Vietnam? A reading of Captain Bosworth's book, "America's Concentration Camps," and a resultant rereading of Grodzins' "Americans Betrayed," brought to mind some disturbing parallels between the situation them and now.

Emotional Rather Than Logical Thinking. It is self-evident that during a war, when American boys are being killed and maimed, one's thinking becomes en tional. We form an opinion, based almost entirely on what we read in the daily press, and then in further reading look for items which confirm our opinion, while at the same time we our views. Right of Dissent

Our National President, in discussing Congresswoman Mink's courageous speech on Vietnam, including the right to dissent, pointed out that too few Americans dissented against the violation of constitutional process in the Evacuation and that groups "who made a great show of their patriotic zeal were among the first to cry out against us." He concluded that "Perspectives" column with:

FIVE-MONTH ASSIGNMENT — For six fellows who have been on the road since June, and won't be going home until late October, the five Japanese military correspondents and their escort looked exceptionally alert. They had crossed the Pacific aboard the flotilla of Japanese Naval self-defense ships, visited coastal ports, sailed through the Panama Canal and unto Naw York up to New York.

up to New York.

There they left the fleet to begin a land tour of U.S. military installations arranged by the Department of Defense. They were briefed at Strategic Air Command headquarters in Omaha (and both astonished and delighted to find a Japanese restaurant in that city), and now they had come to Colorado Springs to inspect the North American Defense Command nerve center deep within the granite heart of Cheyenne Mountain.

At NORAD they were treated with courtesy and respect and given the same briefing as a group of American writers. They were told of the potential offered by a new type of radar that looks over the horizon in guarding this continent from rocket attack, and steps being taken to prepare for possible trouble from Red China as that country develops it revolution in this country revolution in this country.

offered by a new type of radar that looks over the horizon in guarding this continent from rocket attack, and steps being taken to prepare for possible trouble from Red China as that country develops it ballistic missile capability.

From Colorado they were to head west for a look at other U.S. installations before reboarding the ships for the return cruise. The remarkable thing is that the expenses of these writers was being borne, not by the Japanese Defense Agency, not by the U.S., but by their own papers which figure such an assignment is important to their coverage of the news.

AND FROM KOREA — On the same day the Japanese correspondents were here, by coincidence an old newspaper friend from Seoul, Korea, passed through town enroute to Columbia University in New York As a citizen of a nation that suffered cruelly from Communist aggression, my friend Kim Tae-ung is an unapologetic hawk about Vietnam. He had been assigned there just before coming to the United States and he reported with relish the accomplish.

Kim told us his government leaders are watching the civil strife in neighboring Red China with no little concern. They fear, among other things, that if the Maoist forces gain the upper hand, the fighting between North and South Korea may be resumed in the not distant future. Why? Because the Maoists are old-stiyle, hard-line Communists dedicated to expansive old-stiyle, hard-line Communists dedicated to expansion (as contrasted to the more conservative, more sophisticated Soviet-line Communists who are not averse to co-existence), and South Korea makes a rich target as the economy south of the 38th parallel continuous contrasted to the sound of tinues to move forward.

Kim dropped by our office and sternly lectured the doves among the editorial writers about the folly of settling for anything less than complete victory in Vietnam. The doves, if they were not convinced, were impressed by the bluntness of this Asian point of view. Would South Korea contribute more troops to the Victory war? Not at this time. Kim said

WHY THE CHANGE-OF-PLAN PROVISION IN NEW ENGLAND LIFE CONTRACT IS SO VALUABLE

A man's financial condition often is far different at 50 from what it was at 25. I'd like to tell you more about.

Suppose you bought an Ordinary Life Policy from New England Life several years ago. And now believe that a retirement income policy is what you need. Can you simply switch plans? Yes. Must you pay the difference in premiums back to the original issue date? No. You pay the difference in reserves only, which can be substantially less. Or if ten or more premiums remain, you may pay the difference in cash values. Under certain conditions, you may even be able to convert to another plan merely by paying an increased premium until the policy matures or is paid-up.

West Wind Yosh Hotta

Since this is the era when we have to "identify," we use the names of all sorts of birds and beasts to label our personal convictions. We have the doves, especially the Ivy League dove, a breed that carresses a PT boat tie clasp as it talks, and the hawks all of whom appear to be wearing rimless eye glasses. The Nisei have been called sheeps who would be willingly led to slaughter, though in some quarters this is also interpreted as the year of the rams. There are eagles, the fighter pilots, even the Japanese used to call theirs, "ara washi" which sounds like a rough laundryman.

