

out," she said. "When they finally called out her name, 'HaiYi, HaiYi,'we were like, Wow, this is long time to come to the decision to adopt," she said. "For us, it just felt right. It just felt like this is what we were supposed to be doing." Herb recalls his first encounter with his adopted granddaughter in fact than seeing his biological erent

"Tve always felt that if you have the opportunity to give a

Pure philan-thropy may not initially be the primary motivation for different country, but often it becomes a

was just as natural, no diffe

Sometimes it takes people a our little girl.

#2886/ Vol. 129, No. 14 ISSN: 0030-8579 National Publication of the Japanese American Citizens League (JACL)

Oct. 1-7.-1999

Labor of Low Labor (L.C.or.) Ubor of Low Labor of Labor of Low Labor of Labor of Labor of Labor of Low Labor of Labor of Low Labor of Low Labor of La

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON-After focus ing for nearly four years on a sci-entist at Los Alamos nuclear weapons lab in New Mexico, the government is broadening its in-vestigation into the alleged Chi-nese theft of secrets concerning a sophisticated nuclear warhead

Justice Department and FBI officials briefed members of the Senate Intelligence Committee on Sept. 22 about the latest developments involving the Chi-see espionage case. Attorney General Janet Reno id that the probe's expansion "is in response to questions that have been raised in terms of new evidence. I think there may have been new facts brought to the at-tention of the FBL." Several outside panels have criticized the original probe for concentrating exclusively on Los Alamos and pointed out that many other gov-ernment and industry people had access to the information that may have been taken. China again rejected any alle

China again rejected any and gations of espionage. "We have said many times that it is false and irresponsible," For-eign Minister Tang Jiaxuan said in New York before a meeting with Secretary of State with Secretary Madeleine Albright.

He also reiterated China's ac-usation that the United States intentionally bombed the Chinese embassy in Belgrade in the conflict in Yugoslavia earlier in the year.

government official acknowl-A edged that the FBI will now put more resources into the inv tigation and expand it beyond the Los Alamos laboratory, where the FBFs attention has been concentrated since early 1996.

More serious consideration will be given to other agencies or indi-viduals as possible sources of the technical information that China is believed to have obtained in the 1980s, said the official, speaking on condition of not being fur-ther identified.

Still, a former Los Alamos computer scientist, Wen Ho Lee, who was fired in March for violating security rules, remains a suspect in the FBI's investigation, said another official, speaking on coneaid dition of anonymity.

Although not charged with a crime, Lee has been the prime -crime, Lee has been the prime — some say virtually only — target the FBI has pursued in the near-ly four-year investigation. "Sometimes we can identify both the crime and the criminal too quickly," said Sen. Patrick Leakur of View part the near in De

Leahy of Vermont, the senior De mocrat on the Senate Judiciary Committee. "I think this is a case iary that as more and more informa

See LOS ALAMOS/ page 3

Transracial Issues, Interracial Families: AAs Parenting Adopted Asian Children

(This is the third in a four-part series exploring Asian American families and adoption.)

BY TRACY UBA

Jeri Okamoto Floyd remem-bers the first time she ever laid eyes on her infant daughter - the terrified look on her face was one of a deer caught her face was one of a deer caught in the headlights. But these days, her mom says, 3-and/a-half-year-old Rachel Mariko Hai'y Floyd, who was born in rural Hefei in the Anhui province of eastern China, likes to gallop around her house in Los Arables metadad in Los Angeles pretend-ing she's a little horse. Right now, she thinks everything hatches out of eggs," Jeri, 38, laughs. "But we talk to her about what it means to be adopted. We tell her about her story in Chi-

It was Mother's Day back in 1995 and one year into their marriage when Jeri and her hus-band, Dan, 39, both of whom are attorneys, first contemplated intercoun-try adoption through Chi-na after reading an article about someone who'd done it, in the Rocky Mountain News.

They had just come from a trip in Denver, visiting Jeri's father, Herb amoto, and she was Ok feeling particularly down about her own mother Chiyo, who had passed away in 1992.

By spring of 1996, however, nearly one year after reading that article, the Floyds had comthat article, the Floyds had com-pleted their home study, sent off their paperwork and found them-selves traveling to China with nine other families from places such as Texas, Ohio and New York, as well as an intercountry adoption facilitator who would adoption f ansla-

5. AVE 94.086 adada Waadi, L.C. 56. 270179 ROFITM ARQUES ILL CA bh MICI VHICI full. 1115 INNOS 1011

SAN FRANCISCO, UA 94115

1/00 SUTTER OL.

"The minute you get that pic-ture, you just want to go right over there," Jeri recalled, after receiving a photo of the two-monthold little girl they had been matched up with. By the time they had finished packing for their trip abroad, bringing giant suitcases full of diapers, clothes, toilet paper, botpots, she said, "It was like, I can't believe we're fi-nally going!" It was all very much like a dream."

The Floyds first flew into Hong Kong and then traveled into grandchildren for the first time. "It must've taken me only five minutes to bond with her," he said. "There was no bias whatsoever. If anything, I felt (clos-er to) Rachel. better life to another person," he added, "it's a worthwhile ef-fort."

Shanghai, where they spent a fairly sleepless night in a hotel. The babies, meanwhile, most of them 9 to 10 months old by now, were ferried over from Guangzhou and overseen by nannies. Jeri recalls the next day watching all of the other parents meet their children for the first time while they waited to be united with theirs

I just remember Rachel w the very, very last to be brought

Inside the P.C. Weekly Announcements, Calendar page 2 National News 3 Community News . 485 Very Truly Yours, Incubled in Paradise Obituaries, Vetters -RINIVERSARY

parents find out about the plight of disadvantaged chil-dren such as those thousands still remaining in China's orphanages. Organizations pro-Dan and Jeri Floyd with their daughter Rachel. Organizations pro-moting the welfare nghai, where they spent a and health of children in China are sprouting up all the time as more and more Americans adopt internationally and as the public is made aware of social and eco-nomic conditions which burden certain countries.

One such group is Families With Children From China (FCC), which originated in New York in the mid-1990s. It is an international, loosely associated network of over 90 independently functioning chapters.

Jeri, who has postponed work s a law partner for now, currentas a new partner for now, current-ly juggles her time as a stay-at-home mom and as co-chair of the non-profit, volunteer-run Los An-geles chapter of FCC.

FCC-LA, which has about 400 adult members from around the Greater Los Angeles area, pro-vides educational services, inforvides educational services, infor-mational resources and cultural activities for families who have adopted or are in the process of adopting children from China. Part of their mission is to foster a sense of community by Pribring families participate in Chinafamilies participate in Chinese and Asian American cultural activities and by acquainting their children with others who share similar backgrounds. Jeri said the group hosts regu-lar meetings once a month in

See ADOP/TION/ page 8

By MARTHA NAKAGAWA Chinese Americans United for

APA Political Education

Self Empowerment (CAUSE) and the UCLA Asian American Studies Center co-sponsored the 1999 Asian Pacific American Political Education Institute from Sept. 18-19 at the Los Angeles Marriott Hotel in the Los Angeles Marriott Hotel in downtown Log Angeles. More than 50 people attended the two-day event where political consultants, elected officials, com-munity leaders and the media gathered to advise APAs interested in running for elected office. The con-ference, which focused on the nuts and bolts of organizing a political campaign, attracted participants ranging from Northern and South ern California to Arizona.

For tips from experts see page 4.

The forum follows in the heels of a 'similar program sponsored in May by the Asian Pacific American Institute for Congressional Studies (APAICS) in Washington, D.C. Don Nakanishi, who had helped organize APAICS May forum and is head of UCLA's Asian American Studies Center, noted that the Weahington, D.C., conference fo-cused on elected officials interested in running for higher office, while the Los Angeles event targeted first the Los Angeles of time candidates.

time candidates. "We hope to have one or two pro-grams like this a year," said Nakan-ishi, adding that he was "very hap-gy with the turnout." Charlie Woo, president of CAUSE, hinted that perhaps the next conference could be held in Northern California. Woo noted that they decided to organize this event after tabling organize this event after talking with various APA leaders across the nation. "We've discussed with Asian Pa-cific American leaders on the issue of what is needed for more Asian Pacific American political involve-ment, and they've said conferences like this is the number one thing that is needed," said Woo. "Whether that is needed, said Woo. "Whether we go to Texas or the East Coast, this is what they say... But I would say this is more than a training workshop. I would say this is a po-litical summit so that political lead-ers in the Asian Pacific American Inces states and the Asian Pacific American community can come together." United States Congressman Ed Royce, who represents California's 39th District, was very supportive of the conference, asying that un-like the past where Europe directed American politics, the new millen-American politics, the new num will be heavily domi ted by Asia

Axia. "The focus has changed in trade, in politics in terms of the vast influ-ence that Asia is having on the United States," axial Royce. "So it becomes absolutely essential for the United States' future success over the Pacific Rim that we have people who understand the languages and culture, and will be leaders of the future who will encouse the United future who will engage the United States with Asia in trade and politics.

tics." According to Royce, the United States in the past eight years has seen the APA population increase by more than 41 percent. Los Ange-les and Orange counties have seen a slightly higher increase at 46 per-cent, he added. "The reality is that, outside of Asia, the city that ranks first is Los Anceles. the city that ranks first is Los Asia, the city that ranks inst is Los Angeles, the city that ranks second is Honoluu, and third is Orange County in terms of influence of Asian Americans," said Royce. "One of the things that you're focused on is turning that influence into politi-

7 Cupania Circle, Monterey Park, CA 91755 Tel: 323/725-0083, 800/966-6157, Fax: 323/725-0064 E-mail: Paccit@aol.com

Executive Editor: Caroline Y. Aoyagi Assistant Editor: Martha Nak tor Emeritus/Archivist: Harry K. Honda Office Manager: Brian Tanaka Production Assistant: Margot Brunswick Writer/Reporter: Tracy Uba Circulation: Eva Lau-Ting

Special contributors: Patricia Arra, Allan Beekman, Toko Fujii, S. Ruth Y. Hashimoto, Bob Hirata, Ada Honda, Mas tmon, Milka Iseri, Naomi Kashi-wabara, Bill Kasiwagi, Wajijam Marumoto, Elsu Masaoka, Bill Matsumoto, Fred Oshima, Ed Suguro, Milta Tanner, George Wakiji, Jem Lew

Publisher: Japanese American Citizens League (founded 1929) 1765 Sutter Street, San Francisco, CA 94115, tel: 415/921-5225 tax: 415/931-4671 JACL President: Helen Kawagoe, National Director: Herbert Yamanishi Pacific Citizen Board of Directors: Rick Uno, chairperson; Clyde Nishimura, EDC; Hank Tanaka, MDC; Deborah Ikeda, CCDC; Claire Omura, NCWNPDC; Don Maekawa, PNWDC; Jeff Watanabe, IDC; Gil Asakawa, MPDC; Sam Shimoguchi, PSWDC

NEWS/AD DEADLINE: FRIDAY BEFORE DATE OF ISSUE. Editorials, news and the opinions expressed by columnists other than the national JACL president or national director do not necessarily reflect JACL policy. Events and products advertised in the Pacific Citizen do not carry the implicit endorsement of the JACL or this publication. We reserve the right to edit articles.

C 1999 (ISSN: 0030-8579) PACIFIC CITIZEN is published weekly except once in December, OFFICE HOURS -- Mon.-Fri., 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m. Pacific Time scription rates: JACL MEMBERS: $12 of the national dues provi one year on a one-per-household basis. NON-MEMBERS: 1 year-$30, payable in advance. Additional postage per year - Foreign periodical rate $22; First Class for U.S., Canada, Mexico: $30; Airmail to Japan/Europe: $60. (Subject to change without notice.) Periodical postage paid at Monterey Park, Calif., and at additional mailing offices.

on: No part of this publication may be reproduced without expre sion of the publisher. Copying for other than personal or internal reference use without the express permission of P.C. is prohibited. MICROFILM (35mm) of annual issues is available from Bay Microfilm, Inc., 1115 E. Arques Ave., Sunnyvale, CA 94086

POSTMASTER: Send address changes to: JACL National Headquarters, 1765 Sutter St., San Francisco, CA 94115.

Non-Member Readers

Get all the news and features from across the country SUBSCRIBE TO THE PACIFIC CITIZEN 1 vr./$30

Allow 6 weeks for new subcriptions to begin.

