By the Board: A Nisei Employment Survey

By Tak Kubota, National Nisei President

To determine the extent and degree of employment among Japanese-Americans throughout the United States, the National JACI Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity, with the assistance of the National Board and the assistance of all of the District Committees throughout the country, are conducting their time-consuming survey.

As requested by our Washington Representative Mike Masaoaka, we hope to include in these studies an address of our outstanding professional and skilled people.

In terms of general information, the Committee on Equal Employment has been able to bring to the attention of the public the matter of equal employment opportunity should and must be of vital concern to the Nisei.

To enlighten to learn at a recent conference of the President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity that a number of the large business firms at their respective offices are open to the Nisei youth for the necessary education and training.

Along the same line of thinking it has been suggested that we should call on many of our outstanding leaders for their own interesting background to cooperate with us by exposing themselves to the Nisei youth who would, no doubt, benefit immensely from their educational and personal experiences.

Urban Renewal

Outside the field of employment, housing is perhaps the second in importance as far as urban renewal is concerned. In our example, racial renewal or urban renewal as it is known to most of the Nisei youth, is the committee and Seattle in cooperation would like to relate some of my experiences and personal observations as it pertains to this subject.

Because of the major role played by such organizations such as the Jackson Street Community Council, First Hill Lions Club Community, etc. and representatives of the city of Seattle, Tacoma, Vancouver, Kelso, etc., the Washington State Legislature is making a study of urban renewal in the State of Washington.

Immigration

The "nonquota" immigrants of assistance have included those from New World. No substantial changes were made in the "nonquota" status of those who are admitted annually in placed on "special immigrant" status.

Under the Immigration Act of 1952, unless Congress extends legislation providing otherwise before 1968:

(a) "Immediate relatives" who will be "immediate" are the children, spouses, and parents of United States citizens.

(b) "Conditional entries" are those known as relatives of United States citizens up to 20,000 a year is provided.

(c) On and after July 1, 1968, 170,000 immigrant visas to be made available to all countries of the Old World, with no single country entitled to more than 20,000 visas in any one year, according to the following preferences or priorities in the following order:

(1) "Unmarried sons or daughters of United States citizens" first 20,000 or 20,000.

(2) "Unmarried husbands, wives, and minor sons or daughters of United States citizens" up to 20,000 or 20,000.

(3) "Unmarried sons or daughters of United States citizens" up to 20,000 or 20,000.

Weather in Reno

A predicted weather bulletin from the NCWWD convention city, Reno, Nevada. Another added service for the conference.

As is customary, milding is probably in a secondary windstorm in Reno. The weather is most unpredictable any time. However, based on previous years, the trend that has taken place so far, Reno is having an early fall. One will most likely have the sunny days with the temperature in the 70s. The activities will be confined to the Reno area.

Those wishing to participate in man's favorite sport, that of bowling, will find Nevada quite cool, and mornings quite cool.

News articles from the local papers indicated that during the 60's it ranked at least two organizations are holding conferences here. One has an expected attendance of 500. So one can be urged to strongly get your reservations in now!

'NISEI' STORY PLANNED FOR NEW YORK TIMES MAG

SAN FRANCISCO — William Peterson, UC-Berkeley sociology professor, will be the author of a new story planned for a forthcoming New York Times Sunday Magazine article on Japanese-Americans.

The Times is interested in the lives of the Japanese-Americans in this country on the occasion of establishing themselves economically and getting higher education and being well-rounded than other minorities.

"It will be an in-depth of Nisei life," Peterson said.

The Immigration Bill that is finally enacted will probably be passed by the House. It will impose the racial and national origin quota system and the Asia-Pacific Triangle.

When Florida Democrat, Senator Robert Kennedy, spoke at the week-long debate, he just before the final passage of the bill, he said that after a substantial continuation of American Japanese ancestry, Senator Hawaii and Thomas Kuchel and George Murphy of California—happened to be in the chamber.

The Kennedy brothers undertook the burden of speaking out on behalf of the Negroes and the Asians, declaring that they had every right to enjoy equal immigration opportunities with Europeans.

Among the comments related to the Kennedy brothers was that Senator Edward Kennedy declared that he had every right to enjoy equal immigration opportunities with Europeans.

"I believe that one of the most laudable aspects of the bill is the inclusion of the Asia-Pacific Triangle which provides 'if 51 percent of the population of any area of the world, you will be charged' that area regardless of your birthplace."

"This is the very basic root of this legislation... that the people of the world are not to be discriminated against in their considerations."

"There was a time when the drawing of distinctions among immigrants on the basis of nationality was not considered proper. We have learned something since the 1900s. We have learned that there is no difference between people who participate in the life of our nation. The refugee situation who fled Nazi Germany laugh us this. The Japanese Americans who fought and died in our Armed Forces taught us that the 400 were currently fighting in Vietnam was continuing the fight against the lessons we have learned from them."

Senator Holland suggested that Negroes be given what they deserved, that when the final amendment began, Senator Hoffman was presiding officer of the Senate, with his younger brother, Massachusetts Senator Edward Kennedy serving as floor manager for the bill which was originally sent to the Congress.

Senator Robert Kennedy pressed on "I am the Senator from Florida" that the men who made up that list could be described as Oriental—that they were Japanese.

And, when the final tally was being taken, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey the racialist who supported the Walter-McCarran Act in 1952 because it contained a quota system and the Asia-Pacific Triangle.

