Nakao Ousted From Festival Co-Chair Slot

SAN FRANCISCO — Steve Nakao, co-chairman of the recent San Francisco Cherry Blossom Festival, is under a vote of no-confidence May 26.

According to the Hobunji Minshu, a secret ballot vote resulted in Nakao losing with a tally of 89-against supporting him, with three abstentions.

Twenty-five of the 50 committee members attended the meeting.

The vote followed discussion about discontinuation of the popular Cherry Blossom Queen event in the festival. Some felt that the concept was sexist, archaic and degrading to women, while others said it helped promote the festival and gave young women educational opportunities.

Co-chairman Yuko Murakami has called a meeting to make plans for next year’s festival.

Korematsu Awarded Honorary Law Degree

NEW YORK — Fred Korematsu, who in 1942 defied evacuation orders and took his case to the U.S. Supreme Court, was awarded an honorary Doctor of Laws degree at City University of New York (CUNY) law school last month.

The Supreme Court in a wartime decision found Korematsu guilty, but the conviction was overturned in 1983, when Sanchez stepped in to resolve the case with new evidence charging government prosecutors with misconduct in the original trial.

Korematsu’s citation called his life, “a testament to the power of the human spirit and a beacon of hope for those who dedicate their lives to the attainment and preservation of fundamental guarantees of law for all people.”

Nikkei Vietnam Vets Saluted In L.A.

By Laurie Mochidome

LOS ANGELES — Japanese American Vietnam veterans received a warm, if not long overdue, tribute at a fund-raising dinner May 8.

According to Fumiko Fukuto, “Law in the Service of Human Needs,” was created in 1963. Half of CUNY’s faculty is composed of women and one-third including four Asian Americans are people of color.

Asian American students from a wide variety of backgrounds are presently enrolled at the Law School.

‘Yankie Dawg’ A First Rate Production

By George Johnston

"The story you are about to see is true. This play has been changed to protect the innocent … and the guilty … and the embarrassed." That disclaimer should precede Philip Kan Gotanda’s excellent play, Yankie Dawg You Do. The two-man drama, starring Sab Shimono as Vincent Chang and Kelvin Han Yee as Bradley Yamashita, is the story of a pair of actors, one old and one young, both very different, yet maybe more similar than they think. Yamashita (the pronounces it Yamashita) is a young, brash, idealistic up-and-coming actor, whose experience is mainly with Asian American community-based outlets. Chang is the older, pompously dignified veteran actor who has played every Asian male stereotype you can think of, from the simpering, kowtowing little brown brother to the menacing, vicious and (spectacled) yellow heathen. The actors meet at a Hollywood party and the audience gets to see them interact over the course of a few months.

Contradictory Emotions

For Yamashita, Chang evokes some contradictory emotions. He looks up to Chang on one hand for his presence, a familiar face on a late-night movie. On the other hand, Yamashita resents Chang for being an Asian American Step n’ Fetchit, forAsian Americans everywhere.

Shy, mused by Yamashita’s youthful "Asian American Step n’ Fetchit" (Chang), for Asian Americans everywhere.

rate performances throughout the entire play and both display good chemistry between themselves. Shimono really becomes another generation, for the characters of Chang and Yamashita, they appear to be cousins of many different people who have tried to make it in the crazy world of acting.

The look of the play also gets high marks, with the modernistic platform, great lighting and the Roy Lichtenstein-style lines projected over the background screens. The sound-effects and music are also first rate. Shimono's acting makes it difficult to dislike Chang, even though it would be easy to do. Yee, who served in Vietnam, is great, reminiscent of the late Martha Raye. Raye, who is a lieutenant in the U.S. Army in Vietnam for nine years, will withdraw her office as an essay depositors, endorsed nor connected to the American combat unit ever lost a man and woman who died, "it becomes a little bit harder for this country to ever again think we've done a good thing here after losing its sons in Vietnam," she said. Many of them have written about what had been the most momentous event of their lives. "When in the last generation, he said, many of them spoke their minds, part of the message they were sending was, 'We lost this war and neither did the Vietnamese. He's really another generation who served in Vietnam. In truth, Saigon fell to the Communists more than a year before the last American combat units had been withdrawn from Vietnam. Indeed, Vietnam was one of America's few wars where no major American combat unit ever laid down its arms and surrendered to the enemy.

