Sen. Inouye - principal

Convention Speaker

Sen. Daniel Inouye returns to address a JACL national convention. This time as the principal speaker at the climactic Senator Dinner/Dance here Friday night (Aug. 1, Jack Tar Hotel), the Senate majority leader and the Japanese American of the Senate pointed the way to the Senate's second highest decoration. He also holds the Bronze Star, Purple Heart with cluster, five battle stars and four distinguished Service Crosses.

Because of the loss of his arm, Inouye had to abandon his ambition of becoming a surgeon. After graduating from the University of Washington, he earned his law degree from George Washington University, returned home, entered politics and worked as a city prosecutor in Honolulu. He helped formulate the famous Demo­cratic party platform in 1948, being elected to the Hawaii State Territorial House of Representatives and then to its senate in 1958. With Hawaiian statehood, he became the first Japanese American elected to Congress. (House of Representatives, 1962-66; Senate, 1962 to date) and has the senior senator of Japanese ancestry.

Enomoto joins federal institution of corrections

SANTA FE, N.M.—The political end to his career as head of the parole board for the state of New Mexico, he was arrested by state officials who were looking to outside help in rebuilding the prison system.

Enomoto was arrested two weeks after Adolph Sama, secretary of corrections and criminal rehabilitation, left a debate with Gov. Bruce King. Enomoto stressed he was not a candidate for the post.

WASHINGTON—An 18-month

law suit, led by Peter

Mili (D-San Jose), came to an

July 2 as President Jimmy

Cook signed into law legislation which fully renews the status of Asian Pacific Americans as a designated minority eligible for the Small Business Administration's minority business development program.

"The combined efforts of all Asian Pacific Americans nationwide made this a successful fight," Mi-eta commented. "New challenge is for Asian Americans to participate in these programs, and, in so doing, compete fully within the small business compete.

"In January 1979, the Asian Pac-

ic American community discovered that, after participating in the SBA (60) minority business development program for ten years,

they were removed from the program by legislation (Public Law 95-957) passed in 1978 which revised the federal government's minority business development

program.

On May 22, 1979, Mineta offered, and the House accepted, an amendment to the SBA fiscal year 1980 and 1981 reauthori-ations bill (S 910) which statutorily restored eligibility of Asian Americans to the SBA programs. The Senate accepted the Mineta amendment in June 1979 in a conference committee on S 918. A dispute over provisions in S 918 completely unraticated to the Mineta amendment delivered the passage of the bill until mid-

June 1980.

Under a July 6, 1979, SBA ruling, Asian Pacific Americans were again able to participate in the SBA minority business development programs. The Mineta amendment now supersedes the 1979 administrative ruling and assumes such participation by law.

BATTLE OF THE HOME FRONT CONTINUES

‘Racism’ in Korematsu

By M.M. SUMIDA
San Francisco

After World War II government agencies have used the “cover-up” of national security many times and sanctioned the use of questionable evidence to prevent embarrassing information from coming to the counterattacks of alleged threats to security. Prior to Watertagate they were successful in keeping free of any “accountability.”

It is not the intention to argue here that the government should or should not have such powers, but such powers should be exercised only in a case of dire emergency with due care and only when other alternatives are unavailable.

The Executive as Commander in Chief and the legislature must be held accountable to uphold the Constitution of the United States in the protection of the civil rights of its citizens. The imposition of an emergency, especially in situations of actual combat zones where “military necessity” is questionable.

In the case of the Japanese Americans’ treatment during World War II—the Supreme Court under the doctrine of “War Powers” that the “gravity of the military situation” during the spring of 1942 was sufficient cause to restrict certain liberty of Japanese Americans to protect themselves from harm. And put them through camps (concentration or relocation camps).

The court concluded that the restrictions were necessary to achieve a “military necessity,” whether the justification made at the time was a true military necessity, or investigate on its own the real gravity of the military situation. “The court did not require the military to show whether there were other alternatives available to cope with the alleged military necessity.”

Justice Owen J. Roberts’ dissent in the Korematsu case stated:

No pronouncement of the Commanding Officer can, in my view, preclude judicial inquiry and determination whether emergency ever existed and whether it existed at date of restraint out of which the litigation arose.

The Supreme Court indicated a strong reluctance to review the actions of the military.