There are some cats who are not my bag. But, because they are different, got out of their way to identify themselves, and live the kind of life we would all like to lead, with no responsibilities, and a monthly check from home, they are harrassed. In New York 40 hippies were arrested after some fracas with the authorities but the court dismissed the charges against them stating: "This Court will not deny the equal protection of the law to the unwashed, unshod, unkempt, and uninhibited!" In gratitude, the hippies rewarded their attorney with $3 billion in play money.

Then there are the Amish who wear distinctive clothes, believe ardently in education, are decent, hard working folk who happen to interpret their religious beliefs in a manner different from the accepted norm. They are constantly harrassed.

A Negro attorney once told the audience at a JACL installation dinner that he was tired of being compared to "those people."

"I'm always hearing, why don't you be like those people."

"I'm always hearing, why don't you be like those people. As long as you are considered: those people, you don't have it made." Gives you pause doesn't it, that in this enlightened age, you are labeled: "those records."

Accent on Youth Alan Kumamoto

Paramount in the minds of many JACLers in the 1950's was the aspect of the organization's involve-ment on work with youth. Still enshrined today is the primary objective with which JACL entered the youth

JACL's primary goal in working with youth is to help young Americans of Japanese Ancestry achieve personal growth according to their own individual capacities and assist them to lead personally satisfy-ing and socially useful lives in their own community and in the larger community of which they are an

About eight years ago, theaters in Honolulu were doing spectacular business showing chanbara—Sa-murai movies from Japan. A very large number of non-Japanese Hawaiians were also flocking to see the shows which meant large crowds even on weekdays and during Friday and Saturday nights it got ridiculous.

I remember going to see a Nakamura Kinosuke movie one Saturday with some friends from the dormitory. It turned out to be a real tough night.

After ten minutes, I got separated from my friends. Then the whole mob started to push toward the door. There were two fists placed just above my waist and they were pushing and pushing. I turned my head to see who was shoving me with such force and caught this very petite old Japanese lady. She appeared startled for a moment as she saw me looking down at her. She quickly dropped her hands, smiled sweetly and then looking nonchalant pursed her lips to show dignity.

Just when I had relaxed thinking the shoving was over, the theater doors were opened and the sweet old lady in back of me sensed it and started to push with all her might. Normally I would have fallen on my nose under such force but luckily there was this short, nose under such force but luckily there was this short, fat lady in front of me. I was practically straddling her back and I apologized profusely but she didn't seem to even notice me as she concentrated intently on pushing the two people directly in front of her. Well, I finally did get to see the movie which showed about 500 people brutally kill each other off with swords. All this was disappointingly tame, however, after the violence outside the theater.

For those of you wondering—riding piggy-back into the theater lobby on a fat lady isn't all that much fun, Really.

In 1966 we agreed to stop The bombing without prior conditions if Hanoi would only indicate that they were willing to negotiate. Now that Hanoi, in 1967, has so indicated, we now make pre-conditions which, as U Thant says, Hanoi cannot be expected to agree in advance. Perhaps someone ought to explain to the Administration the concept of "face."

'NO MENTION OF JACL'

Questions have been raised over the apparent lack of credit of JACL's funding in material emanating from the UCLA Japanese American Research Project. A Fresno JACL newsletter editorial last July harshly oted that the Project's interview letters to Nisei "made no mention that JACL is involved". The editorial pointedly asked: "It is nice to be given financial assistance on a project. But when that assistance means a complete take-over to the point where JACL is no longer even mentioned, we wonder if we shouldn't look 'a gift horse in the mouth."

shouldn't look 'a gift horse in the mouth."

The Japanese American Research Project, whenever the proper opportunity presents itself, does observe it as a jointly-sponsored study of JACL and UCLA. But there are certain areas where it would not be wise to unfurl JACL's affiliation gracelessly. And the quest for information and the publication of these findings are such two important areas.

Those who have contributed through JACL to the History Project, we are sure, are more interested in the history and the new knowledge unearthed rather is entitled to and receives 12 meaner of even greater discast. Although I agree completely with the views expressed by the JACL spokes-

History Project, we are sure, are more interested in the history and the new knowledge unearthed rather than organizational or personal recognition. History is written for posterity and those who read it have no interest in its financing but are alert to its substance.