If remembering the Americans who died, "it becomes a little bit harder for this country to ever again send another generation of young men off to fight on foreign soil. Then I think about all the good things here tonight," said Okamoto. And if a similar event should ever occur, he added, "the government and the people collectively had better be prepared to support (the service- men) while both doing the fighting and when they return."

The program, which was emceed by KUSC-TV Anchorwoman Triña Toyota, also honored former actress Martha Raye, a Combat veteran. The program was held in the U.S. Army in Vietnam for nine years of the war.
The Flat Earth Society never seems to want for prospective members. Flat Earthers believe that the Earth is flat, but that they disdain toouting out-of-ordinary thoughts even among their fellow believers. The most prominent Flat Earther is Saijiki Okuno, who was, it was decided, to quit his National Land Agency post in the Japanese cabinet for public statements about Japan’s role in World War II. In a widely reported speech, Okuno denied Japan’s aggression against China and Korea, but rather had fought to secure their own safety. This interpretation of history runs counter to the version accepted by most Japanese, which is that aggression by military forces to invade the mainland and ultimately to World War II.

Embarrassed, Prime Minister Noboru Takeshita pressured Okuno to resign. He did, but without resignation. He was stepping down, "not because I was wrong, but for the sake of Japan’s diplomatic relations with the United States.

The United States has its share of Flat Earthers. Among them are the men and women who write to newspapers saying redress payments should not be made. The enlarged Pearl Harbor and responsibility for the Bataan Death March. These people simply don’t know what has happened. I truly cannot, understand that the individuals benefiting from the redress bills passed by Congress don’t know what has happened.

Within hours after the War Department announced that Japanese Americans in California, our family home was turned to the ground instead of up. As we could verify with receipts or personal records we filed a claim for $27,000 and were notified as has been the case for all of us.

If you are interested in the subject of redress you might reflect unfavorably on Japanese Americans,” said S. Hayakawa (D-Calif.), “There are Japanese Americans who have a higher income than others, including Whites. For his reasons, his stereotyping reflects unfounded upon us.

I am a member of a millionaire owning considerable property in California. Which is easy to be considered. I have given this as a fact to you. I have gathered on his lecture tours and drawing his senator’s salary while he was in the Senate.

And back East he did well for himself throughout the war. So if he is feeling good today, it is at a cost to the nation. Under the President’s direction of the national government. The Public Welfare, Health, Employment, etc.

It is not a racist attitude, that our position is one of the most difficult because we are one of the largest ethnic minorities in the nation.

We Japanese Americans, the fear; the fears; the concerns; the burdens; the children; the grandchildren; the great-great-grandchildren; all these people are in this situation.

As I say, it is not a racist attitude, that we are not the only ones who were also murdered and have been held in camps, but we are one of the largest ethnic minorities in the nation.

It is also one of your concerns. And I would like to say that this is not the only time that we have been involved in this situa­tion.

Chicago's St. Xavier College for Women, graduated from the University of Chicago.

She married George Fujioka and they now have a 10-year-old daughter, where they raised their daughter, Donna and son, David. Fujioka has a variety of interests, worked as a bacteriologist, a center director at a YWCA, a customer service representative for Union Telephone, a high school teacher, an account executive for an advertising agency, and as an assistant to a business manager.