A partial answer was revealed later in the General Yamashita war crimes trial (Feb. 1946). The Supreme Court in that case would not review the evidence of military commissions—‘there are questions within the peculiar competence of the military commissions composing the commission and were for it to decide.”

In the General Yamashita case, the Supreme Court also touched on the question of whether the military was bound by the Fifth Amendment. A dissenting opinion by Justice Frank Murphy (who also dissented in the Korematsu case):

But in this nation individual rights are protected and recognized to a least in regard to governmental action. They cannot be ignored by any branch of government, even the military. continued on Page 11

The recently resolved dispute between Mas Yamazaki and Borden, Inc., in Ohio assumes a significant place in JACL's human rights activities of the '90s. The concern for individual rights in the corporate world, including due process, began to surface in the late '90s and '70s. From all indications, the issues will demand answering in this decade. The Yamazaki case is only the vanguard in the new and growing corporate arena, a question that has become personal to us all.

As more and more Samuel and Yurios are absorbed within this system, the changes and decisions we help influence will directly affect their lives.

The current participatory interest in the Yamazaki case deserves commendable notice. Before the matter was mutually resolved to the satisfaction of all parties, the Pacific District Council submitted a resolution for consideration by the National Convention this month. "Resolution 3-1 in support of Mas Yamazaki. By MDC. The National JACL supports Yamazaki in his pursuit of fair employment practices from the Borden Co. and that a JACL-Yamazaki Legal Defense Fund be organized. The MDC and its Human Rights Committee acted quickly and responsibly in the Yamazaki case. National JACL provided the services of its attorneys to assist in the administrative and ministerial changes in the matter. After much deliberation, I hope to believe that the matter is resolved under the leadership of the chair, Judge O’Malley, and with the support of Mr. Yuan’s work as such an administrative modification.”

Let us all prevent, again, that we hopefully will not spend many dollars on attorneys to stop trawling with words after all, that isn’t to make that much difference, at least indifferent as what before we can be doing. Rather, such valuable Council sessions should be utilized to set new directions, new goals for JACL.

As a National Board, we are appealing to our delegates to the all that we are allowing for perspective and opportunity that the proposed revisions to the Constitution and Bylaws that we have presented for JACL as constitutional. Permitted in revising the documents construct for the use of our time. Here we prevent the leaving the delegates free to present this aspect. It is fine to be trawling with the machinery. But when it is finely tuned and well run, we would like to have that last question answered.

It always saddens me to see individualags with the cattle to be culled by the usage of "JAPAN" as in the name of the corporation. Here a few. More than one receipt of complaints have been received in this regard, this year.

I have submitted several proposals which, while not "policy issues" in the sense of Board proposals for Board consideration, should be of concern to the membership, such as:

1) Restructuring the National Board; (2) adjusting prorating rules;

On raising money for JACL

EDITORIAL: Trying to go into any kind of business is probably the worst. We have little time or money to spend raising money for our organization. Thus, we are trying to do something about it but there probably are people who have experience in fundraising. We have a very high percentage of our members who do not have time or money to spend on fundraising, yet we need to keep the organization going.

Letterbox

An appeal to the Delegates

Editor:

As a matter of self-imposed regulation, I do not comment on matters in print or in our columns which are not directly involved. For reasons which are explained below, we make exceptions here through this letterbox which we consider understanding by JACL delegates.

The subject: Revisions to the JACL National Constitution and Bylaws, and more particularly to the eight-hour Council sessions that are presently scheduled.

The past has been present at, and participating in several National Council sessions, with a peculiar fascination that seems to mirror the spectre of the eight-hour Council. The matter of the whole of delegates from the various chapters in attendance cannot be ignored if we are to cultivate each of them sufficiently well to have several hundred hands of the most visible kind - one line by line, a document; it can be almost as frightening as several hands of the most visible kind - myself or the function as lawyers. Not that such persons will now have worthwhile proposals, they will. But the question, I now pose, is whether such a thing can be best presented, and soberly considered, in a committee meeting of several hundred delegates. I suggest not.

First of all, it is important to keep in mind that the documents, the Constitution and Bylaws, are merely devices - the means by which we open a Thucydidesian dialogue on the invaluable time in the trawling with the machinery at the present time. We have spent this time addressing the immediate issues of a concern, but the mind at least would not a fruitful use of our time, environment, and sources in meeting for the first time at two meetings only two days apart.

