The resolution for Japanese American Reparations to the Japanese overseas during World War II was signed by Sy Cameron, Smith, commission chairman, and Minoru Yasui, executive director. The 15-member commission, pointed by the Mayor, had unanimously endorsed the legislative proposal by the Japanese American Citizens League.

The resolution recounns the forced removal by the U.S. government of some 110,000 Japanese Americans in 1942 in the name of "military necessity" and being interned in camps surrounded by barbed wire fences, machine gun posts, searchlights and (U.S.) military police without ever having any charges preferred against them, nor any trial or hearing of any kind whatsoever on the basis of national origin.

It continues by describing the estimated losses of $400,000,000 incurred by the evacuation, for which some $100,000,000 was reimbursed upon proof of actual physical losses, deprivation of earning power of workers and their families, and despite such conditions, over 35,000 Nisei served in the U.S. armed forces during WWII, proving their loyalty to the U.S.

Hayakawa says he’s for Prop. 13
WASHINGTON—Sen. S. I. Hayakawa (R-Calif.) de­clared he was coming out for Prop. 13 (the Jarvis-Gann Initiative) because of being frustrated by what he called “tax cuts, no matter how widely designed, simply do not make their way through the legislature”.

The “shock treatment” of Prop. 13 is what the govern­ment needs to bring about fiscal common sense...limiting government in­come. Prop. 13 will force government to learn to budget—just as individuals and families do.”

Asian/Pacific mental health clinic in L.A. now in new site
LOS ANGELES—Free mental health care is now avail­able at the Asian/Pacific Counseling and Treatment Center, 3407 West Sixth St, Suite 310, Supervisor Ed Edel­man has announced fol­lowing dedication ceremon­ies May 17 at the new clinic.

“I commend the Asian American Mental Health Task Force, whose members worked for two years to study community needs and to plan a mental health facility for Asian and Pacific­an­ Island and bilingual and bi­cultural staff,” said Edel­man, who secured $200,000 to operate the outpatient service from Short-Doyle funds which had previously supported the Resthaven Psychiatric Hospital, closed in 1976.

The clinic began providing services in May, 1977, at a temporary location in the LAC-USC Mental Health Outpatient Clinic and was moved to the new site in Feb­ruary, 1978. Edelman was in­strumental in securing a permanent facility at a more central location for Asian community residents.

The clinic is staffed by trained bilingual/bicultural personnel fluent in Chinese, Filipino, Japanese, Korean, San­mano and Vietnamese.

Mineta releases study

WASHINGTON—A study prepared by the Congressional Budget Office (CBO) and released by Rep. Norman Mineta (D-Calif.) has concluded that a cut in Social Security payroll taxes would affect unemployment more favorably than a similar cut in income taxes.

The report is based on data collected in Nagasaki and Hiroshima, from the Ministry of Health and Welfare, from a group of Japanese recovery from the after-effects of the bombing and from the foreign sufferers themselves.

The report says that about 20,000 Americans were killed by the two atomic bomb blasts in Nagasaki and Hiroshima.

This is the first report of its kind in the 34 years since the bombs were dropped.

Most of the foreign sufferers have never received proper medical treatment.

The group has requested the Government immediately to establish measures to help them.

VANCOUVER, B.C. — What was built in 1904 as the Canada Buddhist Mission in Vancouver’s East End is being slowly restored to its original condition by its new owners, Helen and David Storms, who had checked library archives to make sure.

Project has been underway for the past two years and is expected to take another three years, according to David Storms, president of a millwork, fixtures and renovation company. The structure was the Academy of Domestic Arts under Mrs. M. Matsuzaki in 1942. After the Japanese were evacuated inland in 1942, the building began to deteriorate.

Nipping Bias in the Bud

Combatting racial discrimination can be like fighting and putting out fires. In essence, we are fighting at the symptom level rather than at the cause for most occurrences take place due to prejudice nurtured within the family and ignorance evidenced at educational institutions. These years and a few more when children are still impressionable, is the time when the story of Japanese Americans can be most effecttively told. Therefore, the ultimate upon publishers of textbooks at the grade school level and to the university throughout the U.S. to remedy the lack of information on the Japanese Americans remains if we wish to stem anti-Japanese prejudice. Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall, the first and only black member of the high court, says progress in civil rights since his days 40 years ago has been unimpressive. More than once Marshall has stood up at once when Eisler, Order 9066 was used to round up our West Coast Japanese. Marshall has a right to take a stand when a majority of the Court has not. A Fan of Edison Uno

Salt Lake City, Utah

The man who the JACL and the Movement would lose in July was a genuine hero to many of us. It's hard to imagine what the world would have been like without him. Edison was a man who embodied the spirit of the Movement.

From the perspective of someone who knew him personally, Edison's influence extended far beyond his work. He was a mentor to many younger leaders and a friend to countless others. His legacy lives on through the memory of those he touched.

Edison was a man who believed in the power of education to bring about change. He was a proponent of free speech and a defender of the rights of all people. His work on behalf of Japanese Americans and other minorities was tireless and unrelenting.

