All mixed marriage bans lifted

By ELMER OAGAY

San Francisco — One of the last state laws banning marriage between people of different races has been declared invalid by a Federal District Court in California. The ban expired on September 1, 1967.

The new decision, involving the case of a mixed marriage between a white man and a Negro woman, was handed down by Judge Harold H. Haley of the Northern District of California.

The question involved is whether a state law that prohibited marriage between a white person and a Negro is unconstitutional under the Fourteenth Amendment. The case was brought by a Negro woman, Mrs. Anne Marie Johnson, who had been married to a white man in defiance of the law.

The defendant, a white physician, was convicted of the offense of intermarriage and served a year in prison. He appealed to the Supreme Court, but the Supreme Court refused to hear the case.

In his decision, Judge Haley said that the state law was unconstitutionally vague and that it violated the Fourteenth Amendment.

She is a specialist in obstetrics and gynecology and has been a practicing physician for 12 years.

ISRAELI-ARAB ISSUE UNNERVES NISEI FARMERS

By JEROME GERSHUN

The conflict between the Israeli and Arab nations has been a source of concern for many Japanese Americans who are farmers in the Santa Clara Valley.

Many of the farmers have relatives on both sides of the conflict and are worried about the future of their farms.

One farm owner, in particular, is particularly concerned. He has relatives in both Israel and Jordan and is worried about the future of his land.

He says that he has been contacted by a Jewish settler who wants to purchase his farm.

"I don't know what I'm going to do," he says. "I don't want to lose my land, but I don't want to sell it to a Jew."

THE ART OF PRINTING — The Niners are seeking a sponsor for their new printing press. The group has received encouragement from the local library, which is planning to donate some old typefaces to the project. The library has also expressed interest in using the press once it is operational.

Porcupine Press — Good printing requires a steady touch, neat lettering, and the ability to identify a flaw in the work. The press is now being developed by Mr. Smith, who has been working on it for several years. The equipment is being improved, and new techniques are being developed in order to produce better-quality prints.

Portuguese Press — Good printing requires good handwriting. The skill of the typesetter is essential, and the printer's ability to identify a flaw in the work is critical. The press is now being developed by Mr. Smith, who has been working on it for several years. The equipment is being improved, and new techniques are being developed in order to produce better-quality prints.

Journey to Edo: 1857

By Joe Grant Massa

Public opinion, and the fact that the shogun was on the way to America, made the journey possible. In 1857, a group of American traders and adventurers boarded the ship "Trent" and sailed to Japan, where they were given permission to stay for one year. The group included Captain John Smith, who was the leader of the expedition, and several other American sailors and traders.

In Edo, the group was received by the shogun, who granted them permission to stay for one year. The group was given permission to build a large ship, the "Trent," and to construct a fort, the "Trent Fort," which was to be used as a base of operations.

The group was able to explore the city of Edo, and to conduct business with the Japanese. They were also able to learn about the culture and customs of the Japanese, and to gain a better understanding of the country.

Hawaii to host 9th annual overseas Japanese convention in June, 1961

The 9th annual overseas Japanese convention, to be held in June, 1961, will be hosted by the Japanese Association of Hawaii. This convention, which brings together Japanese from all over the world, is one of the largest gatherings of Japanese outside of Japan. The convention will feature cultural performances, workshops, and a variety of other events designed to celebrate Japanese culture and history. Attendees will have the opportunity to connect with other Japanese individuals and learn about Japanese traditions and practices. The convention is a unique opportunity to experience Japanese culture firsthand and to participate in the ongoing celebration of Japanese heritage.

Traffic death

Traffic death occurred in the city of Tokyo, Japan, on May 15, 1961. A pedestrian was struck by a vehicle, resulting in fatal injuries. The incident highlighted the importance of pedestrian safety in urban areas, where the number of vehicles and pedestrians increases significantly. The authorities have since taken steps to improve pedestrian safety measures, including the installation of crosswalks and traffic signals. This incident serves as a reminder of the ongoing need to prioritize pedestrian safety in urban planning.

Mandatory retirement

Mandatory retirement regulations for public employees in Japan have been implemented. These regulations set a maximum age for public employees, ensuring that they retire at a certain age. The aim is to ensure a smooth transition of responsibilities and to maintain the efficiency of public services. This policy aims to balance the needs of the public with the rights of individuals to work. The regulations are subject to review and may be adjusted based on changing societal needs.

Concert Japanese

Dear Editor,

Your recent article on the concert Japanese was very interesting. However, I would like to correct a minor error. The concert was not held in the Pacific Lutheran University's auditorium, but in the University's gymnasium. I hope you will make the correction in the next issue.

Sincerely,

25 Years Ago

In the Pacific Citizen, June 18, 1942

It's interesting to read about the events from 25 years ago. The article on the Japanese internment camps was particularly poignant. I hope the situation has improved since then.
