Mineta Bill Would Have Supreme Court Review WW2 Cases

SAN FRANCISCO - Rep. Norman Mineta (D-Calif.) will introduce a bill in Congress next month requiring the Supreme Court to review its decisions in the cases of Fred Korematsu, Gordon Hirabayashi and the late Minoru Yasui, according to JACL National President Cressey Nakagawa.

Nakagawa made the announcement at the JACL National Board meeting Sept. 17 during discussion about a proposal made during the Seattle JACL National Convention by Mike Masaoka. Masaoka wanted JACL to make an effort to have the Supreme Court review its decisions on the cases.

Nakagawa said that he spoke with Masaoka the previous night. Masaoka told him, "Norm will introduce a bill to persuade Congress to ask the Supreme Court to reverse its decisions on Yasui, Korematsu and Hirabayashi in the next session."

Disputing the constitutionality of the order, Yasui, Hirabayashi and Korematsu violated Executive Order 9066 during WW2. They to took their cases to the U.S. Supreme Court, which ruled against them.

Although the Supreme Court deci-sions still stand, Hirabayashi and Korematsu have since had their cases ruled in their favor in lower federal courts. Yasui was appealing his case until he died in November of 1986. His family tried to carry on the case, but it was decided that since the suit ended with the plaintiff's death.

Uyehara Resigning as Executive Director of JACL-LEC

SAN FRANCISCO - Grayce Uyehara, executive director of JACL-LEC, announced at the JACL National Board meeting Sept. 17 her decision to retire from the post on Sept. 30.

Uyehara's retirement will come almost three years to the day of her becoming executive director of JACL-LEC on Oct. 1, 1985, when she replaced John Tateishi. She was a major actor in the redress movement, organizing letter writing campaigns at the grassroots level as well as helping guide redress to its enactment at the

During the announcement, she cited Mollie Fujioka and Mae Takahashi for their work on redress. One of her last official acts will be to bost a dinner at the congressmembers who helped with the redress bill. The dinner will also recognize the major groups and individuals who assisted in redress.

Uyehara will be the keynote speaker at the annual meeting of the National Association of Japanese Canadians Oct. 8-10 in Montreal. She will also participate in the San Diego JACL's redress celebration, also in October.

While discussing her recent move, Uyehara revealed that she and her husband, Hiro have moved from West Chester, Pa., to Quaker retirement community in Medford, N.J. "It's a wonder I made it this weekend," she quipped. "I didn't even know where to find my clothes and shoes the other night when I had to pack.

After a round of applause from the board in appreciation of her dedication, Cherry Kinoshita said, "I think I speak for the board to say that we're going to miss Grayce . . . keep in

National Board Meeting

National Director Search to Begin Soon

By George Johnston

SAN FRANCISCO - Finding a new JACL national director was just one of the important priorities acted upon during the JACL National Board meeting held this past Saturday and Sunday. It was also significant since it was the first board meeting led by new JACL National President Cressey Nakagawa.

To fill the position as quickly as possible, a decision was made to begin advertising for the national director's position in mid-October. The ad will contain the proposed salary and other pertinent information. Interviews for the post are currently set to coincide with the next board meeting.

Resolution #7

Action was also initiated on genesis of forming a fact-finding presidential committee to investigate the controversial "healing" or "No No Boys" resolution. It was decided that the JACL staff would draw up options on factors such as costs, locations and committee make-up. This outline is due by the end of November so that board members can review it and find direction for the committee prior to the next board meeting.

At the National JACL Convention in August, the JACL National Council decided to form a committee to investigate the background of what happened between the JACL and the socalled "No No Boys." This was a result of a resolution by the Seattle Chapter to try to heal a rift in the Japanese American community.

The resolution was deferred until 1990 so that further study of the issue could be made. The resolution sought to apologize to Japanese American inanswered negatively to a questionnaire administered by the U.S. government regarding military conscription and allegiance to the United States. Those answering "no" to the two questions feel that the wartime JACL "branded" those who answered "no no" as disloyal. Others, however, feel that the JACL did nothing improper.

Program for Action

A workplan put together by the JACL staff to implement this biennium's program for action was submitted to the board for for approval. The three-page document outlined goals and objectives, as well as responsibilities for each item.