Interest in its financing but are alert to its substance. It does the final products of this scholarly research of the Japanese in America no good if its objectivity can be questioned as a result of bending to an insistence that JACL be credited at every turn. It actually defiles the merit of any history when the fact of financial sponsorship is stressed disproportionately. The government and foundations which underwrite and sponsor research, whether in history, sociology, sciences, etc., it should be noted here, adhere to the general rule of a one-line credit in the papers, volumes and monographs that are published. JACL of course and monographs that are published. JACL, of course, shall comply with this academic practice.

As Shig Wakamatsu, JACL executive committee chairman of the History Project, said to us: "Our goal of a 'living testimonial' to our Issei remains unchanged. We want a testimonial (the definitive histories, papers and monographs produced by the re-search project) that will live on in value in succeeding generations.

"Any pressure that will detract from the final image and quality of the finished work of the Project will be of no avail."

Alluding to the fact that the History Project has basis. been researching for the past five years (some of the time being used to seek additional funding from the government and the foundations), Wakamatsu explained: "The project has its pace and has set out its schedule, which is recognized by the other groups which are involved, namely, Carnegie Corporation and the National Institute of Mental Health."

So that the general public, the scholars and pr fessionals, even cynics, won't wonder: "Isn't JACL trying to whitewash or pat itself or the Japanese in America on the back?"; let us not wonder further about "no mention of JACL" with reference to the History Project. We who prize education and scholar-ship should, instead, insist on the truth and cooperate fully with those who are inquiring.

Whatever valid criticisms can be presented to the Japanese American Research Project at UCLA. Meanwhile, whatever progress or changes shall be reported factually.

THE VIETNAM ISSUE

As the storm of controversy about America's role in Vietnam continues to boil, more and more individ- all uals will be called upon to render their own convictions upon the issue. Already, the voters of San Francisco will be asked this issue—probably the first time in American history the people have an opportunity to express their view on foreign policy directly.

Meanwhile, we must rely on periodic private polls. This week, the Pacific Citizen columnist Harold Gordon has prepared a studied piece on the parallels between Evacuation and Vietnam to focus Nisei view on southeast Asia today. JACL has no policy state-

Therefore, when Gordon asked about the propriety of a piece on Vietnam in the absence of a JACL policy the greenlight was given for at ite could be made with the personal experience and knowledge of our readership. We feel the PC is of especial service when a "Nisei angle" is ascertainable in a story, though we are also concerned with the "human angle".

Now that the Thieu-Ky ticket has received twice the wotes garnered by its closest rival, what will he do with that mandate. If president-elect Nguyen Van Thieu is given the chance to stabilize domestic politics, it shall make a difference in South Vietnam and lay the groundwork for a just peace.

Puyallup, Wash.
There's a saying "Time and Tide waits for no man," and though I have every good reason to believe it by past experiences, I wish it was not so, especially now when I feel so far behind. Even though I did not accomplish too much, it was very gratifying to me when I heard the Chapter-to-Chapter report at our recent Pacific Northwest District Council meeting in Fife, Wash, hosted by our Puyallup Valley Chapter.

As we all know, active Chapters will help to strengthen the District Council. Calendars, everywhere, were full of JACL projects.

Some of the outstanding Chapter activities included the Talent Show preparation and participation in the Seafair in Seattle, and also like to mention their terrific membership drive carried out by Takeshi Kubota.

Portland Chapter had their second Youth workshop at Lewis and Clark campus.

Spokane Chapter participated by making Japanese lunches for the many scouts and thought have a salso done by a member of the Spokane Chapter for the district.

White River Valley Chapter was preparing for their annual Sukiyaki dinner.

Puyallup Valley was busy distributing the Bosworth district Council convention in December. All of these activities require time and effort forfeited by many believers of JACL, and my sincere appresisting the fall season, and all of the chapters will be faced with their elections, membership campaigns, and program planning for the coming year. Let us not forget that you will be asked to be responsible for one of the offices of your Chapter. You will only be asked because your fellow members feel that you are equipled of handling that job. Feel proud and grateful that you have that confidence of your friends, and help your chapter have another success-

"My wife's willingness to give up the security we had and let me take a chance was the biggest factor in my career." Morita reflected. Obviously there are more things to life than money and Morita found it out early in his career of making people laugh and forget their troubles in the same way he forgot his.
