Indianapolis Attorney Appointed Washington JACL-LEC Director

INDIANAPOLIS - JoAnne Kagiwada will begin duties as the executive director of Legislative Education Committee of the JACL May 1, according to Jerry Enomoto, JACL-LEC chair-

Kagiwada will replace Rita Takahashi, who has been serving as both JACL-LEC associate director and JACL Washington representative. Takahashi will remain at the JACL Washington, D.C. office indefinitely to help with Kagiwada's transition.

Takahashi officially leaves both positions at the end of April, after which she said she hopes to "return to academia.'

Calif. History Textbook Revision Sought

SACRAMENTO, Calif. - Assemblywoman Jackie Spier (D-South San Francisco, San Mateo) is urging state and local schools to adopt instructional materials that relate the World War II experiences of Japanese Americans in light of the findings of the Commission of the Wartime Relocation and Internment of Civilians. Her Assembly Concurrent Resolution 37 was heard by the Assembly Committee on Education on April 18. The resolution stemmed from the examination of textbooks by the San Francisco JACL and the report of its textbook revision committee, chapter president Greg Marutani added. Joining in the resolution were 15 Assembly members and State Sen. Milton Marks.

Councilman Woo Wins; Rose Ochi in Run-off

LOS ANGELES-In the lowest voter turnout for a primary election, Councilman Michael Woo (13th District) received 71% of the votes (13,673) over four opponents April 11 to win re-election. The district is diverse ethnically (5% Asian) and stretches from Hollywood, over the Cahuenga hills to Studio City

Mayor Bradley's executive assistant Rose Ochi, running for the second district vacancy in the L.A. Community College Board, received 33% (85,061) to lead in the six-way race and will face Pat Owens in the June 6 run-off. The mayor was re-elected for an unprecedented fifth term the same day.

Japan-Style High School Opens in Tennessee

SWEETWATER, Tenn.-Meiji Gakuin High School, fully accredited by the Japanese Ministry of Education, opens its door this Saturday (April 23) as a co-ed 10th-11th-12th grade institution here—a community of 5,300 between Knoxville and Chattanooga. Director Hiroshi Jo said the school is connected with Meiji Gakuin University, Tokyo, and will operate from April to March, six days a week with the sixth day for outside activities. TMG (as it is being called) is the first American school of its kind. (The Japanese Ministry of Education has also accredited schools from the primary grades in other countries.)

Asians Population in Monterey Park 51.4%
MONTEREY PARK, Calif.—The Asian population of Monterey Park in 1986 was estimated at 51.4%, a topsy-turvy increase from the 1960 census of 3% Asian, in a survey conducted by UCLA sociologist John Horton for the Los Angeles County Commission on Human Relations, which held a hearing on demographic changes in San Gabriel Valley recently.

Kagiwada, 52, was formerly the director of International Affairs, Division of Homeland Ministries, Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), Indianapolis, Ind. Prior to that, she was also a lecturer in international human rights law, University of California, Berkeley, Boalt School of Law.

By Harry K. Honda BUENA PARK, Calif.—An eightman staff of the Office of Redress Administration is gearing for an August date to start the machinery for issuing redress checks to the oldest recipients of the estimated 60,000 survivors, ORA director Robert Bratt revealed here last week at the Go For Broke National Veterans Assn. luncheon.

Meanwhile, his office has some 55,000 names and addresses on its list of potential redress recipients and it is trying to annotate the complete WRA files of individuals. The Social Security Administration, Internal Revenue Service and motor vehicle license files are being cross-checked for current ad-

Bratt said he expects the pre-publication of eligibility rules in the Federal Register by mid-May, at which time the public will have 30 days in which to comment, before the implementation procedures are set.

