Los Angeles — The National Education Association has released a study that contradicts the image of Asian and Pacific Islander students as "model" students in the nation's schools.

"And justice for all," the umbrella title for four new NEA reports examining the educational and occupational experiences of Asian Americans, became a refrain at a press conference here in conjunction with the associations annual meeting. The reports are part of an effort to respond to concerns of Women and Minority Rights.

Based on Hearings

The reports outline the findings of four NEA study committees, whose members visited schools and education programs and interviewed students, parents, and educators throughout the country during the past year.

The committees were appointed to fill the gap left by the lack of other education reform reports since 1983, none of which have focused specifically on the needs of the students, who now comprise 40 percent of the nation's public school enrollment.

"What we heard told us that there are high levels of student discipline problems, math and science whizzes among Asian and Pacific Islander students, just as there are in any other student population, but there are a number of Asian and Pacific Islander students who are struggling through the American academic system, because of language barriers," said Robert Chase, a junior high school principal from West Seattle. Chase, whose members visited the same two southeastern Seattle schools and education programs, was released June 30.

Other education reform reports have noted Asian students - both foreign and native-born - are high achievers and in any casel, "we believe the data show that there's necessarily a deficiency in every case," he added.

According to Chase, Asian students - both foreign and native-born - are experiencing identity crises that may lead them to drop out of school, or to commit suicide, as they struggle with these issues.

Moreover," Chase noted, "recent concern to this country have problems with language and culture and, in some cases, at- rive ... with the psychological, social and educational problems which go into special learning needs.

Seattle Keiro Nursing Home Opens Doors

SEAITE — On June 14, approximately 2,000 people attended the dedication of the new 190-bed Keiro Nursing home. Present at the ceremony were Governor Booth Gardner, King County Executive Tim Hill, U.S. Senator Dan Evans, City Councilman Sam Smith, and Consul General of Japan Shigenobu Nagai.

The program included speeches, kodo, organ music, and jazz piano, as well as refreshments. A transcription was unfurled at the end of the ceremony, revealing a congratulatory message to Japan.

The new facility, a 3-story building, replaces the 62-bed facility, which will be leased to the Chinese Nursing Home Society. All 63 residents have been moved into the new building and 3 people per week will be added until the facility has its full complement of 150 residents. The nursing home is located at 10th Avenue and E. Yesler Way.

A crowd gathers for Seattle Keiro Nursing Home’s opening ceremonies.

Asian Cable Show Awarded

GARDENA, Calif. — Amerasians: Media and the Arts," the Asian/Pacific American cable show that deals with issues in the fields of film, television, journalism and the performing and fine arts, was named "Best Talk Show" on June 4 at the 2nd Annual Gardenia Access Producers Awards Presentation.

In accepting the award, producer-director Stan Nakazono said the idea of the awards “is not so much winning, but an incentive for more people to start producing programs — good, quality programs — that are viable to the community.

The awards ceremony, which gives top honors to cable programs produced and shown through the Gardena Community Access Corporation, via South Bay Cable Vision, was held at the Rusty Torilla Restaurant.

Currently, "Amerasians" airs every Monday, Wednesday and Friday on Channel 19, the local cable channel in the South Bay area. Listings can be found in the channel guide or the Gardena Valley News.

The Confucian Ethic

We hold these half-truths to be evident...

by Henry Sakai

I hope all of the JACLers in the Pacific Southwest District have received the JACL-LC fund drive letters from PSW and our five Nisei congressional representatives. These letters respond to the appeal.

Those of you who have supported redress with financial help are probably wondering what happened to JACLers. All organizations have found that they have to depend on the individual.

Although most of the funds over the past eight years have come from JACLers, the donations are mostly from about 25 percent of the membership. Those who don't give are hoping that those who have not been contacted before will get on board for the push for victory in the 100th Congress.

JACL-LC is not just a JACL issue but one that involves the total Japanese American community. We are asking our friends to help us reach that commitment by identifying JACL members, organizations, businesses, and individuals who are not JACL members and write them a letter.