Phone number:

Name Address

All subscriptions payable in advance. For overseas subsibers, additional $22 per year required for postage. Checks payable to Pacific Cillinen, 7 Cupania Circle, Maniewey Park, CA 91755.

Call 800/966-6157 600 details

41

Eastern

WASHINGTON

Fri., Oct. 22-National Japanese Frican Memorial groundbreaking. NJAMF, 202/861-8845; fax 202/ 861-8848; e-mail NIAMF@erols.com; njamf.org.

Midwest

TWIN CITIES TWIN CITES Sat., Oct. 16—Generations Pot-luck Dinner; Union Congrega-tional Church, 3700 Alabama Ave. S., St.Louis Park. Food, St.Couis and fun. Info: Kathy games and fun. Info: K Ohama Koch, 612/884-1560.

Pacific Northwest SEATTLE

Sat., Jan. 29, 2000-Save the date! Seattle JACL installation dinner; speak-er, Martha Choe; M.C. Lori Matsu-

Calendar

Concentration Camps: Remembering the Japanese American Experience," and "Witness: Our Brothers' Keepers";

Museum, 1440 Spring St. NW.; both exhibits developed by the Japanese American National Museum. Info., hours: 404/ 873-1661.

hours: 404 073-1001. DELRAY BEACH, FLA. Tues., Oct. 12—Exhibit opening. "Reckoning Tokyo Time: A Look at Japanese Clocks, Calendars and Chronology"; The Morikami Museum

and Japanese Gardens, 4000 Morikami Park Rd. Info: 561/495

New York CITY Tues-Sat, Oct. 5-9—1999 Chinese Film Festival. Lila Acheson Wallace Auditorium, Oct. 5, 8, 9; Tinker Auditorium at the French Institute Alliance Francaise, Oct. 6, 7; showing tri film which beho more here are the tri film which beho more here are the trip.

six films which have never been seen

WASHINGTON, D.C. Through Nov. 30—Exhibit, "From Bento to Mixed Plate: Americans of Japanese Ancestry in Multicultural Hawai"; "Snithsonian Institution, Aris & Industry Bidg: developed by the Japanese American National Museum. Info: 800/461-5266.

mulus Hillsborough. Free. Info 5/861-9109, http://www.ENMA.

Northern California

SEATTLE

in the United States. Free.

888/906-FILM. WASHINGTON, D.C.

Intermountain OGDEN LITAH

w.morikami.org>.

and "Witness: Our Brothers' Kee The William Breman Jewish He

East Coast

hrough Nov. 5-

NEW YORK CITY

ATLANTA

COMMUNITY

Exhibits, "America's

4000

Info

or Frank

kawa; Doubletree Suites, Tukwila; ts available in December. NC-WN-Pacific

DISTRICT COUNCIL

Sat., Oct. 2-Executive Board Meeting; Alan Teruya's resid nce.

Sun., Nov. 7-District Council Meeting, Sacramento; special programs: Hate Crimes Workshop and introduction of Gov. Davis' Asian American ees.

appointe FLORIN

5007 SAN JOSE

Ned. Oct. 6-

Center, 415 S. 650/343-2793. Thurs., Oct. 7-

LOS ANGELES

info: 626/960-2566.

children's

Sat., Oct. 23-Annual Scholarship Fund-raising Spaghetti Dinner/Bingo SAN MATEO

Wed. Oct. 6-

-Flu vaccine clinic: see Community Calendar. Thurs., Oct. 7—Annual Senior Citizens Conference; see Community

Calendar Sun., Oct. 10-San Mateo IACL Colf Tournament, 1st tee-off 9:45 a.m.; Skywest Golf Course, 1401 Golf Course, Hayward; Entry due by Sept. 25. To benefit Scholarship Fund; spon-sors and donors needed. Info: Vince Asai 650/349-3590

WEST VALLEY Sun., Oct. 24-Next Generation Jun-

cheon and fashion show, to benefit

Sun., Oct. 24-Next Generation ben-

Sun, OCL 24—Next Ceneration ben-efit luncheon at 12 noon and fashion show, "Attreme Fashions," at 1 p.m.; Doubletree Hotel; M.C. Kent Ninomiya, Channel 7; door prizes, raffle; RSVP; Juli Tachibana, 408/260-0515 or Todd Voshida, 408/251-1949, SAN MATEO

Thurs, Oct. / — Annual senior cn-zens conference, "Seniors on the Move" with state Sen. Jackie Speier, 8:30 a.m.-3 p.m.; South San Francisco Conference Center; continental breakfast, box lunch at no charge to seniors;

entertainment; keynote speaker, Car-roll L. Estes of UCSF Institute of Health and Aging. Info: JACL Community Center, 415/343-2793.

Southern California

Sat., Oct. 2-Aki Matsuri, 11 a.m.-8 p.m.; East San Gabriel Valley Japanese p.m.; East San Gabriel Valley Japanese Community Center, 1203 W. Puente Ave., West Covina; "Moon Bounce," hildren's games, food, martial arts emos, taiko, raffle, door prizes, etc.

Sat., Oct. 2-Fifth Annual Los Angeles

Sal, Oct 2—Print Annual Ds Angeles County Open House; 11 centers of ac-tivity, including free admittance to the Japanese American National Museum in Little Tokyo. Info, schedules: Open House 24-hour Hotline, 213/972-3099;

Sat., Oct. 2-Art Auction & Dinner Dance, "Festival of the Autumn Moon"; Grand Ballroom of the Ritz-

Carlton Huntington Hotel, Pasadena; black tie; to benefit the Pacific Asia

Museum. To request an invitation: 626/449-2742 ext 12.

626/449-2742 est 12. Sat., Oct. 2 to Sun., Oct. 10—UCA Film and Television Archive animation series continues; Oct. 2: "Nausical of the Valley of the Wind," "Rom Poloc,"; Oct. 3: "Whisper of the Heart," "Only Yesterday"; Oct. 9: "Castle in the Sky," Porco Rosso"; Oct. 10 matinee: "My Neishlvor Trann." "Kirk's Delivery

Yestenday", O.Z. 9: "Caste in the Sky," Porco Rosso", Oct. 10 matinee: "My Neightor Totoro, " Kick" Delivery Service", James Bridges Theater. Info: schedules, 31/0206 FLM, owww.cin-ema.ucia.edu... Sam, Oct. 3: Echtibit Opening, "Pre YZK Selected Work" by Yoshio C. Nakamura; Mourtain Yeew Wemorial Gallery, 2300 N. Marengo Are, Akaderia; recoption 2.4 pun. Info, ex-hibit hours: Alice Bell, 626/794-7133 ett. 272.

Pat. 272

-Flu vaccination clinic, 1-2 p.m.; San Mateo JACL Community

-Annual senior citi

415 S. Claremont St. Info:

Heritage Awards Dinner; Torrance Marriott, Torrance. Honoring Harry Nakada, Brian Kito, Scott Nagatani, Francis Nakano, RSVP: Iku Kiriyama, American Diary: Paintings by Roger Shimomura" based upon the wartime diaries of his grandmother, Toku Shimomura; Japanese American Na-tional Museum, 369 E. First St., Little Tokye, RSVP: 213/625-0414.

restaurant review, 7-9 p.m.; Chaya Brasserie, 8741 Alden Dr. (310/859-

Brasserie, 8741 Alden Dr. (310/859-8833). RSYP by Oct. & Japan America Society, 213/627-6217 ext 17. Thans, Oct. 14-Play reading. The Post of Columbus Avenue, Presented by East West Players; 7:30 p.m., Japanese American National Musseum, 369 E. First Sc, Little Tokyo. RSVP: 213/625-0414. 369 E. FIRs a., ____ 213/625-0414.

213/625-0414. Sat., Oct. 16—Film showing and dis-cussion, "Old Man Rivér," featuring Cynthia Gates, Fujikawa, 1 p.m.; Japanese American National Museum, 369 E. First SL, Little Tokyo, RSVP: 213/625-0414.

213/025/0414. Sat., Oct. 16---Oldies Dance VII, "It's Just Like Heaven," 8 a.m.-12:30 p.m.; East San Gabriel Valley Japanese Com-munity Center, 1203 W. Puente Ave., Ward Center, 1203 W. Puente Ave., West Covina. Info, song requests: Joannie, 626/284-8192; Roy, 909/595-6183; Frank, 714/890-1776.

6183; Frank, 714/890-1776. Through October 17--East West Players perform "Leilani's Hibiscus" by Jon Shirota; Union Center for the Arts, Little Telsky, on Info: 213/625-7000. Through October 17--Award-win-ning play, "Texas" by Judy Soo Hoo, Thurs-Sat at 8 p.m, Sun, at 1 p.m.; The Secret Rose Theatre, 11246 Magnolia Blod, North Hollywood. Info, tickets: 323/993-7245. SAN DIEGO

Bild, Odess, 32(3):597-243. SAN DIECO Sun, Oct. 3—Film showing, "Visas and Vitue," 2 pm; Japanese Ameri-can Community Senior Housing Project, 1260 3rd Ave. Chula Visa. Free, Info: 619/230-0314.
Sat, Oct. 9—Video documentary showing and discussion, "Children of the Camps," 10.a.m.1 p.m.; San Diego Buddhist Temple, 2929 Market S.; program free; bento lunch, $15. RSVP for Anch by Oct. 4: jeanne Elyea, 714/482-1736, Yukio Kawamoto, 714/286-2023, Masato Asakawa, 714/485-2739.

VENTURA COUNTY

VENTURA COUNTY Sun, Oct. 3—"Celebrating Our Heri-tage," Japanese cultural testival, 2:5 pm; Camarillo Community Center, 1605 E. Burnley St.; East-West Players Drama group, Togen Daiko drum group, Japanese dance, karate, chi-dren's activities and storytelling, tea ceremony, ikebana exhibits, boniai, sumi-é brusi painting, teo, food tas-ing, etc. Info: 803/655-5559.

Redress Payment Information

Individuals can call 202/219-6900 and leave a message; or write to: Civi Rights Division, U.S. Department of Justice, P.O. Box 66260, Washington, DC 20035-6260.

hibit nours: Alice eet, b.co/ 744 135 ect. 272. Thurs, Oct. 7— Meet the author of Japan: The System That Source's Richard Katz, breakfast 73:0-9 a.m.; City Cub on Bunker Hill, Wells Fago Center, 333 S. Grand Ave., Sule 5450. RSVP by Oct. 3: Japan America Society, 213/627-6217 cet 17. Sat, Oct. 9-Sand, Oct. 17—"World Festival of Sacred Music: The Ameri-cas," Intercultural, interfaith celebra-tion. Info: Schedules: 310/208-2784. Comww.wfsm.org/americas.-Sat, Oct. 9-Sacred Music Circle Outdoor Concert 7 p.m.; Senshin Buddhitt Emple. J311 W. 37th 52. Tickets: 310/264-6696 or Tickets LA 323/555-TICIS. Info: coww.greatleap. 000ogo. Sat., Oct. 9-Japanese American Historical Society Annual Community

FACIFIC CITIZEN, Oct. 1-7, 1999

Senior Center programs and Washing-ton, D.C., memorial; see Community Calendar

Pacific Southwest SAN DIEGO

Sun., Oct. 3-Film showing, "Visas and Virtue," sponsored by San Diego chapter; see community calendar. VENTURA COUNTY

Sun, Oct. 3-Annual Japanese Cul-tural Festival; see Community Calendar.

DEADLINE for Calendar is the Friday before date of issue, on a space-evailable basis. Please provide the time and place of the event, and name and phone number (including area code) of a contact person.

HOLIDAY ISSUE AD KITS ON THEIR WAY Holiday Issue advertising kits are aing mailed. Thank you to those of being mailed. Thank you to those of you who called to let us know where the kits should be sent. As a re-minder, please call 800/966-6157 when you receive them. Thank you.

LOS ALAMOS

(Continued from page 1)

tion comes out, it cries out for reeveluation

Leahy and Judiciary Committee Chairman Orrin Hatch (R-Utah) both said a majority of lawmakers want an expanded and more thorough investigation

In recent months, the FBL as well as the Justice and Energy departments, have come under criticism both in Congress and within the intelligence community for focusing too narrowly on Los Alamos, the New Merico research lab where the first atomic bomb was developed 54 years ago and where the W-88 also was created.