Discussing "who is eligible?", Bratt said he saw no problem with those who were in camp or those volunteers who moved inland and had submitted a change of address report with the Wartime Civilian Control Administration. He added there were at least 20 subgroups of potential redress recipients, including the Nisei soldier who were moved inland from the West Coast about the same time, the Caucasian spouse who stayed with their Japanese spouse in camp, the Nikkei orphans and patients who could not be

Other potentials were raised by the Nisei veterans after being informed that there was a military order prohibiting Japanese American soldiers from visiting the West Coast, such as the Hawaiian soldier of the 442nd who was unable to take a furlough home after training and before going overseas, the wounded Hawaiian soldier who recuperated in a Mainland hospital while the haole GI was able to go home, and the Nisei in uniform who could not visit their parents on the West Coast in or out of camp.

Veterans were urged to fill in the voluntary information form, explaining their circumstances and send it to the Office of Redress Administration, Washington, D.C. (The nearest JACL office should have forms.)

Masaoka, Mike Washington lobbyist, praised the work and concern in the job of locating redress recipients as shown by Bratt and

Masaoka also urged that certificates of apology be sent to the families of those evacuees who passed away before the president had signed the bill.

Bratt added that several technical amendments on the redress bill are due, but that his office would make them until after the payments start. He did not elaborate.

The outreach into Japan and Canada for potential recipients has resulted in some 500 being located, Bratt said.

Wall Street Journal Notes Supplemental Redress Bill Action

Priority, Leadership of Majority Whip Coelho' Cited for Adding $250 Million

WASHINGTON - According to the April 7 Wall Street Journal, the supplemental $250 million to fund H.R. 442 for fiscal year 1989 was approved by a House Appropriations subcommittee because "it was a priority of the leadership and particularly of Majority Whip Tony Coelho.'

"The commitment of the House Democratic leadership had two sources," explained Grant Ujifusa, JACL-LEC strategy chair. "First, the hard and devoted inside work on the Hill of Nikkei representatives Norm Mineta, as deputy whip himself a member of the leadership, and Bob

"Second," Ujifusa said," it was a combination of luck and personal, face-to-face lobbying done by Japanese Americans." Three of the most powerful players in the budget-appropriations process, according to Ujifusa, are Coelho from Fresno, Calif.; Tom Foley, majority leader, from Spokane, Wash.; and Leon Panetta, chairman of the House Budget Committee, from Monterey, Calif.

Local Support

"They could have just as easily come from Kentucky or Alabama, but they didn't," Ujifusa explained. "And," he added, "because all members of Congress are first and foremost local politicians, the funding request had local Nikkei support in all three West Coast constituencies.

Ujifusa specifically cited Pacific Northwest JACL Gov. Denny Yasuhara of Spokane, who has known and personally lobbied Tom Foley for years; JACL-EC fundraiser Mae Takahashi, LEC Board member Peggy Liggett, longtime JACLers Fred Hirasuna and Tom Shimasaki, and Nisei Farmers' League President Harry Kubo-all of the Fresno area-who have kept in constant touch with Tony Coelho; and former Salinas redress coordinator Harry Iida, former president of the California State Florist Assn. David Ninomiya, and JACL National President Cressey Nakagawa, all of whom recently had an excellent meeting with Leon Panetta in Mon-

Ujifusa said that the $250 million figure will give (JACL-LEC) substantial leverage over the rest of the fiscal 1989 process, as well as strength for fiscal 1990 appropriation "Nevertheless," he continued, "we still have various hoops to jump through, thanks to the severe zero-sum game imposed by Gramm-Rudman."

Ujifusa reported that while Senate Subcommittee Chair "Fritz" Hollings (D-S.C.) firmly opposes funding, he will not obstruct consideration of the Support Letters

"Accordingly," Ujifusa said, "we must continue to back Sen. Daniel Inouye in his strenuous efforts in the Senate by writing him letters of support and gratitude.

Ujifusa also encouraged Nikkei to continue to write or visit targeted members of the full Budget committees and Appropriations subcommittees in both Houses. He continued by saying that because final spending authority rests with the Congress, President Bush, even if he were so inclined, will have a very hard time vetoing either the (estimated $3.56 billion) Supplemental Appropriations bill for FY 1989, which includes money ($735 million) to fight drugs and for law enforcement or any one of the 13 appropriations bills for FY 1990. The president, unlike many governors, has no line-item veto power, Ujifusa noted.

