Mineta Leads Fight to Override Reagan's Veto

WASHINGTON -- Rep. Norman Mineta (D-Calif.) led the successful March 22 fight in the U.S. House of Representatives to override President Reagan's veto of the Civil Rights Restoration Act, S. 687.

Mineta chaired the Democratic leadership task force which had set out to win support for the override effort and to address the misinformation being generated by opponents of the bill. The bill overturned a 1964 ruling by the Supreme Court by generally prohibiting discrimination throughout an entire institution or agency if any part of it receives federal financial assistance.

Reverses Supreme Court Ruling

In its Great City College vs. Bell ruling, the Supreme Court had ruled that Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 prohibited discrimination only in the specific programs or activities of an institution receiving federal assistance.

Opponents of the act have contended that the legislation goes beyond reversing the Supreme Court's ruling and dramatically expands the coverage of federal anti-discrimination laws. One argument against the bill is that grocery stores participating in the Food Stamp program, for example, or parochial school systems with a few children in the school lunch program, would be covered by all sorts of federal civil rights laws. President Reagan had vetoed the legislation on March 16.

"Amazing Distortion"

'I heard some amazing distortions of what this bill is and what it will do," Mineta said on the House floor. "This is a very straightforward piece of legislation which sets the desirable policy that federal tax dollars should not be used to discriminate. It 's silly to me. I think it is just a bad decision... Our government..." "This is a very straightforward piece of legislation which sets the desirable policy that federal tax dollars should not be used to discriminate. It's silly to me. I think it is just a bad decision... Our government..."

Mineta continued. "However, I was surprised to read some remarks in which he called the Civil Rights Restoration Act, and I quote, a 'dangerous bill.' "He also said, and again I quote, "One dollar in federal aid -- direct or indirect -- would bring entire organizations under federal control, including contributions to churches and synagogues."

"The president must have vetoed the wrong bill," said Mineta. "His comments certainly don't apply to the Civil Rights Restoration Act... This bill is not a dangerous bill."

"We know that this legislation will not bring churches and synagogues under federal control," said the congressman. "I know that this bill will not bring discrimination. We know that this bill contains protections of our precious religious freedom and to limit the intrusiveness of the federal government..."

"In short," Mineta concluded, "We know that this bill deserves our support. The bill was subsequently enacted into law by a vote of 252 to 43 in the House of Representatives. Earlier in the day, the Senate had voted to override the president's veto by a vote of 78 to 13.

4 Asian Pacific Leaders Endorse Jackson for President

LOS ANGELES — Mas Fukai, Warren Furutani, Arthur Song and Denny Nishikawa, four prominent leaders of the Asian Pacific American community, have endorsed Jesse Jackson for the Democratic nomination for president. As the California primary on June 7 nears, the four have pledged their support to the Jackson campaign.

Mas Fukai, a Gardena city councilman as well as chief deputy to Los Angeles County Supervisor Kenneth Hahn, is experienced at the second consecutive year, in his endorsement of the SEOOND CONSECUTIVE

JCCCNC's Kenneth Hahn, is experienced at the second consecutive year, in his endorsement of Drawing on his experience as a community activist, Arthur Song is an attorney who made a strong bid for the Teeth District seat of the Los Angeles City Council in the most recent election. Song believes that "Jesse Jackson brings a more collegial, humanistic approach to government. He has a more pragmatic way to deal with issues both domestic and international. He will look after the concerns of all Americans, and he will give a fair hearing to all problems brought before him."

Having worked with the California State Legislature and staff to former Los Angeles City Councilman Dave Cunningham, Denny Nishikawa is currently a commissioner of the Los Angeles board of Public Works. Nishikawa feels that "Jesse Jackson is the only presidential candidate that fully understands and is dedicated to the needs of Asian Pacific people. He has demonstrated understanding and sensitivity of how to provide for the needs of minorities in this nation."

Mike Murase, California campaign director of the Jackson for President campaign, said of the endorsements: "We in the campaign are very happy to welcome their support. Their endorsements are significant recognition of Jackson's commitment to the Asian Pacific communities and to all of America in building a better future for all of us."

PSWD Sets Conference for May 14

LOS ANGELES—"Japanese American Community and Critical Choices" is the theme of the Pacific Southwest District (PSWD) JACL conference, which will be held at the Westin Bonaventure Hotel, 404 S. Figueroa St., on May 14.

The conference, which is expected to attract approximately 300, will address community issues of the Japanese American community as it enters the 21st century.