The technical information about the W-88 "had been widely available" from numerous places in government and among private contractors "and could have come from many organizations other than the weapons labs," a panel of the president's Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board con-cluded in a report in June.

The advisory panel, chaired by former Senator Warren Rudman of New Hampshire, questioned why "only one investigation was initiated" and it focused "on only one category of potential sources, the bomb designers at the national labe

Likewise, a report by the Sen ate Governmental Affairs Committee last month questioned why the FBI did not cast a broader net when first told to find out who might have given the W-88 secrets to China. From the beginning, the FBI identified Los Alamos "as the likely source ... and set about trying to produce possible sus-pects" at the laboratory, the report by Sens. Fred T mns (R-Tenn.), and Joseph Lieber-man, (D-Conn.), said.

A CONTRACTOR AND A CONTRACT AND A CONTRACT OF THE ADDRESS OF THE A

Lee, a Taiwan-born computer scientist who worked with the top-secret weapons design team at Los Alamos since the late 1970s, has denied giving any se-crets to China and has accused the government of singling him out because he is Chinese Amer icon

Lee has not been charged with any crime. Government sources familiar with the investigation have expressed doubt that an espionage case can be made against him, although prosecution on lesser security violations

After Lee was fired last March, it was discovered during a search of his office computer that he had improperly transferred thou-sands of files of warhead computer codes - so-called Legacy ondes that chronicle the develop ment of America's nuclear arsenal - into a less secure computer network

It is not known whether any of the information left the lab's unclassified computer system. With little information linking him to the W-88 warhead espionage, sources familiar with the investigation said any potential crimi-nal prosecution likely would involve the file transfers.

Investigators have acknowl-edged that Lee became a prime target in part because he and his wife had frequent contact with Chinese scientific delegations and they had made trips to Chi-na in the 1980s. Lee has said lab officials approved those trips.

Bay Area executive Jan Masao-ka has been named one of 1999's "Power and Influence Top 50" by NonProfit Times, a national news journal for the nonprofit sector. The list recognizes 50 pivotal leaders in the national honoprofit sector. Also honored this year are, sector. Also hone among others, Betty Beene, president of the 'United Way of Ameri-ca; consumer ca; consumer a d v o c a t e Ralph Nader,

Ralph Nader, founder of the Center for the Study of Responsive Law; Jan Masaoka and Susan Packard Orr, chairwoman of the spon David and Lucile Packard Foundati

tion. Masaoka is executive director Massoka is executive director of the Support Center/NDC, the nation's largest nonprofit man-agement consulting and training organization, a position she has held since 1000 held since 1993. With offices in San Francisco and San Jose, the center provides comprehensive consulting ser-vices, workshops in computer and management topics, and original-content publications for and manuferment topics, and original-content publications for nonprofit managers and board members. In addition, the center main-tains three Web sites to assist nonprofits: <www.senportcen-ter.org>, <www.senportcen-ter.org>, <www.senportcen-ter.org>, <www.senportcen-ter.org>, </www.sentap.org>. Little moves on the left coast without Massoka being in the middle of it, NonProfit Times commented in the August article announcing the "Power and In-fluence Top 50." The journal characterizes the

The journal characterizes the Support Center/NDC as instru-mental in "convening the sector's thinkere" mental in thinkers

The article can be found online ... <www.nptimes.com/augsr.

at <www.npunies.com/acgan html>. NonProfit Times notes Masa-oka's authorship of "All Hands on Bard," a guide for board mem-bers of all-volunteer organisa-tions, and her editorship of Board Care," a free national electronic newsletter for nongrof-ti board members that currently has over 7,000 subscribers. Masaoka is also president of the San Francisco Foundation Community Initiative Funds, a member or the San Francisco Telecommunications Initiative and an Advisory Committee member of the Asian Pracific Is-iander Wellneise Center. She is a Sansei who grew up in San Mateo. Her late father, Tad, was a leader in civil rights and Japanese American community affairs, her morther, Sachi, is ac-tive in Sturge Presbyterian Church and the Thpaz High School Reunion Committee, her sister, Miya, is a noted kotoist, composer and performance artist, her brother, Mark, has been active in United Auto Work-ers and Asian American commu-nity affairs in Los Anceles ers and Asian American cor nity affairs in Los Angeles. 18. F

U.S. Justice Department Honors L.A. County Commission

The U.S. Department of Jus The U.S. Department of Jus-tice, Community Relations Ser-vices, honored the Los Angeles County Commission on Human County Commission on Human Relations with the State and Lo-cal Partnership Assard, to recog-nize its role in the Los Angeles County Hate Crime Response Team and its efforts toward strengthening race relations in America

America. The evar was presented to Ron Wakabayashi, executive di-rector of the commission, on Sept. 17 during the department's Race Relations Symposium at the Omni Shoreham Hotel in Washington, D.C. Joining Wakabayashi in the recognition were several of the commission's partners, including

Scott Millington from the Dis-trict Attorney's Hate Crime Pros-ecution Unit; Capt. Richard Odenthal, Sheriff's Hate Crime Task Force; Dr. Angie Stockwell, the Los Angeles Unified School District's Office of Intergroup Re-lations; and Marsha Ramos of the City of Burbank and past president of HRMAC, the com-mission's Human Relations Mu-tual Assistance Consortium of cities. Scott Millington from the Dis-

nes. The national Community Re-The national Community ke-lations Service works through-out the country to mediate racial conflict, prevent violence and promote race relations. The Los Angeles County Commission has been singled out in a showcrase of beest practices in use around the The commission has been in-strumental in advancing the de-velopment of hate crime response, in-tially through Hate its Crime Net-It has work. It has facilitated strong part-nerships that have evolved over many Wekeper nation

and kept hate Wakabayashi crime con-cerns and issues in the forefront. But, he added, "There is much work still ahead."

$15,000 each to 11 Korean fam

By Pacific Citizen Staff and Associated Press	Natio	nal
C Ex-POWs Seek Re- dress for 'Slave Labor'			anninan -
NEW YORK - Common to sy water freed into sizes into a sy data to see an inter 500 Amar and a second or so data se data to second or so data se data to second or so data second columna a second columna a second columna a second columna a se	main elements to control rel- gion relief may practice a U.S. State 12 sectors a report on reli- riou elements report on reli- Amaria dans greenments are Origin. North Korea, Vietnam, Las are therein	prosecutors to these events often were madequate, "the report said. "In some cases local police and government officials abotted the violence."	U.S. District Judge Barbars Crabb ruled in July that the uni- versity a difficult scheme schem plan could be used to threas if the school ulty and staff, but that the school did not legally implement it in
A lawrant, which socks class- action states, was filed Sect. 18	The report also mentioned leg- islation in Palasten that it said	Up at UT	Ready's case. Crabb said Ready was correct in his claim that the university lat race govern the
(in 192) Direct Constitution (prender Null, signification of a range comparison Kawasaka Brays in increase 1 rat. Mitra- de Co. Inc. Mitmission informa- tional Porp. Nippor State.	<ul> <li>Server and real process introlections and and its loading three shares been a share to prove an a volume but do the server and server a server and real server and server a server and any server and server a server and server and server and server as set any server and server and server as set any server and server as server as set any server and server as server as set any server and server as server as set any server as server as server as set as server as set any server as server as server as set as server as set as server as server as server as server as set as server as set as server as server as server as server as set as server as server as server as server as server as server as server as server as server as server as server as server as server as server as server as server as server as server a</li></ul>	AUSTIN-Enrolment at the University of Thoms-Austin this full totals 49.03 wild school offi- cists and that the freehman class includes increases in minority structs	choice of Chost for the day for which is connecture as a stocking metry for employment. Ready's lawyer and the Board of Engenie sprong that he would record $75,000 in compensations
Copy and shows the lot. The builts he term along it strange as produced and the strange built is not a strange that the DUV to produce war produce and manage theory as and show the strange the strange and show	connect understate of relations activity, orbids initiality spac- traction of the state of the intra- ment protocyce detention, im- protocologic detention, im- rotocologic detention, im- ro	The total inclusion 57,179 tim- depreciate students, 10476 preclust, students and 1380 law students. It is a slight increase preventant fails enrolment of 42.045.	character and $75,000 for lost pay of the 3 counts appeal of Cruther de- cines this. Earch works has get a pointer at the constant of the art palling at 1994 a Crush which cruther are to han point particular.
1946. Strain actions any illegal surface. The Genery Convention and Vertices excellen that Joseph	This every invited security of these and secure of Buddhist ments and ning. this has de- noted as Magnitudes.	Out of 7,040 entering freshmen, this year, blacks increased to 288, up 57 students or 4517 percent. Asser Americans, reached 1,217.	a Korean His Sub for Forced Warting Labor warinte gevernment promised to frence, sold Ed. J. Warach, a laving for the plaintiffs. In Washington clarences (m.	The second sold March Revents community contradictors game- outer at approximation game- outer at approximation compared and approximation and a second sold and the	up 54 or 7.4 percent; and Hispan- ice numbered 974, up 83 or 9.3 percent. UT officials have worked to	19. COMPANY A system of the sec- federal proceed active dramages signs dependences companies for difference processing in the thready Sectors.
Convergence of the second seco	provide the second state of the second state o	boost minority enrollment despite the 1996 federal court voling known as Hopwood, which ended consideration of most in college ad- missions in Texas.	who contained they were subjected to strend labor in Union during work war it. They was they have stock by gas She divers they it they are while compensation for theory and imposing and would be a fine- transformer from doing be broken in the United States However.	In task, the report with the re- ligious freedom of the majority. Buchlist population was limited, contributes birough manufatory	O UW Discrimination case Tentative V Settled	dent who said that he was enhand to go to Japan to work in 1945, when Kores was a Japanese colory When he prived, he and
(i) a time into manage digure. On Septer 1() in California, three former POWs filled a simi- tar level in under the files state. Investments under the files state. Investments under the files state.	training in Morelsin and Lenin- ton, and in Bolaset cases, through foread contractions of mith.	MADISON, Wis —A white are been who files a racial discrim- ination lowenit after be was de- nied tenure at the University of Watcommitta Crosse ontil y re-	he was forced to work long hours at a stoel mill, air days a work- was not allowed to quit and his pay was withheld as "natorite de-
Mitsubishi, Corp., the company that allegedly held them captive during WWIL	Burna's government arrests and interests Buddhist monks who promote human and political rights. Security forces reportedly destroyed or looted churches,	ceive $150,000 and a position at the school under a tentative set- tlement. John Ready 42, such the Board	posits" Choe seeks unspecified dam- ages from Mitsubiah Hoevy In- dustries and Nippon Steel Inc. and "a deciention that defer-
Report Govern- ments Determined to Control Religious Mi- norties	mosques and monasteries. Mean- while, Pakistan entremists have allegedly committed violence against religious minorities like	of Regents in May 1997 after he was rejected for a terrired scalp- ture teaching position. The job was first offered to a white woman who rejected the offer	dants are way criminals who should be barred from doing base- ness in the United Status. They yearr ago, Nippon Steal be- turns the first Apparence company
WASHINGTON-Authori- tarian governments in Asia re-	Climitizes and Hindus, the de- pertment reported. Responses by state and local	then to Cambid Choy, an Asim American, who accepted it.	toppy it bread there damage its a gettimeter that the second state of the second state

1. ....

.

