Vets' Group Plans Injunction to Stop Redress

WASHINGTON — A group called the American War Veterans Relief Association (AWVRA) has threatened to file an injunction challenging the constitutionality of Public Law 100-383, a law that authorizes the payment of $20,000 and a public apology from the U.S. Congress. This is patently absurd.

Vets related the ORA has spoken at more than 50 meetings in 13 different states and metropolitan areas. In addition, he noted that it has participated in free radio and television programs throughout the country. According to Turner, 475 community organizations throughout the United States have been notified of the simmering dispute. The agency has come under fire for its handling of redress payments and the administration of the 1988 Civil Liberties Act. In response to a query from Early, Turner stated that the Justice Department has not been able to identify any groups that have put up a system whereby hate crimes are added to the standard federal crime data collected.

Robert Matus (D-Calif.), who has authored the hate crimes bill, said, "Law enforcement organizations currently have no up-to-date, comprehensive statistics to help them fight such crimes. This legislation is a start. Clearly, it is not going to single-handedly stop these despicable acts. But it will help us gain more insight into this form of violence so we as a nation can react more effectively to this tragedy." His amendment was approved by the Senate on December 3, 1990.

Hate Crimes Bill Introduced in Congress

WASHINGTON — A bill requiring the federal government to keep statistics on "hate crimes" was reintroduced in Congress Feb. 22 by Rep. John Conyers (D-Mich.) and Sen. Paul Simon (D-Ill.). The Senate version, sponsored by Sen. Ted Kennedy (D-Mass.), was introduced into both chambers of Congress and would require the U.S. Justice Department to annually collect and publish data on crimes based on race, religion and sexual orientation.

"Expanding upon the importance of this bill," Rep. Norman Mineta (D-Calif.) said, "there is no question that these crimes and the attitudes which provoke them have a detrimental impact. How can we begin to fight them when the very cause is unknown?"

JACL Urging State Investigation of Jan. Stockton School Shooting

SACRAMENTO — The National JACL has contacted California State Attorney General John Van den Kamp and the Sacramento Police Department to request an investigation into the facts and circumstances surrounding the January stabbing death of a 16-year-old boy at Stockton's School. The shooting was incidentally related to an incident involving the American War Veterans Relief Association apparently plans to file an injunction "to stop redress payments and the administration of the Civil Liberties Act. In response to a query from Early, Turner stated that the Justice Department has not been able to identify any groups that have put up a system whereby hate crimes are added to the standard federal crime data collected. ST. LOUIS, Mo. - About 75 members and guests attended the St. Louis JACL chapter installation dinner Jan. 28 at Garevells Restaurant to hear Irene Hirozane, director of the Japanese American National Museum. She stressed the need to form a board, preserve, collect information and artifacts before they are destroyed or lost.

Hirozane felt, however, it is not necessary or desirable that all items be housed in the museum but that each individual family should collect and preserve information and artifacts concerning their own families. National data banks could be initiated to catalog the location of the various items so that in the future a computer search can be made.

Incoming President Michael Hoshiko and the board members sworn in by John Haya hi, the Midwest Project.

A charter member of Placer County JACL, founded in 1923, and former chapter presi­ dent, the eldest of eight children who was born on July 25, 1929, and retired in 1982 after he bought a ranch in Rocklin in 1969, the same year and place he was born and raised. Cosmo served with the military intelligence division during World War II for value in the Central and South Pacific campaigns.

Born in Rocklin, Calif., the son of a Japanese immigrant family, in 1944, two of his brothers were serving in the Pacific with the 442nd and 73rd Calvary in the Philippines. Upon his return home in 1945, he was able to buy the ranch on the Lossmore ranch first-farmed and burned to the ground by local "hoosiers" protesting the Japanese. The ranch is still owned by the family.