Community Service

Fujioka’s community service includes past involvement in the Congregational Church, United States Public Service Commission, and as the vice-president; a board member of the Diablo Valley Foundation for Education, a National Education Foundation Advisory Board for Public Affairs Training Course for Leaders in the Asian Pacific Community, the United Way, the Mt. Diablo Chapter of Junior League, as an area representative for the Girl Scouts. She is currently affiliated with the World Affairs Council of Alameda County, the Japanese American Library-the National Women’s Political Caucus of the National Women’s Political Caucus of California on Legislation; the Mt. Diablo Peace Committee; and the Japanese American Studies, the University of Chicago Alumni Association; and in 1987, she was co-chair with the Costa County “Women: Builders of Communities and Dreams” award for the Diablo Valley.

Fujioka’s JACL involvement goes back to 1961, when she was a board member of the Orange County Chapter. A charter member of the Diablo Valley Chapter, she has served as its first vice-president of membership (1977-78) and current secretary-treasurer (1988); and as president (two terms, 1980-81). In the NC-WNDC, she has been a board member since 1981 and is presently the NC-WNDC governor. She has also served as a member of the National Support Committee for the Women’s Concerns Conference committee (1985-87) and she testified in California State Senate Assembly and Senate hearings on his behalf.

She participated in Tri-District Conferences in 1983, 1985 and 1987, when she was a board member of the Tri-District Concerns Committee workshop, served as recorder in the “Sexual harassment” workshop and chaired the redress workshop. At the National JACL level, Fujioka has served as a member of the NC-WNDC (1981-82), served as chair of that committee (1980-81), was a member of the Ad Hoc Committee.

the Personnel Manual Update (1987), was a member of the ad hoc Ethics Committee, Procedures and Rules (1980-81), was a member of the Ad Hoc Committee, and a member of the Ad Hoc Committee on Ethics and Rules (1981-82), and first vice-president of the NC-WNDC (1983-84) and line supervisor, Totsopo Engineering Company (1963-66).

Platform

Fujioke states that “her record is of action and not just talk and will be down to seven headings. Under the ‘Work for a Just Society Based on Equality and Justice’ she would reassert a just conclusion; and advance the interests and protect the rights of Japanese Americans. Under the ‘Work for a Broader Membership and Other Services,’ she would seek to increase and retain membership, use technology to benefit our members, and promote intra-JACL communications.”

Under Fujioke’s ‘Encourage and Promote Intergenerational Leadership,” she would encourage older and more experienced leaders to assist younger leaders, and bring about leadership roles and still allow the latter room to explore. Under ‘Strengthen and Continue Promoting Our Organization,” she would support and encourage programs that address the needs of Japanese Americans and the Japanese American community, and build a membership-“Strengthen our Bond and Get Involved for JACL’s Future” program.

“Develop a Diversified and Secure Funding Base” is another area Fujioke emphasizes, saying, “The future will be determined by the support and encouragement of the membership.” She is also working to further her campaign, but the future is determined by the support and encouragement of the membership. "Strengthen our Bond and Get Involved for JACL’s Future” program.

In conclusion, Fujioke says, “For all these imperatives I pledge to be an active member of the JACL and to work for the best interest of the organization of JACL and our community.”

Guidelines for Uncovered Candidates
Teresa Maebori, chair of the National Nominations Committee, reports that at the present time, nominations are being submitted for every office, except vice president of planning and development.

Encouraging qualified individuals to run for office, Maebori states that "as a political entity, JACL's organizational structure must be flexible enough to enable the majority of chapters of her or his district council.

Although the candidate will not be officially recognized until Aug. 7 when the nominations close at the convention, Maebori states that this does not prevent him or her from publishing a biography and platform at his or her own expense in the Pacific Citizen or anywhere else.

Nisei Week for Public Affairs

Chery Kinoshita was born in Seattle, Wa., in 1941. She received a B.A. in sociology from the University of Washington in 1963, and an M.A. in social work from the University of California at Berkeley in 1967. She graduated magna cum laude. She and her husband, Mas, lived in Creative Counseling from 1969 to 1975 and from 1979 to 1984.