Finally, Ujifusa said, "Letters of thanks should be sent to Jim Kolbe, a conservative Republican House member from Tucson, Ariz., who voted against the authorization bill but who eloquently supported funding of the legislation at a recent hearing. Like-minded letters should also be sent to Newt Gingrich of Atlanta, Ga., who is the newly elected House Republican whip and an important backer of Japanese American redress

Calif. Legislature Urges Maximum for Redress Bill

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Senate Joint Resolution 12 (SJR 12) won final approval in the California legislature April 13. SJR 12 urges Congress to vote immediately to provide the maximum amount of $500 million this fiscal year and every fiscal year, if necessary, in redress payments to eligible Japanese Americans interned during WWII.

Passage of SJR 12 in the Assembly was unanimous; joint resolutions do not require approval by the governor. The measure was co-authored by state Sens. Ralph Dills (D-Gardena) and Art Torres (D-Los Angeles) and Assemblymen Richard E. Floyd (D-Carson) and Pat Johnston (D-Stockton). The Assembly version AJR 12 had passed unanimously March 9.

Japanese Canadians Unveil Plaque at 1942 Camp Entrance

VANCOUVER, B.C.— Some 8,000 men, women and children were confined in the livestock barns in 1942 at the PNE (Pacific National Exhibition) grounds in prelude to the forced dispersal of some 22,000 Japanese Canadians to inland internment camps. The bitter memory of this removal was recalled April I when a plaque was unveiled by a federal minister of fisheries and oceans, the Hon. Thomas Siddon, at the Hastings and Renfrew entrance to the PNE.

In his remarks, Siddon recalled neither the Royal Canadian Mounted Police nor the armed forces had ever recommended evacuation. The senior federal cabinet minister in British Columbia stopped short of naming the local politicians who demanded that "enemy aliens" be removed from the

In May, 1987, the PNE board had rejected placing the plaque on PNE grounds. Alderman Bruce Eriksen then raised the issue at council, which voted in favor of putting the plaque on city-owned property at the entrance.

Also speaking at the ceremony

Dr. Charles Humphries, B.C. member, Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada; Dan T. Tokawa, president, JCCA of Greater Vancouver, Arthur Miki, president, National Assn. of Japanese Canadians; Vancouver Mayor Gordon Campbell; Roy Miki, redress chair, JCCA of Greater Vancouver, Angus Rec. B.C. solicitor general; and the Rev. Canon Gordon G. Nakagawa, New Westminster Anglican

Canon Nakayama, 88, in presenting the historical background, recalled ministering to the uprooted in 1942.

Last September when Prime Minister Brian Mulroney formally acknowledged the injustices committed against Japanese Canadians and announced a $300 million redress package that included $21,000 individual checks for some 12,000 surviving internees, "it was like a dream," Nakayama said. "Now I think Canada is the best country in the world . . . I'm very proud to be called a Canadian.

Otherwise known as Hastings Park, the Japanese families who lived on the farms and fishing villages around Vancouver were given as little as two hours to pack and move to the livestock buildings in the PNE grounds, one stable per family

The British Columbia Security Commission eventually took over the entire grounds, converting several buildings into huge dormitories.

SANSEI NIGHT-Carol Kawamoto, San Diego Chapter JACL president, met with Sansei cast member Marc Hayashi April 7 during a reception following a PSWDC sponsored theater night. According to B.J. Watanabe, about 175 people attended the benefit. Proceeds from the outing will go towards PSWDC leadership development programs.

Councilman Fry's Remarks Anger Orange County Vietnamese Leaders

WESTMINSTER, Calif. - After voting last week to deny a parade permit to a group of South Vietnamese military veterans, Westminster City Councilman Frank Fry Jr. has become the target of a recall drive after telling the group, "If you want to be South Vietnamese, go back to South Vietnam."

Fry's statement, made at the April 13 city council meeting, was deemed "racially insensitive" by the Vietnamese veterans.