Next, as I happen to view the proposed revisions, they are essentially policy-making. As to the latter, policy-making is not for the few. One deal with requirements of the understanding of the en- gagement, a question that has been discussed extensively and repeatedly by Committee sessions of the past.

We have several proposals which, while not "policy issues" in the sense of Board proposals for Board consideration, should be of concern to the membership, such as:

1) Restructuring the National Board; (2) adjusting prorating rules;

Noda explains that American business is still run by the way Oda Nobunaga treated the cuckoo: If you don't produce, off goes your head. This leads to worry and, Noda says, Japanese managers can only be good for either the employee or his company.

By contrast, Japanese management today takes the position that the average person "finds work natural and pleasant, is productive, and will exercise self-control", provided he is given reasonable motivation rather than threats.

ABOUT A YEAR ago Noda wrote an article about Japanese management for Technology Review, published by the Alumni Association of the Masa-

Fourteen articles were finally selected for the Spring, 1980 issue. They came from such prestigious magazines as Atlantic, Fortune, Harvard Business Review, New Republic, Forbes and Industry Week. Noda's was among them.

No Hill Too Steep:
Let’s all get on the Cable Car

By JOHN T. YASUMOTO
1960 National Convention, Chicago
San Francisco

IT SEEMS THAT Convention fever has hit the nation. And this is my last opportunity in the PC to encourage all JACLers and friends to sign up to be a part of this memorable Golden Anniversary convention. Our convention board has worked hard to plan an outstanding week of business and pleasure for all.

There are two areas of major concerns at this point: One is that many Chapters still have not designated their OFFICIAL DRUG EDGATEES. It should be done now. Second is the need to better support our PROJECT KIFU fund raiser. Remember, the chapter can retain 40 per cent of the sales.

TO CLARIFY some of the details of our forthcoming meeting, I am providing the following:

Procedures recommended for nomination and election of National Officers

NOMINATIONS:
1. Slate of candidates will be submitted to the National Council at its first business session on Monday, July 28.
2. Nominations will be opened for additional candidates to be nominated from the floor. Such nominations from the floor will include the background information on the nominee as required on the official nomination form, and shall be subject to the requirement of endorsement of the duly elected members of the Chapters of the particular District Council. The form is to be signed by the candidate.
3. The first order of business at the afternoon business session of Tuesday, July 28, will be Nominations. Complete slate of candidates will be presented. Nominations will be closed.
4. Brief nominations of candidates will be read.

Forum for presidential candidates July 30

SAN FRANCISCO—A forum for candidates for the important position of national leader is an invitation to open up the discussions of the candidates in the election process for the 1980 National Convention. This special event is scheduled for Wednesday, July 30, 1:00 p.m., in the International Room of the Jack Tar Hotel.

Delegates will vote on Friday at the final business session to select JACL’s National President for 1980-82. Thus, the forum will provide the delegates the opportunity to exchange dialogues with the candidates for President, Executive, present, potential and now which could be the candidates.

To know and to select the person who can best lead JACL through these critical and changing times should be an important consideration of the candidates. The National Council meets biennially, JACL, has to depend on its leadership to implement the programs that bring current issues to the membership.

The three candidates for President are Lillian C. Kamata of Chicago Chapter, Tom T. Shimano of Tulare County Chapter and James K. Tabagawa of Portland Chapter.

Employment discrimination workshop set

SAN FRANCISCO—A workshop focusing on employment discrimination problems among Asian Americans will be presented at the Convention on Wednesday, July 30, 1:45-3:45 p.m., on the Jack Tar Hotel’s California Room. Among panelists scheduled are: U.S. District Judge Robert M. Takasugi, Los Angeles; Jerry Ezumoto, former director of California’s Dept. of Corrections and presently chairing the Presidential Commission to Study the New Mexico Prison Racial Relations; Dale Matsuura, attorney experienced with employment discrimination problems; Penny Nalutaku, former intern at Santa Fe’s Law Center; Violet Balyeat, U.S. Commission on Civil Rights; Mas Yamashita, Dayton, Ohio, and panel Moderator Young Fong Yin, attorney with the U.S. Attorney’s General Office, and chairman of the JACL Committee on Employment Discrimination.