The Appendix powerman is not a definition. It said $500 million in 1000 to seeds automa-ter of the second second second to the second second second second to the second second second second second to the second second second second second to the second to the second Japanese employers wartine deeds. D. Uwajimaya: Village Construction Continues

SISAMINAD Rollow

court ruling, court binnes for the Dw

Cristine So Fe perior Court Learned affron Howing Counting and the Court of the Arrive Village of Both Annual Both Annual Both Annual Source Court Source Court Source Court Source Court Source Court Source Court

Jan Masaoka Included Amona Top 50 National Nenerofit Leaders

Lessons Learned From the Campaign Trail

Advice From Veteran Politicans Fong, Honda

Matthew Fong shared some of his tips after running a tight U.S. Senate race against incumbent Bar-bara Boner in last year's election. Fundraising

Yundraising
 On fund-raising, Fong said, You are on your own." He cau-tioned against relying on 'promised" donations because when it comes time to collect, the find more at materiality.

when it comes time to collect, the funds may not materialize. • Obtaining a fund-raiser does not gurantee donations. "Hiring a fund-raiser does not solve your problems of raising funds," said Fong. He said fund-raisers are hired to assist candidates in raising fun hired to assist candidates in raising money. Fong estimated he spect about 18 out of a 24-hour day ask-ing for money. • Although putting in personal money may allow a candidate to get a quick start, Fong said, 'Geing into your own pockt should be the last resort." If a candidate is con-sidering this Fong assocrated last resort." If a candidate is con-sidering this, Fong encouraged a "loan" to the campaign rather than a "donation," "so if you win, you can take the money out." Campaign Management Team • Hiring a campaign manage-ment team is "probably the most critical decision," said Fong. He said hiring a campaign team means hiring a network of people who can open doors to endorse-ment and funds. On the flip side, Fong said campaign teams will ment and tunds. On the hip side, Fong said campaign teams will have enemies, which the candidate will "inherk" by hiring them. To en-sure compatability, Fong said "un-derstand the history of who you're hiring" and "take the time to start interviewing and getting to kno some of the-consultants."

· Fong's rule of thumb was to "pick the one that believes in him and his cause" and is willing to "take a call at one in the morning." He cautioned against hiring a team on name recognition becaus if the team is working on a bigge race, it may take precedence. Media

Because ethnic and main-

Bocause ethnic and main-stream press reach different com-munities, it is important to run separate campaigns, said Fong.
 Fong emphasized the impor-tance of sticking to your message and discouraged candidates from speaking to the media if they have no message to convey and miscouraged cammates from speaking to the media if they have no message to convey. Impact on Family • Fong didn't deny that "politics is probably one of the worst profes-sions for a family." Despite his best efforts, Fong has been faired to miss family events. During the last election, Fong said his daughter got harassed by other students and even teachers. To prevent a family break up, Fong said a candidate should explain to their loved ones what they are fighting for. He also urged them to invite loved ones to public functions and to have them to read literature that conveys the candidate's message.

California Fong, Honda California State Ascemblyman Mike Homids tips fecused more on the personal aspects of politics. Honda shared his reasons for becoming involved in politics. As a former school teacher, Honda said he wanted to find better ways to improve the education system. He was also frustrated with how things were being vfun in his school district, and he vealized the lack of elected officials addressing the needs of the Asian Pacific the needs of the Asian Pacific the needs of the Asian Pacific American community. I realized I would rather be frustrated and have a vote than be frustrated and not have a vote, said Honda. I would rather be frustrated and have information, rather than be frustrated and wonder what the hell is going on with my community, my state,

But Honda admitted he had to But Honda admitted he had to first overcome his own fears such as the fear of public speaking, of rejection after losing a race and his general lack of self-confidence new situations. The greatest barrier of Asian Americans participating in elected office, whether it's elected or ap-pointed, is ourselves," said Honda, who admitted that overcoming his who admitted that overcoming his fears was a constant struggle. What bolstered his confidence, Honda said, was realizing that "what you have to say may be im-portant to other people. "The things that make you per-spire, don't let that be a barrier," continued Honda. "Look at it as a challenge and address it." He refuted any claims that there are no qualified APA candi-dates, saying when he visited the nation's capitol, he met a number of talented APAs working in gov-ernment. nt.

ernment. To those interested in running for elected office, Honda encour-aged them to examine what he termed as "skill sets," or the ability to work with people; plan, exe-cute and manage projects; being able to work in a group; and lis-tening and responding appropriately ately."... Honds noted the importance of these "skill sets" and urged that candidates work on them to im-prove themselves. Honda illus-trated the importance of these skills as he recounted an early po-litical experience of standing be-fore a crowd where he had been unable to answer a question. Be-fore the session was over, one of Honda's friend walked out. "That moment. I realized I had Honda's friend walked out. "That moment, I realized I had to get over the barrier of being self-conscious and work on getting the message out," said Honda. One way Honda hones his "skill sets" is to develop "internal snitch-est," or people who can be honest with him to let him know what points to improve.

Sac'to JACL Donates $5,000 to NJAMF

The board of directors of the JACL Sacramento chapter recently voted to donate $5,000 to the Na-voted to donate $5,000 to ne vu-tional Japanese American Memori-al Foundation in Washington, D.C., to help meet its goal of $5.6 million. Sacramento JACL was one of the leading groups in the Sacra-mento Valley to help raise funds for the Monument To Pathiotism.

the Monument To Patriotism. Other organizations involved were Florin JACL, Marysville JACL, Placer County JACL, Bud-dhist Church of Sacramento, Sacramento Japanese United Methodist Church, Hiroshima Nikkei Jin Kai, Bocho Doshikai, Military Intelligence Service of Northern California, Hokka Ku-mamoto Kenjin Kai, South Sacramamoto Kenjin Kai, South Sacra-mento Shinwa Kai, Parkview Pres-byterian Church, Kaguahima Ken-jin Kai, Matauyama-Sacramento Sister City Corp., Sacramento Nikkei Jin Kai, Buddhist Church of Florin, Nishiren Buddhist Church, Northern California Koy-asan Temple, Aichi Kenjin Kai, To-hoku Shinwakai, and Okayama Kenjin Kai.

Tips From the Consultants

Kan Kuwata, head of the pub-lic relations firm Kuwata Commu-nications, noted that different lev-els of political races (i.e., local, state, national) are run differently and there was 'no cooke cutter ap-proache. But he did add that he ap-proaches all political campaigns with the three 'm' - message, mechanics and money with the three "m's" — message, mechanics and money. According to Kirwata, a candi-date's message should encompass why they are running, what their theme is, what they stand for and why they should be elected. He said candidates should be able to said candidates should be able to answer what in political circles is considered the Roger Mudd<sup>2</sup> ques-tion, a term which came into exis-tence in 1980 when newscaster Mudd asked then presidential hopeful Ted Kennedy why he want-ed to be president. Kennedy failed to adequately answer that question and damaged his campign. You have to be able to answer-that question, said Kuwata. In addition, Kuwata pointed to the importance of having a theme.

In addition, Ruwata pointed to the importance of having a theme. As an example, Kuwata pointed to the presidential bid of Texas governor, George W. Bush, who has cho-sen the theme of "compassionate conservatism."

"That is the overarching theme for his campaign," said Kuwata. "He's a very disciplined candidate because everything he talks about is tied into that package of compas-sionate conservatism. In a parti-san Democrat. I don't want George Bush to win, but I have to respect and admire the fact that he has this discipline. On our side, it's hard to explain what the Gore cam-paign is trying to communicate." Once a candidate's messare is

Once a candidate's message is defined, the next step is determin-ing the most efficient way in getting the message to the public, or the mechanics of campaigning, ac ding to Kuwata.

Kuwata cautioned candidates

Through polls candidates can device and the second second youre in a lot of boune and you probably shouldn't be running." said Kuwata. Through polls candidates can de-termine the demographics of their target voters such as what TV shows they view so as to purchase advertisement during those time slots, according to Kuwata. Kuwata also urged candidates to talk to "real" people and not limit themselves to campaign people be-cause 'the real world changes." Judy Yu, head of the public re-lations company AsiaNet Market-ing, worked on the successful gu-bernatorial campaign of Washing-ton State Governor Gary Locke. Twis message to Asian Americans was simple: flocus on positive mes-sages and emphasize the contribu-tions that AAs have made to the nation.

tions that AAS new make to the nation. In Locke's case, Yu said their market research indicated that the general attitude towards AAS ware generally viewed as hard working, stucation oriented and loyal. Locke's campaign capitalized and highlighted these positive as-pects, said Yu. She noted Locke's link to the AA community gave him oredibility when he announced he wanted to be the education gover-nor of Washington. Harvey Englander has, been involved in politics for the past 31.

years and heads the Englander Group, formed in 1980. Like Kuwa-ta, Englander coixiders research to be crucial in winning a racs. "I don't do races without re-search," stated Englander. "Re-search is the critical element." When Englander worked on Michael Woo's succesful bid for a Los Angeles City Council seat in 1985, he noted that one of the first things that became clear through research was that no one in the Les Angeles City Council seat in 1986, he noted that one of the first things that became clear through research was that no one in the 13th council district knew who Michael Woo was. The the theorem of the theorem of the recognition, Englander put togeth-er the "Beth Woo letter," a corre-spondence from Woo's mother de-scribing her son. The mailer also included pictures of a siz-year-old Woo sitting in front of a Christmas tree and an adult Woo in a sweat suit to show that he was part of the jogging craze of the 1960s. "We created a piece of mail to tell Mike Woo's story from his mother, and the critical piece was that it showed he was 'one of us but not your next door neighbor'," said Englander.

to take advantage of opportunities. He pointed to the Laura Chick/Joy Picus race for an L.A. City Council seat. Ten days before election, a lo-cal TV station ran a story on his cal TV station ran a story on his chemics opponent, incumbent Picus. The story focused on Picus habit of dozing off at meetings and showed actual foctage of Picus saleep. Eng-landers's challenge was then Thow do you take this story and not look like we're jumping all over it on an unfortunate medical situation, and on limited time." Englander's team ended up reprinting the news story almost frame by frame and tran-scribing the commentary next to scrining the commentary next to the pictures. No other editorials were inserted except a message at the end, urging residents to elect Chick. Chick went on to deficet Pi-cus in the biggest win for a LA City Council eeat, according to Englander.

City Council sens, scora , City Englarsfer. The get the message out, the can-didate will also need to raise mon-ey, said Englander. He noted that in general first time candidates do not receive funds from special in-terest groups and will need to rely on their personal contacts. Englander's ideal candidate schedule would run like this: wake um in the morning, go to a fundrais schedule would run like this wake up in the morning, go to a fundrais-ing breakfast, head to the office, make fundraising phone calls, in the afternion visit a local organiza-tion and hand out giveaways such as pot holders or key chains, attend a fundraiser huncheon, return to the office argund a promotive a fundraiser luncheon, return to the office around 4 p.m., make more fund-raising calls and then go out and walk precints. Other critical points: Englander pointed out included: • candidates candidates must stay involved and meet their constituents

· opposition research

 opposition research
 appropriate computer software choose a consulting firm that is right for you. Englander said, "You don't want a consultant that rune right for you. Englander said, "You don't want a consultant that runs one campaign 200 times, but one who runs 200 campaigns once. Every campaign must be unique to fit your personality."

Text by Martha Nakagawa

Sewemure presents a $5,000 check to relating chair for the National Japanese ashington, D.C. b. Vat N

MENTARIES "Rabbit in the Moon" Revisited.

Dissenters' Actions Worsened Hostility

By SHIM HIRAOKA

By SHIM HINCOCK In viewing "Rabbit in the Moon," a dialogue of the evacuation and in-termment of the Japanese in World War II was presented, but it was colored by an attempt by each nar-rator to justify the acts of the Tule Laters and the resisters. Plaudits of courage and heroism are reserved for those perisons who, by their actions, benefit a group and, in this case, the Japanese community. In that connection, what good of benefit did the Japan-ese, in campe or out, receive from community. In the tense to the second rese, in cample or out, receive from the negative responses to questions 27 and 28 by the 'no-no' group? What good did the renouncing of citizenship by over 5,000 Nisei, who ended up in Tule lake, bring the Japanese populace? What good did those resisting the draft bring the Japanese to help solve the loy-alty problem? Their actions, though conscientious, accom-plashed nothing except to worsen the climate of hostility that existed. It did not take courage to resist the climate of hostility that existed. It did not take courage to resist the draft. Resisting provided an as-surance that, instead of being wounded or killed in combat, they could languish in jail for the durasurance that, instead of being wounded or killed in combat, they could languish in jail for the dura-tion, with three square meals a day and a warm place to sleep. These are hurnies the Nisei WWI veter-ans rarely enjoyed. But for their valorous performances with more than 680 killed in action and re-ceipt of 9,486 Purple Hearts, there would have continued the anti-Japanese tirades. The acts of the veterans stilled the voices of the racists, which began around 1900, ending on a charge that the Nisei vere disloyal. Almost 50 years of crusading against the Japanese had resulted in the passage of the Alien Land Acts, the anti-Japanese fahing bills, the Exclusion Law of 1924, among others. The herois of the 100th Battalion, 442nd Begi-mental Combat Team and MIS re-sulted in the acclamation by Presi-dest Harry S. Tumas and the Mas-Japanese hob heat and MIS re-sulted in the acclamation by Resi-dent Harry S. Tumas and the Mas-ter Harry S. The state of the Name on longer to be questioned. This benefit actanded to the Tude Lakers and resisters. Even the redress lag-vertands as influenced by the fa-vertands as influenced by the fa-vertands as witheness HR 442. These benefits the narrators in the movie accepted. For them to say the soldiers should not have had to do what they did and their acts did not have impetus for the return of the soldiers should not have had to do what they did and their acts did not have impetus for the return of the Japanese to the West Coast dis-plays naivete and lack of realism. The Japanese constituted only ulation in 1942. It was one of the smallest racial minorities in Amer-ica, with no political clout. The point was made by a narra-tor that he will never forgive, as ac-quaintance who turned his being in Tule Lake. He won't forgive, but he expects what he did to be correct and that he should be forgiven. Is-it forgivenes a two-eway storee?