The South Vietnamese Armed Forces Day Committee sought a parade permit and approval to block traffic in Westminster's Little Saigon area. While Mayor Charles V. Smith supported the parade, which was to honor all soldiers who fought Communist forces in Vietnam, Fry and four other council members voted against the request and told the group to commemorate their war dead on a U.S. holiday such as Memorial Day or Vet-

Fry was quoted as saying, "It's my opinion that you're all Americans and you'd better be Americans. If you want to be South Vietnamese, go back to South Vietnam." As a result, the veterans' group plans to mobilize the Vietnamese community and mount an "anti-Fry" campaign.

'Not Guilty' Plea Entered by Police

LOS ANGELES - Stanley Yorikazu Tanabe, a Los Angeles police officer, pleaded not guilty April 4 to one count each of lewd conduct by force and assault with intent to commit child

Tanabe, 32, is a 61/2-year veteran of the Metro Division and was identified by the girl as the person who allegedly molested her Jan. 29 while supposedly conducting an investigation at her family's home.

Tanabe (see P.C. March 31) was arrested upon leaving the girl's home March 1 after entering the house a second time.

Wash. State Moving to Regard Redress as Tax-Free Income

OLYMPIA, Wash. — The state House unanimously passed legislation March 15 which would not lower government benefits for redress recipients receiving nursing home care or public assistance programs.

The legislation, Substitute House Bill 1668, was co-sponsored by state Rep. Gary Locke (D-Seattle), chairman of the budget-writing House Appropriations Committee.

The legislation was in response to concerns that the state Department of Social & Health Services (DSHS) might count redress payments as income. If that occurred, it was possible that a redress recipient on welfare or in a nursing home could lose benefits until the redress money was spent.

Under the legislation, the DSHS would also exempt the redress payments from becoming a determining factor for public assistance programs and how much a person must contribute twoard the cost of medical care.

the board of managers. She is also the vice president of the National Council of Churches of Christ, U.S.

"The job is slightly different than before," said Kagiwada of her new position. Before redress became law, the lobbying was to get the bill passed. "Now, it's getting through budget committees and getting the maximum amount allocated," she added.

The daughter of Fred and Setsu Hirasuna of Fresno, Calif., Kagiwada received both her bachelor's degree and juris doctor from UC Berkeley. She was married to the late Rev. David Tamotsu Kagiwada, the son of Frank and Sachiko Kagiwada, Los Angeles.

PACIFIC PIONEER—The late Nobuhiko Ushiba (right), Japanese Ambassador to the United States from 1970-1973, and his wife Fujiko (left) are to be recipients of the Japanese American Cultural and Community Center Pacific Pioneer Award at Century Plaza Hotel May 17.

JACCC to Honor AT&T at May 17 Award Fete for Significant Nikkei Support

LOS ANGELES—AT&T will receive the Japanese American Cultural and Community Center's 1989 Pacific Pioneer Award at the Century Plaza Hotel May 17, it was announced by dinner chair Minoru Tonai. The award, established in 1985, cites individuals or organizations for significant contributions toward increased cultural understanding between the United States and Japan.

AT&T has shown widespread support of the arts and social services in the Nikkei community in recent years, Tonai added, such as the opening night reception of Utamaro, which toured five U.S. cities last year, and making it possible for JACCC to stage Bunraku, the national Japanese puppet theatre, for the first time in 15 years on the West Coast and in Washington.

AT&T's support enabled the Asian American Dance Company, Great Leap, to produce "Talk Story;" Nikkei Helpline to publicize and expand its emergency social service hotline; and funded Asian Pacific Legal Center's conference on immigrant family rights, Asian American Drug Abuse Program's multi-lingual brochure and the forums for Leadership Education for Asian Pacifics and "Fun Day, Free Day" by Pacific Asian Musuem.

A second JACCC Pacific Pioneer Award will be conferred posthumously to the late Nobukiho Ushiba, Japanese ambassador to the United States (1970-73). His widow, Mrs. Fujiko Ushiba, will accept the award.