Topics will range from recognizing discrimination, establishing proof, community action, discrimination against Asian American women and finding a pro bono attorney. The Center Policy committee will present a short highlighting employment discrimination problems.

Constitutional guidelines updated

CERRITOS, Calif.—Silences JACL Clerc Jim Seppeli, chairing the National JACL Constitution Committee at the recent convention, has updated the JACL Convention Committee guidelines in his one-page printed report that he presented before the convention. The report has been approved by Headquarters, the rule of the National Convention Board, for publication.

Books

James Michener’s next book, “The Covenant,” will be published by Random House in the fall as a $20 million advance. The New York Times book editor Herbert Mitgang said that Michener sold “about $17,000 per copy” for the rights, highest ever paid by a book club for a new Michener novel. This time, Random House is not betting annually to the scholarship program, but JACL Plus 100 Club life members.

Radio-TV

Utah’s first minority-FM public radio station (KRLC, Uintah Station) at K. 1st Sa., Salt Lake City is on the air. Ethnic groups, women, senior citizens, the handicapped and disadvantaged are invited to get on the air with their music, recitation, dialogue, etc. John will be an ever-great person, is taking training at the station to help the Japanese community.

Reunion

Ponson Camp III Block 306 residents will lunch together April 17, 1981 at Presico’s California Club, from noon during the Ponson III reunion that weekend. April 14-17. Frank Yamashita, 694 S. Columbia Ave, Rosedale 3656 and Mrs. Shirley Nagata, 676 Ave. A, Madera, Ca. 93638, want to hear from old block friends for a reunion.

Topaz High School’s Class of 1945 will hold its reunion Aug. 16 at the Miyako Hotel, San Francisco. Reunion dates are July 15, 1981, 1932 Cardi Way, San Jose 95125.

Los Angeles

“Climbing J-Flag,” a visual Communication piece on Asian American music and musicians, aired on KCET (50) on July 25, 11:30 p.m. and Tuesday, July 29, 11:30 p.m. During part of KCET’s weekly showcase for California’s culture, the American Pacific/Pacific/Asian American color-page.

Shimasaki’s Approach

ON JACL AFFAIRS:
You and I are privileged to be in the JACL at this, one of the most challenging and dramatic hours. This is more than a time of challenge, more than a time of drama. It is a time of a tremendous opportunity and a time for many other things essential to our approach to a new half century of JACL.

This is a time of recognition of the role of this great organization in the life of the 20th Century United States—recognition of great programs and great accomplishments and seeing them only as foundation stones for even greater service for the years ahead.

As we bring to a close the first half century of our service, the Japanese American Citizens League (JACL) should use this biennium of revelation as an invitation to men and women of all places to join so that our inspiration may be made widespread throughout our land.

We need the total contribution of JACL in the years ahead to be those of building for another great half century, with our emphasis on finding the manpower and financial base and all the dreams, the needs and the concerns which will make JACL an even brighter name in the next 50 years.

We should look at the forthcoming biennium as a time of re-dedication to the belief in an organization of volunteers who carry on service to their fellow men, dedicated to the principles of freedom and free men and the understanding of the JACL program and service so that we may be able to stimulate the unanimous action of men and women who belong to an organization in which idealism is practical and service is a part of the way of life.

Through our Redress program, we want to demonstrate to the people of this country that the principles that have endured during half a century of JACL history will endure permanently in demonstrating the course we shall pursue. The dignity and freedom of an individual is the dominant philosophy of the JACL. Whatever changes may occur in the manner of our lives and fortunes for our organizational structure, that philosophy will be characterized by our slogan, “Better Americans in a Greater America.”

For the years ahead, the JACL has a tremendous opportunity and a tremendous responsibility to provide leadership in the cause that we are called upon to serve.

The JACL platform is a platform of challenge and a platform of achievement.

JACL PLATFORM:
• To carry on the traditions of Leadership and Advocacy for our Japanese American concerns
• To establish new Horizons through cooperation with other Asian groups
• To utilize the latest technology for the greatest long-term gains in handling of membership records and other operations.

ON JACL-APARTEMENT

The many pivotal programs and projects which have already been initiated should be continued and expanded.

