One of the most unusual assignments came when I was one"of the most unusual assignments came when I was asked to sit as a punchist before the youth assembled at the Joint EDCAMDC convention. Subject: Aspects of JACL. Now it would seem that as PC editor I should firmly espouse the needs for our organization but found myself in pleasant com-pany with fellow panelist Marilyn Nagano (1964 convention queen from Detroit) suggesting that:

1-JACL has "outgrown" its usefulness because of the challenges which served as a basis for its organization 30 years ago do not exist today.

2-JACL's future does not depend upon an active

2.—JACL's future does not depend upon an active national youth program.

Not accustomed to arguing formally or publicly for argument sake, these positions as expostulated before a lively group of some 69 youth delegates from the Midwest and Eastern areas deserve airing before our readers—as 1st back tonight after hearing author James A. Michener's clear-cut and pithy treatise on the convention theme of "History, Heritage—Values, Responsibilities".

On the first stand we hold JACL has outlined its usefunds unless it can change its direction since the principal objectives of 30 years ago have been attained in citizenship for Nisei, inmigration and equal job opportunities. And to be constructive about our position, we held that because the sansed seem better integrated, especially out this way, these valuable associations can be cultivated further under the name of JACL if need be. So why should JACL be restrictive?

The opposition, comprised of Roy Reda of Cleveland

name of JACL if need be. So why should JACL be restrictive?

The opposition, comprised of Roy Roda of Cleveland and Mrs. Alice Endo of Wazhington, countered with JACL as being a voice for persons of Japanese ancestry before local and national bodies, preserving the "identity" and serving as a "watchdog" against discrimination. Why are the Sansei gathered in a separate assembly today except that "security through unity" compels.

Time did not allow us to suggest that greater secflirity might follow if greater unity were attained. But Mike Massick in his message to the joint session earlier said JACL's existence was at a crossroads and that we ought to join the fight with other Americans to make America and the yest of the world a better place in which to live.

During the question-answer period, it was a treat to our ears to hear the Eastern and Midwestern inflections of certain words from the Sansei. They certainly-don't sound like the Sansei on the West Coast-Southern California, expecially. And this mixture of voice: as well as ideas will have a magic effect. I believe, when the juniors meet in San Diego next year. Synthesis of Sansei ideas from coast to coast may promulgate a national youth program yet un-dreamed.

On the second issue, that bromule of the issuers of chomorow are in the youth of today was wholly ignored by our side. And the more I reflect, the truer it seems to ring. We contend that JACL's future does not necessarily depend upon an active national youth program—Alan Kumamoto, who occupies the dash next to me at the office, notivithatand-ing. We feel program and objectives will attract its leaders at the time. An organization draws its adherents because of programs and objectives and from the adherents leaders. come forth. This may not appear realistic, but we still have faith in mankind to see the right man there at the right time.

If the programs and objectives of Jr. JACL and JACL, were identical, it would be true that the leaders of tomorrow would come from the youth of today. Jr. JACL would be an in-training stope. But it has not been established that the goals are the same. Perhaps it will be, but for sake of argument—the panel divided itself to evoke comment, questions and spirit among the audience.

What followed the next day at the youth panel moderated by Bill Marutanii of the subject of "Sansei Identity"—as I found out later—was even more stimulating to the youth than ours. And perhaps Bill can favor us with some of the thoughts and an analysis in the future.

As was situplated before i came to Philadelphia, we

As was stipulated before I came to Philadelphia, we expected trends which may affect JACL nationally to be born at this EDC-MDC convention. Michener's appeal that born at this EDC-MDC convention. Michener's appeal that Japanese Americans can conspicuously contribute to the history and heritage of America is a direction which JACL can well consider. Rather than insisting on accepting the "cheapeat of the general consensus of America", the Nisel and Sansel have a responsibility to see that Americans are allowed to adopt the best of their cultival heritage. It was Michener's keen observation that while nonconformity in American life is subject to the heaviest of pressures. America has the saving grace of being able to adopt the best of other cultimes which have been introduced by its newcomers through the years. More Nisei should be involved in this clash of cultures, Mikhener believes. Traits he regarded most beneficial were that of Japanese "feudalism", family pattern and personal honor.

Even more pointed, Michener said America would be in a bod state if its norm of values were like the Nisei of today. As a group, the Nisei lack general civic responsibilities—whereas the Jewish culture is right with civic responsibilities and social awareness. Yes, the Japanese Americans are superb in some values, but we can't brag about the other lack (Centinoed on Paps 4) in American life is subject to the heaviest of pres-