"I think that if we recognize right off what the goals are," said Bill Yoshino, acting national director, "it's going to be a lot easier to implement the things that the National Council asked us to do." The workplan received praise from the board and was approved with only a few changes.

One of the recent developments in the JACL to provide a service to and attract members was the initiation of a JACL/Sumitomo Bank Visa affinity card. A portion of the meeting was devoted to an overview by bank representative Stan Takemoto, who spoke about the credit card program. In what was probably one of the highlights of the meeting, almost everyone attending the meeting were presented with Sumitomo Gold Visa cards (Editor's note: See related story on page 5).

Public Affairs

Vice President of Public Affairs Cherry Kinoshita reported that the American Jewish Congress expressed interest in meeting with members of the JACL board during the next National Board meeting in February, a proposal which was approved by unanimous voice vote.

Kinoshita also reported that Mitsue Takahashi requested for the JACL to submit a letter supporting a review of her case by the California Supreme Court. Takahashi, a school teacher, was recently denied a chance to sue her school district for unlawful termination from her job for alleged incompetence. It was decided that Cressey Nakagawa would write the letter supporting the review of her case on behalf of the JACL

'Alarming' Figures'

New Vice President of Membership Services & 1000 Club Bob Sakaguchi announced "alarming" figures for JACL membership. According to Sakaguchi, JACL membership as of July 1988, was 20,048; the figure in December 1987 was 26,500. "I think the one of the things to remember here is that these figures," he said, "reflect up to July, and that we might have a few more after the membership campaign starts in October.

Sakaguchi, referring to the figures and the goals of the program for action, felt that JACL needs to "develop a very comprehensive and visionary membership development program during the next two years.

Office of Reparations Administration Establishes Redress Hotline, P.O. Box

WASHINGTON - The U.S. Department of Justice has created a toll-free number and a post office box to handle queries from those who may be eligible for compensation under H.R. 442, the Civil Liberties Act of 1987, it was announced Sept. 16 by Rep. Norman Mineta (D-Calif.).

"I am very pleased that the Justice Department has set up a contact point for those with questions, and for the thousands of people eager to confirm their eligibility for compensation under the landmark Civil Liberties Act," said

Those who have questions about their eligibility should contact the Justice Department's new Office of Reparations Administration.

The toll-free number, which was established Sept. 19, is (800) 228-8375. The number operates Mondays through Fridays, from 8:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. EDT. The new address is:

Department of Justice Office of Reparations Administration P.O. Box 66260 Washington, D.C. 20035-6260

The Office of Reparations Administration plans to cooperate directly with the National Archives to help verify eligibility. Those seeking documentation of their experiences during WW2 should no longer contact the Archives unless they are seeking the documentation for their own personal use

Letters to ORA declaring that one is eligible for compensation should include the full birth date, Social Security Number, maiden name (if applicable), current address, address at time of relocation or evacuation, name of War Relocation Authority camp and dates of internment (if applicable), and brief description of other cir-cumstances which would help in verifi-

Census Bill Cleared for House Vote

No More Offensive Products, Firm Assures U.S. Reps.

WASHINGTON - Sanrio, the Japanese company recently forced to discontinue its line of children's products, has responded to strong concerns voiced by three California lawmakers.

Reps. Robert Matsui, Norman Mineta and Julian Dixon (all D-Calif.) received an Aug. 24 letter from Shintaro Tsuji, CEO of Sanrio Co. in Tokyo, in response to objections they voiced against the firm last month.

The congressmen charged the company with displaying "insensitive and extremely disturbing" judgment in its use of derogatory depictions of Blacks as a marketing tool, as evidenced by its line of "Little Black Sambo" toys. The congressmen also requested a meeting with Sanrio officials to educate them on improving their relationship with American minorities.