1. Redress must be brought to fruition. This is a moral imperative.

2. Aging and Retirement Program must be expanded and expanded.

3. The importance of continued vigilance in Equal Employment Opportunities and anti-discrimination need no further elucidation.

4. ＊This idea may have some merit as a theoretical exercise, but it is unlikely to be put into practice.

5. We must continue to strive for improved Japan-U.S. relations.

6. We must expand our efforts to raise funds and improve our organization.

7. There are many pivotal programs and projects which have already been initiated and should be continued and expanded.

(a) The 100 Club has had a significant contribution to JACL, considered national dues then were $1 a year. Thousand Club had been contributing over $200 each year.

(b) The contribution to JACL membership in the years following the outbreak of the war is estimated to be $100,000 per month. The suspensive powers of the National Council to assist, reflect, and implement ideas on how to raise funds, but perhaps more meaningful and effective, are now sought.

(c) The 100 Club has been providing much-needed funds to support the organization.

8. We must suggest dividing the 100 Club into smaller districts and see if that should be implemented.

9. We must suggest dividing the 100 Club into smaller districts and see if that should be implemented.

10. We must suggest dividing the 100 Club into smaller districts and see if that should be implemented.

This is not the only book on coal deposits. Nor does it simply dwell on the location and geology of coal mines, but rather, and have been increasingly involved in their present environment in accordance with a single, another aspect where the Earth is believed to have been in existence. With particular attention to the Carboniferous.

This book provides a wealth of information about coal mining and the history and geology of coal deposits. It is illustrated with many photographs and diagrams, making it an invaluable resource for anyone interested in the study of coal deposits.

The book also includes a section on the history of coal mining, detailing the development of mining techniques and the impact of coal on society. It covers the major coal-producing regions of the world, offering a comprehensive overview of the global coal mining industry.

under the most extreme and urgent circumstances.

The failure of the Executive and the military to obey the dictates of the due process requirements of the Fifth Amendment in the wartime treatment of American and resident aliens of Japanese ancestry on the West Coast is upon the evidence.

In Hawaii, the scene of actual battle and closer proximity to enemy action, there was no wholesale evacuation of people of Japanese ancestry.

This is prima facie evidence that the military had other less drastic alternatives than to suspend the due process clause of the Fifth Amendment.

Hawaii was under martial law and the West Coast was not. On the West Coast all the civil procedures and courts were in operation.

In an action for the violation of the "due process clause" the assumption of military necessity was supported by sufficient evidence.

The Congressional Committee should be fully authorized to make inquiry into the military situation when questions of suspension of civil rights of citizens are involved, without letting such inquiry be carried by the military to their own discretion and authority alone. It should determine whether less drastic alternatives were available than those actually used. It should determine whether the actual action taken was reasonable and not a cover for any other spurious reason.

Suggestion #3: A "deterrent process clause" should be included, making any member of the Executive or any government agency including the military liable for either or both civil or criminal liability if they use National Security as an alleged reason to suspend the Fifth Amendment and the due process clause by showing (1) a direct causal relation with strong evidence to support military necessity as the reason for; (2) that there was no alternative available under the circumstances; and (3) that the actions taken in pursuit of military necessity for the purpose for which it was intended and did in fact justify the suspension of the civil rights of citizens in non-combat zones.

TOKYO—Tanaka (Cappy) Harada, who played a role in the development of Japanese professional baseball after the war, died here on June 20 at his home. He was 74.

Mr. Harada was among the key figures in the development of professional baseball in Japan. He was instrumental in getting the Japanese Baseball Commission founded in 1934, and he served as its first president from 1956 to 1960.

He was also a key figure in the formation of the Pacific League in 1950, which was the first professional league in Japan. He served as its first president from 1950 to 1956.

Mr. Harada was a strong advocate for the expansion of baseball in Japan, and he worked tirelessly to promote the sport both domestically and internationally. He was especially instrumental in the development of the Japan Series, the championship series between the Central and Pacific Leagues.

He was also a strong supporter of the national team, and he oversaw the team's participation in the 1964 Tokyo Olympics.

Mr. Harada was a Hall of Famer in the Japan Baseball Hall of Fame, and he is remembered as a key figure in the development of professional baseball in Japan.