1/10th of 1 percent of the U.S. pop-ulation in 1942. It was one of the smallest racial minorities in Amer-

and that he should be forgiven. Is-n't forgiveness a two-way street? As for James Omura and his condemnation of JACL, it would condemnation of JACL, it would appear to me that he being a jour-nalist, should have known or real-ized that regardless of JACL's stance, evacuation and interment would have resulted. All Omura had to do was review the state-ments of the public, politicians, me-dia, businesses and civic organiza-tions which, vociferously, demand-dia, businesses and civic organiza-tions which, vociferously, demand-ed for their removal. Omura would have discovered that all political parties, the media and many orgahave discovered that all political parties, the media and many orga-nizations, namely, the Native Sons of the Golden West, State Grange, State Federation of Labor, all Trade Unions, American Legion and even the Veterans of Foreign Wars, supported this, as did the politicians, especially U. S. Senator James D. Phelan, Attorney Gener-al U.S. Webb, and California Gov. Earl Warren, who were advocating removal. removal

As for Issei narrator Shosuke As for Issei narrator Shosuke Sasaki, all that needs be said is that he was an alien Issei. The out-break of the war made him an ene-my alien, subject to deportation or to be used as a hostage in the ex-change of prisoners. In other words, he had no rights. He should here here the arrant deported or be happy he wasn't deported or used in the exchange of prisoners. There has been found no intent used in the exchange of prisoners. There has been found no intent by the government to use Nisei as hostages. Had we all responded like the Tule Lakers or resisters, the public might have demanded the Nisei be used as hostages. After all. Nisei loyality was questioned because so many had their births registered in Japan. This argu-ment of dual citizenship was used by the Jaint Immigretion Commi-tes, after 1924, to prove the Nisei's allegince to be to the Emperor. The question is: what would have happened to the Japanese had all of us done what the Tule Lakers and resisters did I would like to hear an explanation from each of the narrators.■

Shim Hiraoka is a 442nd veter an from Fresno, Calif.

Film Liberates Dissenters From JACL Vise Grip

By TAKASUMI KOJIMA

We thought the documentary, "Rabbit in the Moon," was a pow-erful story of what 'took place dur-ing the unpleasant camp days. The attempts at discrediting the Nikkei discretes which included i dissenters which included sei, Kibei, draft resisters and stors of the "loyalty question-Nikkei dis protes naire" have become an important part of contemporary Nikkei histo-

An impressive body of evidence

An impressive body of evidence has accumulated to corroborate the undermining of the Issei and Kibei by the War Relocation Au-thority (WRA) and JACL. Today, motivated by desire to help repel the insolence of the JACL, which misleads by factual omission or selectively uses histor-ical information that denies Issei and Kibei issalities the documenand Kibei loyalties, the documen-tary does not get any better than this

The award-winning producers are in peak form in this evocation of how the Issei and Kibei coped of how the Issei and Kibei coped with the bitter legacies of interm-ment and the daunting challenges of rebuilding a devastated life. Emiko Omori's insight and unerr-ing eye for the humor and hypocrisy animate this documen-term bits is a mission control. tary, making it a major contribution to our understanding of Nikkei society. These participants set about doing what no other internment personnel had done before: remak sonnei had done before remarking the political, social, cultural and economic fabric of the forgotten group, and in the process, chang-ing the very way of viewing the Nikkei legacy. What is refreshing is the atten What is retreaming is the atten-tion given to the varied exper-ences of the Issei and Kibei. Thus, the veices of ordinary Nikksi pow-erfully convey the complexities and hardships which arose from the biases of the WRA and JACL.

and hardships which arose usual the biases of the WRA and JACL. The war propaganda and dehu-rasmization this entailed left the lissei and Kibei unprepared and apprehensive about the loyalty questionnaire. Omori roots out the hypocrisy on both sides. During the war, the Issei and other resisters were saturated with propagands extolling the virtues of American values and the nobility of sacrificing for the the greater common good. Howev-er, many in JACL displayed no concern for the good of society. They viewed sacrifice as an incon-venience to be borne by others. They concentrated instea d on en riching themselves by traveling freely from camp to camp and to Salt Lake City and other cities in order to fraternize and plot the discrediting of the dissenters with WRA officials, and then to political

WRA officials, and then to political grandstanding and blaming the Issei and Kibei for disloyalty. This rampant blaming by a ve-nal JACL at a time when the Nikkei public was pushed to the edge of survival generated disgust and wiped away any doubts the Is-sei might have had about the JACL leadership. Camp newspaper coverage about this selfishness tarnished the imase of those JACLers who he image of those JACLers who ad coerced the Nikkei to sign the had coerced the Nikkes to sign the loyalty questionnaire and sacrifice everything for the war effort. This agitation against the dissenters had some regretitable effects and contaminated certain areas of Japanese American political, edu-cational and social life. There was a need to denounce the agitation as disruptive of the Nikkei tradi-tion. Thus, the Nikkei, both in in-fuential and grassroots levels, retion into, the view of the set of JACL The question, then, is whether one can regard the wartime inter-action of the dissenters and JACL as a beneficial joint existence. Were these two groups members of a common community, or did this community exist only in each groups' respective fantasies? Omori goes so far as to reject the presumption of an Issei-JACL co-habitation, thus leveling a devas-tating critique at what she views as a consistently one-sided effort. To invoke the ides of a Issei-JACL relationship is to reconsider the problems inherent not only to the historical phenomenon itself, but also to contemporary historithe mistorical phenomenon lateral, but also to contemporary histori-cal analysis and memory. In the five decades since the intermment, the relationship between the JACL and Issel/Kibei has certain-

JACL and Issei/Kibei has certain-ly been wrought with both tension and harmony. In recent years, the Nikkei have explored the degree to which the identities of the JACL and dissenters are interconnected. Dis cussions of internment, especially as they were articulated since the as they were articulated since the 1960s, are not merely about Nikkei coming to grips with its scarred past, but about how to grasp the dissenter element run-ning throughout its history. In a sense, "Rabbit in the Moon," has made it harder than ever to ignore the links between these two Nikkei cultures. The Issei, Kibei and other dis

The isset, kines and other dis-senters waited some 50 years be-fore they were officially accorded equality as human beings. It-was this documentary that liberated the issei and Kibei from the vise-grip of the JACL. This new atti-tion to the towards the dissenters did due towards the dissenters did not happen overnight. It was a slow, painful, even courageous act, nurtured by a long line of Nikkei social thinkers and the third-generation activists ation activists. Deeply moved by the historical justices of the Issei and Kibei, Emiko Omori and her sister Chizu Omori produced this film to show that there were other explana-tions for the Issei attitude toward the evacuation, coupled with an appeal to the conscience of the the evacuation, coupled with an appeal to the conscience of the Nikkei society to redress the wrong by granting the dissenters equal rights and voices with all other internees. But the emancipation of the la-sei has come slowly. At various times, the JACL has issued com-mentaries raising the issue of lassi and Kibei loyalty. The straggie went on year in and year out. Full equality, at least within the open-minded public, were achieved by this program.

Minded putter, were extended to this program. The recently resigned JACL na-tional director wrote in the Pacific Citizen (May 7-20) about being aware of and wanting to form a committee to study this documentary as there may be a backlash; but he also wanted to be conciliatory by bringing all parties togeth-er and have a public dialogue — an excellent idea.

an excellent idea. After digesting the JACL predilection for 50 years, it is re-freshing to hear the other side. De-spite considerable harassment, the Issei, Kibei, and other dis-senters managed to lead a well-in-tegrated group life. That, in itself, it sestimony to their capacity to adjust to all conditions of life, a virtuacity acquired from their bia. virtuosity acquired from their his virtuosity acquired from their his-toric conditioning. We have finally recognized that the threat to the civil rights of any minority group, whether of foreign birth such as the issei or native Kibei also poses danger, since the privileges in a democratic society either work for all without excep-tion or more at all either work for all without excep-tion or none at all. The Nikkei cannot have a fu-history. The Nikkei spirit, devel-oped by so mány years of sacrifice, should be preserved and devel-oped further, so that in America, as elsewhere, our children may live lives and do deeds worthy of their ancestry.

Our grateful thanks to Emiko and Chizu Omori for their courage in producing this historic docu-mentary. Our rating: all thumps up!

Takasumi Kojima writes from Berkeley, Calif.

Reconciling Our Past, Strengthing Our Pature

15

By ANDY NOGUCHI

Florin AACL Civil Rights Chair When I was growing up, my fa-ther shared with me some of his Military Intelligence Service expe-riences during World War II. Since many years in Florin and San Jose, we thought we had beard just about everything on the campe. So six years ago I was sur-prised to hear of the 315 Niset in and pwho had resisted the draft in order to protest interument. Like many Sansei and Yonsei, we had not heard this part of the camp story.

story. This controversial issue has This controversial issue has been actively taken up by the science, along with Gordon Riceace, along with Gordon Hirabayashi, at our Day of Re-membrance. Recently, the Florin chapter co-sponsored a resolution with the Sequoia and Golden Gate chapters before the Northern Cali-fornia JACL district council. This resolution recognizes the resistors, calls for an apology by national JACL for not recognizing their stand and a public ceremony.

their stand and a public ceremony It passed in the Northern Califor-nia district by an 18 to 2 vote. Currently, this resolution has been passed by 5 of 6 districts (two still passed by 5 of 6 districts (two sum pending) and a majority of chap-ters representing most JACL members. Because it did not pess all eight districts, it will not be en-an eight districts, it will not be ear-acted this year. However, much good public dis-cussion has taken place, some mis-conceptions laid to rest, and incussion has taken place, some mis-conceptions laid to rest, and in-creased recognition given the re-sisters. This issue has touched a nerve in the community. Many have had to relive the unfair choic-es forced on them by the loyalty oath. These decisions might have been the hardest ones Japanese Americans faced during the war — decisions affecting life, death, spli-ting up of families and community m-fighting. I appreciate the many honest comments from all sides of this tough issue. For sponsors of this resolution, the intent is to rec-ognize those resisters who stood up for their constitutional rights, as we also respect the difficult choices made by others. The intent is to heal the divisions in our community so that we can prove forward.

of support. The intent is to head the divisions in our community so that we can move forward. Reading the resolution makes this clear. One misconception about this resolution is that it puts the re-sisters of conscience above the Ni-sei veterana. Nothing could be fur-ther from the truth. The resolution does not henor those who were dis-loyal to the United States. Most re-sisters of conscience were "yes-yes". istars of conscience were 'yee-yee' on the loyalty oath while protest-ing their family's internment, and many resisters served during the Korean War. The resolution asks not say everyone should have re-sisted the draft. It was vital for JAs sisted the draft. It was vital for JAs to defend America during the war. The resolution holds today's na-tional JACL accountable for the lack of recognition during WWII. Didn't Presidents Reagan, Bush, and Clinton apologize for the U.S. Government though they were not responsible for internment? It asks national JACL to recognize those who shoul on for our constitutional haddnai JACL to recognize takes who stood up for our constitutional rights in the past, just as the JACL has advocated over the last 20 years for redress. It asks national JACL to lead the reconciliation, to strengthen our community by bringing us together, and to better prepare us for future challenges. When I think about the future, I

When I think about the future, I look to our youth and the need for role models. Our 10 year old daughter Annie has many. She has my father, among the courageous Nisei veterans, who chose to serve in the MIS and 442nd, fighting for America though their families were unfairly intermed. She also has our Nisei resisters like Noboru Taguma, Susumu Yenokida and Joe Norikane, who chose to stand up for the Constitution and weat to federal prison. Twils and I have taught her to value both choices.