From the Frying Pan

OF MANY MOODS—At its most pleasant, New York City is a delightful and exciting place, vibrant with vitality, made significant by the towering product of architects' imagination and builders' skill. But in its foul moods, New York is a miserable hellhole, festering, fusing, uncomfortable and uncompromising.

New York was in one of its more miserable moods last week when I dropped in for two and a half hurried days. It started with a half-hour delay over Kennedy International Airport when congestion of airplanes delayed our landing. It continued all the way that caused me to miss an appointment. The hotel had my reservation, all right, but it took another 20 minutes to find a bellboy to escort me here. It seems there's some kind of regulation which prohibits guests from taking their own rooms to save time and inevitable tip for extra early and usually substandard service.

The city was suffering through one of its hot and sultry spells with both temperature and humidity in the high eighties. Unusual, the residents said, but it was more reminiscent of the Molokai Delta than Manhattan. In Saigon, the rooms of the Caravelle Hotel are air conditioned. This plush Manhattan britchery of proud name and reputation wasn't and not just because of the water shortage. There wasn't much sleep that night.

Next morning in the coffee shop I sat next to a customer who was quarreling openly with the waitress. The service was so indifferent. I found myself on the customer's side without ever finding out what the trouble was about.

Waiting interminably for my coffee, I wondered what made New Yorkers in one of their less attractive areas of the city feel different from the people back home. And then it occurred to me. They don't smile. You can hardly blame them. That's there to smile about!

OLD FRIENDS—New Yorkers seem in the nameless, senseless mass may have lost the ability to smile, but as legends tell they can still laugh and display happy emotion, especially when they meet old friends. Or perhaps it is that they meet old friends, they forget for a while that they are now New Yorkers, and remember once again the cool and pleasant places of long ago—which were abandoned for the glamour and excitement and opportunity of Manhattan.

On the eve of my last day, Tooru Kanazawa joined me for a seafood dinner which we reminisced about the days he had spent in my home at Sakamoto's Courtyard back in Seattle. Other than the fact that Tooru abandoned claim to the title when he quit newspapering, he would deserve to be called dean of Nisei newspapermen.

After a while we went up to see Tora Nakamura, partner at Takvoda's, one of Manhattan's several new Japanese restaurants. Nakamura is another pre-war Seattleite who is numbered among other things as the smoothly bimodal manager on the radio programs with which Jimmie Sakamoto tried to keep the Courier's deficit within reasonable bounds. Takvoda's, like the other Japanese restaurants, is being the crest of interest in Japanese food. Nakamura said he wanted some 10 or 15 Japanese restaurants had been started in New York within the last year or so, but later when I checked the Manhattan telephone directory, there were only 14 or 15 listed in the classified pages. Maybe the competition just made it seem there were so many new places.

Both Nakamura and Kanazawa, long-time Seattleites, we found their niches in New York. They complain about congestion and the climate and the cost of living and all the other things that they like it where they are. The test is whether they would move to another city, and neither of them has any thought of pulling stakes. As I was saying that the best New York can be a delightful and exciting place, at the most part, last week wasn't one of those times.

HAWAIIAN EAGLES GET AGAINST SEPARATE AERIES FOR NEGROES

HONOLULU—Max F. Schroeder of Dover, N.J., international president of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, favors formation of separate clubs for Negroes. The F.O.E. membership is 100,000 worldwide.

Hawaiian members of the F.O.E., however, are against establishment of segregated clubs. The Star-Bulletin reported that the F.O.E. might be able to work out something like the colored Eagles club in Chicago. Schroeder told the Associated Press.

The Eagles formed in Seattle in 1902 for the service in World War I. The club has a white only membership, but that was never accepted by the Star-Bulletin.

Not an Issue
Schroeder said that his knowledge of the F.O.E. membership applications for Negroes was not an issue in the United States, but added the question had come up at the organization's convention in Chicago last month. He said if Negroes feel they want to form a chapter and work along the same lines as the international group, "maybe the Colored Eagles might be the thing."

State Rep. William M. Furtado, said that he would support the international constitution.

Japanese settlers thrive in Brazil, group passing through Honolulu

HONOLULU—Many Japanese in Paulo State Legislature, Ishihara said, and their fathers had settled in Brazil, responsible positions in business and government.

More than 300,000 Japanese immigrants have come to Brazil since 1908. Immigration of Japanese started in 1908 and reached its peak in 1923. Since then it has tapered off. Fewer than 100,000 arrivals were recorded last year.

Employment policy asked
SAN FRANCISCO—Community service organizations of Alameda, Contra Costa, and Marin counties have asked the Bay Area Rapid Transit to announce their employment policy with respect to colorism. The San Francisco JACL reported this past week.

San Francisco JACL
The JACL board met Sept. 1, according to chair president Eddie Moriyama.

The debate continued on Monday, Sept. 28 with Everett Seligson (R-Mass.) stressing particularly the family reunification and refugee provisions of the bill.

Sen. Fong's Major Address
Hawaii's Hiram Fong, the first United States Senator from the islands, and a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, was the immigration Subcommittee's first speaker in a 10-hour session lasting more than two hours in which he traced the history of racial discrimination against one race as presently evidenced in the Asia-Pacific Triangle and the national origins system.

Fong also provided for the recent elaborate charts and tabulations relating to immigration and to employment notes.

Admits Hawaiians
Furtado said that although the international constitution limits membership to whites only, the Honolulu club opened its membership to Hawaiians last year. This was done in 1959, he said. The club then was formed 63 years ago.

The international organization has more than one million members. It's a service organization, he said, and is the largest participant in the Crusade for Freedom and is the largest contributor to the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund.