Prof. Don Nakanishi Case:

Tenure Decision Expected by Mid-May

LOS ANGELES — A statement contained in a letter to California state legislators indicates that a final decision on tenure for UCLA Professor Don Nakanishi will be issued by mid-May

UCLA Chancellor Charles Young wrote the letter in response to letters sent to him by 24 California state legislators who support tenure for Nakanishi in the UCLA Graduate School of Education. In the letter, Young wrote that he "cannot comment on the [Nakanishi] issue substantively," but the the case was "moving as expeditiously as possible." The case in now entering its third year of consideration.

Nakanishi's supporters claim that he has been denied promotion due to his research on Asian American admissions rates in the University of California as well as his work in Asian American Studies. He was originally denied tenure in the fall of 1987 by Young.

Nakanishi subsequentiy frieu and won two grievances regarding widespread irregularities and biases in his first review. Despite expectations that he would issue a new decision on the case, Young opted to send the case back for further study by lower-level committees. As a result of Young's action, a rally was held last March, which criticized UCLA officials for "irresponsible mishandling" of the case.

EDITORIAL OF THE PACIFIC CITIZEN:

The U.S., Japan and AJAs

UNIVERSITIES AND colleges all over the country are rushing to provide courses designed to develop an understanding of Japan. This is an admission of the importance being placed on Japan's role in America's future. It is also an admission of the lack of American understanding of Japan and the Japanese.

In either event, the rush to provide knowledge about the world's second largest economic power is welcome. The current relationship between the two Pacific nations has had many ups and downs. On the one there is great demand for Japanese trade and investments. On the other there is fear of the United States being overwhelmed by Japanese economic strength.

Difference in history, cultural traditions, business styles and language contribute to lack of understanding. A quick course in Understanding Japan 101, or Japanese Business Ethics 201, are no guarantee that the problem will be solved. But where there is little knowledge, every bit helps.

Japanese Americans, in their determination to "make it" in the U.S. mainstream, have not demonstrated much more than cursory interest in Japan. But now Japan is fast becoming part of that mainstream.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Examining Past Necessary

Nagging thoughts had lingered after reading a recent Hosokawa column in which he wondered or speculated if the reappraisal of Emperor Hirohito's historic role is now moot. Similarly with the swift unprecedented JACL legislative victory and the lapse of 47 years, he apparently feels that resuscitation of JACL's 1942 activities and the matter of the Nisei dissidents should be allowed to fade away. Mr. Hosokawa, a sometime historian, should know that reexaminations and reassessments of historic persons, organizations, nations, and events are essential for substantiation of truths. Also well known to P.C. readers, most Japanese history books have been severely criticized for omission of facts if not commissions of untruths.

Furthermore, it is my strong impression berived from numerous Japanese informational sources that the issues of the imperial stem and, in particular, the responsibilities of the former emperor are still ctive topics and just won't go away (e.g. Naturally Speaking", William Wetherall; Conflicting Concepts on the Emperor", akeda Kiyoko, Japan Quarterly, Janlarch 1989; pp. 45 & 50).

The imperial, political and religious verx of the nation since Meiji Restoration, layed major roles in Japanese aggressions
1 Formosa, Korea, China (more than 20
1 illion Chinese died in the Sino-Japanese var of the '30), and WWII. Yet it should remembered that despite severe pressure rom a possible military palace revolt, Emperor Hirohito persisted and the "surrender" broadcast was made. It was the emperor who made the difference and this time for place—this is not irony; it is responsibility.

Now that P.C. has published JACL's search agenda and no doubt over some objections. "y for JACL—again.