For his work with the Boy Scouts, he was awarded the Silver Beaver in 1968, also active with the Boy Scouts, he was a member of Lions, American Cancer Society and St. Mary's Alumni. He is survived by his wife, Susan and two daughters, Colleen Waker, Cabal Alito, and Taki Okusa. Gladys Inouye (Yuba City), Edith Okaichi (Palos Altos), and a grandchild.

5 JACL Chapters Co-Sponsor Kinen-hi Ceremonies at Salinas Assembly Campsite

By Fred Osbina

SALINAS, Calif. - The historic Kinen-hi Japanese Garden in the majestic, 105-acre student-industrial California Rodeo Ground, the one time infamous temporary processing assembly center for thousands of Central Japan Central Coast Japanese Americans in Salinas, was the scene of the Day of Remembrance, Feb. 19.

The brief, impressive Sunday afternoon ceremony was sponsored by the area's Japanese American League chapters—Monterey Peninsula Citizens, Salinas Valley Citizens, and Sakamotogawa.

Paul Ichau, vice president, Salinas JACL, chair the commerorative program and was followed by a reception at Buddhist Temple of Salinas, headed by Masako Ishii, and Helen Kitagi, "Tate" Shiromi and Harry Sakasegawa.

Urgent Need to Preserve Nikkei Artifacts, Information Stressed

The Kinen-hi Japanese Garden is located just east of the Rodeo Ground's Sherwood Hall Community Center complex and in adjacent to the unique Hat in the Stands landmark, a colorful trio of huge over-sized hats, symbolizing this city's famous annual summer western round-up week.

A meaningful, sober reminder of World War Two, the memorial garden, maintained by the area's five JACL chapters through the supervision of Harry Sakasegawa.

The Day of Remembrance is a memorable occasion that signified the 47th anniversary of the Feb. 19, 1942 issuance of Executive Order 9066 by President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, which authorized the West Coast evacuation and forced internment of 110,000 Japanese Americans into 10 concentration camps.

not return to their prewar homes; those born outside camp but whose parents lived in the exclusion zone before the war were also released. The right to return was restricted by the military, and minors who were taken to Japan during the war.

Naokatsu emphasized that the final decision on eligibility rests with the Department of Justice.

- States' Treatment of Redress Payments—Acting Director Rita Takahashi reported that she had written letters to the governors of all 50 states to find out how each state plans to treat redress payments. At the time of the LEC meeting, 25 governors had responded. Most of the 25 states, following federal policy, will set up redress payments. In addition, most will not reduce aid from state welfare and Medi­care, food stamps, and Aid to Families with Dependent Children.

A summary of the 23 states' policies can be found in the February/March issue of GORP.

JAC/LI MEETING

"We have learned that the 2,000 Central American refugees who seek asylum in the United States are "as a rule" released in 48 hours. By far the majority are released in 24 hours. The notation on his bill read "Jap/Amer," it was signed by the Immigration and Naturalization Service commissioner Alan Nelson on Feb. 20 and announced by the Catholic bishop of Corpus Christi, who is working closely with the Immigration and Naturalization Service commissioner. The bishop said, "We intend to send a strong signal to those people who have the mistaken idea that they merely filling a frivolous asylum claim, they may stay in the United States..."

"It was also heartening by your prompt response and thoughtful letter, which reinforces your explanation that the incident was certainly unplanned and inadvertent. I am confident that your sincere response will help us to prevent this from happening again at our hotel.

Mineta concluded his letter by writ­ing that as a result of the hotel's response. In a call to the U.S. State Depart­ment of Justice, the bishop expressed his appreciation for the hotel's prompt response and thoughtful letter, which reinforces his explanation that the incident was certainly unplanned and inadvertent. He is confident that your sincere response will help to prevent this from happening again at the hotel.

Texas Bishops Denounce 'Concentration Camp' for Latins in Austin

"Obviously we are about to witness the creation of the largest concentration camp on U.S. soil since the incarcer­ation of Japanese Americans during World War II—a shameful page in our history," the bishops said of the detention plan.

DETAINING those denied asylum in state prisons or possibly a tent city in the Rio Grande Valley... the bishops added, will only "exacerbate a volatile situation."