This article was reprinted from the Florin Chapter Newsletter.

nk of Tokyo

Member FDiC

Troubled in Paradise

By Harry Honda

Family Stories

couple years ago, during one of my visits to Los Anduring geles, I was dragged by some friends to see a play titled "Old Man River." It was a one woman play which was sup-posed to be about camp. Then as now, I was a bit tired of (a) one man'woman plays by Asian Americans and (b) camp, so it was with some reluctance that I went to see it.

And much to my surprise, I liked it. In fact I was blown away by it.

Written and performed by Cynthia Gates Fujikawa, it is an autobiographical story of her search for family secrets focusing on her father. A character ing on her lather. A character actor throughout her childhood, Jerry Fujikawa made a long ca-reer out of playing stereotypical "Oriental" roles in the movies and on TV. But he never spoke about his past, and various mys-terious clues about that past set the adult "Cynthia" on a journey in search of her father's secrets. One hesitates to reveal more, as this is one drama that is filled with surprising real-life twists and turns.

To be sure, this is not a "normal" Japanese American story, at least not on the surface. For one thing, Jerry married a European American woman, something very few Nisei did for var-ious reasons, the fact that it was illegal being one of them. Jerry's choice of acting as a career was also unusual for a Nisei, as most also unusual for a rulet, as much of her contemporaries tended to choose occupations involving less risk and uncertainty. And it is a story involving silence about camp, mental illness, broken marriages, and untimely death.

Okay, so maybe it's more "nor-al" than we realize. Perhaps mal what is truly unusual is to have such secrets aired in public. "Cynthia" matter-of-factly tells all about the skeletons in this family's closet as part of her ef-fort to try to understand how things came to be.

things came to be. Eventually, we get to camp. Through telling us the story of what happened afterward first, we learn the camp story after we see the havoc it wreaked in this family. It makes the presen-tation of the facts of the internment strike us on a personal level. We've already seen its im-DE

But "Old Man River" is more fe and after the war -_ affect. ed this family. It is also the story of a Sansei's quest to learn about it, despite all the obsta cles set in her path. I suspect that many of us Sansei will be able to identify with "Cynthia" as she peels back the layers of her family's past. I had been wanting to write about "Old Man River" for -a about 'Old Man Kiver' for a long time, but I saw it at the end of its run, and it hasn't played much since. But now, a new film version of the play has been re-leased. Directed by Emmy Award winner Allan Holzman, it combines film of Fujikawa's performance with film clips and still photos. There's nothing fancy here, which is wise, since the powerful enough to carry the film.

I'm often asked what one book or film on camp I'd recommend. I never know how to answer this question, as most of the best films and books are quite spe cialized and don't work so rell as introductory pieces, while most of the works which are meant to be overviews or introductions are flawed. Two of the films I do often rec

Iwo of the nims i do often rec-ommend as good introductory pieces are Steven Okazaki's "Days of Waiting" and Janice Tanaka's "Who's Going to Pay for These Donuts, Anyway?" I'd add "Old Man River" to the list. All are about very specific fami-lies or individuals, none of whom seem to be "typical." None are specifically about camp. But each gets us involved in stories which happen to in-volve camp and each shows the devastation camp left in its wake on a very personal and specific level. In each case, the specific becomes the best way to talk about the general. And in each case, what is and isn't "typ-ical" is subtidied and superior ical" is called into question.

None are easy to see, so ene should try to seek them out when one can. In October and November, "Old Man River" will have special screenings in San Francisco, Denver, Los Angeles, Burlington (Vermont), Atlanta, and Colorado Springs. Check your local listings or the com-nunity calendar in this paper for details. And keep an eye out for additional screenings. The title of "Old Man River" comes from the song "Jerry constantly — and unsuccessful-ly — tries to sing throughout "Cynthia's" childhood, a song which begins and ends the pla and film. In between, our understanding of both the song and "Jerry" transforms dramata transformation you ically. It is don't want to miss.

free time.

Tara tara—sound of water or any liquid dripping; also de-scribes endless complaining or boasting. Tarasu—to drop, spill. Tsuka tsuka—walking briskly without any hesitation.

without any hesitation. Tsuru asy hesitation. Tsuru suru-a smooth sur-face; as alipping on a smooth surface; or the sound while surping noodles. Tsuya-luster, bright, shiny. Hara hara-being anxious about how things are going to turn out, to be uneasy; of petals or tears falling gently. Waku waku-someone who is bursting with existement in an-tidination. Waku-to boil. Waxa waxa-doing something on parpose even though there is no need, doing something spe-ion need, doing something spe-ion need, doing something spe-in ather than incidentally. Waxa waxa, a trick (as in mar-tial arts). tial arts). Dabu dabu

-clothing that's too big (baggy). Doki doki --- a pounding heart, beating fast. Doki --- palpitation. Don don----continuous loud beating of a drun Donary-to roar.

Very Truly Yours

ELAX. Tickling the pages

R of a new dictionary in a bookstore is one way. I find, of relaxing. The other day at Barnes-Noble, Microsoft's Encarta in print format was on display with a \$50 tag. Several blocks away at Sam's discount warehouse was the same for half the price. Our test was to see whether the ligatures were used—se ce fi fl. One word, for example, is onomatopoia.  $[Ovoµa, name + \pi otev, make.]$  (I trust the Greek letters here from the symbol font are true.)

Recent vintage dictionaries don't bother with ligatures; our computer provides only four (see above), by accessing the Character Map. But the Century (1948), a three-volume unabridged set in the P.C. Li-

The 12-letter word, of course, means words formed by imitating the sound associated with the thing being described, as bow-wow. The Japanese equiva-lent here is won-won. And let's go over some expressions with repeated sounds — thanks to the continuing feature in the Japan Times, "Feelingual" by sketches. In some cases, we've appended the source of the stingy with money. Kechi-miserly, tight-fisted.

Naga naga-something that is prolonged, often used to describe a speech that goes on longer than necessary. Nagai-long, lengthy.

sticky, gooey; of a tenacious character, behavior or speech

Niko niko-describes someone smiling happily. Nikoniko-Niya niya—smiling in a faint, meaningful manner. Niyari—to in an easy and relaxed manner, someone relaxing without any (leisurely). Nobiru-to extend, lengthen, postpone, spread well. Noso noso-moving slowly (clumsily); often used to de-scribe the movement of large people and animals (lumber ing). Nuku nuku—having a feeling of warmth and comfort (snugly);

one having an easy, car or

nechi-something

-doing something worrie

apanese onomatopœic word. Kechi kechi—someone who is n Times, "Feelingual" by Gomi, with humorous brary, uses them.

Taro

Nechi

(persistent).

grin

som

suru-to smile.

Nobi nobi-

interruptions

example,

Donaru-to roar. Doro doro-comething cov-ered in mud (sloppy); liquid that's. opaque and sticky (syrupy); of mixed emotions or muddled. Doro-mud. Chibi chibi-doing something little by little to make it last as long as possible cipping as long as possible (sipping a drink). Chibi-a dwarf. Chiku chiku-a sharp object ricking something; the pain felt from such. Bara bara the sound of hailstones falling to the ground; things scattered in bits and pieces, or something that lacks unity

Onomatopostically Speaking -

Nobi Nobi

Bari bari-sound of tearing crunching something; of ener getic action; also something hard and stiff.

Beta bata-the sound of a flag or banner flapping in the wind; making a sound by shaking such objects, objects falling down in succession; someone in a rush

Bera bera-speaking endless

bera bera -speaking endiess-ly; wagging one's tongue. Beta beta—something sticky or clingy; someone clinging to others (often describes a man and woman who stick closely to gether); covering a surface with paint, pieces of paper. Beta-all over. Biku biku-describes part of the body shaking gently; some-one who is afraid or nervous (scared) Bikubiku-to feel nervous.

Burn burn-e rather heavy object that is dangling; walking without any real purpose or walking slowly (strolling); spending time without any mo-tive (loafing around); drifting through life.

Buru buru-something shaking, trembling; also describes someone's body shaking from cold or fear (shivering).

Paku paku-someone open-ing and closing their mouth many times, like someone eat eartily; a flap that keeps ing h and closing opening and crosses. Pakupaku-to puff away at one's cigar.

Peko peko-sound or act of bending a thin metal or plastic sheet back and forth (twanging); bowing humbly many and assuming a servile at titude; faint with hungry.

Pera pera-chattering away frivolously; speaking fluently in a foreign language; thumbing through a book; describes cloth or wooden boards that are thin, cheap-looking. Perapera-fluently

Pero pero-putting the tongu out and moving it around (lick -putting the tongue ing). Perori-to-to loll out one's tongue in contempt.

Poka poka—a feeling of warmth throughout one's body; sound of beating someone. Poka-the sound when whacking someone or something. Pota pota-describes dripping water

Pun pun-describes someone who is very angry; a strong smell hanging over a place Punpun-to be in a huff.

Pyon pyon-describes hop-ping or skipping (like a rabbit, for instance).

These are some of the colorfui sounds I heard my mom use off and on.

and on. And a part of P.C.'s past: Iro-Iro (miscellaneous, all kinds of) was the title of onetime P.C. Ed-itor Georger T. Johnston's col-umn in the late 1980s. ■

The new mugshot comes from Sacramento JACLer Kiki Ryu-go, taken at the 1998 Tule Lake reunion. Thanks.

Army Secretary Recommends Medal of Honor for 442nd Vet

Meccal of Honoroi Caldera, agreeing with the 442ad Veterana Chub of Hawaii and Sen, Deniel Akaka (D-Hawaii), has reo-ommended World War II veteran James K. Okubo, combat medic with the 442ad, be porthumously evanded the Medal of Honor for gallanty exhibited in France in October-November 1944 while re-trieving wunded men under fire. Okubes harois actions first brough him the Silver Star diffe-the Army had discoproved a nom-ination for the Medal of Honor, ac-cording to 442ad veteran Ed Ichiguna, who found descriptions of Okubes barois at the Nation-al Archives in 1997. "He was babying guys by doig-ing all the artillary shells, granades and all that," is velks, senater. "And you know and I know that grenades and mortar shells don't respect the red cross on a [medica] helmet."

6

shalls' don't respect the red cross on a imedicis) helmet." Alcala requested a review of the account under a special provision of federal isw. President Clinton, Congress and the Secretary of De-fense mins; approve the nomina-tion. Akaka added it would be highly unusual for the Secretary of the Army to be rejected. The re-ommendation, was made Sopt. 14 for the California native, who died in a car crash in 1967.

for the California native, who used in a car crash in 1967. Oknobs case is not directly re-lated to the Medal of Honor review present that was started by Atakia, widds could accerd more Congres-sional Medal of Honor awards for until watchings of Honor awards for WWII recipient

Letters to the Editor

Re: U.S.-Japan Relations Committee

Bill Hosokewa's article -on JACL's U.S.-Japan Relations Committee in the Sept. 10-16 iscommittee in the Sept. 10-16 is-see points out some questions fac-ing our committee — questions that may not have any satisfacto-ry answers. I did feel that some further applanation should be made as to why our committee ex-

The main purpose of the U.S.-apan Relations Committee Japan Relations Committee (ISIRC) is to study and analyze key issues and current events in Japan and its interaction with the United States and to educate the JACL on how these events may affect us. We feel that we are inertricably connected to USJR Because panese Americans look Japan-e and although there is a world Japan of difference between being Japan-ese and being Japanese Ameri-cans, this difference is not evident to many. It is up to us to educate the public of this difference. The net result is that an amicable rela-tionship between the United States a nd Japan is advantageous to Americans of Japanese and

We feel that we cannot afford to We teef that we cannot among to stay ignormant of what is going on around us when events and condi-tions are visibly affecting our well-being. Unfortunately, the grass-roots JACLers are not very interested in what is happening in USJR — feeling that things are not too bad and events are not really affecting them to any great extent

The USJRC is composed of rep-resentatives from all eight dis-tricts of the JACL and includes an advisory board of prominent acadho are active in USJR. emic and busin who are active in USJR. Monitoring of current events is done by committee members, most notably by: Ted Shigeno of Tokyo, George Kodama of Los An-geles, John Kurats of Sacramento, Emilie Murase of San Francisco, Frank Nishio of Fresno and Yosh Tamura of Rancho Palos Verdes. These are summarized and sent out periodically by the chair, Ed Mit

Obviously, the USJRC is not in the same league as the think tanks that Hosokawa mentions. tanks that Hosokawa menutons. Our USJRC is trying to find out what is going on and why, and we are trying to educate ourselves. If readers are interested in re-

If readers are interested in re-ceiving more information on the USJRC, you are invited to write to me — Ed Mitoma, 28123 Lomo Dr., Rancho Palos Verdes, CA 90275 — and I will send you a memo explaining the USJRC and the mission statement. We can also place you on our mailing list for future mailings.