Interesting Issi e

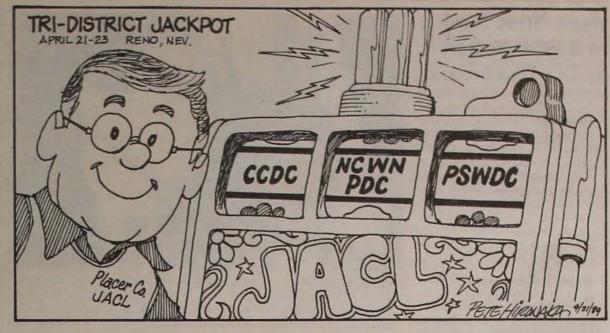

Thank you for a very interesting edition of Pacific Citizen (Marc + 17, 1989). I got a lot of useful information out of it, specifically: 1) The letter alout aiding Boat People (the NSR? Fund); 2) the Buddhist Churches of America Funds Disbursement list; 3) Buddhist America book review; 4) the recognition of five people by Honpa Hongwanji Mission, Honolulu; 5) the culture Atlas of Japan book review; and 6) the article by Moriteru Arasaki about Okinawa and the emperor, especially interesting because here in D.C. Toshiba Sunday Theater on Channel 56 just had a story about an Okinawan who was a student nurse during WW 2.

dent nurse during WW 2.

Again, thanks for a wonderful issue.

Missing Friend a Now Missed

A few weeks ago I read, with not a little sadness, of the death of Satoshi Hoshi in the Netherlands. Except for one occasion, it was the first time I had run across his name since before the war. That exception was a few years ago when, in passing, Dr. Jack Maki in Amherst, Mass., asked whether I had heard anything of Satoshi.

We had known Satoshi in Seattle back in the 1930s when all three of us were associated with Jimmie Sakamoto's weekly newspaper, the Japanese American Courier. Satoshi had been taken into the Sakamoto home after his parents died. For a while he wrote a column for uveniles, but mostly he was the handy boy around the shop after school, sweeping out, helping with the mailing, making the rounds with Jimmie, who was blind. At home he did his chores and helped Jimmie's aged parents and I gathered that he didn't have much time with friends his age.

Satoshi was an obliging and likable youngster. But despite his cheerful front, I sensed a kind of loneliness in him. I'm sorry to say that I never tried to find out what he was really like. He was somewhat younger than I, and I was carrying a full load at school while working, so there wasn't much time and we went our separate ways. I left Seattle in 1938 and I don't recall seeing him after that.

The obituary in the Pacific Citizen said Satoshi was a retired legal researcher for the United Nations International Court of Justice. He was a graduate of the University of Washington and the University of Michigan law schools, had served with the 442nd in Italy and France, and then completed studies at the University of Geneva Law School in Switzerland. He joined the court in 1952 and retired in 1986. He died at age 69.

Unnoticed by all but his relatives and a few friends in the Japanese American community, Satoshi had a useful and prestigious career that his siblings could be proud of despite some very rough times they all had as youngsters. That he moved on into a career in law, and served the International Court of Justice with distinction, is a tribute to his abilities and determination to succeed.

It is interesting that Satoshi made his career in the Netherlands, a vast cultural and geographic distance from his native Seattle. I wonder how many other Japanese Americans have settled in distant parts of the world, far from their American and Japanese cultural roots, to pursue their interests and careers in a new environment.

It would have been fascinating to sit down with Satoshi and ask him about his work, and why he stayed in Europe, and what he remembered about his boyhood in Seattle. But now it is too late, and I regret the missed opportunity.

JACL's Proposed 'Mega-Fund'

Nothing spectacular or earth-shattering, but with an injection of ideas from Shig Wakamatsu, whose concept of an "Issei Heritage Foundation" instigated discussion, a rough proposal of a "National JACL Fund" concept was developed. The tentative proposal was presented before the Feb. 4 meeting of the National Board, which voted unanimously to approve the creation of the JACL Fund and directed the Ways & Means Committee to develop a strategic plan to present for board approval at the upcoming May meeting.

In a nutshell the purposes of the fund are (1) to created a source of recurring income to fund operations and thereby reduce reliance on dues income (2) to generate funds to create and develop new programs and expand existing one (3) to generate incentive funds for district and chapter programs and (4) to promote the goals and purposes of JACL.

Planned as a long-range funding vehicle, and specifically geared only for the anticipated redress "windfall," figures of a $1 million to a $200 million goal were bandied about and rejected as too niggardly or too unrealistic. Consensus was reached on a goal of $20 million over a 10-year period which, even conservatively invested, would produce an annual income of approximately $1.5 million, sufficient to meet JACL's current annual budget.