In a call to the U.S. State Depart­ment to revise U.S. policy in Central America, the bishops said, "Civil war in Central America has killed tens of thousands; caused many more to be raped, tortured and maimed; forced families from their homes; made finding, educating and rearing families impossible and rampant unemployment; sown fear and death of police action against entire families; and made hope for the children an impossibility in the hearts of parents."

These, the bishops said, are the reasons Central Americans are fleeing their nations and founding U.S. bor­der.

Mineta Upset by Hotel's Advertisement

LOS ANGELES - While attending a board meeting of the Japanese American National Museum on Feb. 18, Rep. Norman Mineta (D-Cali) encoun­tered a rude shock when he stumbled on an advertisement at the door to a hotel. The reason? Mineta later learned that the hotel was the president of Stouffer Hotels as ur­ging him that the company did not con­miserate that this was not the abbreviation for "JAPAN American National Museum."

G. Mineta wrote a letter to the hotel informing its manager, Tim­my Ross, that the abbreviation for "Japan" used on the hotel sign was incorrect. In his letter, Mineta wrote: "Of course, it is an important issue of proper abbrevia­tion and accuracy problem. The proper abbrevia­tion for 'Japan' and 'Japanese' are 'LP.' and 'JAPAN' respectively."

The congressman from California received a letter in response from Rus­sia, stating he was not a Russian-speaking writer, and replied, and said I was heartened to hear that this offensive word "JAPAN" is not included in your computer program, that this was not the abbreviation used for other guests from the Japanese American National Museum, and that the abbreviation was an inappropri­ate use of their name.

Pima Indians Recall Injustice Against Japanese Americans

By Joanne Bertsche

In November, Laura Barmo (executive director, Evanston/Northshore YWCA), Betty Korshak, and I at Phoenix. Our visit was on Veterans Day, 2003. We were part of over 100 YWCA women around to spend their holiday showing our gratitude.

Imagine, their history was full of injustice. West Coast in 1942, the year after Pearl Harbor, the U.S. government ordered 110,000 Japanese Americans to be relocated away before relocation.

In his Pacific Citizen cartoon a few weeks ago, Pete Hironaka captured the irrationality of the situation. Before the war, anti-alien land purchase interests in a Midwest steel company were destroyed. The man snaps awake and reflects on the foolishness of the situation. In the first panel, the announcer says: “A London-based group has acquired American real estate. Before the war, anti-alien land purchase interests in a Midwest steel company were destroyed.” In the last panel, the announcer says: “Japanese to acquire American real estate. Before the war, anti-alien land purchase interests in a Midwest steel company were destroyed.”

Japanese interests have bought property in the United States has concerned many Americans, including many, he often used to lie about his past.

He asked for readers of this column to send in their favorite Japanese American stories and got a bunch of them which I used in a subsequent column. Most of them fell in the category of language errors or puns which are rather unfunny for those who do not understand Japanese.

Just about three years ago Dr. Te-tudzu Kamiya, then (and maybe still) director of Asian American studies at the University of Washington asked for help in collecting examples of Japanese American humor. He wrote that Japanese Americans allegedly do not have a good sense of humor, and he was looking for evidence to disprove that contention.

Kamiya sent along some samples which I passed along:

What kind of food does a Japanese American cannibal eat? Answer: Ramen.

What did the Japanese American lumberjack exclaim when he dropped his axe on his foot? Answer: Aye-goe, no-mo-tso.

I asked for readers of this column to send in their favorite Japanese American stories and got a bunch of them which I used in a subsequent column. Most of them fell in the category of language errors or puns which are rather unfunny for those who do not understand Japanese.

The best of the lot in my opinion was from Niki Sawada Bridges which Joe Oyama sent along. It’s simple: “Haiku is not haiku.” Okay, I’ll explain. It’s the word of an egg which are a sushi ingredient and it has a question, “How much?” Haiku is a fish and also a sushi ingredient, and close to the pelican “How much?” Thus, “Haiku is not haiku. Don’t get it? Read it again, you’ll get it.”