Tsuji's letter assured Sanrio's recall of the toys and promised that the company would not deal in any products which could offend the justified feelings of any group."

of a bill earlier introduced by Matsui in response to the bureau's original plan for the 1990 census. Last fall, the bureau had announced that it would rely on information from its sample questionnaire, which would in effect lump all Asian and Pacific Island Americans into one group. In May, the bureau assured the congressman it

"Despite what the bureau might hope, this issue is not about to go away," said Matsui. "We have the momentum to block this ill-fated plan before the 100th Congress adjourns. The delivery of many federal and local services depends directly on an accurate census count. I am confident my colleagues will agree that Asian Americans deserve a fair and accurate

NEWS IN BRIEF

Hayes Nominated for Calif. State Treasurer

SACRAMENTO - State Auditor General Thomas W. Hayes has been nominated for the post of California state treasurer by Gov. George Deukmejian. If confirmed by the state Legislature, Hayes, 42, will assume the office vacated by Democrat Jesse Unruh, who died last year. It has been speculated that Hayes was chosen because he would easily win legislative confirmation. Hayes, who is not affiliated with any political party, has been described as a longtime, respected employee of the state Legislature. Confirmation of Deukmejian's first choice, Rep. Daniel Lungren of Long Beach, was rejected by the state Senate and, subsequently, the state Supreme Court.

PHOTOGRAPHIC EXHIBIT—"Kodomo No Tameni," an exhibit documenting the Japanese American community on Bainbridge Island, Wash., from 1883 to 1983, will be open to the public, free of charge, at the Bainbridge Island High School library on Oct. 2, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. A special program to coincide with the exhibit's opening day will include a panel discussion of Japanese Americans who will relate their feelings on what it means to be a U.S. citizen. Pictured is a photograph of Zenmatsu Seko, who is driving one of the first islandowned trucks during the 2nd annual Bainbridge Island Fair in 1923.

Business League to Hold Forum on U.S.-Japan Trade

LOS ANGELES - The Asian Business League will present its Pacific Rim Trade Forum on Sept. 27 at the Sheraton Grande Hotel. This year's forum, entitled "Steaks for Sushi-Current U.S./Japan Trade Issues and Opportunities," has been selected as an official event of Japan Week L.A. 1988, an annual celebration of the friendship and bond which exists between Japan and Los Angeles.

The program will begin at 6 p.m. with a no-host cocktail reception. After dinner, a panel of industry specialists will discuss how trade imbalance has affected the way U.S. and Japanese companies are doing business in Southern California and in Japan and what future actions these companies plan to take to resolve the problems caused by this imbalance.

The program will feature Yoshihiro Nakamura, Deputy Consul General of Japan, as its keynote speaker. Forum panelists include John Q. Anderson, a principal with the consulting firm of McKinsey & Co. and leader of its International Management Group; Cedrick Shimo, vice president and secretary of Honda International Trading Corp.; and Shiro Wakabayashi, executive vice president of California First Bank and head of the bank's statewide Japanese corporation group.

WASHINGTON, D.C. - The U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) has filed a suit in the Federal Court in the District of Oregon charging Hyster, a major manufacturer of lift trucks, with national origin discrimination against Max K. Ozawa, who had complained about the ads to Hyster's higher management, charged that the depiction of a warlike Kabuki actor, a Samurai with a partially drawn sword, and a Sumo wrestler in the company's ads aroused anti-Japanese sentiment by portraying Japanese race as a "brutal, threatening and fierce people.

Others, including the JACL and the Asian American Legal Defense and Education Fund, joined him in stating that the advertisements were racially derogatory in nature. Hyster's own

Games Show Korea's Vitality

THE TELEVISED opening ceremonies of the Olympic Games in Seoul, Korea, were a colorful, moving spectacle. They spoke of the vitality, the imagination, discipline, talent and pride of a people and

The verve with which the Koreans are staging the Olympics is all the more remarkable in view of that nation's recent history. For more than four decades Korea was colonized by Japan in a harsh occupation that sought to destroy the Korean culture. That occupation was ended by Japan's defeat in World War II, but Korea's liberation was tainted by Allied error in allowing the northern half of the peninsula to come under Soviet influence.