Edison was a man who had a profound respect for the work of others. He was humble and modest, yet his contributions to the Movement were immeasurable. His influence extended far beyond his lifetime.

Edison was a man who loved the arts. He was an accomplished musician and a lover of the performing arts. He was a supporter of the arts and a patron of the performing arts. His passion for the arts was evident in his actions and in the way he lived his life.

Edison was a man who was deeply committed to his community. He was a member of the local chapter of the JACL and a supporter of the Movement. His contributions to the community were significant and enduring.

Edison was a man who was a man of integrity. He was honest and straightforward in all his dealings. He was a man who was true to his word and true to his principles.

Edison was a man who was a true friend. He was someone who would always be there for you, no matter what. His support and friendship were unwavering.

Edison was a man who was a genuine hero. He was a man who was a true champion of justice and of the rights of all people. He was a man who was a true hero.

Edison's death was a great loss to the Movement. But his legacy lives on. His influence extends far beyond his lifetime. And his memory will continue to inspire us all.

The movement needs people like Edison Uno. People who are passionate about justice, who are committed to the rights of all people, who are willing to stand up for what is right.

We need people who are willing to make a difference in the world. People who are willing to stand up for the rights of all people, no matter what the cost.

Edison was a man who was a true hero. He was a man who was a true champion of justice. He was a man who was a true friend. And his memory will continue to inspire us all.

Keeping in Touch

By Chuck Kobotawa, NC-WNDC Governor

The enormous effort by all of the San Benito County chapter members to attend the May 7 NC-WNDC meeting at their JACL Hall in San Juan Bautista was clearly perceptible, efficient, friendly and proved as effective as an oceanic operation.

For such a small Nikkei community to unite to bring forth a half-black, half-Pasifian 31-year-old, to the 1950s and refurbishing it spelt dedication and accomplishment.

(Likewise, the Nikkei in Houston have worked hard to establish our chapter.

Conducting our meeting and serving a half-barbequed chicken for lunch to 101 people in the same hall presented no problem.

Thanks to the know-how of the chapter’s general arrangement committee, the huge lunch also provided enough energy for delegates from 27 chapters (including Reno and Las Vegas) to continue business till 6 p.m.

On the Agenda—Matters of both district and national interest loaded the agenda.

Foremost was welcoming Dr. Harry Hatakas, chapter president, and Mrs. Mary Nishimoto, chapter treasurer. The district chairman George Kono for having found the chapter’s general arrangement committee.

Kondo for having found the chapter’s general arrangement committee.

The San Fernando JACL sponsored by the Greenwood Shopping Center in southside Indianapolis.

Wait Nakatsukasa, chair­man, indicated the fair will be a 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. item to be featured at the chapter’s October Festival.

Nominations from the NC­WNDC chapter solicited until June 10, it was announced by Dr. Harry Hatakas, chapter chairman, and the district scholarship committee.

Since there is no financial reward, freedom of speech is a requirement for the nomination.

Continuing on to college is neither an expenditure as well.

Will be listed on the District Board.

Ushijima bares secrets of his success in wholesale produce business

OAKLAND, Calif. — While it’s true that some of the best-laid plans occasionally go awry, sometimes it turns out all for the better.

Take George Ushijima, for example. He was visiting George Ushijima, his father died when he was only 16. Then came World War II.

Dreams of pursuing law were last. But he’s no worse for wear today because of his father.

Now, at 57, he is president of Growers Produce Co., a wholesale produce wholesaler in Oakland, which last year grossed more than $27 million.

It started as a postwar partnership between him and his brother Uchiyama. Both men graduated from Washington Union High School in the Centerville district of Oakland — now what is Fremont in 1938. They bought a produce route, had one truck and sold small grocery stores and restaurants. Their gross receipts totaled $100,000 in their first year, 1948.

Ushijima’s experience in produce goes back to childhood, when he helped on his father’s Centerville farm and worked in a San Leandro retail produce market.

When the war broke out, he and his mother and two younger brothers were interned at Topaz. Then he was drafted into the intelligence Service. After the war, he served with the United States Army in the War Crimes Commission in the Philippines.

When he was discharged, Ushijima started a small fruit stand on Washington St., near the then busy Housewives Market and “did very well with it.”

His next move was with Uchi­yama into the produce de­livery route.

George Ushijima

is now in the produce market with local buyers. The rest, he says, is brokerage with large chain stores, where produce is delivered to central warehouses and outside customers — from Missouri to Japan.

“We sell by phone to these customers. We never see the merchandise here. We are the packagers for the shippers. We represent and coordinate with shippers.”

“This is the only way to get a large volume of business and keep labor costs down,” he said.

The days are busy. He is at work by 5:30 a.m. and may still be hanging around at 6 p.m. His two brothers, Harry and Jimmy, are also associated in the business. His 21-year-old daughter, Jill, is a secretary for the firm. In all, there are 42 employees.

An active member of the JACL, Alameda chapter and Golden Gate Citizen League, Ushijima says it takes hard work and endurance to learn the trade.

And for him, it appears, all has paid off — long gone are hopes of lawyering.