Initially the fund solicitations, in a one-time or a pledge form, would begin through orientation in district workshops or by direct mail solicitations. A five-member committee to administer the fund would be appointed by the National Board to serve for staggered six-year terms. Incentive awards would be instituted for donor categories.

To those critics who may be reluctant to designate donations to an "endowment type" fund which gives no immediate satisfaction in returns, an innovative concept suggested by national JACL treasurer Alan Nishi may have appeal. Rather than the entire contribution going to the permanent principal of the fund, a fixed percentage, say 20%, could be designated for a restricted allotment to be used on an on-going basis for national programs such as aging and retirement, leadership development, youth programs, women's concerns, civil rights say 10%, to be rebated to the solicitor district was favorably considered. The success of the JACL-LEC fund drives without any rebate to the chapters which raised the funds, would indicate that most chapters were able to raise their own needs for local redress activities, apart from the national fund drive but, neverthess, the "district rebate" would provide a greater incentive. Chapters would be encouraged to initiate their own fundraising ideas, with many chapters already far ahead in planning with their own endowment funds in place.

In addition, an incentive percentage,

From the solicitor's view, those who are uncomfortable with the thought of fundraising with redress compensation initially in mind, can either concentrate on non-redress sources, i.e., the normal charitable giving sources common to all, or else listen to the words of one JACLer who, after a bit of introspection, mused, "Well . . . we worked hard to get redress. We'll just have to get used to not feeling self-conscious about being self-serving.

Would non-JACLers consider donating to JACL? A couple of non-members who have realized JACL's commitment and efforts, have voluntarily indicated to me that they believed they would like to give an appropriate orei, but they said be sure to offer a choice. Not to be forgotten will be the other options for donor funds, e.g., the many existing scholarship and student aid funds, the Masaoka Fellows, the 1000 Club or Life memberships, etc. (with gifts of Life memberships to offspring as one method of assuring future "captive" membership).

One last thing to note: If the total amount of the redress authorization bill is appropriated in due time, at a 5% charitable donation rate there would be over $60 million—certainly enough for all organizations and charitable and worthy projects in the Nikkei community to share. The worst thing that could happen and the last thing that should happen is acrimony over money. All the good that has come out of the redress movement would be negated if bitterness should fester among individuals and among organizations.

So what do you think of the ideas proposed? Would such a "National JACL Fund" concept be accepted by the membership? Gardena Valley JACLer Jon Kaji, chair of the Ways and Means Committee, is preparing the marketing strategy for approval of the National Board and also exploring other innovative means of fundraising to propose. Let him know your ideas and your opinions. (Now, if we can only find a name for the fund—any suggestions?)

If you don't like the idea, if you think JACL can survive with just a focus on increasing membership, if you would prefer to let a one-time opportunity slip by—then the alternative is that we should just sit on our hands?

L.A. Nisei Week Set for Aug. 5 - 13

LOS ANGELES-The 49th renewal of the annual Nisei Week Japanese Festival will be staged from Saturday, Aug. 5, through Sunday, Aug. 16.

With Joe N. Hashima, Union Bank vice president, as general chair, the theme, "Unity Through Tradition and Culture," will prevail in the weeklong. celebration starting with a coronation ball, the grand parade, exhibits, carnival and culminating with the ondo street dance.

Free calendar of events will available in July at stores, restaurants and banks throughout Little Tokyo.

Detroit Considering Redress Bill for Blacks

DETROIT-The U.S. Congress and Michigan legislature was urged by Detroit city councilman Clyde Cleveland last week (April 12) to "acknowledge its debt to the Afro-American slaves. descendants of slaves, and award them just compensation for their deprivation, indignities, and cruelty imposed on them" through establishment of a $40 billion education fund.

Cleveland said he was opposed to just handing out money. "I'm for money only used for education.'

Noting that federal legislation was signed last year clearing the way for compensation to Japanese Americans who were confined during World War II, he said, "We (Blacks) were treated much worse.