Ed Mitoma Rancho Palos Verdes, Calif.

Debate on Resisters Detracts From More Important Issues

"Rabbit in the Moon" was shown recently in Chicago on a program called "P.O.V. — Point of View."

of View." It certainly fit is very appro-priately with the program be-cause it presents a very definite point of view of America's con-point of view of America's con-centration camp experience. I know there were those who did not agree with the movie's point of view, but it was impor-tant and good that their point of view was presented. I think it is abundantly clear by now from the many letters, editorials and opinions that there are many who under-stand, recognize and respect the point of view of the draft resisters and others who had other points of To continue the debate a apology can only detract and dis-tract from more important issues that need to be addressed. In fact I would challenge those who continue to criticize the JACL to join the organization and give it their expertise, energy, and point of view. My point of view during the crit-ical years of the '40s was to volun-teer with four good friends from Jerome, Ark., despite much negative pressure umi "Babe" Okura and Eso Susumi "Babe" Okura and Eso Masuda were killed in action in the rescue of the "Lost Battalion." My only regret is that they did not live to see their families reed from America's concentration camps. They died fighting for their fam-ilies, the Japanese American comity and their country.

of view

It is important to remember and to work together to see that Amer-ica lives up to its promise of liber-ty and justice for all, and not liberty and justice for some.

Sam Ozaki Chicago, Ill.

Draft Resisters Need Better Spokesman than Frank Chin

While conceding he has a "rot-ten personality" (P.C. Sept. 17), Frank Chin should also admit that all he knows about our evacu-ation is distorted hearsay ac se traditions of honor-t. counts. Also that he has no r for Japane able conduct.

The case of those demanding : The case of those demanding JACL apologize to Japanese American draft resisters must be without merit, if they depend on an irrational Chinese American, so utterly unqualified, to speak for them. thom

And why does P.C. editor Caro-line Aoyagi dignify Chin's three columns of senseless ramblings by ing it an editorial? I'm sure labelli she doesn't agree with his wacky accusations against the JACL, 442nd RCT, Mike Masaoka, Bill Hosokawa, Barry Saiki, and Fred Hirasuna. They are the ones whose dedication and self-sacrifice brought us wonderful benefits that would take many volumes to ribel

In contrast, draft resisters and In contrast, draft resisters and no-no boys intensified hatred against us. Apologizing to them would defame the good and glorify the bad. Let us listen to our old timers who served so well instead of to young, Pollyanna intellectu-als, who only read slanted ver-sions of our World War II ordeal.

It is time for JACLers to rededicate ourselves to our motto: "Better Americans in a greater Ameri-

Tagawa Hypocritical in

"Whitewashing" Article

vinucvetoning Aluck I know Im late, but I wanted to respond to your story, TV White-washing Concern on the Rise" (Sep. 3-9). The article quotes Japanese American actor Cary-Hiroyuki Tagawa as he urgs the Asian American community to be-come more active and "speak out" against inadequate Asian images in the media.

in the media. However, six years ago, the Asian American community did just that. In 1993, 20th Century For released the yellow peril' movie Blaing Sun," a potholier that pertrayed the Japanese as a malignant presence in this country, as inscrutable predistors try-ing to take over America by having white people murdered. The he-roce of Rising Sun* were two non-Asian detectives (Sean Connery and Weeley Snipes). The day this racially divisive film was released, Asian Americans all across the country — in spirit of Cary Tagawa's advice — "stood up" and "sroke out" seninst it.

in the media.

Mes Odoi Renton, Wash.

cal

Tagawa's advice — "stood up" and "spoke out" against it. Judging by his comments in your article, Mr. Tagawa should have been proud of their activism. Unfortunately, there was one in-convenient hich in all this: Cary-Hiroyuki Tagawa was in the Tagawa rationalized his partici pation in "Rising Sun" by claiming that his character, a virile playboy and the prime murder suspect. and the prime murder suspect, broke the stareotype of the sexiless Asian man. However, his charac-ter ultimately affirmed another stereotype: that of the self-sacrifi-cial Asian sidekick. From the time cial Asian sidekick. From the time Sam Jaffe (in brownface) sacri-ficed his life to save Cary Grant in "Gunga Din" (1939) to the time Dennis Dun sacrificed his life to save Mickey Rourke in "Year of the Dragon" (1985), virtually the out sacrificed Asian male thet only "positive" Asian male that Hollywood could imagine has been the supporting character who lays down his life so that the non-Asian hero can live.

True to form, "Rising Sun" had Tagawa's character willingly take a machete blade intended for Connery and Snipes. Moreover, his character's death helped to affirm character's death helped to annihil the movie's pernicious premise: the Japanese get what they want by murdering people. The con-stant repetition of the self-sacrificial Asian on the screen suggests that Hollywood doesn't think Asian life is worth preserving. On the evening of "Rising Sun"s on the events of realization of the protection of the protection of the protectors, Guy Aoki (also men-tioned in your article). Tagawa could have shown his respect for could have shown his respect to the activists by having a cordial exchange of differing ideas with Aoki, which might have made for a lively discussion. Instead, agawa went on the attack. Rather than discuss the merits of the film, Tagawa repeatedly ac-cused Aoki of not having read the novel version of "Rising Sun" (Aoki aid he had, but Tagawa kept levelling the charge anyway). Every time Aoki tried to make a point on time Aoki tried to make a point on the air, Tagawa would rudely in-terrupt, filibuster, and distort what Aoki had said. At least for what for the "dobte". the duration of the "debate," Tagawa successfully shifted the is-sue from "Rising Sun"s portrayal of Asians (a legitimate concern) to of Asians (a legitimate concern) w the "irresponsibility" of Aoki not reading a book that he had in fact read. Reminiscent of attack poli-tics, this acrimonious incident laid bare Tagawa's true allegiance: not to his community, but to his individual career.

Now, Tagawa is speaking out against the paucity of good Asian roles in American entertainment, roles in American entertainment, lending his voice to the people he once attacked during the "Rising Sun" controversy. In light of his past behavior, I have to wonder Sun' controversy in light of his past behavior, I have to wonder whether Tagawa is truly interest-ed in improving the Asian Ameri-can media image — or whether he just wants another acting job. And the Pocific Citizen suggests its own historical amnesia by un-critically illustrating your article with a still of Tagawa in "Bising Sun," complete with a caption written by 20th Century For. Last of all, I have a question for Cary-Hiroyuki "Tagawa: why should those of us who are ac-tivists follow your advice and "stand up" against the poor por-trayal of "Asian Americans" in the media if, when we finally do, you only shoot us down?

Robert Paque Studio City, Calif.

Obituanies

Clark, Yoshiko, 65, Las Vegas, Aug. 29; Japan-born; survived by husband Anthony; sons Mario Palabrica Jr. (Hawaii), Antonio Palabrica (Calif.); daughters Marlene DeMello, Antoinette Paith (both Hawaii); 10 gc., 21 ggc.; brother Yutaka Motomura brother (Calif.)

Hara, Shoji, 66, Fountain Val-ley, Sept. 19, Arieta-born; sur-vived by sons Kay and wife Diane, Richard and wife Lily, daughters Margaret Nerio and husband Dick, Barbara Matsumoto and husband Stanley, Carolyn Arima; 13 gc., 2 ggc.; brother Toshio and wife Kiyoko.

wite Kiyoko. Hashiguchi, Nasuo, Rock-ville, Md., Aug. 5; Calif.-born, served as treasurer of Joseph Heco Society of America; survived by wife Yuki Mizote; son Dean and wife Donna; daughter Lois Ayako Kennedy and husband Gerion: 3 gr. Gordon: 3 pc.

Ide, Sam Masami, 70, Carson, Sept. 23; El Monte-born; survived by wife Jayne; son Bruce; daughter Jill Kawana and husband Jeff 1 gc.

Izumi, Yoko, 81, Van Nuys, Sept. 15; Los Angeles-native; sur-vived by wife Yoshio; son John; daughter Anne Kawashima and hund husband Ron; 3 gc.; brothers Toru Shishido, Mamo Shishido; sisters Aika Endow Miho Goto, Sets Ahn

Kamon, John Takao, 59, Al-tadena, Sept. 19.; Santa Maria-born; survived by wife Mieko; son Johnny; brothers Tetsuo and wife Ritsuko, George and wife Tu.

Kusano, Tome, 94, Orange, Sept. 19; Fukuoka-ken-born; sur-Sept. 15, FUKUOKA-KEN-DOTI, SUF-vived by sons Asao and wife Kyoko, Shigeo and wife Gladys; daughters Lily Yuriko Hataye, Julia Hatomi Maruyama and Julia Hatomi Maruyama and husband Dr. Frank; 11 cc.; 7 crc.; daughter-in-law Emiko.

daughter-in-law Emiko. Matsuye, Makiyama, 88, Los Angeles, Sept. 20; Sacramento-born; survived by sons Beh Haya-to and wife Sachiko, James and wife Takako; daughter Takaye wrife Takako; daughter Takaye Kawashima and hushand Rich-ard; 9 gc. 3 ggc.; brother Shigeru Nakagawa and wrife Miyoko; sis-ter Kiyoko Yoshimura (Japan); daughter-in-law Kiyomi; sisterdaughter-in-law Kiyomi; sister-in-law Kimiko Nakagawa (Janan)

Nagahama, Norma, 73, Mon-tobello, Sept. 20; Glandala, Ariz-born; survived by husband Ray-mond; son Glenn; daughters Nao-mi, Laura Villanneva and hus-band Bradley, Sharon; 1 gc.; brother Tom Kuhara and wife Mary; sisters Manuis Fukuda, Aki Nishimurg, and husband Tai-Nishimura and husband Tak; Nishimura and husband 118; brothers-in-law James and wife Rose, Robert; sisters-in-law Ethel Oyadamori, Daisy Masuhara, Jane Tanida, Hazel Rabacal and husband Walter.

Disabo, Jerry, 45, Chicago, Sept. 12; survived by wife Roxille Glasco; son Marc; daughter Leslie; fathier Howard; mother Ya-suko; brother Michael.

Suko; prother Michael. Oshiro, Henry Hiroshi, 7i, Gardena, Sept. 19; Kaneohe, Hawaii-born; survived by wife Betty H.; daughters Doreen Watanabe, Charlene Arias and husband Rich Arias Jr., Kathy Inouye and husband Dwayne; 1 gc.; ouye and husband Dwayne; 1 gc., brother Robert and wife Carol; sisters Lillian Tamashiro, Betty Toya and husband Frank, Rose Yoshida and husband George (all three from Hawaii).

Sakaue, Yoshio, Alexandria, Va., Ang. 9; Los Angeles-born, served as vice-president of Joseph Heco Society of America; survived by wife Miyoko; sister-in-law

Jane. Uchiyama, George S. D.D.S., M.S.; Sept. 25; survived by wife Betty F. Miyazaki; son Dr. Robert and wife Jayne, deugthers Elaine Brunjes and husband Bill, Linda Kelley and husband Steve; 8 gc.; brothers Dr. Sam, Dr. Mathias; sisters May Kimura, Lea Valcauchi sisters May Nakauchi.

Nakauchi. Wakisaka, Shigekazu, 66, Monterey Park, Sept. 16; Waka-yama-ken-born; survived by wife Sachivo: sons Steve Shirley Sachiyo; sons Steve Shigeyuki and wife Kathy, David Takayuki; daughter Chiharu Ichizawa; 2 gc.

This compliation appears on a page-available basis at no cost. Printspace-evaluable basis at no cost. Print-ed obituaries from your newspaper are welcome. 'Dealh Notices,' which ap-pear in a limely marner at request of the tamily or funeral director, are pub-lished at the rate of $15 per column inch. Text is reworded as needed.