Less than five years later, the communist North Korea government attacked South Korea. That war was fought to a devastating and uneasy stalemate by the United States and other United Nations powers. It leveled Seoul, destroyed hundreds of villages, and left the South an economic basket case. It also opened the way for tens of thousands of Korea's most enterprising and aggressive citizens to migrate to the United States under provisions of the Walter-McCarran Act, pushed through Congress by JACL to eliminate racial bias from American immigration and naturali-

But obviously all of Korea's talent was not drained away. Korea's economic recovery has been phenomenal. As hosts for the Olympic Games, Korea has demonstrated impressive originality, organizational ability and a flare for showmanship.

Korean Americans have a right to be proud of the performance of their ancestral homeland. And all Americans can be pleased that some of the Korean culture and determination to succeed have been brought to the United States by immigrants. One of the strengths of America is the diversity of the cultures that make up the nation. The Koreans, as well as the Japanese and so many other cultural groups, have contributed, and will continue to contribute, to this nation's greatness.

Some of My Best Friends "R"

INVITED TO ATTEND a black-tie soiree of the New Jersey Republican party held this past weekend, I hesitated: after all, I wasn't quite sure that my outfit would still fit; also whether it was still in style, even though it replaced an earlier one which really was out of style. (Our children tease me not to throw the first one away "because you'll never know, it might come back into style.") Well, the second one did fit (sort of) and it wasn't that far out of style.

So, I went.

THERE WERE state troopers guiding traffic and as I maneuvered to drive in, I was waved on to another entry further down the road. I was puzzled. Later, I noted that only stretch limousines were coming through the first entry; my Prelude was a "shorty" which wouldn't begin to qualify. Parking attendants crisply and efficiently took charge.

I was impressed. I liked the way

"R's" did business

AFTER WALKING ALONG a red carpet, I saw a band inside playing tunes from the '60s and '70s. The welldressed ladies looked elegant, and if those weren't rhinestones, some of them were walking around weighed down in a fortune. Or the ones I chatted with, they were all gracious and friendly. As for the men, I'd almost swear I saw at least three Lee Iacocca look-alikes. Very few Blacks, including one group that was congregated at a table whose sanctum I thought of entering except I couldn't think up a non-obvious approach.

No other Asian, except for one burly guy who looked Samoan.

GOV. TOM KEAN was the guest of honor. In the crowd, he was easy to locate because of the milling about and particularly the security guards, including one tall one who could look over the heads of the crowd. (The secpeople are cinches to spot. don't smile, they keep scanning like radar, and they wear earphones in their ear.) The governor, by the way, is highly-rated as a very competent executive. I understand he will be leaving after his term is completed next year. And there were candidates all about, including "Pete" Dawkins who is opposing incumbent U.S. Sen. Frank R. Lautenberg.

Now, I've met both.

I SUPPOSE there were a few other non-Republicans in attendance, but being from out-of-state and not knowing the various political personages in attendance, I must admit that I felt a bit isolated. I tried to strike up conversations whenever I could, but unless there's a mutuality of acquaintanceship, one can quickly run out of topics to discuss. At my table, however, some promising acquaintanceships were established and I genuinely like the fine folks I met.

Indeed, I hope to see some of them

The Limited Future of Nisei Leadership

Twice in recent weeks I've been at gatherings of old Nisei friends, mostly people I haven't seen for years if not decades. If the passage of time is not obvious each morning when I look into the mirror to shave, it was startlingly apparent at these get-togethers. Wrinkles. Gray hair or no hair at all. Paunches. The tell-tale shuffle that has replaced purposeful strides.

Despite all that, we enjoyed ourselves. Memories that had been hidden for years surfaced and were vivid again. We talked about people we had known, and the pleasurable things we had done together. As one of the old gang observed, it's an odd thing that we seem to remember clearly something that happened 50 or 60 years ago, but we can't recall what we had for dinner last night.

Few of us who grew up during the same era have distinguished ourselves. None grew very rich or very prominent, but most, I would say, shaped reasonably good lives and now live reasonably comfortably in retirement. Is there much more that one could ask for? One might say this is remarkable in view of humble beginnings and prejudice and discrimination, and the most traumatic experience of all, the Evacuation, which might have destroyed a lesser people. It didn't, because we wouldn't let it.

But more and more I discovered that our conversation would drift toward current health concerns. Matters like high cholesterol, low fat diets, blood pressure and medication for keeping it under control, strokes, heart attacks and that dreaded C word, cancer.

