WHAT WOULD HAVE HAPPENED? — Simply as an exercise in conjecture, serving no useful or conclusive purpose whatever, let us project what is happening today in Selma, Ala., backward almost a quarter century. Let us suppose that in 1942 the more militant Nisei, led by a Christian minister, staged demonstrations protesting that their civil rights had been abridged by the evacuation order.

Let us suppose that these Nisei, affirming their complete loyalty to the United States and all its institutions, pledged to defend the nation against all enemies foreign and domestic, demanded as American citizens that they be permitted to live in their homes in the three Western states without harassment. Let us suppose that they marched on Gen. John DeWitt's military headquarters demanding that they be properly cared for individually as required by law, or be given their freedom.

Would there have been Caucasian Americans, moved by a legal justice of the Nisei cause, joining them in their protest march? Would there have been prayers in the streets of men on horseback clubbing the marchers and expressions of horror from the White House? Or would there have been a nationwide wave of anger and hysteria, fanned by a fever, directed against the Nisei?

As it was, the Nisei demonstrated their loyalty by cooperating in their own incarceration. And partly as a consequence this cooperation they won acceptance in their own country perhaps a generation earlier than if history had run its course. The difference is that the Negroes have been sitting a hundred years for their deliverance, and measured the lifespan of men, that is a long, long time in which to repent.

TELEVISION — Last Monday night, all 90 stations of the National Educational Television network broadcast the program of the network's six-program examination of the world population problem. This chapter was titled "Japan: Answer in the Orient" and it told with considerable skill how educated Japanese couples decided to keep their families small—in their own interest and that of their children. It also told how the Japanese people, uninhibited by religious restrictions, brought about the fastest decline in birth rate ever recorded.

At the same hour in the Rocky Mountain time zone television stations carried Hollywood's annual orgy of self-adulation, the Academy Awards presentations. Which program did you watch? Maybe that's what's wrong with the world.

The ETV film, incidentally, was beautifully put together, despite the problem sympathetically. Among other things, brought out that the average age at marriage for Japanese is 27, almost 25 for women—nearly 10 years higher than in India. And the average Japanese family has only two children.

BIG BUSINESS — I'm indebted to Joe Oyama of New Japanese pickles and canned goods tycoon of Amsterdam Avenue, for a copy of the financial statement of the bank of Tokyo Trust Co. which has two offices in Manhattan, report lists George Yamakoka, Nisei attorney and former secretary, as secretary and director of the firm. The company so lists total assets in excess of $9 million dollars, which is a lot of yen even in this age of the inflated buck. All of which may give you an idea of how big business is these days, and the role some Nisei have in it.

Open Housing Bill Fizzles

Seattle
The progress of civil rights legislation suffered a setback in Olympia last week when House Bill 300 died in committee. It is the bill which would prohibit real estate agents from discrimination in the sale or renting of housing. It was first brought out of the House rules committee by the untiring efforts of Sam Smith, a Seattle Negro representative (37th District) in Olympia. The House, moreover, passed the bill by a 22 to 20 vote, but once in the Senate Rules Committee, it languished. The committee failed to schedule the bill for consideration to get the bill out of committee and on the Senate floor before the deadline.

Sen. Smith, a Democrat, is now in his fourth term in the Washington State legislature. He replaced attorney Charles Stens, only after Stens had served in the state legislature. Although HB 300 failed, it nevertheless attracted much attention, and most of the credit for what progress has been made goes to Sen. Smith for his efforts.

The 37th is one of the state's minority districts. Slightly more than half of its population is Negro, and there are substantial Oriental and Jewish segments also.

Transit Subsidy
The Governor's signature went on another bill that affects us all. It is the one that allows 10% of the larger municipalities of the state to levy a tax to subsidize transit systems. For years now, Seattle's otherwise excellent system has been suffering patronage losses.

Penury are being honored by the San Diego JACL.

The Rev. Burnett, as pastor of the Venice-Venice Church, is being cited by the Venice-Venice JACL for his efforts and assistance in relieving evacuees in the area during the immediate postwar period.

Sergel, who was a sergeant with the Los Angeles Police Dept. for 10 years, is being honored by the Hollywood JACL for being one of the few policemen who joined the loyalty of Japanese-Americans during the war years.

Carry was a member of the Pasadena Committee for Fair Play which acted in the firm conviction, despite personal pressures and economic risks, to assist evacuees. Nisei servicemen and resettlers. He was also a staunch supporter of the JACL program to remove the discriminatory alien land laws.

The Pasadena JACL, in honoring Carry, pointed out the Fair Play committee was subject of a California (Chester Gannett) legislative interim committee hearing during the 1950s.

Carry also promoted early resettlement of evacuees, urging military commanders to remove the exclusion against persons of Japanese ancestry. The Carry had a number of returns stay at their home.

The Fair Play committee also campaigned in letter-writing campaigns to Nisei servicemen, mainly to let them know they were not friendless back home.
