chapter presidents within the past two years, the first chapter in the national organization to do so with the election of Goro Nakamura in 1959, Chuman reflected on the "close relationship between the Issei and Nisei, as exemplified by the evening's attendance of members—Issei and Nisei, is as it should be."

"There is no reason to go on different paths," Chuman pointed out in urging the JACLers in pursuit of their objectives.

He also revealed that Downtown L.A. JACL was "special" to him because he served as its 1946-47 chapter president and paid tribute to such men as Scotty Tsuchiya and Elji Tanabe, then regional directors, who helped to resettle the Japanese coming back to the West Coast and who helped to reactivate the JACL chapters.

Downtown L.A. JACL was unique in the national organization, Chuman reminded, since it has the highest percentage of Thousand Clubbers in a chapter and was the first to elect a naturalized Issei leader as its chapter president.

Nisei Relays benefit dance slated Mar. 11

Supplementing the usual format of financing the annual Nisei Relays sponsored by the JACL chapters in the Los Angeles area, a Nisei Relays Benefit Dance is being held on Saturday, March 11, according to George Fujita, chairman of the Los Angeles JACL Coordinating Council. In the past, each member chapter of the council was assessed a set amount to underwrite the Nisei Relays.

However, the members of the council felt that in order to gain better public understanding of the increasingly popular event and to broaden the base of financing, sponsorship of a public dance was in order. The popular orchestra of Aaron Gonzalez has been signed for the sports formal, stag-stagette social at the Old Dixie Ballroom.

The benefit dance is being held on a coordinated basis with the forthcoming Nisei Relays Queen Contest and the 10th annual Nisei Relays. The track and field extravaganza is scheduled to take place on Sunday, May 28 at the University High School athletic field in West Los Angeles. The Los Angeles City Finals takes place a week prior to the relays, thus opening the way for increased Nisei-Sansel athlete participation in the JACL sponsored event.

Sponsors of the aforementioned events and members of the Los Angeles JACL Coordinating Council are: Downtown, East Los Angeles, Hollywood, Pasadena, San Fernando Valley, Southwest Los Angeles and the West Los Angeles JACL chapters.

Editor Hal Horluchi got the January number out in time, although he was worried the "Isenennedy" weather might prevent it. (What kind of weather is that?—H.H.)

New Jersey woman named outstanding citizen of 1960

KEARNY, N.J.—Mrs. Shige Matsushita of 671 Forest St. has been named West Hudson County area's outstanding citizen of 1960. An award was presented to her Jan. 21 by the West Hudson Chamber of Commerce.

She is president of the United Women's Organization of the Borough First Presbyterian Church. For many years she has been active in civic and social affairs in the West Hudson area.

Mrs. Matsushita is the wife of California-born R. G. Matsushita, president of Noritake Co., New York. Last year was their 25th wedding anniversary.

"As an anniversary gift he took me with him on a business trip to Japan," she said. "While he did his business, I traveled all over Japan. Down to Kyoto, Kobe where I was born, the Inland Sea, Beppu—all over."

Daughter in Japan

In Tokyo she met her daughter, Maruko, who is teaching at the U.S. Air Force School for officers' children.

Mrs. Matsushita admits that her conversational Japanese is terrible, but that she was able to make herself understood wherever she went in Japan.

She and her husband met when they worked for Morimura Co., the pre-war version of Noritake. They were both members of the old Total Club, he as president, she as secretary. She attended New York University.

The couple has three sons. Tatsuo is an ensign in the U.S. Navy, serving a three-year hitch. At present he is in the Pacific area. He attended and graduated from Cornell University through a Navy Reserve college grant. Hideo is attending NYU and Saburo is at Rutgers.

Raised in New Jersey

Brought to this country as a small child, she is the former Shige Yamaguchi. Her parents settled in Arlington, N.J., where she went through grade and high school. Later she served as president of the PTA of the local elementary and high schools.

At present she is a member of the Kearny Women's Club board, a deacon of her church, an appointed member of the Civil Rights Commission of Kearny, and secretary of the Student Loan Fund of Kearny High School.