We talked, too, of who had died since last we met, and were made aware-not morbidly but simply aware-of our own mortality. The thought was left unspoken, but surely each wondered how many of us would be gone when next we meet.

If the average age, not necessarily the median age, of Nisei was about 18 at the time of the Evacuation, those kids who were 18 in 1942 would be 60 years old this year. That tells you something of the graying of the Nisei generation and its limited future as an economic or leadership force.

If Japanese Americans are to retain their identity, then it is high time the Sansei and Yonsei generations step forward. Not that they haven't, of course. They played a highly prominent role in the recent national JACL convention, but still their profile was low in relation to their numbers, skills and leadership abilities.

There is another side to this matter that deserves thought. Is retention of Japanese American identity desirable or important? A couple of decades ago the answer would have been no. Today it would be a firm yes. Today the emphasis is on retaining ethnic culture and ethnic identity in the American stew pot. Celebrating our differences is just fine, provided we don't overlook our mutual interests as Americans. What the national attitude will be at the turn of the century, only a dozen years ahead, is anyone's guess.

I started to write a column about some geezers getting together to shoot the breeze, and it turned into quite something else. Excuse me. You know how it is with old guys.

THE BEAR FACTS

NEAL TANIGUCHI

Program Is an Investment in Community's Future

We have completed yet another year of the JACL National Scholarship Program, and this year's scholarship supplement to the Pacific Citizen (Sept. 16 P.C.) showcased the many highly qualified recipients of the 1988 scholarships. On behalf of the National JACL, I congratulate all of the scholarship recipients for their achievements and hard work

The scholarship program is perhaps cated to the sport of judo. The judo scholarship, dedicated to the late Yutaka Nakazawa, will be awarded to an individual aspiring to study or compete in judo in college.

Our scholarship program is important because we are investing in our community's as well as our country's future. Through the JACL National Scholarship Program, our youth are encouraged to develop their respective talents and interests for the benefit of society, in addition to furthering their own academic careers. The youth that we encourage and challenge today will become the business and political leaders, professionals, journalists, artists, and musicians of tomorrow.

In short, you will find the backgrounds of all of the recipients this year indicative of the success of the National Scholarship Program. However, the program's sucess was also due, in part, to the contributions of past and present members of the

The growth in size of the scholarship program is attributable to all of these contributions, and there is no reason to believe that the scholarship program will not continue to grow.

With this in mind, allow the scholarship program to expand and prosper by contributing to the National Scholarship Program and investing in our community's and country's future.

the JACL's longest continuing program and has been in existence for 42 years. Since the JACL awarded its first scholarships in 1946, the national scholarship program has steadily grown to an endowment exceeding $500,000, with 37 scholarships totaling more than $50,000. Since 1983, the JACL has awarded over a quarter million dollars to nearly 200 promising individuals studying a variety of disciplines including law, medicine, the fine arts, as well as disciplines within the sciences, humanities, and social

What makes our scholarship program unique is that it encourages our youth to pursue different disciplines. For example, the scholarship program offers awards to individuals studying economics and business, law, medicine, creative arts, and the performing arts. One scholarship is dedicated to graduate research on cancer, and beginning in 1990, the scholarship program will offer a scholarship dedi-

BOARD MEETING

During this portion of the meeting, Mas Hironaka and Tom Arima spoke about the status quo of the 1000 Club and the lifetime membership dues. During a promotion to add new 1000 Club members, the price was temporarily dropped to $500 dollars, with a deadline of the 1986-88 biennium for the reduced fee. However, about a dozen people sent in membership checks of $500 since the end of the National Convention. As a result, a motion was made to keep the rate of $500 until Jan. 1, 1989, at which time it will go to $1000.

Sakaguchi asked Alan Nishi, JACL treasurer, to report on the latest news of the SRS membership program. Nishi reported that the JACL is now free of the SRS contract and that their final membership campaign will take place this fall.

Treasurer's Report

During the treasuer's report, Nishi reported some bad news on the fiscal front. "We are falling behind on membership from last year-we're approximately $10,000 behind as far as last year's pace on individual memberships and also about $25,000 behind on family memberships," stated Nishi.