They have lived in Seattle, Washington, since 1984, where they are the Silver Pin Foundation. In Seattle, she and her husband, Mas, have been active in various community service organizations, such as municipal, state and federal government departments, and fund-raising seminars.

In her campaign for re-election as a JACL member of the Board of Directors, Kinoshita has participated in various community service organizations, such as the Seattle Jewish Community Center, the American Civil Liberties Union, and the American Jewish Committee. She has also been a member of the Seattle City Council, the Seattle Police Department, and the Seattle Fire Department.

In 1984, she received the Minor Masuda Community Service Award from the Seattle chapter of the JACL, and in 1985, she received the Minor Masuda Community Service Award from the United Nations Association of the United States.

Kinoshita has served as a community service organizer for the JACL since 1976, and has been a member of the JACL's Board of Directors since 1982.

According to Kinoshita, the goals and objectives for the vice president for public affairs of the national committee under its jurisdiction for the next biennium are:

- To increase the visibility and effectiveness of the JACL by promoting its activities and programs to the public;
- To increase the membership of the JACL by recruiting new members;
- To increase the effectiveness of the JACL's programs and services.

In 1986, Kinoshita was awarded the Silver Pin Foundation Award for her outstanding contributions to the JACL.

National Secretary-Treasurer

Alan Nishi was born in Sacramento, Calif., on Jan. 6, 1940. Raised on his parents' farm family in Davis, Calif., he graduated from Davis High School in 1958.

Nishi attended college at California State University at San Luis Obispo and graduated with honors in 1975 with a B.S. in Agricultural Journalism. For seven years, he was employed as an agricultural lending officer with the Farmers' Loan and Trust Co. in Stockton, Calif. Currently, he works at California First Bank in Roseville, Calif., as a community relations officer.

Community Service

Nishi has served as a board member of the Stockton East Rotary Club (1962-1968) and is a past member of Tracy Community Services Board (1973-1975), chairman and vice-chairman of the National Association of Credit Managers Eastern District (1974-1976), and a member of the Stockton Assembly (1974-1976).

Nishi has also been a member of the JACL board of directors since 1980, and has served as chairman of the JACL's Community Service Committee.

According to Nishi, the JACL's primary objective is in the pursuit of redress for the injustices suffered by all Japanese Americans, and for all Americans.

"We must not forget that JACL is a human and civic organization, and should not hesitate to take the lead in these types of issues," he says. "JACL should always be a redress issue organization, but also respond to other critical issues of civic importance, such as civil rights."
VP General Operations

Priscilla Ann Ouchida, a Sansei, has been married for years to husband Peter Tanaka. They reside in Sacramento, Calif., with one cat. Ouchida’s hobbies include travelling, volunteering, and gardening. She is also a lifelong member of the Sacramento Buddhist Church. Ouchida received her college education at California State University, Sacramento. Ouchida has worked with the California State Assembly since 1997, her first term, on the Ways and Means Committee, which helps to formulate the California State Assembly’s annual budgets and duties were budget review and program analysis of budgets totaling over $3 billion. Ouchida was responsible for managing an office budget of over $500,000, and a staff of 18 people.

She is currently employed as a legislative assistant to the Assembly Finance and Insurance Committee and is responsible for all facets of legislation introduced by Assemblyman Patrick Johnston, including evaluating legislation, conducting research, and working in compliance with legislative procedure.

Ouchida has served on project committees for legislative accomplishments from the Sacramento County Board of Supervisors, the Japanese American Citizens League, and Congressman Robert Matsui. She also received the Congressional Award in 1982 for legislative contributions from Asian Pacific American organizations in California, a statewide organization.

Community Service

As a volunteer for the Democratic Asian Legislative Staff Caucus, she developed and implemented a membership program geared toward registering newly naturalized citizens of Asian heritage. She also developed a system for assembling specialized political mail which could not be processed by machine.