PSW JACL covers approximately 7,000 households; that means there are probably over 45,000 Nisei households that we don’t reach. I want to thank our officers, LC staff, and the membership for their support. As ever, we are particularly grateful for their continued financial support, but we need their support right now or there may not be an additional redress bill. With the 123 cosponsors in the House, it will take a lot of work to get another 100 to ensure passage. PSW will continue to do its best in convincing Konoyu of the merits of the redress issue (see story on front page). We appreciate getting another California Republican supporter of H.R. 442. We will be looking for more help from Nakamura, since he is one of the few remaining Republican leaders in California.

CONFUCIUS, who preceded Christ by something like 5 centuries, was a wise old bird who put a good many things into his teachings.

cess involved with enacting a bill

The Fruiting Pan

Bill Hasekawa

The bills are moving ahead with momentum this first session of 1987. Japanese American community organizations are very much aware of the many active and conscious supporters and the fact that the legislative process has brought us to the point where H.R. 442 was passed by the full House. The Senate took up June 17 with 26 "yes" votes and 6 "no" votes.

That result shows that 34 of the 35 committee members voted and that 21 co-sponsors and 7 non-co-sponsors of the bill continued to hold the line for passage of the bill as amended.

The need to cut out most individual payments of $20,000, and that portion of the bill that was tabled.

The support for H.R. 442 as shown by the votes tells us that the efforts of the hard-working lobbyists who wrote letters year after year, the JACL membership, chapter members, relatives and friends to join in—paid off.

We must recognize that the celebration of the bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution has served as another demonstration of the firm-faithed Americans to recognize that Japanese Americans right to petition to redress their grievances must be addressed without further delay.

Many Nisei who have not benefited hope that to go through their first experience of making appointments and taking paper work to discuss the redress issue with members of Congress in their district office or here in Washington, D.C.

Each of you for your admirable effort and sacrifice. They have been in the forefront on the Hill, tailoring to the appropriate leaders who have responsibility for the bills because of their committee assignments. This level of responsibility has required a commitment of time, energy and thought from those individuals who have many other duties.

For me, the Nisei members and their staff have been a pillar of support. They are all highly respected members of Congress and have important roles in the legislative process. Our community owes much to them. They have used the time and energy of many friends, to move the bills to where they are today.

Another Nisei on the Washington scene who has given this movement so much strength and assistance is Mike Maasoka.

He has developed positive relations in Washington and has the respect of many members of Congress for the years when he represented our organization.

He has had to read his testimony on behalf of Go For Broke to know that we have a man with a remarkable memory of events and what he has read. Though he has health problems, he continues to be strong of spirit and has not lost the ability to articulate the case for redress.

For the first time, we can truly say the bills have bipartisan sup­port and I am pleased to say that the time took to write a thought­ful and well-reasoned letter during a personal experience and his feelings about redress. Even the members of the sub-committee were quite surprised with this latest supporter, who voted to pass the bill.

We also want to thank Stephen Nakamura, our former JACL, who arranged a breakfast meet­

With the promise of more to come.

We want to thank the original 40,000 Nisei households that we don’t

No redress bill, no law, no Nisei, who recently moved from the West Coast to the East Coast to work in New York City.

A well-organized committee carried the project through using a letter writing campaign.

We want to recognize Clarence Nakamura of Fullerton, Calif., a member of Salasaco JACL, who has relentlessly lobbied Rep. William Dannemeyer (R-Calif.) for two years. He has talked per­ with Dannemeyer several times in the last Congress and took the time to write a thought­ful letter.

We appreciate getting another California Republican support­ rider for H.R. 442. We are looking for more help from Nakamura, since he is one of the few remaining Republican leaders in California.

As important as the money is, the recognition received by the students may be even more important. It could be an assertion of the value of education and encouragement to others to try.

Some ethnic communities have difficulty in persuading their young people that education is important. For Japanese Americans, the Confucian ethic, whether it is recognized as such, is helping to lay the groundwork for future achievement.

TRIMMING PC's DEFICIT

While it was proposed at the 1986 National JACL Convention that the JACL subscription rate for members be raised to $12.00 in 1987 to cover the increased costs of printing, distribution and related expenses, the increase was not provided. The PC staff was nonetheless optimistic about the opportunity to weather a new revenue in advertising, type-setting and additional subscriptions.