Based on past trends, however, Nishi estimated that about $120,000 will be coming in during the next four months, with possibly $5,000-10,000 of that actually early renewals, meaning a shortfall of about $30,000-40,000 on revenues for membership.

One of the reasons for the shortfall is that the SRS renewal program that was supposed to begin last spring is just now beginning. "Hopefully, that should be able to reach about $30,000," related Nishi. He also informed the board that about $6,000-8,000 will be forthcoming from the JACL Sweepstakes. He concluded by stating, "We are now in a position where we are going to have to borrow again this year.

President's Remarks

At the beginning of the meeting, Nakagawa emphasized that he felt that fundraising was one of the responsibilities of each board members. The board seemed to agree, with PSWDC Gov. J.D. Hokoyama adding that it would be good to put together an informational packet to help "sell" JACL to potential donors.

Nakagawa only had one National Committee appointment to announce at the meeting, that of JACL legal counsel, which will be chaired by Don Tamaki, with major assistance from Dale Minami. Both are San Franciscoarea attorneys best known for their work in the coram nobis cases. The appointments were approved quickly and enthusiastically.

Nakagawa also announced later in the meeting that he has begun scheduling dates of availability for community

Additional Information

At the close of the meeting, three outgoing district governors, Mollie Fujioka, Steve Hasegawa and Mae Takahashi, were presented awards of appreciation for their service to their districts and the JACL.

The next two meetings were scheduled for Feb. 3-5, 1989 and May 19-21, 1989. Complete board motions will appear next issue.

Director - Deriver (3x), L.A., S.F.

Information and an application form for the card will be direct mailed to all California JACL members and chapters about Oct. 1.

Stan Takemoto, manager of Sumitomo's Credit Card Department, anticipates the cards will be mailed to qualified applicants within a week of receipt of the applications by the bank.

The bank is also investigating the issuance of the card outside of California. Takemoto said, "As a California state chartered bank, we are faced with barriers in a few states, but we have made a commitment to explore all possible avenues to expand this program nationwide."

The Japanese Through American Eyes

Sheila K. Johnson

This book takes a serious look at American attitudes and stereotypes about Japan and the Japan-nese from World War II to the present. Drawing from the products of popular culture-novels, magazines, movies, television, cartoons, etc.--it reveals both how American attitudes toward Japan have changed and how certain themes, though mutually contra-dictory, stubbornly persist. The author includes a chapter on the dilemma of Japanese-Americans, toward whom American attitudes have ranged from intense hostility to guilt to acceptance. Illus. $22.50

POETIC REFLECTIONS OF THE TULE LAKE INTERNMENT CAMP 1944 (RIN NO HANA). Violet Matsuda de Cristoforo, 20121 Portola Dr., Salinas, CA 93908.; 1987©, personal edition.

A long delayed book of free-form haiku with poignant English translations by the author dwells on her wartime internment experiences at Tule Lake. The emotions that evoked the poets in camp to commit them on paper and ink still surge on reading the observations by Violet de Cristoforo, the former Salinas Valley JACL redress chair. - H.H.

JACL to Address Redress Concerns in Chicago

CHICAGO - Since President Reagan signed the redress bill, the JACL Midwest district regional office has been deluged with calls from people with questions on how to apply for redress. Realizing a need in the community for an opportunity to ask questions, the JACL has decided to hold several question and answer meetings.

The first of these meetings will be held at Heiwa Terrace for the residents and their relatives on Sept. 25, beginning at 3 p.m. The second, which will be open to the public, will be held at the Japanese American Service Committee, 4427 N. Clark St., on Oct. 15, from 7:30 p.m. Since fire department regulations prohibit over-crowding, doors will be closed when the room is filled to capacity. Subsequent meetings will be held if there is a need.

For further information, call the JACL Midwest district regional office at (312) 728-7170.

EW PLAYERS

Continued from page 2 woman's search for the truth about her family, from New York writer D.A. Tsufura. A special performance piece by Karen Yamashita, Hannah Kushoh: An American Butoh, explores Western perceptions about the Japanese women, in a collaboration of dance, theatre, video and music.

For more information, call East West Players at (213) 660-0366.