Every year she organizes a group project to assist Christmas Promise, which provides gifts and food to needy families. Because of her concern for senior citizens, she has organized and donated for the past two years a Christmas holiday. She also serves on the executive board of the Northern California/Western Nevada Pacific Coast NCWPAN and has also served on the planning committee for the 1988 NCWPAN Leadership Conference. In 1987 she participated in the Washington, D.C., Leadership Class.

Over the years, Ouchida has worked with National staff on various projects, including 1982 legislation providing back pay to Japanese American employees who were fired from their jobs during WWII because of their race.

Platform Statement

I believe in a strong, vibrant, and growing JACL and I am committed to rebuilding JACL. The future of JACL will be in the hands of the Sansei and Yonsei—and we must make some assessments of how we can best prioritize our needs and the needs of these individuals. This may take us several years to accomplish our goals, so in that respect we will start looking at the needs and interests tomorrow.

I believe strongly in the well-being of the Japanese community that we serve. We believe in the importance of strengthening our ties and focusing on improving services to the chapters, because we must come together, JACL cannot regenerate itself.

We need to guide boards and officers with the tools with which to increase membership. I have developed some ideas, particularly at the local and district level which I believe can be implemented nationally. These programs focus on the family because I feel family involvement will ensure multi-generational exposure and potentially make our organization more relevant.

The organization’s leadership must also come to grips with conflict resolution methods. Culture conflicts are destructive to the organization. We must be prepared to disagree with one another at any level of the organization. Even brothers and sisters disagree among ourselves. We must respect that conflict will have a different approach. The key to our success approach is right or wrong—just different. And that different points of view are part of a constructive consensus process.

VP 1000 Club, Membership & Services

Robert Sakaguchi hails from Brighton, Colo., and is employed in Denver at the Colorado Department of Highways. He and his wife Linda have three daughters, Tracy, Tammy and Kristen. He attended the University of Colorado, where he earned a B.S. in Civil Engineering. Between 1967-70, he served in the U.S. Air Force. His hobbies include golf, fishing, climbing and gardening.

It is not often that one finds people who have donated an entire year of service to the JACL. Robert Sakaguchi is one of these people. This is the second year that Sakaguchi has served as the Membership chairman (1988); and vice president (1989). Sakaguchi is a dedicated member of the JACL who has devoted years of service to the organization. His dedication to the organization has been recognized with several awards, including the JACL’s Most Outstanding Membership Chairman Award in 1982 for legislative contributions from Asian Pacific American organizations in California, a statewide organization.

"I have waited a long time for this book and the story it tells," - from the introduction by Mike Mansfield, United States Ambassador to Japan.

"They Call Me Moses Masada"

This is the story of one man's crusade that helped to change history. No one has accomplished more for Japan and Americans than Moses Masada. As spokesperson for his people, he led a journey through the wilderness of discrimination and discovery; made possible for interned American citizens of Japanese ancestry to serve their country in combat, spearheaded the drive to eliminate race as a consideration in American naturalization laws, and helped through his tremendous Washington lobbying power—transform a portion Japanese dependent on U.S. handouts for survival into America's largest trading partner.

"This book covers a world of interesting material." —James A. Michener

"THEY CALL ME MOSES MASADA is the story not just of one man, but of a people. It would be read everywhere in all Americas." —Senator Spark M. Matsunaga

An "important and sobering book." —New York Times

"It is an intimate, moving story of broad significance:"

Academic Leadership Program is the opportunity it gives us to observe leadership styles and practices. It can include observing the leadership of individuals, groups, or organizations. Observations can be made both formally and informally. Leadership Program participants can attend formal and informal meetings, conferences, and events. They can also observe leadership styles and practices in various settings, such as schools, businesses, and community organizations. Leadership programs can be tailored to the needs and interests of participants, and they can provide valuable insights into leadership theory and practice.