Kay Horike, 83, Outlasted the Pearl Harbor League

Remembered as the first Japanese American evacuee from Minidoka in January 1945 to re turn to Tacoma during World War II, Tsuyoshi "Kay" Horike bore the full brunt of the Remembore the full bill of the second seco passed away on Sept. 5.

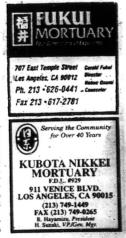

Government officials watched league leader Sumner (Wash.) Standard editor-publisher Corydon "Nifty" Garrett and his cronies harass Horike. Federal agents wanted to see how far the league would go. Horike never talked of the persecution, accord-ing to Seattle historian Ron Mag-den, for the full story is deep in the National Archives. Government accounts describe Horike as determined to outlast the bigots - and succeeded. The Remem-er Pearl Harbor League disapber P ber Pearl Harbor Leegue ausap-peared in August 1945. A graduate of the College of Puget Sound, Horike managed the family hotel until a pyromathe family hotel until a pyroma-niac burned it down in 1954. He then opened Fuji Ten-Cent Store in Seattle, continued to face the outrage of anti-Japanese pöstwar hysteria and housed his family near his new shop, breaking the red-line discrimination against numbe of the people of color. He was active with the Kiwa-nis, Seattle Buddhist Church (board chair from 1973-79), Kawabe House Memorial Foundation, Nikkeijin-Kai, and was decorated by the Emperor of Japan in 1991 for his contributions to U.S.-Japan relations. Preceded in death by his wife of 54 years, Ayako Sakamoto, he is survived by three children, Neil, Cheryl and Janis.

ADOPTION

(Continued from page 1)

which kids come to play together and parents, both couples and singles, come to commiserate. The group discusses general parsingles, come to commiserate. The group discusses general par-enting and, cultūral education and provides those who have just begun the pre-adoption process with an opportunity to ask ques-tions. tions

TODS. FCC-LA also provides child-care with cultural crafts and hosts special workshops on adop-tion basics, citizenship and other topics of interest. In March, over 70 families celebrated the Chinese New Year by attending the 100th Golden Dragon Parade in Chinatown

The growing rate of transra-cial adoptions in the United States, that is, parents adopting and raising children of a different race, has led to the emergence of fundamental questions relating to how children, particularly mi-nority children, will negotiate their ethnic identity as they get older.

On one side of this general de-bate is the theoretical question of whether the child will inevitably whether the child will inevitably experience a loss of identity and/or community by being placed in a family of a different racial or cultural background. On the other side of the debate are some adoption agencies and

On the other side of the debate are some adoption agencies and parents of adopted children who argue that theoretical annieties about racial identity should not precede placing a waiting child with a family willing and capable of raising it. Whether one wants to partake in this debate or dispel it altogether, learning how to parent culturally and being sensitive to a child's ethnic heritage is still an integral facet of the post-adoption ral facet of the post-adoption ss, as members of FCC-LA nm try to put into practice. For Mark and Pam Nakagawa, being a different ethnicity from their 14-month-old son Nicholas. tically and is was born dome who was born domestically a half Chinese and half Cauca en an issue to consider but they don't necessarily see it as a pr

We talked about that," Mark, 44, a minister at the West Los Angeles United Methodist Church. "But it hasn't been much of a [concern] partly because we live in California which has such ive in California which has such a diverse population." Mark was featured last year in an ABC Father's Day documen-tary called "The Story of Father and Sons," in which he was inter-viewed and videotaped perform... in Nichel heating ing Nicholas' baptism.

ing Nicholas baptam. "For Caucasians who are rais-ing an Asian child and living in the Midwest though, for exam-ple, that might be a little differ-ent," added Pam, 38, currently a stay-at-home mom. With over 50 percent of Japa ese Americans and other AAs marrying out these days, said Mark, those lines between differ-ent ethnicities are becoming blurred.

Mark did mention, however, that Nicholas' birth parents, an interracial married couple who fell on some financial hardship and decided it was best to give up their baby for adoption, were happy to see their child go to an AA family.

Unlike many who experience ng periods of waiting, it took Unlike many who experience long periods of waiting, it took the Nakagawas only a year to find their son through their adop-tion facilitator, the Adoption Net-work in Laguna Niguel, Calif. It was a smooth open adoption; they were present for his birth and they said they are still on good terms with the biological ike ike the Nakagawas, the Floyds have also considered the issues that arise out of adopt-ing transracially. They believe that as the child of a third-gener-

JOB REOPENING Program Coordinator - Membership

Under the general supervision of the Program Director for Membership/Fund Development, the Membership Coordinator waith Director for Membership/Fund Development, the Membership Coordinator waite for developing and mantaning members and member services on a national scale. Performs a wide variety of utilies to ensure the maintenance and development of JACL's member-ship. Some travel and work on weekends and evenings required. College graduate with one to three years of programssively more regionable work experience in devel-oping membership and membership services preferred. Must be experienced in the use of computer database technology and e-mail. Position is tal-lime. Excellent tringe benefit package provided. Competitive salary commensurate with experience. Send resume and cover letter to JACL, 1765 Sutter SL, San Francisco, CA 94115 or tax to 415931-4671. E-mailed applications/ resumes not accepted.

JOB REOPENING Program Director-Education

Under the general direction of the National Diractor, operates and manages the JACL Education Programs and projects out of the San Francisco office, performing a wide variety of duties to ensure the development and quality performance of the JACL's national education programs and goals. Travel and work on wellands and veryings required College graduate with a mergin in education policy, or general edu-cation preferred. Should have one to five years of programs aerkots with rights work experience in developing programs and policies in human services with rights.

cation preferred. Should have one to five years of progressively more responsible work experience in developing programs and policies in human services of high's or education. Must be experienced in the use of computer technology and e-mail. Position is that time. Not restricted to internal candidates. Excellent finge benefit package provided. Salary commensurate with experience: $28,860-$84,000 depending on qualifications. Sand resume and cover letter to: ADCL, 1765 Sutter SL San Francisco, CAB4115 or tax to 415931-4671. E-maled applications/resumes not accepted. Program funded in part through the 100th/42nd/MIS WWII Memorial Foundation. Deadline for applications: until filled.

American Holiday Travel
1999 TOUR SCHEDULE BRANSON/MEMPHE/MASHVILE HOLDAY TOUR Morroh Casolini Brownshi Batchill Store, Lateker, Natrike-Gord Ole Coty MIAMAA CANAL-CABBEAN HOLDAY CRUSS Acquise Costi Baca Partine Card. Anta. S. Morrise, Satadas-Oyato Clue Sint Acquise Costi Baca Partine Card. Anta. S. Morrise, Satadas-Oyato Clue Sint
2000 TOUR PREVIEW MARCH
AUSSAVTIKON HOLDAY CEUSE IOR	10.0
We can also assist you with: Domestic/International flights, Hotels, Cars, Individual Tour Packages, Cruises, Low Cost Airfares to Japan, Japan Ralipass, For information and reservations, please write or call to:
AMERICAN HOLDA'Y TRAVEL 312 E 15T 5T, 831, Los Angeles, CA 90012 Tel: (213) 625-222; Fac: (213) 625-4347 Tel: (213) 625-222; Fac: (213) 625-4347 Emerit & Carol Hids, Yaeko CST #2000326-10

x

ation JA mother and a Caucasian father of Irish descent, Rachel will have the benefit of several different cultures. Jeri, in partic-ular, agrees that being a different ethnicity from her daughter wont necessarily be a difficult is-rue because she herself is AA. "Because I have an Asian face, I don't get as many questions as someone maybe who is white," said Jeri, who has remained ac-said Jeri, who has remained ac-tive with various AA community "People think she is my biological child."

child." But, she added, "We want her to feel comfortable about being adopted. We don't want her to adopted. We don't want her to feel that it was a second choice. "[Another] goal is to help her feel comfortable with what she looks like and with what others look like. Her ethnic heritage is Chinese American and Rachel has many friends who are Chinese adoptees. As she grows old-er, these relationships will be er, these relationships will be very important," she stressed. They will be especially impor-tant when the time comes to ex-plain the circumstances of her birth family. "It will be hard to tell Rachel as she gets older that the come of the short her there's no information about her [biological] parents." ogical] parents."

Although she is still very young, Rachel has already begun to ask questions about the family raising her, ones that may even tually lead back to that delicate inters ection when two sets of lives and cultures converged.

"Sometimes," Jeri said, "Rachel asks me, Who took care of you when you were a little girl? Who was your mommy? "I tell her Nana Chiyo," she said. Although she was never able to meet her granddaughter, Jeri takes comfort in the idea

TOYOMuyatake

235 W. Fairview Ave.

San Gabriel, CA 91776 (213) 283-5685

(818) 289-5674

5)

available by appt.

DISCOVER KYUSHU (11 days).

that her mom has been watching over and guiding her family in spirit. "I always falt that she could be my guardian angel and that she's telling me, "This was meant the." meant to be

If you would like general infor-mation about the international network Families With Children mat network Families with Children From China (FCC), look up their Web page at http://wcc.org. For more information about FOC-LA, write to P.O. Box 642560, Los Angeles, CA 90064; call: 310/234-8552; or e-mail: djfloyd@prodical influence ... and I think part of that is reflected in what we're see-ing at the city council and mayoral positions across the United States."

CONFERENCE (Continued from page 1)

Royce also commented on the high percentage of registered APA voters. According to him, an esti-mated 76 percent of APAs are registered voters

"This is surprisingly high, given how recent many came to the Unit-ed States," said Royce. "This is a much higher percentage than we see in other ethnic groups in the United States. Part of that is prob-United States. Part of that is pre-ably due to the good works, training and involvement in registration that CAUSE and other organizations are doing in the comm

Another participant at the con-rence was John Amores, a candidate running for an open U.S. House of Representative seat in West Viriginia. If he is elected, he will become the first Filipino Amer-ican to serve in the United States Congre

Congress. "I am here asking for support be-cause this race is a plausible one, a winnable one," said the three-term

Classified Ads s Programs f Los Angel

CALL OR WRITE TODAY FOR OUR FREE BROCHURES

Tanaka Travel Service is a full service agency and assist you in issuing individual air tickets, cruise b inge, & other travel plans at no additional charge. ANAKA

TANAKA TRAVEL SERVICE 441 O'Terrel Sé, Sen Prescieco, CA 9460 (445) 56-3900 or (800) 824-2521 C97 #1005545-40

gy.net. Also, look out for ABC's docu-mentary "The Story of Fathers and Sons," which is scheduled to re-run next year during the week before Father's Day.

Next week's story will focus on the perspectives of Asian Ameri-can adults who were adopted when they were young, particu-larly how issues of identity were negotiated and what it was like for them to meet their birth familine member of the West Virigina House of Delegates. Amores described West Virigini-ans as "unfathomly fair-minded," saying that his political experience has been positive despite the fact that APAs only comprise fourthat APAs only comprise four-tenths of one percent of the entire state's population. Early pollings show that Amores is a favored fronshow that Arnores is a favored fron-trunner. Speakers included: Alice Borden, fundraiser, Ted Chen, Channel 4. News broadcaster, John Chiang, California Board of Equalization member, Judy Chu, mayor of Mon-terey Park; Harvey Englander, con-sultant, Matthew Fong, former Cal-ifornia State Treasurer, Warren Fu-veteria Los Angeles Community. sultant, Matthew Yong, Jormer Cai-ifornia State Treasurer, Warren Fu-rutani, Los Angeles Community College District Board of Trustees, Dr. Fernando J. Guerra, director of the Center for the Study of Los An-geles at Loyola Marymount Univer-sity, Thomas Hiltachk, political and election law specialist Susan Hirs-suna, KTTV/FOX Channel 11 broadcaster, Allan Hoffienblum, consultant; Miles Honda, California State Assembly member, Michael Gin, Redondo Beach eity counci-man; Bill Imada, public relations specialist; Kam Kuwata, consul-tant; David Lang, public relations and political consulting specialist; George Nakano, California State Assembly member, Parks Skelton, consultant; Mikhael Woo, director of Los Angeles Programs for the Local initiations Surveyt and former Los Initiatives Support and former Los Angeles city councilman; and Judy Yu, consultant.