THE THORN IN THE CHRYSAN-THEMUM: Suicide and Economic Success in Modern Japan; by Mamoru Iga, forewards by Edwin S. Schneidman and David K. Reynolds. Univ. of California Press, Berkeley, CA 94720, 245 pages, $19.95 (1987).

In 1944 Ruth Benedict split open the chrysanthemum (harmonious) and the sword (fanatic) aspects of Japanese culture and during the war, Westerners focused on the sword, so begins the CSU Northridge professor, Mamoru Iga (he and his wife have been San Fernando Valley JACLers since the late '60s) in his book analyzing the human cost of self-destruction/suicide in modern Japan. And since the war, some Americans have been emphasizing only the chrysanthemum side, he

Prof. Iga, cited as most qualified to explain Japanese suicides to Americans because of his unique background-that of being bicultural as well as bilingual, discusses the "the thorn" in the chrysanthemum. This thorn may hurt both the Japanese and the outsider who conducts business with them, the book editors tease in their flyer. Readers will also find interesting the contrast between value orientations in Japan and in the U.S .when it comes death, suicide and sac-

NAOMI'S ROAD. By Joy Kogawa, Oxford University Press, 200 Madison Ave., New York, NY 10016, and Toronto; 82 pages, (1986)

This is Joy Kogawa's first book for children, telling the story of the Japanese Canadian experience during World War II-a painful period of history that is now being redressed by the government with $21,000 checks to the survivors. It is based on her awardwinning novel, Obasan (1981), of the family that left their home in Vancouver to an internment camp in the interior, Slocan, B.C., and then to a farm in Alberta.

Novels are a good form of story-telling, fast-reading, emotional and entertaining - wrapped around a moment or two of human history. With drawings by Matt Gould, this reveals what the youngsters felt during the Evacuation. (The price was not listed.)

HOOD RIVER, Ore.—Ray "Chop" Yasui, 74, died at his home April 9 following a lengthy illness.

Recently named to Oregon State University's Agricultural Hall of Fame, he farmed a large fruit orchard in the Odell area after returning from Tule Lake in 1946. The farm is now operated by sons Tom and Philip.

Yasui served on the Oregon State Board of Higher Education, was a Mid-Columbia JACL life member, a director and board chairman for Diamond Fruit Growers, Inc., Hood River Valley's largest growing cooperative for more than 20 years.

His extensive civic involvement included being one of the founders of the Hood River-Tsuruta Sister City affiliation. He and his wife Mikie led five trips to Japan.

Dr. Theodore Kuwana, 58, professor of pharmaceutical chemistry at the Univ. of Kansas and director of the Center for Bioananlytical Research, received the Charles N. Reilley Award in recognition of his work in developing the fields of spectroelectrochemistry, bioelectronalytical chemistry and modified electrodes from the Society for Electroanalytical Chemistry, Bioanalytical Systems Inc. and Reilley Endowment Fund March 8 at Pittsburgh. The Idaho Falls-born Nisei and graduate from Antioch College (1949), he earned his masters from Cornell and doctorate (1959) from Kansas; taught at UC Riverside in 1960, at Western Reserve in 1965, at Ohio State (1971) and returning to Kansas in 1985 as a regents distinguished professor. Kuwana has published over 150 research papers, holds two patents and edited a three-volume set, Physical Methods in Chemical Analysis. He also is a frequent lecturer at Tokyo University, and is dedicated to increased understanding between Japan and the United States.

➤ Allen A. Asakura, 55, of Montebello has announced his retirement as deputy assistant superintendent with the Los Angeles Dept. of Building and Safety and as division chief of earthquake safety. Engineering News Record named him 1988 Man of the Year for his work with upgrading unreinforced brick buildings, said to number some 8,000 in the city today. A Gila River Camp II son of Nao Asakura and a 1951 graduate of Santa Barbara High, he finished UC Berkeley in 1956, spent two years with the Army Corps of Engineers and Signal Corps, and licensed as a civil engineer in 1962 and as a structural engineer in 1967. He briefly served in the Yemen Arab Republic as a U.S. State Department consultant developing a system to upgrade earthquake-prone build-