As of May 31, 1987, the outlook does not appear to be optimistic, though. According to the report last year at this time, the PC could support a $13,375 cutback in its budget if it were able to produce a 5% increase in advertising revenue, which would result in a $6,687.50 budget at the 1986 convention, and a 5% increase to equal $18,127.50 at the 1987 convention. This year, the report indicates a $12,375 cutback in its budget if it were able to produce a 5% increase in advertising revenue, which would result in a $4,487.50 budget at the 1986 convention, and a 5% increase to equal $5,968.75 at the 1987 convention.

The National JACL Board, at its June 1986 meeting, did adopt an adjustment of payment to cover the summer months to help maintain the 3-week format. However, acceleration is not the same as additional revenue. The advertising issues PC does not want to have the JACL carry other adopted programs that will cover the cost of the title underside, as well as the cost of the PC's financial responsibility, publishing and distribution, of ethnicity. Attorneys for the right have never uncoupled an INS contingency plan that calls for the renewal of a suspension of immigration in order to combat terrorism.

Sun said that LEC was asked by the American Arab Anti-Discrimination Committee to join in a lawsuit opposing the arrests, the provision of the 1982 McCarran-Walter Act that fact that is used to make the arrests, and the INS contingency plan.

While we thought that we might get into this because it was seen as reflecting the decline, we were not sure if that meant that the organization is self-destructing, the American Arab Anti-Discrimination Committee, which was a three-proxy limit per delegate, putting policies in writing; not allowing the chairman to vote after a certain point; and written in instructions for proxy voters.

In another matter, the formation of a committee to review JACL's contract with SFR for membership solicitation was recommended. Board members were asked that the contract gave SFR $1 per membership renewal for five years for each member obtained through the mailout.

Sufla said that the failure to defect was irrelevant and that it was not blamed on one person, noting that the American Arab Anti-Discrimination Committee, National Legal Counsel and National President had reviewed the contract with the agency. Cherry Kinoshita recommended that the board "guard this that this data at our own hand so we can go on going forward again."
Sac to Nursing Home Caters to Asian Elderly

SACRAMENTO—Subjukis, bud-ki and sauteed bean cake are typical dishes in the weekly menu of Sacramento’s Asian Sacramento Nursing Home. The facility, contiguous to 4 acres in Sacramento’s Pocket Area, provides 24-hour care to all residents regardless of race, religion or disability. The 59-bed nursing home also offers special Asian cuisine, activities, programs and a bilingual staff.

As Administrator Jeff Man gum explains, food is an important aspect of everyone’s life, but even more so with those who are ill or infirm.

“The people of Asian back­ground who come here more than likely have been used to food that is reflective of their cultural heritage,” Mangum says. “What we are trying to do is to create an atmosphere that closely maintains that cultural heritage. Diets, bilingual person­nel and special activities have been planned to make the patient of Asian decent feel as comfortable as possible while staying with us.”

Reading materials and video cassettes are available in Chinese and Japanese. Also pro­vided are religious and cultural services for both Christians and Buddhists.

Potentially, the nursing home may be admitted on a private pay, Medicare, Medicaid (Medi­Care) and private insur­ance basis. Admission to the facility is only on order of a licensed physician. For more information, contact the Asian Community Nursing Home at (916) 338-0620 or at 2001 Rush River Dr., Sacramento, 95815.

Did you miss the 1979-80 Silver Boom?

I N 1979-80, silver rose from $6 to $8 per ounce within a 10 month period. At the present time, silver is now trading at a bottom level of $8 to $10 per ounce. With possible turbulent economic conditions on the horizon due to our large government deficit and a record number of bank failures, silver appears to be an excellent hedge against inflationary conditions. Gold vs. Silver?

With the Gold/Silver ratio at around 50 to 1, silver is by far the better buy.

Forty Denver Grads Receive Scholarships

DENVER — Forty high school graduates were recipients of gifts and scholarships that totaled $8,000 at the 32nd annual Japanese American Community Graduation Program. In addition, they were guests for the dinner and dance held at the Sher­aton Tech Center Hotel.

Started by the Mile-Hi Chapter of JACL, the program was established as a memorial to the late Harry Sutke by a group headed by Minuyo Yasui in 1966. The program is now joined by 22 other participating groups who award scholarships ranging from $200 to $1,000.

Yasui died in November 1966. In honor of his participation, this year’s program was dedicated to his memory, and a scholarship has been established in his name.

The event was attended by 400 people and has become the social highlight of the summer for the Denver community.