Warren Furutani, who is the first Asian Pacific American to be elected to the Los Angeles School District Board of Education, will be keynote speaker of the event. Furutani, who is the district's vice chairman, believes that board members responsible for the policy making of the second largest school district in the country must do their part to ensure the education of all students.

The conference will feature a number of workshops that will address issues from a variety of perspectives. Among the topics to be discussed are:

- "Generational Transition: Passing National Visibility and Presence";
- "Japanese Needlecraft";
- "American Superwoman: Juggling Career, Family and Relationships"; and
- "The Silent Subversion of Culture: Political and Economic Impact on a Community".

Panelists scheduled include Phyllis Murakawa, Harry Kawahara, Jeanne Milton, Ken Nakayama, Ken Fong, Ken Mituhara, Mike Watanabe, John Hatakeyama and Yasuko Sakamoto.

Explaning the reasons behind the FWJ conference, District Governor J.D. Hohokuma said, "We feel that district services such as educational and enjoyable programs such as this need to happen, where members receive visible benefits from being part of the JACL."

Bill Kaneko, vice governor, added, "By providing panelists from other organizations to lend their expertise to the conference, it also gives the PSWD JACL an opportunity to network with other community organizations and outreach into the Asian Pacific and mainstream community. Hence, you've got a 'win-win' situation."

In the Times' article, the senator notes the decline of the Indian population from at least 14 million some 200 years ago to a recent estimate of only 1.3 million. He also observed that not long afterward they "recognized the sovereignty of the Indians over 250 million acres of land—a recognition by treaty. Today they have 50 million acres!"

According to Larsen's report, about 100 treaties in all were negotiated between the government and Indian nations.

"About 400 were just shelved or filed away—although we expected the Indians to abide by the provisions," said Inouye. "We ratified 30 of those treaties and we proceeded to violate provisions in every one of them... And we're a nation that prides itself on living up to treaty obligations."

Larsen's article further states that statistics today point to Native Americans having the highest unemployment, alcoholism and infant mortality rate of any group, as well as more deaths, in numbers of people.

JANM DONATION—Henry and Tomoye Takashahi of San Francisco recently presented a $3,000 gift from their foundation to support the development of the Japanese American National Museum. Accepting the donation is Bruce T. Kaji (r), president of the Board of Trustees.

The report discovered by Aiko Herzig-Yoshikawa recommended the mass expropriation of Japanese properties during WWII because it said their cultural traits made it impossible for the U.S. government to determine their loyalty. The report was later rewritten, using "military necessity" as the reason for the reclassification. Because the process of law would take too long, the government wouldn't have time to determine individual loyalties.

Until the Supreme Court reverses its ruling, it upholds the legality of the internment order. Justice Department documents found by Dr. Peter Irons are also to be credited for the redress efforts of Japanese Americans. (See P.C. March 4) that the government (in 1941) has again been another pivotal event. It was noted by Mr. Hondowac (PC, March 4) that the stimulus, were of course, reflections and inferences. For years we have agitated over the socio-political morality of the Japanese and, laterally, JACL's role in that unhappy affair. The JACL was, indeed, a bit of a jinx, apparently subverting to implementance without hearings or indoctrinations.

Since leaving the daily newspaper business, the author of most of my extracurricular reading has been about Japan; its modern history, its international successes, and U.S.-Japan relations. I learned much about these subjects than I used to.

But, as I learned the other day, it has been quite a while since I have had a chance to read in depth about the Bill of Rights and freedom of the press and a number of other issues that were being quoted. People like Thomas Jefferson and James Madison...

April 30—The 19th Annual Manzanar LETTER

[It] was difficult to understand how one can bargain from within concentration camps; with [the] nuance in multi we didn't stand a chance.

It resulted, I think, from JACL's ancient, unchanging, and unalterable code of silence and of ignorance of the “code,” the distillation of Shintoism, Confucianism, Buddhism, and Confucianism. It was a cage of Hap- kugare (the book of the Samurai) “philosophy.” I am uncertain just what it is but it lurks in our genes, bones and in the junkyard of the brain. It is our cultural baggage and glory. It probably reached its zenith with the 420JUT, if only in the sub-conscious. All of us, Japanese-Bar and Non-Bar, immigrant and citizen were not exactly the most compelling embodiments then; it was our race, Japanese Bar and Non-Bar.

This is not proposed or submitted as an exercise in Aristotelian or Socrat- ic polemics and is susceptible to circular arguments. But when small fish report I know it's rotten fish.