We reviewed the subject as a collection of letters that arrived recently. Ms. Odo of Federal Way, Wash., which was only a wide place in the road between Seattle and Tacoma when it was caught, all those old columns were offered in a printable format.

“Do you know the name of the Kamikaze pilot who flew 37 missions?”

Chicken Teriyaki.

And Yoko of San Diego sent along a clipping about the Rev. Jack Ellison, a Methodist minister who uses ventriloquist which he learned from watching Edgar Bergen movies, to attract Japanese to Christianity. The amusing part of the story is how Noda became a preacher. It seems that in his youth, he attended a seminary given by Toyohiko Kagawa, the famous evangelist.

Kagawa asked Noda, “What are you going to do with your life? If you don’t know, why don’t you become a minister?” The Japanese word for minister is boke. Noda thought Kagawa had said bolahung (bolahung) and said, “Yes, sir.”

Uchida says the story reminded him of the American GI who said to a cow: “Little Japanese chicken, Anna you here draw me.” In Japan, he meant odd, so the GI’s effort at conversation came out, “You’re odd, aren’t you?”

Do you have some stories? Send them along and we’ll share them with readers of this column. All of us can use a little laughter, can’t we?

YEAR’S ERA FROM SHOWA TO HEISEI
SACRAMENTO, Calif. — State Assemblyman Richard E. Ford, D-Creater, introduced legislation Friday, Feb. 26, requiring all state agencies to stop classifying all Asian and Pacific Islanders as a separate ethnic group from all other categories that distinguish each major group when conducting demographic surveys of residents or workers.

"Our official state policy has been that all Asians look alike, act alike, and therefore, should be treated alike," said Ford, whose district contains sizable Asian and Pacific Islander communities. "It is one of the main recommendations of Attorney General Van De Kamp's Task Force on the Asian American Advisory Committee, whose final report was released last month.

"This bill translates the victory at the federal level with the Census Bureau and passage of the Asian American and Pacific Islander Act of 1990 onto the state level," Ford conceded. Ironically, California law now requires separate classification of Filipinos in the state surveys but makes no similar provisions for any other ethnic group.

"Such statutes are but one of the classifications which make up our Asian and Pacific Islander community represent almost 10% of the state's population and will grow to over 14% by the end of this decade," Ford argued. "It is time we stopped paying more attention to these complex, diverse, and fast-growing communities in our midst."

Organizational Changes Are an Enormous Task

Recently I was appointed by Cres­centa Valley Discrimination Com­mittee to serve as the chairperson of the Long Range Planning Committee. As a new committee, it is an honor to be a part of the committee and assisted by a representative member of the appropriate group.

With the help of Bill Yoshida, recently appointed to serve as a secretary, we will be able to move forward.

Workshops are also being planned at the California tri-district meeting in April, the Mountain Plaines/Western Eastern tri-district meeting in early August and the Pacific Northwest/Central West district meeting in late August.

At its recent meeting in February, the planning committee recommended that the planning committee include a reevaluation of the JACL organizational structure in our planning process. Since our present mission statement will also be reviewed in this process, a different organizational structure could be indicated to meet our new goals.

This column will serve as a means of keeping our members informed about the progress of the planning committee.

Summary information from district meetings will be reported on at the JACL district planning workshops which are planned to be held at each JACL dis­

FLOYD Introduces Legislation to Distinguish Asian Pacific Groups

said, "The introduction by the American War Veterans Relief Association most certainly represents a serious attempt to correct a major problem which our organization has been concerned about for quite some time. It is our hope that the introduction of this legislation and the support given it by the U.S. Congress will bring about long overdue changes to current immigration laws that provide for an end to the injustices that are now being committed against Asian Americans."

"I believe that such legislation is not only long overdue, but is necessary to ensure that future generations of Asian Americans have equal opportunities to achieve the American Dream."
